"I wrote to my sister about it and she advised me to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

"It has cured me of all my troubles, and I did not have to have the operation after all. The Compound also helped me to pass safely through Change of Life."

These New Hooks Prevent "Hooking"

Big Improvement Made in Corridor at Munro House

The Munro House is always up-to-date. The latest improvement to its equipment is the installation of coat and hat hooks that have the old kind discounted in every way. The hook is so arranged that when the coat and hat have been placed on it, it can be locked by merely pressing down the upper portion of the hook. A metal check is then pulled out and no one can remove the articles hanging on the hook. The lock is opened by inserting the check in a slit at the top. Each hook is numbered and the checks are numbered to correspond and as every lock is different, one cannot get away with another man's goods. Three dozen of the hooks have been placed in the corridor of the hotel and they work splendidly. The construction is so simple that there is no danger of them getting out of order.

The new hooks are being installed in the leading hotels in the country. They are manufactured in Chicago.

How the Moving Pictures are Made

Tall Buildings Rise and Fall by Magic—Love Scenes Photograph From Life

Most remarkable tricks can be played by the camera, but for reproduction in the biograph, these tricks are intensified a thousandfold. For instance, says a writer in the Independent, the building of a skyscraper within a few minutes is a feat easily accomplished on the screen. In order to do this a camera is placed in position when the foundations begin, and by means of slow time exposure extending over months an exreproduction of the building can be projected on the screen, occupying less than ten minutes.

When the old Star theatre in New York was demolished a number of years ago a camera took time exposure pictures of the operation, and when finished it was possible to throw on the screen a perfect reproduction of the work. The theatre could be demolished within five minutes, and by reversing the films rebuilt within the same period.

Even the growth of plants and flowers is observed. By time exposures extending over months it is possible to reproduce exactly within a few minutes the budding and flowering of plants. Oranges spring from the flower and turn into golden fruit while you wait, or apples come into existence like magic on the trees which a few minutes before were bare and leafless.

The moving picture taker is everywhere. The story is told of an American who while watching some moving pictures in a hall in Paris saw a reproduction of a Broadway throng at the noon hour. His interest in the old familiar scenes was intensified when he saw his own face and figure in the crowd. When he was close to the camera he was still more surprised to see a valuable watch charm which he had always worn attached to his fob drop and disappear from sight. He had mourned the loss of this jewel for several months but had no idea where it was lost. Then out of the moving throng appeared a young lady, who suddenly stooped and picked up the charm from the pavement. The man gasped and dropped back in his seat when he recognized the features of the woman as she approached closer to the camera. A few weeks later he recovered his watch charm after he had cabled to the woman to ascertain if there was any truth in the strange coincidence or wether it was all fiction.

The film companies are developing their own plays, paying experts in pantomine to invent plots and scenes which will show up well in moving pictures. In Paris this work has reached a higher development than in this country.

A considerable class of expert pantomine actors depend entirely upon the film companies for their living. They receive all the way from $15 to $40 a week for their services.

Then too the story writer comes in for a share of the profits of the new profession. A good story suitable for moving picture reproduction may sell from $5 to $30, or even more.

The story is not written out in magazine form but is a brief description of scenes and acts which have a well defined plot. Some of the companies are experimenting with the phonograph in connection with the moving pictures, by means of which the actors in the scenes will actually speak and declaim as the various pantomine scenes are thrown on the screen.

GOOD HOME RECIPE

Says Any One Can Prepare It, and Knows Nothing Better.

Rheumatism is easier to avoid than to cure, states a well known authority. Every man, woman and child here should dress as warmly as possible, and, above all else, keep the feet dry. Avoid colds and exposure, and don't become constipated.

Rheumatism is strictly a blood disease, caused by inactive kidneys, which, through cold or exposure, or improper diet, fail in their duty of filtering the rheumatic poisons from terthe blood. The poisonous waste matter, uric acid, oxilate of lime, urea, etc., if not strained from the blood promptly, decomposes and settles about the joints and muscles, causing rheumatic disease.

In damp or chilly cold weather the kidneys are made to do double work. The pores of the skin all over the body do not assist in eliminating the poisons of the body, throwing this work to the kidneys, which become clogged and feeble, thus causing not only rheumatism, but all forms of kidney troubles, backache, weak bladder and urinary troubles, and sometimes terrible blood disorders.

At the first sign of any of these troubles the following simple prescription should be mixed and taken in teaspoonful doses after each meal and at bedtime:—Fluid Extract Dandelion, one-half ounce; Compound Kargon, one ounce; Compound Syrup Sarsaparilla, three ounces.

Any good pharmacy can supply these ingredients and all the mixing required is to shake well in a bottle.

A Drunken Man Was Obnoxious

Created a Disturbance on Hunter St. Last Night

A drunken man on Hunter street created considerable of a disturbance about midnight last night. He made himself obnoxious to some young people who were returning home from spending a social evening, but no harm was done. The man was apparently of Italian extraction.

THE PROPHECY WAS GOOD ONE

Peterborough Young Lady Referred to in College News

The college news in Saturday's Globe contains the following;—

"A very successful class meeting was held by the University College members of '09 on Thursday. The class poet, historian and prophetess showed that they were more than the holders of sinecures. The prophecy, by Miss Zetta Harper, was especially good. The third year has made more use than is usual of their class organization, and as a result their meetings are well attended. Dr. M. W. Wallace, the popular professor of English, who has been present at a number of the functions of '09, was made an honorary member of the class.

York Loan Shareholders Will Have to Pay Up

Those in Permanent Class Will Have to Send in $256,000 More—May be a Fifty Per Cent Dividend.

Toronto, March 17 — Permanent shareholders of the defunct York Loan Co. whose stock was not fully paid, must contribute the unpaid portion of their shares.

The total amount to be thus paid in is $256,000. There are 27,405 permanent shareholders but some of these had paid their stocks in full. They, of course, will rank with the other shareholders without further contribution.

Mr. Kapelle will give his decision on class 10, which includes the cases of lapses and arrears on Thursday next, and on class 4, some day next week.

It is possible that some of the judgments of the referee may be appealed. Notice of appeal has been given in the case of the Nova Scotia shareholders. This would be heard by a single judge at Osgoode Hall but it was said by one of the counsel this morning that the appeal may not be pressed.

Mr C B Scott, solicitor for the liquidator, the National Trust Company, stated this morning that the claims and counterclaims existing between the York Loan and the National Life had not been settled yet, but they would likely be settled without going to court.

The prospect of the shareholders getting a good dividend when all is settled up, is now considered much better than at first.

The great majority of the permanent shareholders had paid for only half their stock. They will, therefore, have to pay in, or be debited with practically 50 per cent. of their subscribed stock.

The general body of the shareholders will, it is thought, receive total dividends amounting to probably 50 per cent so that the majority of the permanent shareholders will get practically nothing out of the winding-up after paying in as contributories.

At first dividend can be arranged for as soon as Mr. George Kapelle, the referee, has given his last decision, which will be next week. It will take, however between six months and a year to make out the accounts of the 120,000 shareholders, so that it will be about the end of the year before the shareholders get anything.

The final dividend can hardly be paid for four or five years at any rate as the liquidator will require that time to sell the 50,000 feet of vacant land in small parcels, and this is the most profitable way to dispose of it.

Omemee Wants Station Moved From Present Site to Village

Deputation Waited on Railway Commission Yesterday Afternoon—Grand Trunk Admits That Gates Are Needed at Reid Street Crossing But Want City to Operate Them.

The Railway Commission concluded its work in Peterborough shortly after four o'clock yesterday afternoon Decisions were not given in any of the cases. Among the matters heard that were not on the order paper was the case of the Peterborough Sandstone Brick Company regarding inter-switching. A deputation from Omemee urged that the Grand Trunk be ordered to have its station moved closer to the village. It is now located over a mile from the corporation limits.

The application of the city for gates at the crossing on the Grand Trunk on Reid street was first taken up in the afternoon. Mr. R. H. D. Hall presented the case for the city and Mr. Cowan appeared for the Grand Trunk. Mr. Hall pointed out the dangerous condition of the crossing and requested that the railway company build and operate gates at that point. Mr. Cowan admitted that the crossing was dangerous and that gates should be placed there. He wanted the city, however, to pay for the operation of the gates on the ground that the railway was there before the buildings of the Wm. Hamilton Company were erected. It was these buildings that made the crossing dangerous.

Judgment was reserved.

The next matter taken up was the application of the Canadian Pacific Railway, for an order rescinding or varying an order of the Railway Committee of the Privy Council, dated the 13th of May, 1898, whereby the applicants were ordered to leave an opening of sixty-three feet in the trestle bridge carrying the branch line of its railway to Dickson's Mills across the channel of the Otonabee River, by permitting the applicants to fill the said opening and substitute for the trestle a solid embankment.

Mr. Armour appeared for the C.P.R., Mr. Hall for the city, Mr. R. E. Wood for Mrs. Rogers and Mr. W. H. Meldrum for the Peterborough Cereal Company. These are the parties interested in this matter which has been to the front for several months. It appears that an agreement regarding the bearing of cost for certain work to be performed was reached by the CPR., Mrs. Rogers and the city. The Peterborough Cereal Company claims, however, that the share of the cost allotted to them is too high and refuse to sign the agreement.

The case was argued at some length without witnesses being called. Hon. Mr. Bernier, acting chairman, advised the parties to get together again and try and come to a settlement. This they consented to do.

OMEMEE DEPUTATION

The deputation regarding the Omemee station consisted of several members of the village Board of Trade. They were Major Jas. Evans, Messrs. Thos. Stevenson, Wm. Currie, Mr. Grant, local manager of the Bank of Toronto, and John Lamb. Major Evans was the spokesman for the party and pointed out the great inconvenience experienced on account of the station being so far from the village. The people of Omemee wanted the depot in the village, not a mile on the outside.

Mr Cowan, for the Grand Trunk, said that it was not possible to have the station in the village owing to the grades.

The commission promised the Omemee party that the matter would be given further consideration.

INTER-SWITCHING

Mr. F. D. Kerr appeared for the Peterborough Sandstone Brick Co. regarding inter-switching rates. He pointed out that the present rate of 1c per cwt. while it might be alright generally was an injustice to the Sandstone Brick Company, owing to the weighty nature of the product manufactured. One cent per pound meant that it cost $7.00 to have a car of brick transferred from the C. PR. to the GTR. tracks as the brick company's plant is on the CPR. and the majority of places where brick is shipped to are on the GTR. the matter was a serious one for the company. Seven dollars per car was a big handicap. Formerly it only cost $2 per car for inter-switching.

Mr. E. S. Clarry, secretary-treasurer of the Sandstone Brick Company also appeared and furnished some more information endorsing what Mr. Kerr had pointed out. Frequently, he said, the Sandstone Brick Co. had been unable to compete with other companies on big contracts owing to the excessive inter-switching rates.

Mr Bernier said the matter would receive consideration.

City Solicitor Hall on behalf of the city thanked the Commissioners for holding a sitting in Peterborough and for their courteous consideration of the cases presented.

Adjournment then took place.

"I gained strength and flesh and am in perfect health.

"I am so thankful your medicine has done me so much good."

Mrs. O. D. Robinson, 43 St. Felix St., Brooklyn, N. Y., writes:

"I have taken Peruna and it did me more good than all my two years' treatment by special physicians. I can really say that I feel like another person. No more swollen feet and limbs. No more bloating of the abdomen. No more shortness of breath. No more stiff and sore joints. You have no idea what your treatment has done for me. It certainly has prolonged my life and made a new woman of me.

"O, such a blessing I have received through your kindness, doctor, and the assistance of the medicine which you so kindly prescribed. I am able to work since I began your treatment, but before I was not able to help myself, much less work for any one else. All praise is due to Dr. Hartman and his treatment."

Lakefield Will Ask Dominion Government to Help Build Dock

Deputation From Village Council and Board of Trade to Go to Ottawa Regarding the Matter—Cement Works Will Soon be Open Again—Lakefield Notes and News.

(Special to the Review.)

Lakefield, March 18.—There is good deal of illness still rife in the village. The latest sufferers are residents of the Grove. Mr. Sparling and one of the pupils, Jackson, are both seriously ill, the former with pneumonia, and the latter with pleurisy.

The meeting of the Board of Trade which was held on Friday night in the town hall for the purpose of sending a deputation to Ottawa, in conjunction with members of the village council was not very largely attended owing to the number of engagements on for that evening. The deputation is to interview the Government for the purpose of obtaining a grant towards a new dock, which is badly needed at the village wharf. Messrs. Tanner, Hull and Wm. Graham were the members selected by the Board of Trade.

The Crystal Amusement Company of Peterborough, gave three very good entertainments in the town hall on Friday and Saturday of last week. They were largely attended.

Many of the residents of the village who have been working in the northern woods have returned to their homes in the village.

Rev. Mr. Wilkinson of Apsley, who was lately ordained in St. John's church, Peterborough, will preach in St. John the Baptist's church on Wednesday, March 19th.

Mr. Roy Bravender, who has been delayed by business, leaves for Seattle on Wednesday, March 18th.

The Cement works will soon be opening again. Clay is being drawn from Drummondville almost daily.

Miss Mann of Bridgenorth, is in the village, the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Graham.

The members of the Presbyterian choir were most hospitably entertained by Mr. and Mrs. Murdoch at their home on Reid street, on Thursday last. A most enjoyable time was spent in games and music. The members of the choir are most enthusiastic over their entertainment. A hearty vote of thanks was passed to the host and hostess for their kindness to their guests.

Mr. Franklin of Roseneath, passed through the village last week, with a number of hunters and trappers bound for the back country.

Mr. J. Irwin of Lindsay, G. T. R. trainmaster, was in the village on Monday last.

Mr. Wm. Hunt is confined to his home with a severe attack of influenza.

If the ice is in good condition and weather favorable the Chemong choir intend to visit Lakefield on Monday, March 23rd, for the purpose of giving a concert in the Methodist church. This will be cordially appreciated by lovers of good music as the Chemong choir is an excellent one.

LOCAL OPTION'S HARD FIGHT

Motion to Quash By-law Recently Passed at Campbellford

Campbellford, March 17.—A motion has been launched to quash the local option bylaw passed here last January, and notice to this effect has been served on Mayor Doxsee. It is understood that the motion will be argued at Osgoode Hall on March 19th. The objection taken is that a number of persons voted on the bylaw, who were not entitled to vote, and the contention is that if these votes are struck off, the bylaw will be held to be defeated.

Willie Hill, aged 5, was found dead in his home at Leicester, his head nearly severed from his body. The deed was committed by an insane mother.

PLEADED GUILTY TO CHARGES OF STEALING

Three Boys in Court To-day—Remanded for Sentence

Wm. Fallon, Stanley McCabe and Joseph Reynolds, three youths about 18 years of age, pleaded guilty at the police court this morning to stealing two hunting coats, a sweater, oar locks, a pair of trousers, and a quantity of brass from R. M. Roy. Fallon also pleaded guilty to the charge of stealing two check valves, a valve, a globe valve, two brass bands and a bell. Mr. F. D. Kerr appeared on behalf of Reynolds, while Mr. G. N. Gordon defended McCabe and Fallon.

It will be remembered that these articles were stolen from Mr. R. M. Roy's yacht, the "Rob Roy," and from Mr. E. B. Clarry's yacht the "Myrtle." They afterwards sold the articles to John Doig.

His Worship reserved judgment for a week, and in the meantime allowed them to go on their promise to appear. He said that this would be a good way to test their honor.

INTERESTING PROGRAMME

At Meeting of Y.M.C.A. Literary and Debating Club Last Night

A regular meeting of the Y.M.C.A. literary and debating club was held last night in their club rooms. The attendance was only fair, many of the members being unable to be present. The regular programme was to have been "A night with the Authors" but this was cancelled and an interesting and varied literary programme was introduced.

Mr. Hamon gave a very interesting address on the art of "Printing," dealing in detail with each step in this great art, from its introduction into the world until the present day. Mr. Hamon gave a very interesting account of the various machines used in printing and compared the ones of the present day to those of three hundred years ago, and gave a very detailed account of a printer's life with its advantages and disadvantages.

Mr. Sneadmore was next heard in an address on the wonderful science of "Electricity." Mr. Sneadmore gave a very interesting account of the manner in which electricity was generated, its great advantages to man over steam and defined clearly the manner in which various electrical machines are manufactured.

Mr. John Hardwick gave a very interesting essay on the life and works of the great poet, "Milton," describing clearly the life of this great man from infancy to the grave and enumerating on several of the important events of his life and describing his chief works and under what circumstances each was written.

Mr. Common's address on the Violin its early history and manufacture, was one of the best addresses of the evening. Mr. Common as well as being an expert player of the violin has made a special study of this great musical instrument and gave a very minute description of the process of manufacture and construction of this instrument, tracing its history from the early days down to the present time and quoting many interesting facts connected with the violin.

A humorous reading by Mr. R. W. Simpson concluded the programme.

Mr. Hodgson, BA. critic of the society, gave a very clear and concise criticism of the various speeches enumerating the various parts the speakers had endeavored to show, and pointed out where points that might have been shown were omitted and criticised the speeches in general and gave many useful suggestions.

This meeting then adjourned to meet again on April 7th which will be the last meeting of the season for the club.

To Have Uniform Weight for Bread Throughout the Province

Make Provincial Decree and So Benefit Everybody.

W. K McNaught Explains His Bill In the Legislature and It Receives Second Reading—Pense Favors Local Option—Principle of Bonuses Is Discussed—No Changes In Assessment Act.

Toronto, March 19.—It was private members day in the Legislature yesterday and a good many bills were advanced a stage. The Prime Minister, Hon. Mr. Whitney, said it was the Government's intention at the next session to undertake a general revision of the Assessment Act, and on this understanding all the proposed amendments to it were withdrawn.

It was the last day for the introduction of private bills, and a shoal of them were forthcoming. Among the number was another automobile measure, that of Mr. Donald Sutherland (North Oxford.) It provides that drivers shall be licensed; that lights with an illumination of more than 25 yards must not be used; that cars must keep off all country roads between one and seven o'clock in the afternoon, except where county councils regulate to the contrary; that cars weighing over a ton are limited in speed to 10 miles an hour; that in all cases where horses are frightened and people injured they shall be entitled to secure damages against the owner of the motor.

Hon. Frank Cochrane, Minister of Lands and Mines introduced a Government measure to consolidate and amend the Mines Act. The bill is largely a re-arrangement by the Statutes Revision Commission. Only one change is noted. The close season between Nov. 15 and April 15, on which no work was required to be done on locations, has been abolished. The Government is of opinion that if discovery work can be done in the winter claims can also be worked on. The procedure of "snow-staking" and its resultant frauds are aimed at.

Mr. May (Ottawa) submitted a bill to amend the Public Schools Act by providing for the pensioning of public school teachers, inspectors and other school officials who have served more than 20 years on an annual allowance not exceeding the salary received at the time of retiring. In lieu of such a gratuity might be given under the amendment. Another clause of Mr. May's bill provides for the payment by urban school boards of salaries, repairs, furnishings, fuel, light, text books, stationery, insurance and miscellaneous expenses including the traveling expenses of the trustees and officers of the boards when traveling on business authorized by the boards.

Mr. J. P. Downey (Wellington) moved the second reading of his bill to amend the Municipal Act to prohibit bonusing by municipal councils. Mr. Downey dwelt upon the many burdens of the bonus evils. He cited cases where towns had been held-up by bonus-hunters, expecting to get weathly, self-sustaining, industrial enterprises. He also alluded to the numbers of unwise private bills with bonus privileges that had to be dealt with from time to time.

The Prime Minister did not concur in the principle of the bill. He thought it was not right for one municipality to say what another should do with its funds, but in so saying he was speaking only as an individual. He was inclined to think that throughout the province sentiment was in favor of the bill and if the House approved it, it should pass.

An interesting situation followed in the discussion of the measure. Hon. Mr. Hanna said that while the Prime Minister as a private opinion was opposed to the bill, he was in favor of it. He thought something should be done to check existing evils.

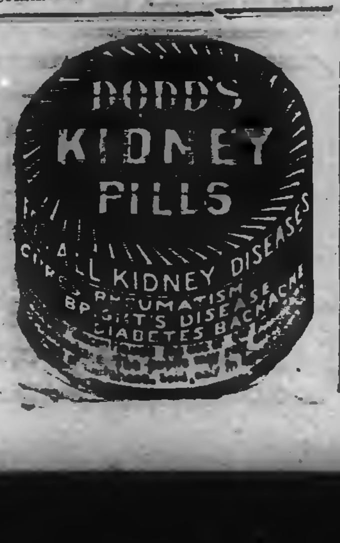
Mr. Hoyle (North Ontario) and Mr. Lucas (Grey) opposed and Mr. McNaught (North Toronto) championed the measure. Mr. McCoig (West Kent) commended Mr. Whitney's position.

The bill passed its second reading and was referred to the Municipal Committee.

Mr. McElroy (Carleton) secured an order of the House for a return, showing: 1. How many persons have received permanent professional certificates under authority of either sections 2, 3, or 4 of chapter 52 of the statutes of Ontario, passed in 1907, 2. Their names. 3. Under which section they have qualified, and, 4. How many persons have notified the Minister of Education, in writing, of their intention to comply with the provisions of either section 6, or section 7 of chapter 52 of the statutes of Ontario, passed in 1907. 5. What were the names and addresses of those who applied under each section.

Mr. Pense (Kingston) moved the second reading of his bill seeking to restore a privilege removed from the Municipal Act in 1901, that of each council having a right to control the manufacture and sale of bread, the chief staff of life. The argument used in 1901 was that the increase in price of flour would involve a rise in bread above the convenient price of five cents, handy change. The bill then gave the privilege to all bakers in the province to bake bread of any weight provided it was labelled with the correct weight. Mr. Pense's measure took account of the strong call for the restoration of the two and four pound loaf. The question, he said, was one of local control against an arbitrary provincial standard.

The bill got its reading.



Plague Strikes City.

Guayaquil, Ecuador, March 19.—The bubonic plague here is increasing and the sanitary condition of this and other towns is causing great alarm.

There are 51 cases of the plague in the Lazaretto, besides several cases of smallpox and yellow fever.

Many insalubrious buildings here, including the town hall, which is more than 200 years old, are soon to be destroyed by fire.

Two Crooks Arrested.

St. Louis, March 19.—Two crooks of international reputation, Charles Arnold and Thomas Dore, who Saturday just arrived from New Orleans, and one of whom, Dore, is wanted in Toronto, Ont., the police say, for jumping bond, were trapped Tuesday night on an 18th street car.

Five detectives, who happened on the car, observed three men on the rear platform behaving suspiciously. The detectives scattered about the car and awaited developments. At the Union station the "stall" shouted "Is this Union station?" and jostled a passenger named Edward Marshall.

Arnold and Dore quickly pressed about Marshall, and one of the detectives watching closely saw Marshall's wallet safely extracted. The "stall" escaped, but the other two were captured after a fight, and Marshall's wallet, containing $80 and transportation to Denison, Texas, was recovered.

Tried to Wreck Trains.

London, March 19.—Within the last few days two deliberate attempts have been made to wreck the fast eastbound C.P.R. express No. 4, which goes through at 4.40 a.m.

Both attempts were made at the Quebec street crossing, at the east end of the city, at which point the express is always moving fast. The first attempt was made with a chain, but the track being frosty, it skidded before the wheels. In the other case a large iron bar was hit by a freight proceeding slowly ahead of the express.

The police are on the case, but have no clue as to the identity of the wreckers.

Farmer Hangs Himself.

Brockville, March 19.—John Fitzgerald, a farmer of the Irish settlement, committed suicide by hanging.

Neighbors, finding the doors locked, forced an entrance and found Fitzgerald hanging by the neck from a rope fastened to the door knob and passed over the door.

He is supposed to have arranged the death noose while standing on a chair which he then kicked away. Fitzgerald was married only eight weeks ago. Despondency is given as the cause for his rash act.

Captured by Moroccans.

Paris, March 19.—The Government yesterday announced that the crew of a French fishing vessel named The Baline had been captured recently by Moroccans, after imprudently landing near Cape Juby. An attempt will be made to rescue the men.

Durnin Commits Suicide.

Goderich, March 19.—George Durnin, 24 years of age, a resident of Goderich, committed suicide about 11 p.m. Tuesday night by taking carbolic acid. No reason has been given for his taking his life.

YOUNG MAN FATALLY SHOT.

Received Deadly Charge From His Brother's Gun While Hunting.

Ridgetown, March 19.—Pearl Brien, second son of William Brien of Ridgetown, was accidentally and fatally shot by his brother while shooting geese at their farm on Talbot street yesterday morning.

They were secreted under the foundation of a barn situated about the middle of the farm waiting for the geese to fly in.

The deceased brother Charles was behind him and they started to crawl out on their hands and knees, the former having a shot gun and the latter a Winchester rifle.

The rifle was evidently at full cock and in some manner the trigger came in contact with something which caused it to be discharged. The bullet entered the back of Pearl's head. As soon as possible the doctor was called from Morpeth, and Dr. Lake from Ridgetown, but the bullet had done its fatal work and their skill was of no assistance in saving his life.

The deceased was one of the most popular and exemplary young men in the neighborhood, and his untimely death will cast a gloom over the entire community. The accident happened about 8.30 o'clock yesterday morning. The deceased was in his 25th year, was a most industrious enterprising young farmer, with a bright future.

BRITAIN'S NAVAL POLICY.

Admiralty Are Now Experimenting In Battleship Building.

London, March 19.—Speaking in the House of Lords last evening Lord Tweedmouth, First Lord of the Admiralty, defended the policy of the Government in refraining temporarily from laying down a large number of battleships and said that the construction of battleships just now partook largely of the nature of an experiment.

Great Britain's three vessels of the Temeraire type, he declared, were infinitely superior to the Dreadnought type and the three vessels of the St. Vincent type would be an improvement on the Temeraire type.

In the spring of 1911 Great Britain would have three squadrons of four ships each of the St. Vincent type. No power in the world would be able to assemble such a fleet of first-class battleships, Lord Tweedmouth declared, and he could almost say that a combination of all the powers of the world would not be able to put an equal squadron on the sea.

Irish Flag Offended.

Galveston, Texas, March 19.—When Capt. Moore of the British steamship Howthead of Belfast, Ireland, here for cargo, dressed ship Tuesday in honor of St. Patrick, he put the green emblem above the Stars and Stripes.

This violation of the United States law that requires the U.S. ensign always to be at the top when displayed in a United States port, was promptly called to the commander's attention by a Government inspector, but he bluffly refused to comply with the law.

Not until he received a formal demand from the United States collector of customs of this port, accompanied by a threat to call a gunboat into service unless the order of the flags was reversed, did the Irish skipper yield, and then only to haul down the American flag and leave the green one up.

He Stole the Razors.

Stratford, March 19.—Oliver Berry, convicted of stealing razors from Sebastian's barber shop on Monday night, was yesterday sentenced to six months in Central Prison. His home is at Parkhead Junction.

The home of Mrs. Sanderson, Erie street, was entered by burglars early yesterday morning and quite a sum of money and several valuable articles taken. Mrs. Sanderson heard the marauder in the house and courageously approached him, but he escaped.

A public inspection yesterday of several building revealed the Theatre Albert and Central school in an unsafe condition. The exits will be changed and improvements made in the doors, which now open inward.

Murdered His Cousin.

Olean, N.Y., March 19.—Chloe Hancock, 18 years of age, was shot and seriously wounded at her home in Washington street yesterday. Dacy Hill, 28 years old, her cousin, is under arrest.

Hill was a visitor at the Hancock home and had been very attentive to Chloe Hancock. Yesterday afternoon they had a quarrel over a trivial affair. Hill flew into a jealous rage, and, it is alleged, whipped out a revolver and began firing at the girl.

Honored Their Memory.

Berlin, March 19.—The people of the east side of Berlin paid silent tribute yesterday to the memory of the revolutionists who were killed in the street fighting in this city in 1848.

An imposing crowd of sympathizers gathered at the graves of the dead men in Friedrichshain Park, which is now the centre of the east side district, and heaped them high with flowers and wreaths. The police had taken ample precautions to prevent any outbreak, but their services were not called for.

Rescuers Lost Lives.

Gloucester, Mass., March 19.—Three fishermen, Paul Williams, John Lawson and Alex. Landry, members of the crew of the Gloucester schooner, Florence E. Stream, were lost off the Newfoundland coast two weeks ago while searching for a shipmate who has gone adrift.

The Diamond Crisis.

London, March 19.—In connection with the diamond crisis, it is reported that a number of Dutch firms are projecting the formation of a company to establish the diamond cutting industry in Cape Colony. They will send a number of expert cutters from Amsterdam.

OFFICERS FIGHT DUEL

Russian Generals Engage in Deadly Combat With Pistols.

Gen. Smirnoff Receives Bullet In the Abdomen and Will Probably Die—Fock Wipes Out Imputation of Cowardice—Former Was Stoessel's Greatest Enemy—Secured His Trial and Condemnation.

St. Petersburg, March 19.—Lieut.-Gen. Smirnoff was probably fatally wounded in a duel fought here yesterday morning with Lieut.-Gen. Fock. The men met in the riding school of the Chevalier Guard Regiment and fought with pistols at short range.

The riding school was placed at the disposition of the combatants by the commander of the regiment, and the duel occurred with the full knowledge and approbation of the military authorities. It was witnessed by a number of officers of high rank, and it is even reported that several women were present.

Shortly before ten o'clock Gen. Fock and Smirnoff appeared at the riding school. Without saluting they took their places and assigned their seconds. For Gen. Smirnoff, the seconds were his brother-in-law, Vladimir M. Purishkevitch, a member of the Douma, and Capt. Schultz of the navy, while for Gen. Fock, Capt. Sido, adjutant to Gen Stoessel, and Lieut. Podgursky, one of the Port Arthur heroes, officiated in this capacity. The distance between the two combatants was twenty paces, and the duelists were instructed to open fire at the word of command and continue until one or the other was hit. At Gen. Fock's fourth shot, Gen. Smirnoff groaned and sank forward. He had been wounded in the abdomen above the right hip. He was carried in a litter to the military hospital, where doctors examined him by means of Roentgen rays to locate the bullet.

The word "fire" was given each time by Gen. Kireieff, the Russian authority on duelling. At the second exchange Gen. Fock's coat was perforated. At the third exchange Gen. Smirnoff accidentally fired prematurely, but Gen. Fock magnanimously declined to shoot at a defenceless opponent, and the fourth and final shots were then exchanged.

This duel will be followed by another between Gen. Fock and Gen. Gorbatoffsky, the commander of the western front at Port Arthur, who was severely criticized by Gen. Fock during the court-martial proceedings. Gen. Gorbatoffsky sent seconds some time ago to Gen. Fock, but he failed to secure permission to fight a duel.

ORCHARD SENTENCED.

Judge Recommends That Death Penalty Be Commuted.

Caldwell, Idaho, March 19.—Stating that he believed that Henry Orchard, in his testimony in the trials of William D. Haywood and George A. Pettibone, for the murder of ex-Governor Steunenberg, told the exact truth, attempting to conceal nothing, Judge Fremont Wood, in the District Court yesterday recommended that the state board of pardons commute Orchard's sentence of death to imprisonment in the state penitentiary.

The sentence of death was pronounced in accordance with the plea of guilty entered by Orchard Tuesday of last week, when arrested. Judge Wood presided at both the Haywood and Pettibone trials.

Fire at Owen Sound.

Owen Sound, March 19.—Fifty thousand dollars is the loss from a fire which broke out last night in the basement of the departmental store of T. E. Vanstone on Poulett street, near the corner of Division.

The alarm was sent in at 9.35 and when the firemen arrived the fire was well advanced and great volumes of smoke poured from the windows.

The firemen confined the fire to the building, a three-story brick, and prevented the flames from entering Stewart's confectionery establishment next door.

The cause was an overheated furnace.

Mr. Vanstone, who was in Toronto, stated over the long distance 'phone that the loss would approximate $50,000, pretty well covered by insurance.

The firm carried one of the largest stocks in the town and did a big business.

Crushed In Woodshed.

Smith's Falls, March 19.—Mrs. Steen, a resident of Drummond Centre, Lanark County, was missed from her home a few days ago.

On a search being instituted for her some members of her family made the shocking discovery that she had been crushed to death in the woodshed adjoining her home.

She had gone to the building for some firewood and while gathering it the roof collapsed owing to the weight of snow upon it. The unfortunate woman was unable to make her escape, and when found life was extinct.

Thirty-Five Sent Back.

Vancouver, March 19.—Thirty-five Hindus, deported because of physical or financial disability, left yesterday by the Empress of Japan for Hong Kong.

Representatives of the remainder, numbering 183, were in court yesterday morning on habeas corpus proceedings in an attempt to set aside the deportation order made Tuesday by Dr. Monroe, because the Hindus did not come directly from their native land.

Killed at Orillia.

Orillia, March 19.—While shunting in the Grand Trunk yards Tuesday evening J. F. Mooney, conductor, who resides in Lindsay, was accidentally killed.

Governor Critically Ill.

Boston, March 19.—It was announced at 11 o'clock last night that Governor Curtis Guild, who has been ill for two weeks, is in a critical condition.

A pickpocket at Montreal, when convicted, pleaded he was only following his trade, but was sentenced to five years.

Karnots Won Intermediate City Championship in Scrappy Game

Contest Was Rough One all the Way Through—At Half Time it Was 1-1 But Karnots Got Three in Second Half Making Full Time Score 4-1—Penalty Record Established.

It was like this amateur boxing tournament at Mutual street rink when the Rough Riders and Karnots came together at Brock street last night. And they came together frequently. In fact it was a case of come together from beginning to end and scraps rather than hockey were the noticeable features of the game. The Karnots won the match by 4-1, and as a result the intermediate city championship.

It is unfortunate that so much ill feeling was showed between the teams, but ill-feeling there certainly was, and it would serve no good purpose to attempt to conceal the fact. Soon after the commencement of the game the scrapping began and it finally brought the game to a conclusion before the official time was called. Referee Fred Craig had to serve in the complicated capacity of referee peacemaker and policeman and he had the penalty box well lined with prisoners during the progress of the game. Penalty Timer Bill Metheral was kept on the qui vie all the time, keeping his books straight concerning those who were penalized.

A STRENUOUS GAME

The ice was in splendid condition, and when the two teams got away it looked as though a fast and clean article of hockey would be furnished. And there is no reason why it should not have been. Both sevens put up a game well worth witnessing when they do not resort to rough-play but last night they commenced to mix it up and this mix-up fever rapidly spread until nearly all the players on both teams seemed to have caught it. It is hard to understand why such unduly strenuous tactics were indulged in.

The checking was very close and combination play was not particularly prominent on the part of either team. Some first-class individual work was done however, and many clever dashes were made against the hardest kind of opposition.

The first half of the game was very close and there was little to choose between the teams although the Rough Riders had a slight advantage. The half-time score was 1-1.

In the first part of the second half the Karnots took a big brace and ran in three straight. The Rough Riders were unable to make a tally and the final result was 4-1 in the Karnots' favor.

For the winners, Ray, Conroy and Wade were the most noticeable. The Strathcona man was watched closely by his opponents who got right after him every time he started a rush. In the first half he didn't manage to tear off many of his brilliant skating stunts on account of being checked so hard, but he did some clever work in the second half. Wade proved a mighty hard man to pass at cover, and didn't seem to mind to give or take his bumps.

Allan Campbell payed a star game on the Rough Riders' defence and broke up many raids on goal. His rushes were a feature of the game.

Porter was conspicuous on the forward line.

THE PLAY.

Two minutes after the face-off Ray got the Karnots' first. 1-0.

Geale was given two minutes for tripping. Campbell scored for the Rough Riders in 3 minutes. 1-1.

Porter was handed a two minute penalty. Campbell was given the same for tripping.

Faux and Porter had a little tussle. As it was Porter's second offence he was given 4 minutes while Faux got two. Conroy took a two minute's rest.

Just to liven things up Giroux and Faux had a little tilt. Giroux was consigned for 2 minutes while Faux was given double that time. Wade was penalized for 2 minutes.

Campbell scored for the Rough Riders but the bell had rung just a second before so the goal didn't count. Porter and Ray were sentenced 4 minutes for scrapping. Hayes was given 2 minutes. Cahill up to this time had been good but he also warmed up a little too much and he and Wade were fenced for scrapping. —Cahill 2 munites, Wade, 4 minutes.

Hayes was passed out a two minute penalty.

SECOND HALF

Ray, Conroy and Shortt scored three for the Karnots in the first few minutes of play in the second half, making the tally 4-1 in the Karnots' favor. Porter and Ray got together again and were a little too cordial in their exchanges to suit the referee. They were each given 4 minutes.

Cahill had to hie to the penalty box for two minutes. A little later Hayes got his for the same length of time. Campbell waded into Wade and both received 4 minutes on the fence. Conroy was given 2 minutes. Giroux and Wade mixed it up and the crowd ran onto the ice. Both teams retired without playing any longer. Time was nearly up when they quit.

THE RING

South St. Joseph, Mo., March 18—"Leck" Allen was so severely beaten in a boxing contest before a local club last night when he was knocked out in the fifth round by Young Rhodes, that he was taken to his home early today in a dying condition, physicians saying he could live only a few hours.

Allen was recently pardoned from the penitentiary by Gov. Folk. He had been sentenced as the ring leader in a plot to blow up the Buchanan County jail with dynamite.

New Bowling Alleys Opened; Three Games Were Played

Game Promises to Take a Great Hold in Peterborough—Toronto Team Won From Locals—Review and Examiner Clashed—Mayor Rush Bowled First Ball

The bowling season is on with a swing in Peterborough. The opening of the new alleys of the Peterborough Bowling Club took place last night when thirty bowlers were in action and the spectators quarters were crowded to their capacity. The event marked a new epoch in the history of bowling in Peterborough. This city now has alleys that are as good as any in Canada, and as far as alleys themselves are concerned, there is nothing superior on the continent. Of course there are many bowling establishments that are fitted up in a more palatial scale but even in this respect the local club's quarters are everything that could be desired.

The formal opening of the alleys took place about 8.30 o'clock when His Worship Mayor Rush and several other prominent citizens shot the first balls down the alleys. A cheer went up as the balls rolled down the polished alleys and sent the pins flying.

The other prominent citizens who rolled the opening balls were Ald. Phelan and Messrs. W. H. Denham, W. G. Davidson, Fred Dickson and George Hatton.

With the formal opening over, three matches were played. The Brunswick Balke Collender team of Toronto defeated the Peterborough Merchants by 162 pins and the Review five fell before the Examiner by 96 pins. The showing of the local men against the crack bowlers from Toronto was highly creditable. The visitors were in fine form while the Peterborough artists were out of practice and can be depended upon to do better next time the teams meet. W. Adams was high for Toronto with a total of 581 and consistent scores for each frame 181, 192 and 208. His single of 208 was high for the night. C. E. Frost lead the Peterborough team with 559 and W. McIlroy came second with 535. The teams and scores were as follows;

B.B.C. Co.

W Adams	181	192	208—581

Majority for Toronto—162.

REVIEW VS EXAMINER

This long-looked for struggle between the above teams was the first in a series of games to be played throughout the spring. The Grits managed to pull out a victory by 96 pins. Only two frames were played which accounts largely for the defeat of the Review team. The bowlers from this establishment require about an hour's bowling to get warmed up and there is little doubt but that they would have won if the third frame had been played. The majority of the players were inexperienced as far as bowling on the alleys was concerned although we cannot speak for the performance of the members of the Examiner team as regards the other and perhaps more popular form of bowling. The feature of the game was the work of Huston who is alleged to be new at the game. He got on a total of 258 for the two frames and today his ordinary hat is a trifle small for him. Harry Lacheur was high with 267 and McRae was third with 254. Jim Clarke went after the gutter with a vengeance but showed promise and will make a bowler yet—but not soon. Harry Burridge wanted to go down to the pin end of the alley and receive the balls as they came down, but he was overruled by Manager Joe Hay and after considerable persuasion was content to roll the balls the proper way, at least as far as he knew how. Rolly Glover managed to break even with Clarke and felt satisfied as a result.

Dinny Dobbin of the Review team fielded nicely but was slightly off color in his shooting. Corney Burns of the Review pitching staff tried a drop ball early in the game but could not control it and for the rest of the evening used an outshoot that wouldn't go where he wanted it. Jack Thompson, who learned the game at Port Hope, used a slow ball that showed the ear-marks of coming skill. Walter Handley was coming strong towards the close of the game and looked good for a two hundred touch if another frame had been played.

Several more games will be played by the two teams. The teams and scores were:

Majority for Examiner—96 pins.

Another game was played between five local gentlemen and a similar number of travellers who were in the city. Some good scores were made, the local bowlers winning out.

STRIKES AND SPARES.

The pin boys did their work well. They were all neatly uniformed in red sweaters.

A number of ladies were in the gallery and evinced much interest in the game. The game promises to be popular with the fair sex.

There were several hundred spectators and good plays were liberally applauded.

The Toronto bowlers pronounced the alleys as good as any they had ever played on. No better place than the old opera house could have been secured for bowling alleys.

J. B. Hay makes an ideal manager, and under his guidance bowling should secure a prominent place among athletics in Peterborough.

"Josh" Craig watched the press game from beside the big stove and regretted that he wasn't performing on the polished floor.

The rumbling of the balls reminded the spectators of Jim Clarke's rushes at the press hockey match.

"The greatest hockey event ever pulled off on this earth or any other earth will take place at the Thistle rink tonight when the celebrated All-Star aggregation from Portage La Prairie goes up against our boys for the supremacy of northwestern ice. This Portage outfit has the real goods. They are a troupe of high-class hundred point performers who know hockey as it is played in the big leagues. They are the pride of Manitoba, and candy dollies of the wheat belt. Our boys intend to give it to them where Katy wore the beads or perish in the attempt

The above is the wording of a bill received from "Bill" Crowley this morning by Mr. T. W. McDonough, proprietor of Mac's cigar store. It is an announcement of a game between Portage La Prairie and Edmonton and is an example of the breezy originality of the West. By looking over the wording of the bill it will be seen that the announcement of the game is told in terms that are descriptive and yet concise and right to the point.

W. Waram Had the High Score

Put on 231 in Match Against Toronto Bowlers Last Night

An error appears in the report of the Peterborough-Toronto bowling match which appears in another column of today's issue. In the last frame of the match, W. Waram of the local team put on 231 instead of the figure mentioned. This was the highest record of the game, and forms a record which will hardly be equalled for some time. The change in the score will add correspondingly to the Peterborough total.

Meeting of the Strathconas

A meeting of the Strathconas will be held tomorrow night at 7.30 o'clock at the Y.M.C.A. The players and the members of the city league team are requested to be present.

Important business will be transacted.

HOCKEY

London, March 18—The final game for the ice hockey challenge cup was played today and was won by the Prince's team who defeated the Oxford Canadian by 7 goals to 2.

BOWLING

The underground telephone bowling team won from the "Aerial" telephone team by 50 points at Symith's bowling alleys last night.

The Peterborough Bowling Alleys opened last night under most favorable auspices. With such splendid alleys bowling should be very popular in this city.

SPORTING COMMENT

Burns' recent showings in the ring have proved conclusively that he is by no means the ham the American papers would have liked to make him out to be when he commenced to trim his opponents.

There were more players ruled off in last night's Rough Rider-Karnot game for the intermediate city championship, than in any previous game during the season.

There were 22 penalties handed out at the Rough Rider-Karnot game. The teams quit just before they received the signal number to do so.

SITUATION IN HAYTI.

Presence of Warships Has Quelled the Excitement.

Port au Prince, Hayti, March 19.—Following the decision of the Haytien Government to permit the participants in the late insurrection, who have been asylumed in the various consulates, to leave the country unmolested, the French cruiser D'Estrees is making preparations to take on board all the refugees in the French, German and Spanish consulates at Gonaives, St. Marc and Port-a-Paix. The cruiser will take the revolutionists to St. Thomas.

President Nord Alexis has issued instructions in the case of six military officers, of which Major Laraque, commandant of the crack cavalry corps, is one, now under arrest on suspicion of being implicated in the recent conspiracy, that, if the facts warrant it, they be taken before a regularly constituted military court for examination.

On Friday next a court-martial will decide the case of Major Aurel Madou, charged with making an attempt against the security of the state, and conspiring to assassinate the President.

There were no signs of disturbances throughout the city yesterday, the presence of the warships in the harbor allaying the fears of the foreign residents.

YOUR GLASSES AND HOW TO TAKE CARE OF THEM

This little talk may not appeal to you at first but really now do you know how best to take care of your glasses? My experience for the last three years has shown me that 90 out of every 100 do not know the right way of putting on or taking off a pair of glasses. They don't know how to clean them or how to hold them when clothing or rubbing them. They don't know how to put them in the cases or take them out right. We take the greatest pleasure in showing you how to do those things. It does not matter if you bought your glasses elsewhere, you will receive the most courteous treatment at our hands, and we will straighten your frames free.

The Globe's Sinister Avowal; Legitimate Labour Laughed at Sir Wilfrid's Idea of Fair Play—A Frank But Heartless Confession—Bonus the Immigrant That He May Lower Wages—A Protest From Premier Whitney.

"No doubt there is work for the thousand idle men in Toronto if they are willing to work cheaper than a thousand other men now employed in various industries. It is in accordance with this economic law that there is always work for those who are employed, if not for the unemployed."—The Globe, March 18, 1908.

The Review has persistently followed up the Immigration Question both from Hansard and in general. Its contention has been always that the Laurier policy in this respect cuts both ways. It lessens the power to earn and increases the burden to be borne. A more deliberate and sinister betrayal of the Canadian workingman in a time of trial and stringency than the Globe's it would be hard to imagine, and it will not be forgotten when the time comes. What a violent contrast it is to the following statement by Premier Whitney:—

"Premier Whitney has declared to the unemployed deputation that immigration societies will not have their way, and that no one is wanted except farm labourers and men of capital. This is excellent doctrine, but it would be more satisfactory if accompanied by some practical defensive and reformatory plan."—The Globe, March 18, 1908.

Could the capitulation of the Globe and Sir Wilfrid to financial interests be more apparent and complete? There is nothing lacking to confirm it.

KATHRYN OSTERMAN

"The Girl Who Looks Like Me," fairly bubbles with comedy of the sort that appeals to every class of theatre patrons. It is easily 100 per cent. of unalloyed comedy, presented by magnificent Kathryn Osterman, assisted by her famous sister, Anna Belmont, and a flawless supporting company. The gowns displayed by Miss Osterman and Miss Belmont are real confections of Parisian modes and will be the envy of Peterborough femininity. At the Grand Opera House, Monday, March 23rd.

Millinery Openings Are The Centre of Attraction

Fair Sex of Peterborough Are in Their Element—Great Displays of Millinery Meet Their Gaze on Every Hand—What's What in Styles, Shapes and Colorings.

The beautiful bright sunny weather brought many ladies out to the spring millinery openings to-day and the leading centres of fashion in the city are besieged by the fair sex, all anxious to see the newest creations of the milliners art. The stores present a very attractive appearance and are the subject of much favorable comment. Messrs. Richard Hall & Sons' showroom is very pretty and last evening, the opening night, it was crowded with ladies who seemed to be greatly pleased with this firm's annual display of the latest styles in millinery. Mr. A. W. Cressman is having his opening this afternoon and tomorrow. Messrs. Robt. Fair and Co., are also holding their openings today. The windows of both these stores are exceedingly pretty and their display of spring millinery is in keeping with many of the exhibitions in the stores of the large cities.

MISS A. McGIVERIN.

The showroom of Miss McGiverin, at 431 George street, is beautifully decorated in colors of Copenhagen blue, tan and rose, in flowers of every description. Mirrors are the centre of attraction, where the fair sex admire the beauties of the latest spring creations. The "Merry Widow" Sailor hat holds first place as the most up-to-date model, closely followed by gorgeous hats in Neapolitan, Panama chip, leghorn and straw. The beautiful imported Parisian flowers, ribbons and novelties adorn the cases. The black hats are as much in favor as usual. One gorgeous "Merry Widow" of Black Point D-Esprit, is trimmed with a magnificent wide plume, which falls far over the wide brim at the back. The French patterns with their exquisite combinations of color. The smart New York hats, which show to advantage the new square and umbrella veils, the feather ornaments, sprays and osprey sare prettier than ever.

Each season when the new millinery is opened, there seems to be something startling and almost grotesque in the new effects, but when we stop to consider we find that it is in the main a process of evolution; for instance, the inverted dishpan of last season is ironed out straight in the brim, and we have the "merry widow" sailor, which is from twenty to twenty-five inches from edge to edge.

Crowns are higher by a good many inches, and give the effect of having had a good deal of the brim pressed up into the crown. Brims have a tendency to roll in the side, but are still long in the back and comparatively short in the front. While large hats seem to be favorites, there are many small shapes shown which are wonderfully nifty and becoming to most faces. The rough straws are displayed in a variety of styles, as well as the dainty, pretty hats of Milan and mohair braids Tuscans nad Leghorns are also largely shown.

Flowers in trees and banks and masses of many varieties trim the hats. Cowslips, buttercups, daisies, mignonette, lilacs and roses in every size and shade are used profusely. Roses have lost none of their popularity and are probaly more extensively used than any other flower. On many hats there are as many as four large roses with their foliage. Roses are also used largely with ostrich plumes, and create some very stunning pink effects. The busbyls, made of ostrich feathers, giving the military effect, is popular in most of the shapes as it gives the new upstanding effect.

In colors blues are much seen in Copenhagen and sea foam blue, the latter very like a peacock blue. Browns, mulberry, cerise, purples, old gold, pink and tuscan, shades are all shown. Many shades of rose are displayed. In one establishments a rose table was shown, where every hat was in some shade of rose. It was certainly a pretty sight. One could almost smell June roses when looking at it. A table of blue hats was also very good to look at. Some stunning black hats are being shown, but the colors seem more popular, and every color has its admirers.

The "Merry Widow" sailor, which seems to be one of the leading styles is very extreme but withal very fetching. It is wide much wider, at the sides than at the front and back and almost eliptical in shape. The extremes of this style have a roll all around the brim. Small toques and turbans are shown and are very dainty and pretty. One very extreme hat was in rough straw of tuscan shade and had a very high 'Mother Goose' crown, around which three shades of blue ribbon were wound loosely and at the front a very high up-standing mass of ribbon and flowers. The brim was wide and drooping with a slight roll at one side.

'The Alexandra' a large, drooping hat permits of a great deal of trimming. One hat in this shape was covered with a shower of lilacs and had four very large roses around the crown. One in the new Copenhagen blue, one in rose, one in the new shade of cerise, and the fourth one in a very soft shade of brown. It was a stunning creation but trying to most faces and impossible to many.

One of the prettiest hats shown was a little toque covered with large rose petals and trimmed with a bunch of flowers in the new cerise with some foliage.

A Milan straw in two tones of apricot, was trimmed with soft folds of apricot duchess ribbon caught with a knot of brown velvet and gilt pins set with brilliants. A soft heron osprey sweeps over the back.

A very smart tailored hat was of Delft blue Milan braid, the top being draped in toque effect. The simplicity of this hat is its chief charm, the trimming being formed of a little choux something like sunflowers and, formed of braid which are disposed around the edge of the hat. To the left as a finishing touch some smart wings in the same shade are placed.

Taking the millinery all round the hats this season are very pretty and satisfying to look upon and there seems to be a particular style for everybody. The "Merry Widow" shapes, however, seem to be the leading hats.

Ribbons, crinnou, a new material which is wiry and trims up well maline and net also the new chrysanthemum braid and a very handsome new trimming made of hair in many shades giving a decidedly Oriental effect are the trimmings for the hats this season, along with flowers and feathers. Some handsome pins and buckles are also used.

Spring Display of Millinery

(Thursday) March (19th.)

FOR the past two weeks our Millinery Department has had many visitors in quest of the new Spring styles. To them and others we say—come, the Spring Millinery has arrived and will be on display THURSDAY, for your viewing and enlightment.

Happily the Millinery styles are widely diversified. One can choose either a large, medium or small Hat and gain Madam Fashion's favor. Turbans high and low promise to be very popular. A decided innovation is the large and high crowned effect—these are usually very becoming. You should see them.

But we will not try to describe the numerous new style ideas evolved for Spring. The task would be hopleess-herculean. Better that you should come and spend a pleasant hour among the new Hats. You may have a different way of looking at them than we—but you'll agree that the showing is beautiful and interesting.

The showing deserves your attention. We hope it will have it and we trust you will feel at perfect liberty to come and try on as many Hats as you please even though you have no buying motive.

OLD SETTLER PASSES AWAY

One of the first settlers of the county of Peterborough passed away this morning at St. Joseph's hospital in the person of William Trennum after an illness of three weeks' duration. The deceased was 79 years of age and was born at sea. For practically all his life he resided in Smith where he engaged in the lumber business. The first bridges across Mud Lake and Pigeon Creek to Bobcaygeon were built by the late Mr. Trennum. For the past year, he had been caretaker of the Locks Bridge.

Four children are left to mourn his loss. They are Mrs. Hamilton, Bobcaygeon; Mrs. Crosby, Pennsylvania; Mrs. Jas. Cole, Pittsburg and Mr. Trennum of Harvey.

The funeral will take place at Bobcaygeon on Saturday afternoon.

CLOSE OF MISSION AT ST. JOHN'S CHURCH

External evidence from the human point of view indicates that the ten days' mission which closed at St. Johns last night was eminently successful. From the opening to the closing service there was an increase of attendance indicating an increasing popular interest. All the missioners assisting were men of zeal and earnestness and presented the Gospel message in plain, simple and earnestness and evident power. There has been aroused a deepened congregational interest in spiritual matters and as far as human judgment can be relied upon, there has been a deepening of the spiritual life of the members of the congregation, carelessness having been replaced by interest and indifference giving way to earnestness, apparently more general than individual.

ON CHARGE OF CRUELTY TO ANIMALS

John Duncan Appeared in Court This Morning—Was Dismissed

John Duncan pleaded not guilty to charge of cruelty to animals by exposing a horse to the cold and leaving it tied in the shipping pen at the C.P.R. depot on Saturday evening last. After hearing the evidence, His Worship dismissed the case, stating that there was no proof that there had been any wanton neglect on the part of Duncan.

Dr. Ranson was the first witness called. On Saturday evening last he was attracted by the groans of a horse in the shipping pen of the C.P.R. Going over to it, he found a rather aged animal in a hole in the ground. It was surrounded with snow and filth and seemed to be suffering great pain. The water from the watering tower was pouring down upon it. The horse seemed to be crippled and unable to get up. Dr. Ranson understood that the horse was to have been shipped with a number of others.

Mr. Jack Sherwin was called and stated that the animal in question was one of a carload of horses, Mr. Duncan was shipping. This horse was taken out of the car and left behind. The witness assisted in taking the animal out.

P. C. Meharry stated that Duncan called on Sunday morning, and asked him to go down and shoot the horse. He was told that it had been shot.

P. C. Newhall stated that on Saturday night a few minutes before nine he received instructions to go down and shoot a horse. He went and found the animal in the shipping pen. The horse seemed to be in pain. Several men tried to get it up, but the horse would not move. He then shot it.

Mr. Duncan in giving his evidence for the defence stated that he did not own the animal. His brother was shipping that day and he was helping him load the car. The horse that was shot was an aged one. It had been put in the car but it seemed to be suffering so it was taken out again. Mr. Duncan stated that he had left it where he thought was a good place and it not being a cold night, he did not think any harm would come to it.

His Worship dismissed the charge but ordered that Duncan have the dead animal buried at once.

Missed Train After a Wait of Two Hours

Wm. Johnston, an Old Gentleman, Got Puzzled at G.T.R. Depot To-day

A rather amusing incident but extremely annoying to the old gentleman who was a victim of it, happened at the G.T.R. station this morning. Mr. Wm. Johnston, Bethune street, had intended to take the 8.30 train for Garden Hill. He decided that he would be at the depot in plenty of time and went there at half-past six, two hours before the train was due. After his long and tedious wait the train came in and Mr. Johnston proceeded to get a seat. The old gentleman was going up the steps when he heard the conductor yelling to someone and being a little deaf, he thought the conductor was shouting to him to get off which he did. It was only a few minutes when the train pulled out and it was moving so quickly that Mr. Johnston could not get on. He endeavored to catch it but it was of no use. Despite the fact that he was waiting two hours for the train, he missed it. However, he went at noon and no doubt arrived at his destination without any further unpleasant experiences.

FURNACE ACCIDENT
MOULDER'S HAND INJURED

Mr. William Burdett who works for the Canadian Westinghouse Co., at Hamilton, and resides at 198 Simcoe Street East, says: "As the direct result of a heavy mould being rolled over, as I was assisting other workmen to line a furnace, I sustained a severe injury to my left hand. Had this mould fallen it would undoubtedly have crushed both fingers and hand, as it was, I escaped with a bruised, blackened, and much swollen member. By the next morning my hand was so cramped and stiffened it was impossible to hold or lift any object. By noon the same day there was no improvement, although my hand had been bathed and well rubbed with liniments we had in the house. My wife having used Zam-Buk previous to this, now persuaded me to send for a box, which I did. Regular applications of this ointment well rubbed in over the injuries and swollen member, soon drew out all discolorations, banished the swelling and worked so effectually that by the beginning of the week my hand was well again and I could go to work. I have suffered no inconvenience since and would recommend Zam-Buk to all workmen." The secret of Zam-Buk's clean and painless healing lies in the fact that it imitates Nature's own "healing by first intention." It is composed of pure vegetable saps and juices, which soothe the pain and allay inflammation by effective antiseptic and germicidal action. No toiler should be without it!

TWEED LOSES OLD RESIDENT

Warwick J. Bowell Took Prominent Part in Building Up the Town

Tweed, March 18.—Warwick J. Bowell, one of Tweed's eldest residents, passed away at an early hour this morning.

Mr. Bowell was a brother of Sir Mackenzie Bowell of Belleville, ex-Premier of the Dominion, and had for over forty years held various Government offices in this district. He was, for over twenty years, postmaster of Tweed.

Mr. Bowell was in his 76th year at the time of his death. He had been ailing since the fall of 1907, when he was thrown from his carriage and sustained injuries from which he never fully recovered. The immediate cause of his death was pneumonia, brought on by the general weakness. Deceased leaves a widow, two sons and two daughters;

Can a Man Once Really Saved Ever be Lost?

There seems to be a widespread interest in the city over Bible study, and especially the question, "Can a man once really saved ever be lost?" This was one of the questions left over from last Friday's study in Gospel Hall, and will be first taken up and studied tomorrow night. Any one interested in this all-important question is cordially invited to come and bring his answer and proof. An opinion is no good. Proof is necessary.

Annual Roll Call Murray St. Church

Held Last Evening—About 400 Answered Their Names

The annual roll call of the congregation of Murray street Baptist church was held last evening. The Sunday school room was crowded and an interesting meeting was held. The pastor, Rev. J. R. Webb, occupied the chair and opened the meeting. About four hundred answered the roll call with verses of Scripture. Others out of the city sent contributions and messages. A substantial offering was taken. The congregation of Murray street church has steadily grown and during the past year several names have been added to its membership.

Deaths From Disease Show A Falling Off

Dr. Hodgetts, Secretary of the Provincial Board of Health reports a decrease in cases and deaths of contagious diseases for the month of February as compared with the number returned for January last, but it greatly exceeds those reported for the corresponding month of 1907, typhoid and measles excepted. Tuberculosis continues to carry off its many victims, causing 100 more deaths than all the other infectious diseases combined. The total deaths from all causes were 2,610 from a population of 2,101,200, making a death rate of 14.9 in 1000. and for the same month last year 2760 deaths were reported from 765 divisions, representing a population of 2,128,329, making the death rate 15.0.

FROM HANSARD

From Hansard, Jan. 13, 1908.

ACCESS TO ORIGINAL DOCUMENTS

Mr. H. B. Ames (Montreal, St. Antoine) moved:

For laying upon the table of this House the original applications and tenders in respect of timber berths 1107, 1108 and 1171.

He said: Mr. Speaker, I am surprised that any objection whatever should be raised to the passage of this resolution, the subject of which has been referred to on frequent occasions in this House. The principle involved is a very simple one. It is simply that we contend that there are certain occasions when we are entitled to access to original documents. I think it is an accepted principle of parliamentary practice that members are entitled to the fullest information upon matters which are of public concern. We who wish to investigate matters are dependent upon the government for this information. A type-written copy of a document does not always carry the information that is desired. There are occasions, such as have occurred several times in bringing down documents to this House, where the documents do not contain all the information which we are entitled to have. Now, I think that the government can hardly take the ground that they are entitled to withhold the freest access to certain documents without assuming that there is some state interest which can be invoked as a justification for denying us the privilege of access to these documents. In this case it therefore seems to me that if the government wish to refuse to members of the Opposition the opportunity of examining these documents that I mention they must allege that there are grave interests at stake which make it inadvisable that these documents should be seen by members of the Opposition. Last year, when a debate was about to take place in this House, a return was laid on the table of the House and several members of the Opposition had an opportunity of examining it. There were certain features about that return that led them to think that it would be advisable to see the original. I, for one, called at the Department of the Interior and was shown, without the slightest hesitation by the deputy minister, the originals of the returns which had been copied. By having access to these originals I obtained certain information which was of great value in discussing the question in the House. Since that time I understand that strict orders have been given that no member of this House shall be permitted by the Deputy Minister of the Interior to see any original documents. Therefore the only method open to us is to ask that these original documents be laid on the table of the House in order that we may see them in that way. The members of the Opposition have introduced some four or five resolutions asking for information regarding certain leases of timber areas in the Canadian Northwest. We could not secure the passing of these orders until all reference to original documents was struck out of them. We contend that we have a perfect right to ask for the originals and the government must allege very good reasons to justify them in refusing us access to such papers. The motion has been drafted purely and simply to test that one question, because we consider that we have sufficient reasons for desiring to see the original applications and tenders in respect to timber berths Nos. 1107, 1108 and 1171.

Hon. Frank Oliver (Minister of the Interior). As my hon. friend (Mr. Ames) who has just sat down, has mentioned at an earlier stage of the session there appeared on the notice paper certain notices for the production of original documents. When I saw those notices on the paper I referred the matter to the deputy of the department as to the practice in such cases, and I beg to read to the house a report that he made to me:

Ottawa, December 6, 1907.

Memorandum.

I beg to call your attention to the fact that in the order papers of the House of Commons of the 4th instant notices of motion appear from Messrs. Lake, White and Boyce for returns of papers respecting the granting of certain timber limit berths: including the original applications and tenders received and of record in the department. A notice also is given in the order paper of the 5th inst. of a motion by Mr. Ames for a return of the papers respecting timber berths No. 1279, including memoranda of any description. As the production of official papers appears to be a departure from the practice which has been generally followed in the past I took occasion to make a very careful inquiry throughout the records of the department, and find that original files have never been produced in the House except on one occasion during last session, when some of our original documents were sent over to the House and never returned. I presume that the same have now become a part of the record of the House, instead of this department. I also consulted on the subject some of the older deputy ministers of other departments including Mr. Newcombe, the deputy minister of Justice, who has held that office since the year 1893, Mr. Parmalee, the deputy minister of Trade and Commerce, who has also held his office for the same length of time, Lieut.-Col. White, the comptroller of the Northwest Mounted Police, who has been in the office since 1883, and Mr. W. J. Gerald, whose connection with the government dates back to before Confederation. I may say that none of them remember a single instance where Parliament has ordered the production of original official records, and all of them expressed a strong objection to such a precedent being established.

While it has been customary in some cases, in answer to an an order from special or standing committee of the House, to submit original documents for examination such documents have never been left with committees of the House, except in the case of this department, when on one or two occasions original fyles were left with committees of the House, and were not returned until after considerable delay, which caused great inconvenience to the officers of the department dealing with the matter to which these papers related.

In the case of other departments I learned that while in some cases they have been required to produce original documents, such documents, as a matter of fact, never left the hands of the officers of the department submitting the same, and under the circumstances, I am strongly of the opinion that this practice should be followed in future. I need not point out that if in answer to an order of this kind, original papers were submitted to the House they would therefore become a part of its own official record, and would forever after remain in its custody. This, in so far as the general transaction of public business is concerned, would lead to serious complications, and if the practice of calling for original documents were therefore indulged in the result would be that the records of the department would soon be depleted.

As regards the production of memoranda or statements of facts passing between the heads of branches and the minister or deputy minister of a department, the deputy ministers whom I consulted have expressed the opinion, in which I fully concur, that these do not as a matter of fact form part of the official record, but are merely written communications which otherwise, if time permitted, could be conveyed verbally as between the officers concerned, and that the same can have no direct bearing upon the consideration or settlement of the cases to which they may refer. With regard to these papers, therefore, I would strongly urge that any attempt to compel the department to produce the same should be resisted.

In my opinion these notices of motion should be amended by providing for returns of copies of the documents which constitute the official record of the contract under notice.

Mr. Foster. Who is that signed by?

Mr. Oliver. Mr. W. W. Corry. My hon. friend and his colleagues on the other side have seen fit to attempt to establish a precedent, which, on the best evidence I can offer, to the House would absolutely prevent the proper transaction of the public business which the department concerned exists for the purpose of transacting. Under these circumstances it seems to me necessary in the public interest—the very public interest that my hon. friend alluded to, the interest of the State—that this request should not be granted. If it is necessary and in the public interest that this document should be produced in the original as this memorandum says, what has been done in the past may be done again. The files may be called for by a special committee an officer of the department may bring these these files before the committee, they may be examined by members of the committee in the custody and under the responsibility of the officers of the department, and then be returned to the department. But to transfer the original documents from the department whose business they form an essential part of, to this House where they will only constitute a record, has been set out very fully in this memorandum is an infringement upon business methods which it is impossible for the department to consent to. I may say that the matter became urgent because of the fact alluded to in this memorandum, that without regard to precedent, during last session certain original documents were brought into the House and we find the department suffering because of the absence of those papers today. That was done to satisfy to the fullest extent the demand for the fullest information in regard to these matters. It would seem to me that when that precedent was being used to practically deplete the department of its original documents it was necessary to place the matter before the House as I have done.

Hon. George E. Foster, North Toronto; The question that has been brought up in this resolution is a rather important one and the way it has been met by the Minister of the Interior does not at all take away from the importance, which it has intrinsically. I suppose after all, the business of the country is the concern of the people's representatives who are the only workable mechanism that the people have at hand to transact their business. A million of voters scattered among six millions of people throughout Canada is a machinery which is too complex, too much scattered, and altogether unfitted to transact public business in a methodical way. In order to get over that difficulty the machinery of elections is introduced and instead of one million or more of electors being here to transact business, it is done by 214 or 215 members. So that when we come down to this House of Commons, there is really the body that is governing this country, there is the body which votes every dollar, there is the body which directs how it is to be expended, there is the body which must know in the last analysis how every dollar has been expended and how its business has been conducted. And when the representatives of the people of this country ask to know even to the minutest detail what business has been done and how it has been done and to make examination into it, it seems to me, that that, in the last analysis, must over-ride any theory of any convenience of any employee of the 214 representatives who carry on the business of the people in the House of Commons. Therefore when the minister says point blank that on the recommendation of his deputy he had come to the conclusion to refuse the demands of this House, to refuse the demands of the representatives of the people in this House for the original documents, I think he has taken a position, which, as a minor part of the system, throws athwart the real governing and determining body of the country. So that if it is the wish of the parliament or the wish of the House of Commons, to see just exactly how a document stands which came into the hands of a department by way of tender which went through by way of contract, to see the name that wrote it, to see the amount that was put within it, to scan the paper to know whether the amount of money that was stated there was ever changed in the matter of the coloring of the ink or in the matter of the figures, to see exactly what was there as it originally came in and what may have been placed there after it came in by way of interpolation or the like of that; it seems to me that when the people demand that, the convenience of a deputy minister must step aside and must in some way or other find means of obviating a little inconvenience or else of submitting to it in order that the people's wish should be complied with. Now, an hon. gentleman may rise and say: 'That is all very well but you have not yet demonstrated that the representatives of the people in Parliament want it; there are two parties in this House and you may not get this voted; and if you cannot get a majority you cannot say the House of Commons has demanded it, and therefore your reasoning falling to the ground. But if my reason is right on the question of principle, any one representative of the people has the right to go as far as all the representatives of the people in this House have with reference to a view of, and an examination of the documents. If not you will have an intolerable tyranny. A body of men by being in the majority might repress all examination and keep from you every document in all the departments. It has always been recognized in this House that unless there are reasons of state that intervene the information is brought down on the call and the wish of any member of Parliament who has a reasonable claim and makes it known to this House.

Now, as to the inconvenience, mountains may be easily made out of mole-hills, and I think the deputy minister has constructed such a mountain in this case. He cited one or two instances where important papers have been brought down in the original and in some way or other have been lost. But how many hundreds of thousands of original documents have passed through the hands of deputy ministers, have been used in the way of business by the House and its committees and how infinitesimally small a proportion of them have been lost. It has even happened that in the departments themselves parts of documents have been lost, frequently important parts. Thus I think the objection urged is not an insuperable one. All proper care should be taken to see that the original documents brought down should be returned; you might even go so far as to demand that when original documents are brought to the House and laid on the table they should be inspected on the table or under the supervision of the clerk. If there is danger of loss than every precaution to prevent it should be taken. But the minister gave away the whole claim of a principle when he admitted that the committees appointed by the House have had from the time that we have had government, the undoubted right to the original documents; have exercised that right, and have carried on their investigations under the exercise of that right, almost without cavil. Since I have been a member of the Public Accounts Committee, I have never heard the question raised; I have never yet seen that committee refuse to pass a motion for an order for the original documents. That is the practice, and hon. gentlemen will see in a moment that if that were not the practice it would be almost impossible for that committee to carry on its work. Unfortunately we live under a system of vicious patronage under which clerks keep their offices by taking off their hats and by being sweet to those who are the dispensers of offices, and think that their future promotion and increase in salary depends on their making themselves agreeable to the people in power. It may always have been the case, it is undoubtedly so now, that civil servants feel that the royal path to promotion and increased salary is to see that nothing is allowed to get out which would be at all a danger or menace or disagreeable to their party. Under such a system it becomes doubly necessary that the people's representatives should see the departmental files in their original form if this becomes necessary to the transaction of public business. On what ground has the minister the right to step in at this late day and say to the Parliament of Canada; My deputy will be somewhat inconvenienced if these papers are brought down in the original form, and he asked me to refuse and I say to the House that I do not refuse, and that the members shall not have these papers. Surely the Prime Minister will never subscribe to such a doctrine.

Right Hon. Sir Wilfrid Laurier, Prime Minister; I am sorry to have to say that not only have I no hesitation in endorsing the doctrine laid down by my hon. colleague the Minister of the Interior (Mr. Oliver), but if the hon. member for North Toronto (Mr. Foster) permits me to say so, I am very much scandalized by the argument he has just put forward. There is no doubt whatever that every member of this House is titled to reasonable information as to every transaction which goes on in the Government offices. But, Sir, this is not a right which can be exercised simply at the caprice of any hon. member; there must be some reason for that, and the authorities in this matter are perfectly clear. I have only to quote that standard authority, recognized not only in this parliament but in every parliament where British institutions prevail. Dr. Todd, who, in his 'Parliamentary Government in England' says;

It is 'the rule of parliament that no papers shall be laid on the table of either House unless some sufficient reason have been stated for their production.'

In this House members have always been given the latitude to move for papers without being asked for their reasons, it being assumed that since members move for papers they have good reason for doing so and the information is always brought down; it is never refused except upon very good reasons, which reasons it is the duty of the Government to state to the House. Such a motion is never refused when it is made in the manner recognized in every parliament, that is to say that copies and not the originals are asked for. I have only again on this point to cite the authority I have just quoted. Dr. Todd says;

When 'copies' of correspondence, &c., are moved for by private members it is customary to add 'or extracts;' leaving to ministers a discretion as to despatches which it may be advisable to lay before parliament, in whole or in part, to withhold.

Mr. hon. friend is, like myself, an old parliamentarian, and I appeal to his memory that such a motion as has been made today by my hon. friend from St. Antoine division (Mr. Ames) is absolutely unprecedented. I have no recollection in my experience, until last year, of original documents ever being asked for. The hon. gentleman has stated that a contingency might arise which would call for the production of an original, but surely a reason for such a motion should be stated. The hon. gentleman said that if a document had been tampered with, if a signature had been altered or an erasure and substitution made, the original would be required. If the hon. gentleman were to allege that he had reason to believe, as a member of this House, and alleges that a certain document has been tampered with that would be a very different proposition. That is not the position of the hon. gentleman, he simply asks that the original be moved for. Why? There is an implication that something wrong has been done under such circumstances. The Government is not prepared to admit that there has been anything wrong or to presume that a fraud has been committed in any department of the Government or by any party who has dealings with the Government. Therefore the hon. gentleman is entitled in this, as in every other question, to have the information in the form that has always been followed in parliament. My hon. friend says that the inconvenience or convenience of any officers of the departments of the Government should not stand in the way of information being given. I agree to that entirely; the convenience or inconvenience of any department is not to stand in the way of any legitimate information that is asked for being supplied. But the hon. gentleman realizes that although the inconvenience of any department is not an argument against any motion, after all there are rules and regulations that have been followed in this House as in every other public body. The departments are the custodians of the records of the government, and the hon. gentleman realizes fully that if it is competent for the hon. member for St. Antoine Division of Montreal—Mr. Ames—to move for an original document without advancing any substantial reason, it is competent for any other member to do so, and in this way the records of the department might be transferred from the departments to this House.

The hon. gentleman realizes that under such circumstances it would not be possible to carry on the business of the country as it must be carried on. The hon. gentleman cited examples from the committees. The hon. gentleman knows that there is no party whatever between what takes place in committees of this House and what takes place here. In committees of the House, which are appointed to investigate the Public Accounts Committee especially, it may become necessary to have the original documents produced; it may be impossible to carry on the investigation without them. Under such circumstances it is for the committee to decide whether or not the original records should be produced. A motion for them has to be made, and the gentleman seeking information may very properly say to the committee. I cannot get the information I am seeking unless I have the original records. Under such circumstances, they are not denied; but under the rule, the committtee would have the same power as this House to deny such an application. It is not denied, because generally the committee perceive that it is advisable in order to obtain the full information which the hon. member making the motion desires, to have the original records brought before it. But the practice is, whenever original records are moved for in a committee and are ordered to be brought down to have them brought down by an officer of the department, who remains the custodian of them and who takes them back to the department when the committee is done with them. But the hon. gentleman must agree with me, that it is advisable—nay, it is necessary to the proper discharge of the duties which are entrusted to the departments of the government—that each department should be the custodian of its own records. These seem to me to be peremptory reasons why the motion of my hon. friend from Montreal should not be allowed and why we should adhere to the practice which has been invariable in this House, as my hon. friend knows, that copies of documents are brought down and not original documents, unless cause is shown for bringing them.

Mr. R. L. Borden.—Mr. Speaker, the Prime Minister says that information is always afforded to any member of this House who moves for a return, upon the theory that there is some good reason for the motion. A legitimate extension of that principle would entitle any member of this House who moves for original documents to have them. I see no distinction between the one case and the other. No reasons are required to be assigned in the one case; why should reasons be required to be assigned in the other case? The Prime Minister is taking an entirely different ground, in this first instance at least, from that taken by the Minister of the Interior. The Minister of the Interior puts the refusal of original documents entirely on the ground of inconvenience and danger of loss. The inconvenience is minimized by providing that these documents when they come into the possession of the clerk of the House, shall not leave his possession until they are returned to the department.

Mr. Oliver.—I think I was explicit in saying that we could not carry on the business of the department if there were a general demand made for original documents and that demand were complied with.

Mr. R. L. Borden.—There is no general demand for original documents.

Mr. Oliver.—It seems to me that the demand was becoming general, from the number of motions made for them.

Mr. R. L. Borden.—How many of the files of the department have been asked for? I venture to say not one tenth of one per cent. and if you look at the circumstances for one moment, you will see that there is no ground whatever, for the Minister's suggestion of inconvenience or danger of loss. A file is asked for by a member of this House on his responsibility as a member of this House; and, on the principle acceded to by the Prime Minister, that request should be granted unless there is some good reason set forth by the Minister of the Interior why it should not be. So far as danger or loss is concerned that can be obviated by providing that an original document shall not leave the possession of the clerk of this House, that any member of this House, who is desirous to inspect it can go to the clerk and examine it, but neither he nor any other person shall be permitted to take that file from the possession of the clerk of this House, and at the conclusion of this session, or at some earlier convenient time, it may be sent back to the department. So much for the supposed danger of loss. So far as inconvenience is concerned, if there were a general demand for all the files of the department, I could understand that it might be inconvenient, just as a general demand for copies of all the files of the department would be. The absolute impossibility of complying with such a demand would be a sufficient answer to it. But no such demand is made. The only thing asked for is that some half dozen files of the department should be brought to this House, in order that hon. members who believe that they have a perfect right to examine these files should have an opportunity of doing so. What is the present position of affairs? Every member on the other side of the House is permitted by the Minister of the Interior and the officers of the department to examine these files, while members on this side are refused that opportunity. Therefore one-half or twothirds of the members of Parliament have a right to inspect the public records of this country, while those who are not in sympathy with the Government of the day have no such opportunity, either by having the documents brought here and placed in the possession of the clerk of the House, or by going to the department and examining the files.

ONCE MORE WELL

"FRUIT-A-TIVES" ALONE CURED HIM

Clarence J. Placey is a farmer of Ulverton, Que., known as a man of integrity and good judgment. He writes in no uncertain terms of the great benefit he derived from taking "Fruit-a-tives" for a long standing kidney trouble.

Ulverton, Que.

I suffered for many years with kidney trouble, with bad pain in the back and all symptoms of disease of the kidneys. I took every known kidney remedy and kidney pill but nothing gave me relief and I was getting discouraged. I was advised to try "Fruit-a-tives" and I did so—and this medicine cured me when every other remedy failed. I used altogether fifteen boxes of "Fruit-a-tives" and from the outset they give me relief and I am now practically well again, no pain in the back, no distress, and all the symptoms of severe kidney disease have entirely left me. I am very thankful to be once more well and I freely make this statement for the sake of others who may suffer as I suffered and to them I say "Try "Fruit-a-tives." 151

WHERE EDUCATION FAILS

Two thousand students at the University College of Ann Arbor, Mich., wrecked a local theatre because one of them had to be put out of it for disorderly conduct. University College, Toronto, suffered last autumn from a similar outbreak of hoodlumism. Oxford University, England, had a very serious problem to deal with recently in the disorders of its students. Investigation showed that it was, in each instance, simply a case for spanking. Common, rude uncultured hoodlumism characterized the outbreaks. Education is not equal to overcoming the animal in man.

The worst feature of the occurrences is the insufficiency of education as contrasted even with police control. "Education" seems to fall far short of being the training supposed. After all there is no substitute for home-training, common sense and a reverence for the good.

FIELDING'S BUDGET

The character of Canada's Minister of Finance is well summed up in his description yesterday of the attitude Canada should assume at the present time towards great national enterprises. He himself is a sterling example of caution and of courage, "Serene alike in calm or danger," Mr. Fielding, who was not reckless in the days of the flowing tide, does not give counsel of panic now that prosperity is for the moment at the ebb. "It is a time for caution, and yet a time for courage," he says. "Large new enterprises, which would call for great outlays may well be laid aside for a little while, but works which we already have in hand, and perhaps other works not calling for heavy outlay, must not be neglected. Particularly must we not fail to push forward the great enterprise of the Transcontinental Railway. We have reached a stage in that enterprise which calls for heavy expenditure. Yet we feel it our duty to urge upon the Commissioners the prosecution o fthe work so that the new road may be completed at the earliest possible date."

Mr. Fielding has left the way open for large expenditures and heavy borrowing, by guarding Canada's credit abroad. In the years since 1896, during which he has held the office of Minister of Finance, the net debt increase has been only $5,174,427, and the debt per head of population has decreased from $50,87 in 1897, the highwater mark o fthe Foster method of finance, to $42,84 in 1907.

Here are some of the striking exhibits filed by Mr. Fielding yesterday afternoon in conclusive evidence as to the statesmanlike and successful financial administration of the Laurier Government:—

A surplus of revenue over all expenditure on consolidated fund account amounting to $16,427,167 for the fiscal period of nine months ending 31st March last, a larger surplus than for any fiscal year since Confederation.

A surplus of total revenue over total expenditure for the last fiscal period of $2,193,971, and a decrease in the public debt of $3,371,117.

In the ten and three-quarter years of the present Administration ending March last the amount spent on capital account reached the enormous total of $127,000,000, the public service in every department had been greatly extended, postal rates had been decreased, yet th epublic debt had been increased by only $5,174,427. And had it not been for a large expenditure on the National Transcontinental Railway there would have been a substantial reduction in the public debt.

The total trade of Canada in 1897 was $257,168,862; in 1907 it was $617,964,862. Railway traffic in number of tons was 25,300,381 in 1897; in 1907 it was 63,866,133. Deposits by the people in the chartered banks in 1897 totalled $236,960,482; in 1907 the total was $639,970,896.—The Globe.

The one thing left upon which the Liberals of Canada had to depend for support and consolation during the trying ordeal of an election was Hon. W. S. Fielding's budget. If that were a triumphant vindication of the Laurier administration, then that administration would proceed to ignore the immigration scandal, the timber steal, the original document bluff and go to the country on a "great record." But the last straw that come to break the poor camel's back instead of as a support to him at a time of trial.

Let us see to what we refer. The debt per hear has decreased from 50.89 to 42.84. If the Conservative administration had filled this land full of unemployed, comprising Jews, Galicians, Doukhobors, Hungarians, Syrians, Romanians, Italians, Sicilians, Bulgarians, Montenegrins, workaby people from other European countries and Oriental coolies from India, China, Japan, Italy, Korea, Farther India, Beloochistan, Fiji and the like, the debt per head would have been less than the triumphant record to which the Globe points. "The idea," as Mr. Caudle would say, "of calling that a reduction of the debt per head!"

Another good, or rather equally good plan, would be to run excursions to Canada from these outside countries and when they have come, to divide up th edebt at so much per head. A bad argument is much worse than none.

"The net debt increase has been only $5,174,427." This off-hand reference would lead the unwary to believe all the achievements of Sir Wilfrid during the 10 3-4 years the Globe speaks about had been financed on that sum. Whereas year by year a heavy, though ill-balanced system of taxation provided $127,000,000 in surpluses, which added to the $5,174,427 makes $132,174,427 spent in ten and three-quarter years—a fairly good showing for an economical Government!

That amount represents the penalty paid by Canada for its increase in trade, which though small in comparison with the proportionate increase in trade of other countries yet furnished a source of supply to an extravagant administration, such as few have enjoyed.

If everything is so rosy, what's the matter? Why is it that Canada does not wake up to the fact that everything is lovely? The answer is, because this $132,174,427 has been almost wholly wasted and taken in conjunction with the charity-fund we have got to make up our outlay is tremendous. The back of this Dominion will, ere long, be broken. It is pretty badly bent at present. If this is to be the grand carte de defi for June or July it will be easier even than at first supposed to dispose of Sir Wilfrid. This budget is fatal.

ONE AT A TIME

Under the above heading the Examiner returns to the attack on the Liberals of the East Riding for holding one convention to nominate both candidates. So far as it wished to dictate in this matter for some ulterior purpose of its own, we care very little, but when, as before, it cites recent conventions, meaning, of course, the Conservative convention, as a warning, then we protest. The Liberal-Conservative Convention, recently held at Norwood, was a most distinct success in ever way. Notwithstanding the almost impassible roads the attendance was tremendous. The representative character of it was unquestioned and the party is as united and aggressive as any political party should be. The Examiner's argument against the double convention is somewhat like the case of the gnat and the camel. A defiance of the Examiner by the Liberals of the East Riding, in this case, twice repeated, would look to be deliberate. It is suspected that the Examiner has not given all its reasons. Usually it gives more than all. At least it reads like that.

GO EAST! YOUNG MAN

The farmer and the food-provider go west to the great prairies. The fruit-growers go into the vales of British Columbia. No one goes east. It is because it is "Westward the star of empire takes its way." To the mineral hunter Ungava and Labrador present virgin fields for prospecting. Their wealth is admitted though so far merely guessed at. For the hunter and slayer of animals, such as the cariboo and the gentle red deer together with an occasional moose, no part of this continent presents better opportunities. During the summer and till October boats ply fortnightly from St. John's, Newfoundland, to Rigolette, Labrador. It would be hardly worth while to go for a few weeks' shooting, or for a few weeks on the magnificent trout-streams. It would be necessary to spend the winter. In from the sea comparatively little fog prevails but on the bleak and icebound sea-coast a sojourn would be unpleasant if not impossible. Small game such as partridges, ptarmigan, &c, are plentiful while wolves, martens, foxes (red, black and silver) are, the less desirable, the more prevalent. Perhaps some of the local sports, such as Mr. Snowden, Sam Ray, Harry Winch, Tom Rutherford and others could spare a little time to go out and clean up the land. That the Cobalt belt, also, extends north and east is generally admitted. Labrador and Ungava are sterile but picturesque, while the Hamilton river presents the most enchanting of sights in its great water fall which is 306 feet high at the mouth of a fifty-foot gorge and begins five miles back, the whole fall in the five miles to the river below being 760 feet. The Hamilton river is as large as the Ottawa and at this point furnishes forty million h.p. The recently-imported reindeer, will furnish transport. While the Hudson Bay Co. and the natives will no doubt provide guides and a refuge in case of sickness.

EDITORIAL NOTES

Dr. Robertson, DDS, is another name mentioned for the Liberal nomination at Norwood. Mr. Finlay, MP, is likely to submit his name to the convention also.

It will be noticed in the Hansard column that Mr. Ames makes a direct charge against "copies." This charge was not met at any time by the Government. It would have been easy to disprove the charge if disproof were available.

Mr. R. R. Hall, M.P. for West Peterborough, was honored by the Prime Minister with an invitation to move the address in reply to the speech from the Throne. With regard to form his speech was almost the equal of anything ever delivered by any representative of West Peterborough. In matter however he fell short and necessarily so. The whole fabric of Canadian national life and policy is built on the N.P. There is no getting away from that. His ignoring of Sir Wilfrid's broken pledges was excellent although no doubt embarrassing.

The mysterious Imperial Pulp Company, whose double cheques for timber leases are always a little above the next highest tender, while one cheque is a fraction higher than the third tender, has an imitator. Inquiry reveals an exactly similar condition respecting tenders by T. A. Burrows, M.P., brother-in-law of Mr. Sifton. Mr. Burrows also has the habit of tendering without mentioning amounts, enclosing cheques to be taken as his tender. He also sends in two or more cheques, and in his case also the two together happen to be a little over the next highest man, while one of them would give him the limit if the next man had failed to come in.—Exchange.

It has since transpired that Burrows is the Imperial Pulp Company.

City of Peterborough Bill Introduced by Mr. Bradburn

The Chief Provisions of it—A Comprehensive Document—The Preamble Sets Forth its Effects—Worthy of Close Examination and Consideration.

The preamble of the "Act respecting the City of Peterborough," now presented for its first reading by Mr. T. E. Bradburn, M.P.P., is as follows;

An Act respecting the City of Peterborough.

Whereas the Corporation of the City of Peterborough has by petition represented that the interests of the Corporation would be better served by a Council composed of aldermen elected for a term of two years—one half of the aldermen to retire each year; that the Peterborough Water Commissioners have expended the contingent fund they were authorized to form by Chapter 74 of the Statutes of the Province of Ontario passed in the third year of the reign of His Majesty King Edward the Seventh as amended by Chapter 67 of the Statutes of the said Province passed in the fifth year of the said reign, in making extensions, repairs, improvements, and alterations in the waterworks and have asked the Council of the said city to issue the debentures of the corporation for the amount already expended and that may be hereafter expended out of said contingent fund to be held by the said Water Commissioners as an investment of the said contingent fund, and the said Council is willing to do so, if the issue of said debentures is authorized by the Legislature; that it is desirable that the Acts respecting the Commissioners of the Peterborough City Trust should be amended so as to provide that each Commission (who is now appointed for life) shall be appointed for a term of five years, and that the authorities and duties of the said Commissioners may be increased and more clearly defined; that it is desirable that the Board of Education of the said city may be authorized to sell and convey to the corporation and the corporation may be authorized to purchase from the Board of Education, for the purpose of a public park, land in the said city opposite the King Edward school now vested in the said Board of Education and to issue the debentures of the corporation for the purchase price thereof not exceeding the sum of $3,000; that it is desirable that the following by-laws of the said corporation should be ratified and confirmed, viz.; A by-law to aid the Colonial Weaving Company, Limited, which by-law was submitted to the vote of the duly qualified ratepayers of the said city and was carried by a majority of those who voted thereon, but did not receive the necessary majority required under the provisions of the Municipal Act; and by-laws to fix the assessment of the Auburn Woollen Company at $40,000 for ten years, and of the Peter Hamilton Company, Limited, at $20,000, for ten years set out as Schedules "A," "B," and "C" hereto, which by-laws set out the reasons which influenced the said Council to pass the same; a by-law to provide for a fixed charge for connection with trunk sewers or with sewers for the drainage of property not specially assessed therefor set out as Schedule "D" hereto; a by-law to provide for borrowing $25,000 to pay the amount expended in building an addition to the Queen Alexandra Public school, and the by-laws to provide for borrowing money to pay the cost of sewers and granolithic sidewalks constructed in the years 1905, 1906, and 1907, as local improvements; particulars of which said money by-laws are set out in Schedule "E" hereto; that it is desirable that the Council of the said corporation should be authorized to pass a by-law to grant by way of a loan the sum of $30,000, and to give other concessions to secure the continuation of the business lately carried on by the William Hamilton Manufacturing Company, Limited, in the City of Peterborough, provided said by-law first receives the assent of a majority of the ratepayers of the said city qualified to vote on by-laws for creating debts, voting thereon; and whereas the value of the whole rateable property of the said corporation, according to the last revised assessment roll, is the sum of $8,297,495 and the existing debenture debt, exclusive of local improvement debts payable by special rates, and the debt incurred for the purchase and improvement of the waterworks is the sum of $510,017.85, and there is no part of the principal or interest in arrear; and whereas it is expedient to grant the prayer of the said petition;

Section 34. Confirms by-law for fixed assessment of Peter Hamilton Co., as set out below:

Whereas the Peter Hamilton Co., Limited, has represented to the Council of the City of Peterborough, that the business of the said company as manufacturers of farm implements and harvesting machinery has been carried on continuously in Peterborough by the said company and its predecessors, for upwards of sixty years, and during that time the owners of the said business have received no advantages from the municipality, by way of reduced taxes or bonus, and that the said company is the only manufacturing concern in the said city in its own particular line, and has to compete with manufacturers of agricultural implements in other places, who have received and are now enjoying municipal assistance by way of exemption from taxes of fixed assessment and other advantages, making it difficult for the said company, to successfully meet such competition and has applied to the said Council for a fixed assessment, it is enacted that with certain provisions as to improvement the assessment shall be fixed at $20,000 for ten years and the reservations as to school rates, etc., the same as in Auburn Co. grant.

Section 35. Confirms by-law as to fixing charge for use of sewers.

Section 36 is as follows:—

Section 37. This is the last section of the bill and provides for borrowing as required by by-law $25,000 to Queen Alexandra school and confirms certain other by-laws re sewers, pavements, etc.

"FRUIT-A-TIVES" ALONE CURED HIM

Clarence J. Placey is a farmer of Ulverton, Que., known as a man of integrity and good judgment. He writes in no uncertain terms of the great benefit he derived from taking "Fruit-a-tives" for a long standing kidney trouble.

Ulverton, Que.

I suffered for many years with kidney trouble, with bad pain in the back and all symptoms of disease of the kidneys. I took every known kidney remedy and kidney pill but nothing gave me relief and I was getting discouraged. I was advised to try "Fruit-a-tives" and I did so—and this medicine cured me when every other remedy failed. I used altogether fifteen boxes of "Fruit-a-tives" and from the outset they give me relief and I am now practically well again, no pain in the back, no distress, and all the symptoms of severe kidney disease have entirely left me. I am very thankful to be once more well and I freely make this statement for the sake of others who may suffer as I suffered and to them I say "Try "Fruit-a-tives." 151

"Fruit-a-tives" — or "Fruit Liver Tablets" are sold by dealers at 50c a box —6 for $2.50—or will be sent on receipt of price. Fruit-a-tives Limited, Ottawa.

WHERE EDUCATION FAILS

Two thousand students at the University College of Ann Arbor, Mich., wrecked a local theatra because one of them had to be put out of it for disorderly conduct. University College, Toronto, suffered last autumn from a similar outbreak of hoodlumism. Oxford University, England, had a very serious problem to deal with recently in the disorders of its students. Investigation showed that it was, in each instance, simply a case for spanking. Common, rude uncultured hoodlumism characterized the outbreaks. Education is not equal to overcoming the animal in man.

The worst feature of the occurrences is the insufficiency of education as contrasted even with police control. "Education" seems to fall far short of being the training supposed. After all there is no substitute for home-training, common sense and a reverence for the good.

FIELDING'S BUDGET

The character of Canada's Minister of Finance is well summed up in his description yesterday of the attitude Canada should assume at the present time towards great national enterprises. He himself is a sterling example of caution and of courage. "Serene alike in calm or danger," Mr. Fielding, who was not reckless in the days of the flowing tide, does not give counsel of panic now that prosperity is for the moment at the ebb. "It is a time for caution, and yet a time for courage," he says. "Large new enterprises, which would call for great outlays may well be laid aside for a little while, but works which we already have in hand, and perhaps other works not calling for heavy outlay, must not be neglected. Particularly must we not fail to push forward the great enterprise of the Transcontinental Railway. We have reached a stage in that enterprise which calls for heavy expenditure. Yet we feel it our duty to urge upon the Commissioners the prosecution of the work so that the new road may be completed at the earliest possible date."

Mr. Fielding has left the way open for large expenditures and heavy borrowing, by guarding Canada's credit abroad. In the years since 1896, during which he has held the office of Minister of Finance, the net debt increase has been only $5,174,427, and the debt per head of population has decreased from $50.87 in 1897, the highwater mark of the Foster method of finance, to $42.84 in 1907.

Here are some of the striking exhibits filed by Mr. Fielding yesterday afternoon in conclusive evidence as to the statesmanlike and successful financial administration of the Laurier Government:—

A surplus of revenue over all expenditure on consolidated fund account amounting to $16,427,187 for the fiscal period of nine months ending 31st March last, a larger surplus than for any fiscal year since Confederation.

A surplus of total revenue over total expenditure for the last fiscal period of $2,193,971, and a decrease in the public debt of $3,371,117.

In the ten and three-quarter years of the present Administration ending March last the amount spent on capital account reached the enormous total of $127,000,000, the public service in every department had been greatly extended, postal rates had been decreased, yet the public debt had been increased by only $5,174,427. And had it not been for a large expenditure on the National Transcontinental Railway there would have been a substantial reduction in the public debt.

The total trade of Canada in 1897 was $257,168,862; in 1907 it was $617,964,982. Railway traffic in number of tons was 25,300,381 in 1897; in 1907 it was 63,866,133. Deposits by the people in the chartered banks in 1897 totalled $236,960,482; in 1907 the total was $639,970,696.—The Globe.

The one thing left upon which the Liberals of Canada had to depend for support and consolation during the trying ordeal of an election was Hon. W. S. Fielding's budget. If that were a triumphant vindication of the Laurier administration, then that administration would proceed to ignore the immigration scandal, the timber steal, the original document bluff and go to the country on a "great record." But the last straw that come to break the poor camel's back instead of as a support to him at a time of trial.

Let us see to what we refer. The debt per hear has decreased from 50.89 to 42.84. If the Conservative administration had filled this land full of unemployed, comprising Jews, Galicians, Doukhobors, Hungarians, Syrians, Romanians, Italians, Sicilians, Bulgarians, Montenegrins, workaby people from other European countries and Oriental coolies from India, China, Japan, Italy, Korea, Farther India, Beloochistan, Fiji and the like, the debt per head would have been less than the triumphant record to which the Globe points. "The idea," as Mr. Caudle would say, "of calling that a reduction of the debt per head!"

Another good, or rather equally good plan, would be to run excursions to Canada from these outside countries and when they have come, to divide up the debt at so much per head. A bad argument is much worse than none.

"The net debt increase has been only $5,174,427." This off-hand reference would lead the unwary to believe all the achievements of Sir Wilfrid during the 10 3-4 years the Globe speaks about had been financed on that sum. Whereas year by year a heavy, though ill-balanced system of taxation provided $127,000,000 in surpluses, which added to the $5,174,427 makes $132,174,427 spent in ten and three-quarter years—a fairly good showing for an economical Government!

That amount represents the penalty paid by Canada for its increase in trade, which though small in comparison with the proportionate increase in trade of other countries yet furnished a source of supply to an extravagant administration, such as few have enjoyed.

If everything is so rosy, what's the matter? Why is it that Canada does not wake up to the fact that everything is lovely? The answer is, because this $132,174,427 has been almost wholly wasted and taken in conjunction with the charity-fund we have got to make up our outlay is tremendous. The back of this Dominion will, ere long, be broken. It is pretty badly bent at present. If this is to be the grand carte de defi for June or July it will be easier even than at first supposed to dispose of Sir Wilfrid. This budget is fatal.

ONE AT A TIME

Under the above heading the Examiner returns to the attack on the Liberals of the East Riding for holding one convention to nominate both candidates. So far as it wished to dictate in this matter for some ulterior purpose of its own we care very little, but when, as before, it cites recent conventions, meaning, of course, the Conservative convention, as a warning, then we protest. The Liberal-Conservative Convention, recently held at Norwood, was a most distinct success in every way. Notwithstanding the almost impassible roads the attendance was tremendous. The representative character of it was unquestioned and the party is as united and aggressive as any political party should be. The Examiner's argument against the double convention is somewhat like the case of the gnat and the camel. A defiance of the Examiner by the Liberals of the East Riding, in this case twice repeated, would look to be deliberate. It is suspected that the Examiner has not given all its reasons. Usually it gives more than all. At least it reads like that.

GO EAST! YOUNG MAN

The farmer and the food-provider go west to the great prairies. The fruit-growers go to the vales of British Columbia. No one goes east. It is because it is "Westward the star of empire takes its way." To the mineral hunter Ungava and Labrador present virgin fields for prospecting. Their wealth is admitted though so far merely guessed at. For the hunter and slayer of animals, such as the cariboo and the gentle red deer together with an occasional moose, no part of the continent presents better opportunities. During the summer and till October boats ply fortnightly from St. John's, Newfoundland, to Rigolette, Labrador. It would be hardly worth while to go for a few weeks' shooting, or for a few weeks on the magnificent trout-streams. It would be necessary to spend the winter. In from the sea comparatively little fog prevails but on the bleak and icebound sea-coast a sojourn would be unpleasant if not impossible. Small game such as partridges, ptarmigan, &c, are plentiful while wolves, martens, foxes (red, black and silver) are, the less desirable, the more prevalent. Perhaps some of the local sports, such as Mr. Snowden, Sam Ray, Harry Winch, Tom Rutherford and others could spare a little time to go out and clean up the land. That the Cobalt belt, also, extends north and east is generally admitted. Labrador and Ungava are sterile but picturesque, while the Hamilton river presents the most enchanting of sights in its great water fall which is 306 feet high at the mouth of a fifty-foot gorge and begins five miles back, the whole fall in the five miles to the river below being 700 feet. The Hamilton river is as large as the Ottawa and at this point furnishes forty million h.p. The recently-imported reindeer, will furnish transport. While the Hudson Bay Co. and the natives will no doubt provide guides and a refuge in case of sickness.

EDITORIAL NOTES

Dr. Robertson, DDS, is another name mentioned for the Liberal nomination at Norwood. Mr. Finlay, MP, is likely to submit his name to the convention also.

It will be noticed in the Hansard column that Mr. Ames makes a direct charge against "copies." This charge was not met at any time by the Government. It would have been easy to disprove the charge it disproof were available.

Mr. R. R. Hall, M.P. for West Peterborough, was honored by the Prime Minister with an invitation to move the address in reply to the speech from the Throne. With regard to form his speech was almost the equal of anything ever delivered by any representative of West Peterborough, In matter however he fell short and necessarily so. The whole fabric of Canadian national life and policy is built on the N.P. There is no getting away from that. His ignoring of Sir Wilfrid's broken pledges was excellent although no doubt embarrassing.

The mysterious Imperial Pulp Company, whose double cheques for timber leases are always a little above the next highest tender, while one cheque is a fraction higher than the third tender, has an imitator. Inquiry reveals an exactly similiar condition respecting tenders by T. A. Burrows, M.P., brother-in-law of Mr. Sifton. Mr. Burrows also has the habit of tendering without mentioning amounts, enclosing cheques to be taken as his tender. He also sends in two or more cheques, and in his case also the two together happen to be a little over the next highest man, while one of them would give him the limit if the next man had failed to come in.—Exchange.

It has since transpired that Burrows is the Imperial Pulp Company.

The preamble of the "Act respecting the City of Peterborough," now presented for its first reading by Mr. T. E. Bradburn, M.P.P., is as follows;

An Act respecting the City of Peterborough.

Whereas the Corporation of the City of Peterborough has by petition represented that the interests of the Corporation would be better served by a Council composed of aldermen elected for a term of two years—one half of the aldermen to retire each year; that the Peterborough Water Commissioners have expended the contingent fund they were authorized to form by Chapter 74 of the Statutes of the Province of Ontario passed in the third year of the reign of His Majesty King Edward the Seventh as amended by Chapter 67 of the Statutes of the said Province passed in the fifth year of the said reign, in making extensions, repairs, improvements, and alterations in the waterworks and have asked the Council of the said city to issue the debentures of the corporation for the amount already expended and that may be hereafter expended out of said contingent fund to be held by the said Water Commissioners as an investment of the said contingent fund, and the said Council is willing to do so, if the issue of said debentures is authorized by the Legislature; that it is desirable that the Acts respecting the Commissioners of the Peterborough City Trust should be amended so as to provide that each Commission (who is now appointed for life) shall be appointed for a term of five years, and that the authorities and duties of the said Commissioners may be increased and more clearly defined; that it is desirable that the Board of Education of the said city may be authorized to sell and convey to the corporation and the corporation may be authorized to purchase from the Board of Education, for the purpose of a public park, land in the said city opposite the King Edward school now vested in the said Board of Education and to issue the debentures of the corporation for the purchase price thereof not exceeding the sum of $3,000; that it is desirable that the following by-laws of the said corporation should be ratified and confirmed, viz.; A by-law to aid the Colonial Weaving Company, Limited, which by-law was submitted to the vote of the duly qualified ratepayers of the said city and was carried by a majority of those who voted thereon, but did not receive the necessary majority required under the provisions of the Municipal Act; and by-laws to fix the assessment of the Auburn Woollen Company at $40,000 for ten years, and of the Peter Hamilton Company, Limited, at $20,000, for ten years set out as Schedule's "A," "B," and "C" hereto, which by-laws set out the reasons which influenced the said Council to pass the same; a by-law to provide for a fixed charge for connection with trunk sewers or with sewers for the draidage of property not specially assessed therefor set out as Schedule "D" hereto; a by-law to provide for borrowing $25,000 to pay the amount expended in building an addition to the Queen Alexandra Public school, and the by-laws to provide for borrowing money to pay the cost of sewers and granolithic sidewalks constructed in the years 1905, 1906, and 1907, as local improvements; particulars of which said money by-laws are set out in Schedule "E" hereto; that it is desirable that the Council of the said corporation should be authorized to pass a by-law to grant by way of a loan the sum of $50,000, and to give other concessions to secure the continuation of the business lately carried on by the William Hamilton Manufacturing Company, Limited, in the City of Peterborough, provided said by-law first receives the assent of a majority of the ratepayers of the said city qualified to vote on by-laws for creating debts, voting thereon; and whereas the value of the whole rateable property of the said corporation, according to the last revised assessment roll, is the sum of $8,297,495 and the existing debenture debt, exclusive of local improvement debts payable by special rates, and the debt incurred for the purchase and improvement of the waterworks is the sum of $510,017.85, and there is no part of the principal or interest in arrear; and whereas it is expedient to grant the prayer of the said petition;

Section 33, Confirming the by-law to fix the assessment of the Auburn Woollen Company for the reason that the said company does not receive from the city fire protection, city water, or sewers and for the reason that the company agrees not to oppose certain local improvements and having applied for a fixed assessment of $40,000 for ten years, on the usual conditions as to number of employees, etc., with and under the following conditions as to the said grant:—

1. This by-law shall take effect upon and only upon the confirmation thereof by the Legislature of the Province of Ontario, and upon the Auburn Woollen Company executing an undertaking, agreeing not to oppse the construction of any sewers or sidewalks, as local improvements, abutting or fronting on the property in section 2 hereto mentioned, or any part thereof, that the Council may desire to construct under the provisions of The Municipal Act relating to local improvements.

Section 34. Confirms by-law for fixed assessment of Peter Hamilton Co., as set out below:—

Whereas the Peter Hamilton Co., Limited, has represented to the Council of the City of Peterborough, that the business of the said company as manufacturers of farm implements and harvesting machinery has been carried on continuously in Peterborough by the said company and its predecessors, for upwards of sixty years, and during that time the owners of the said business have received no advantages from the municipality, by way of reduced taes or bonus, and that the said company is the only manufacturing concern in the said city in its own particular line, and has to compete with manufacturers of agricultural implements in other places, who have received and are now enjoying, municipal assistance by way of exemption from taxes of fixed assessment and other advantages, making it difficult for the said company, to successfully meet such competition and has applied to the said Council for a fixed assessment, it is enacted that with certain provisions as to improvement athe assessment shall be fixed at $20,000 for ten years and the reservations as to school rates, etc., the same as in Auburn Co. grant.

Mr. Jas. Wilton Struck by Sleigh And Had His Shoulder Fractured

This morning about 8.30 o'clock Mr. James Wilton, King street, had his shoulder broken by being struck and knocked down down by a butcher's sleigh near the corner of King and Park streets.

Mr. Wilton was crossing the road, and as he was not wearing rubbers proceeded along very slowly. The horse turned the corner sharply and the sleigh swung and struck him, knocking him down. He fell on his right shoulder and was removed in the sleigh to his home. Dr. Malcolm McCulloch was summoned, and, upon examination, found that Mr. Wilton's shoulder had been fractured.

The victim of the accident, besides having his shoulder broken, received a severe shock and was badly shaken up.

John Doig Sentenced to Six Months in the County Gaol

John Doig was given six months at hard labor in the county gaol at the Police Court this morning. He pleaded guilty to three distinct charges, one being for receiving goods knowing them to be stolen, another one being for retaining the goods when he knew they were stolen and the third one being for keeping a house for the purchase of second-hand articles, without a license. Crown Attorney Wood was present and stated to his Worship that if there was not a man to purchase stolen goods, then boys would not be tempted to steal. The boys state that Doig had told them where they could obtain these articles.

His Worship thought that something should be done to prevent the carrying on of such work. Doig has appeared in court on so many occasions that the Magistrate considered that a six months term in the common gaol would stop him of his illegal means to make money.

Consternation While Brigade Was Responding to a Call

The fire brigade had a call today shortly before one o'clock, but it was only a case of a chimney on fire and their services were unnecessary.

As one of the fire waggons was goin down the street a milkman's horse standing at the corner of Aylmer and Charlotte streets became frightened and ran away, scattering the milk cans in its flight. A man ran out from the pavement to catch hold of it and stop it, if possible. He took hold of the lines and was carried for some distance dangling in front of the horse. He finally managed to let go. The horse was at length stopped.

The Legislators at Ottawa ; Wants to Hasten Elections

R. L. Borden Defends His Bill for Automatic Issue of Writs.

House Disposes of Many Measures Proposed by Private Members—Raw Wool Imports Have Decreased Since 1905—Debate on Evils of Gay Cigarette — Raising of the Quebec Bridge.

Ottawa, March 19.—The House of Commons yesterday disposed of a large number of measures proposed by private members.

Several bills were read the second time, including the Election Act amendments of Claude Macdonell and A. O. Alcorn, and R. L. Borden's bill to provide for the automatic issue of writs for bye-elections.

Mr. Paterson informed Mr. Monk that $504,884 had been collected in customs duties on materials imported from the United States for the construction of the Quebec bridge.

Mr. Clements was informed by Mr. Paterson that Benjamin Pacaud had not been appointed to the customs staff at Windsor.

Raw Wool Importations.

The amounts of raw wool imported into Canada in 1905-6-7 were 7,617,211 pounds, 6,311,387 pounds, and 6,310,179 pounds. All of this, except 690 pounds, was entered free, Mr. Paterson informed Mr. Stanfield.

Mr. Armstrong was told by the Postmaster-General that claims made by daily papers for reimbursement on account of extra postage on papers had been compromised by allowing them a refund of three cents a pound. No complaints had been received from the Canadian Press Association regarding rates on weekly papers.

Sir Wilfrid Laurier told Mr. Armstrong that communications had been received by the Government from the Montreal Board of Trade and Harbor Commissioners with reference to the raising of the Quebec bridge, it being represented that the structure should be 190 feet above the water. The question had not been disposed of.

Mr. Fielding said in reply to Mr. Foster that the dredge Sir Wilfrid Laurier would be completed June 1, 1908, at a cost of $90,000. The Government did not advertise for tenders for the construction of the scow necessary for the work of the dredge, but asked the Collingwood Shipbuilding Co. and the Polson Iron Works of Toronto to tender for the work. The contract was awarded to the former at a cost of $34,000.

Mr. Foster also enquired as to the rental by the Government of the Canadian building owned by the Imperial Realty Co. Mr. Fielding said the amount paid for space in the building was $42.537 a year.

Automatic Bye-Elections.

R. L. Borden's bill to amend the House of Commons Act by providing for automatic bye-elections was read a second time. The idea, he explained, was to prevent undue delay in issuing writs when vacancy occurs. The Prime Minister thought the proposal drastic. In the past vacancies had been filled within a reasonable period. He feared the bill might cause trouble and he cited two vacancies which occurred during the year previous to the general election of 1896, Bellechasse and Pontiac, when neither party, and he thought rightly, desired an election. Yet, had this law been in force bye-elections must have been held a short time before dissolution. He suggested that the bill be given a second reading and allowed to stand over to be considered with Mr. Aylesworth's Election Act amendments.

Mr. Borden demurred. The Prime Minister's objection could easily be removed by giving Parliament the power to control the issue of writs in case Parliament was soon to expire. Vacancies had not always been filled within a reasonable period. In St. James' Division of Montreal the vacancy covered a whole session, and in North Renfrew the late Ross Government delayed a bye-election eighteen months. The Ontario law, passed as a result of the Renfrew vacancy, was working satisfactorily. The bill was read a second time, as was also Mr. Alcorn's Election Act amendments. Both will be considered with Mr. Aylesworth's bill.

Compulsory Voting

Claude Macdonell's bill providing for compulsory voting received the same treatment, without discussion. E. M. Macdonald's bill to put the Intercolonial and Prince Edward Island Railways on the same footing as other railways in regard to liability to claims for damage by fire was also read a second time. It would be taken up with Mr. Graham's Railway Act amendments.

Dr. Barr moved the second reading of his bill to amend the Railway Act. It proposes to permit stringing of telephone, telegraph and electric wires under or over railway tracks on giving ten days' notice of intention to do so. The bill was read a second time.

Mr. Lavergne (Montmagny) secured a second reading for his bill to provide for the printing of notices in French and English on the I.C.R.

Mr. McCool's resolution for papers relating to the Georgian Bay Canal was further discussed and adopted.

When Mr. Blain's resolution calling for prohibition of the manufacture and sale of cigarettes was reached, Sir Wilfrid Laurier asked the mover if he proposed to go on.

Mr Blain said the resolution had been pretty well discussed; there had been a pretty general expression of opinion in its favor and he was prepared to press it to a vote.

Dr. Black (Nova Scotia) delivered a dissertation on the evils of cigarette smoking. His argument was that, as the father smoked, so would the boy. Moreover, why should we say in what form the adult should use tobacco?

Mr. Gordon (Kent) favored the resolution and occupied only a minute in putting himself on record.

Alfonso Again Escapes.

Toledo, Spain, March 18.—King Alfonso, who arrived in this city yesterday, has added another escape from injury to his already long list of such fortunate occurrences. The automobile in which his Majesty was driving narrowly escaped collision with another machine occupied by members of the royal party. The second car was wrecked and four occupants slightly wounded.

Scow That Was Rebuilt Was Launched This Morning

One of the scows used for the hauling of the dredgings of the river and which has been re-built during the winter months, was launched this morning from the Government shipyards at Riverside Park In order to put the scow into the water it was necessary to cut a large channel in the ice beside the park Men were engaged in doing this work yesterday and to-day the dredge was launched The scow was re-built under the direction of Mr Wm. Hickey and is now in shape to stand the wear of the river for many years. It has been almost entirely re-constructed, and to use the expression of one of the workmen "is as good as new"

The Examiner's Fairy Tales

The Havelock Standard Has Something to Say of Them

Wm. Parcels, formerly of town, now of Peterborough, was sentenced to one month in the gaol in that city on Tuesday, on a charge of stealing wood and vagrancy. Jacob Firman, a companion of Parcels, also received a like sentence The Examiner in referring to the matter states tha Parcels wore a street car conductor's coat, which, he had been masquerading in around Havelock as a policeman, and that it is alleged he would arrest innocent immigrants and bring them to the town hall, where he would extract money from them in return for thei freedom. Wouldn't that jar you! The Examiner should cut out such absurd fairy tales. —Havelock Standard.

In the House at Ottawa; Mr. Foster is Still Busy

Keeps on Uncorking Scandals in the House of Commons.

Continues His Criticisms on the Budget—Gives the Government Some Advice—Ridicules Financial Statement—Sees Millions In Scenery—Paradise For Middlemen — Trade Returns Fictitious, He Says.

Ottawa, March 20.—George E. Foster gave the Government the benefit of his advice for two and a half hours yesterday afternoon. This, added to his two and a half hours on Tuesday, constitutes his contribution to the budget debate.

Besides his advice, the North Toronto member held up to ridicule the Prime Minister and his chief supporters for abandoning the platform of 1894 after they had used it to climb into office.

More than that he opened up some scandals laid at the door of the present Government, declared that a "paradise for middlemen" had been created, and characterized the trade returns as fictitious. On the trade returns Mr. Foster dwelt long. These were swollen by a world-wide enhancement of prices, and to arrive at a correct idea of the growth of business it was necessary to reduce the columns from values to quantities.

These returns showed that the balance of trade was running steadily against us. In ten years there had been an aggregate adverse balance of $522,000,000 in our trade with United States. Last year the balance was $124,000,000. To remedy matters Mr. Foster would reduce the volume of imports and practice economy.

After referring to the increase of expenditures from $43,000,000 in 1896 to $110,000,000 this year with the probable extension to $130,000,000, Mr. Foster spoke of Mr. Feilding's glossing over of trade conditions.

In times gone by the Finance Minister had devoted a great deal of time to this, but this year, when business men were taking stocks of their affairs, he had rushed through this important phase.

Mr. Foster proceeded to show that the Government had gone back on its professions of bringing into force a policy of mutual preference, a reciprocity treaty with the United States, wiping out every vestige of protection.

Though Sir Wilfrid Laurier promised all these things, he went to England, accepted the Cobden medal and gave a preference to Britain of 25 per cent., at the same time declaring that he did not wish the Mother Country to abandon free trade. This preference in a fit of loyalty was increased to 33 per cent., but recently it had been reduced by giving favorable terms to France. Did Sir Wilfrid root out protection? He maintained a duty of 29 per cent. against products of foreign countries, and came back from Washington declaring that we did not want reciprocity with the United States. We had sacrificed some of the important industries of the country by making trade treaty with France.

Scanning trade returns he averred that information given was fictitious. In 1890 the prices of commodities were the highest in years; in 1896 they were lowest than for a long period, and in 1906 they had gone back to a higher figure than they were in 1890. For instance, a bushel of wheat cost 55 cents in 1896, while in 1907 the same volume of wheat brought over $1. There was not any more business development or activity in turning over thirty million bushels of wheat, but the value had increased to double the figure. The trade of Canada in 1896 amounted to two hundred and thirty-six millions. Applying values of 1896 to the trade of 1904 the totals were almost the same, the difference being due to a world-wide rise in values. Between 1896 and 1906 the gain in copper alone was $4,700,000 for the same amount exported in each year.

"So many millions more in the pockets of the people," put in Hon Wm. Paterson.

Mr. Foster was willing to discuss that there was never an increase in value of exports, but there was a corresponding increase in imports. The cost of living was just so much greater, and were people better off? In the ten years there was an increase in value of our imports of $177,900,000, or 169 per cent. For the same period exports increased one hundred and thirty-three millions of 118 per cent., imports from Britain increased by 110 per cent. and exports by 100 per cent., while from the United States the increase of imports was 209 per cent. and exports 141 per cent. There was an adverse balance of sixty-one millions in our trade with the United States, and of eleven millions in our trade with other countries outside of Great Britain.

The table of trade with the United States was startling. In ten years the aggregate adverse balance of trade with the United States was five hundred and fifty-two millions. This was increasing every year, and last year it had reached enormous sums of one hundred and twenty-four millions.

Mr. Foster went on to show large increases in imports of manufactured articles. This was a condition that required treatment. The Government quailed in its boots every time it saw a labor deputation coming to protest against the importation of skilled mechanics to compete with our own laborers; yet what did it matter whether we brought skilled mechanics or hired them over in Europe to manufacture articles to be brought to Canada. In one case wages were spent and their families founded in Canada, while in the other money stayed in Europe. As the result of the policy of the Government the woolen industry was on its last legs.

Scenery as an export commodity was an idea that Mr. Foster offered to the House. He instanced Switzerland. That country had scenery for export. Millions upon millions of money were spent by tourists buying the unrivaled scenery of that country.

The Finance Minister had been going abroad borrowing money at a very high rate of interest. He had taken 129 millions out of the people for capital expenditure, but would now have to look elsewhere. If the C.P.R. hadn't been bringing in money where would the Finance Minister have been in the recent financial crisis?

"Whither are we drifting and how are we going to prevent drifting any farther?" asked Mr. Foster. By limiting the imports we must reduce the adverse balance. Next, greater economy was advised.

A surplus was claimed on the Intercolonial Railway, but Mr. Foster challenged the Government to name a committee and he would prove that surplus was arrived at by changing the method of keeping accounts.

The Government had created a paradox for middlemen. The recital of facts in connection with the Kentville transaction roused the Minister of Militia. A boon companion of the Minister, said Mr. Foster, got wind of the fact that some land was to be taken by the Government and bought it at $6 an acre. A referee in sympathy with the Minister was appointed and the price was fixed at a large sum.

Minister of Customs Complained.

Hon. Wm. Paterson followed, complaining that Mr. Foster had taken up five hours and 20 minutes, which was the time of six members.

Regarding the Halifax platform, the Minister of Customs said he feared that "William of the World" had the gentlemen opposite by the hand.

Mr. Lemieux was asked for a statement regarding a despatch from Vancouver that R. L. Drury had gone to Tokio with instructions to denounce the treaty if Japan is found to be violating the Lemieux understanding.

The Minister said there was no truth in the statement. Drury has gone to Japan as part of the arrangement with the Mikado's Government, to see how the arrangement is working out and to keep track of immigration to Canada. He has no other instructions.

Panic During Fire Drill.

Kattowitz, Prussian Silesia, March 20.—During a fire drill in this city school yesterday afternoon, there was a stampede among the children, which resulted in ten of the little ones being trampled by their comrades until they were unconscious. No lives were lost. A locked door was the primary cause of the panic.

Druggist Heavily Fined.

St. Catharines, March 20.—Omar Johnstone was fined $100 for filling a prescription in his drug store at Thorold. He is not a graduate of the Ontario School of Pharmacy, and filled a prescription for Miss Grant, daughter of Inspector Grant of the O.S.P.

C. N. R. Timekeeper Sentenced.

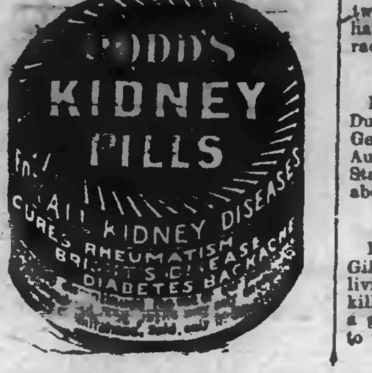
Winnipeg, March 20.—At the assizes yesterday, Chief Justice Howell sentenced William A Hunt, chief timekeeper of the local C.N.R. office, to two years in the penitentiary, he having been found guilty of conspiracy to defraud the company.

New Governor-General.

London, March 20.—The Earl of Dudley has been appointed Governor-General of the Commonwealth of Australia, in succession to Sir Henry Stafford Northcote, whose term is about to expire

A Homesteader Shot.

Prince Albert, March 20.—Harry Gillingswater, a young homesteader living north of here, was instantly killed last night by the explosion of a gun as he was driving a dog team to this city.



QUEBEC HAS SURPLUS.

Treasurer Delivers Budget Speech In the Legislature.

Quebec, March 20.—Treasurer Weir delivered his budget speech yesterday afternoon. He said it was chiefly due to the courage and persistency of Premier Gouin that the Dominion subsidy had been increased during the past year by close upon six hundred thousand dollars, but that there would be no further increase from this source to the province until the next decennial census.

This improved condition of the Provincial Government finances led many people to ask for larger expenditure, but he insisted upon the necessity for continued economy though he pointed out that the budget of Ontario amounted to nearly $8,000,000 annually.

The revenue from the forests of Quebec now amounted to about a million dollars a year and although it was gratifying to see our wild lands come under the influence of the settler, he protested against any reckless wastes of our forest wealth.

He referred to the large increase in grants to education, to the maintenance of good roads and to the construction of iron bridges. There might be a reduction of revenues from licenses owing to the temperance wave which was sweeping over the country, but he hoped that the temperance people would also assist the cause by seeing to the observance of the license law.

The ordinary receipts for the last fiscal year amounted to $5,270,594 and the expenditure $4,691,250, leaving a surplus of $579,344, the total excess of all receipts over all expenditure was $502,183.

He expressed a hope that for the current year there would be a surplus of $1,000,000.

Canadian Divorce Bill.

Vancouver, B.C., March 20.—Chief Justice Hunter announced yesterday that he disagreed with Justice Clement, who recently gave a decision that there is no operative divorce law in British Columbia.

The Chief Justice accordingly gave decision, granting an absolute decree to J. W. Simmons from his wife, Rosina.

Upon one side of the Supreme Court is Justice Clement, who has said that local courts have not and never, in fact, had the right, Sir James Douglas, by his famous proclamation, never having adopted English courts and procedure in their branch of jurisprudence.

On the other hand, is the Chief Justice, who declares he will continue to operate the divorce mill until judgment otherwise from the Appeal Court is issued.

More Dynamite Victims.

Kenora, Ont., March 20.—Another fatal dynamite accident occurred yesterday morning at Thompson-Egan's Camp 2, north of Hawke. It is reported that two foremen named Hill and Anderson, and another, name unknown, were killed. They were in charge of the powder house and were thawing dynamite, when the door opening let in a cold blast which drove gases on the flames, causing the explosion and killing three. The bodies, shockingly mangled, were brought into town and await an inquest.

What looks like a suicide happened at 5 o'clock yesterday morning. A yard engine proceeding to the station ran over an unknown man, supposed to be a Swede, cutting him in two. It was very misty at the time, but the witness thought deceased threw himself in front of the engine.

Canada Has the Right Spirit.

London, March 20.—(C.A.P.)—Referring to the mission of Mackenzie King, The Times says it rejoices at the renewed exhibition of the right spirit of co-operation in Imperial problems, and hopes now that Canada has taken the lead the newly-formed Imperial secretariat of the Colonial Office will develop this domestic diplomacy.

Terrance Is Insane.

Toronto, March 19.—T. C. Robinette, K.C., who has been retained to defend John Terrace, held at the Brampton jail, charged with the murder of William Curry, an aged farmer, on Christmas night last, said yesterday that having reviewed the case and seen his client, he had determined that insanity would be the body of his defence. Mr. Robinette has retained medical experts, who are observing the young man and have already given a decided opinion that he is mentally unsound.

Jury Disagreed.

Winnipeg, March 19.—The jury in the case of Dr. Margolese disagreed, and finding it was unlikely to reach a verdict, Chief Justice discharged the jury.

Margolese was released on bail, $20,000 himself and two sureties of $10,000 each, which were promptly forthcoming, till the fall sessions. This is a case of murder for alleged criminal operation on Miss Edwards.

Big Steamer In Collision.

New York, March 19.—The big transatlantic steamer Kron Prinz Wilhelm, which arrived yesterday from Europe, was in collision with the steamer Crown of Castile while coming up the bay. She is now lying at anchor off St. George, S.I., with a large gash in her stern high above the water line.

Apostle Atherton Arrested.

St. Louis, March 20.—Rev. Albert Atherton of St. Thomas, Ont., who styles himself "The Thirteenth Apostle, ordained with power to cast out devils and other evil spirits by the laying on of hands," was arraigned in the police court yesterday, on charges preferred by Nellie Stelton, 14 years old.

The case was continued until March 26, to give the apostle time to raise funds to pay his attorney's fees.

Firebug Admits Crime.

Brockville, March 20.—Last May two very destructive fires took place in Finch Village, Stormont County, when practically the entire business district was wiped out.

The first fire occurred the night of May 13, and owing to high winds prevailing, eleven buildings, including two stores, were destroyed.

The night following a second fire took place, when 14 buildings fell a prey to the fiery elements.

Among the stores destroyed was one kept by a man named Lowe, whose family afterwards left the village, returning a short time ago.

A son of this man, Philip Lowe, aged 19 years, Wednesday night confessed before Magistrate McNaughton, in the presence of a witness, that he was the guilty party, alleging, as a reason for starting the fires that, he was anxious to destroy the buildings of competitors to his father.

He has recently joined the Holiness Movement Church, and states that an uneasy conscience led him to make the incriminating statement.

Finances of Ontario Were Never in Better Condition

Provincial Treasurer Shows Successful Financing in Budget.

Has Big Cash Balance—Railway Construction Has Absorbed Two Millions of Cash Assets—Loan Will Be Floated When Money Is Easier—Hon. Mr. Matheson Urges Economy.

Toronto, March 20.—Amid much enthusiasm from the Government benches Hon. A. J. Matheson, the Provincial Treasurer, delivered the budget speech at the Legislature yesterday. It was most encouraging in character, showing the province's financial condition to be better than it ever was before. He reviewed the great progress made in all the Departments and predicted, if care were exercised in the conduct of permanent expenditures, that a still more satisfactory report would be made next year.

Mr. Pense, the Opposition critic, did not attempt anything serious in criticism. He took credit to the Liberals for much of the present prosperity, and complained that the expenditures had largely increased, but was generous enough to congratulate the Treasurer on the general conduct of his Department.

In opening, the Provincial Treasurer congratulated the province on its continued prosperity in spite of the period of financial stringency. During the past year the surplus of receipts over expenditure had been $606,000. This sum, said the Treasurer, could have been much larger had the Government exacted the full payment of dues from the lumbermen, who had experienced an unfortunate season and had been accorded consideration.

The announcement was greeted with applause that the earnings of the Government railway last year had been more than sufficient to pay the interest on the sinking fund on the portion of the road in operation as well as to pay the interest on the Canadian loan of $3,000,000.

A provincial loan would be issued for $2,855,000, the amount advanced to the T. & N. O. Railway, to which amount should be added surpluses netting $1,656,000, making a total of $4,511,000. This money would be expended on asylums, public institutions, roads, bridges, and permanent public improvements.

The estimated revenue last year had been $7,612,000 to which should be added the increased subsidy of $395,000 and the earnings of the Government railway amounting to $235,000. Even taking these amounts into full consideration the actual revenue over-realized them all. (Government applause.) Excluding the money received for the sale of the Cobalt and Kerr lakes and all capital receipts the surplus for the year had been over $600,000.

"These results show," said the Treasurer amid Government applause, "that this Government carefully, honestly and fearlessly collects the revenues due the crown."

The Minister pointed out that the Government had found many patients in the asylums and public institutions at the expense of the province who were well able to pay for themselves. He instanced one case of a man being supported by the province who had an estate of $7,000. All cases were treated fairly. This was promptly remedied. When a patient and his friends were unable to pay the patient was allowed care free, but when they were well able to pay the bill was collected.

A like policy was pursued in relation to the collection of succession duties. No favorites were considered, and collections made upon all estates.

"Notwithstanding the very satisfactory and encouraging position in which we find ourselves," continued Mr. Matheson, "I desire to urge the necessity for economy. The estimated expenditure has all been provided for and is justified, but we must be guarded in increasing too much the permanent expenditures."

Hon. Mr. Matheson referred to the fact that within the last three months provincial securities had risen three per cent. in England. If the province was able to get its securities upon the Trustee list in London it would materially help Ontario's financial position.

The estimated receipts for the present year the Minister placed at $7,921,000 with an additional $390,000 as earnings from the Temiskaming and Northern Ontario Railway. These estimates were well within the mark and he looked for another surplus next year. (Applause.)

The greatest increase in expenditure would be in education and the amount would be distributed directly among the people. Over $600,000 would be spent outside the university and School of Science. There were also other claims upon the Treasury in connection with the development of the north country.

Alluding to what had been done, the Minister said the railway annuities had been decreased by $250,000, while there had been a reduction in the provincial debt during the three years the present Government had held office of over $352,000.

He spoke of the development of the Government railway, which was now operating over 130 miles, with steel laid for 70 more and grading for rails in 10 more. By September 15 next it was hoped to effect the junction with the Grand Trunk Pacific. Some delay had been experienced owing to the Toronto Bridge Co. which had not been prompt. Several branches were also operating. During the past year the railway had carried over 16,633,000 passengers, not one of whom had been maimed or injured. A great deal of the expenditure on the railway had resulted from the poor way it had been laid out under the previous Government.

"We claim," said Hon. Mr. Matheson in concluding, "that we have fulfilled every pledge we made in Opposition. We have kept the expenditures within the receipts, improved the school system, reduced the price of school books and improved their quality. We have paid moneys directly to the people for school purposes and from railway taxes and hotel licenses. We have seen to it that the law was observed and endeavored to improve the condition of the farmers and agricultural interests. The asylums are being looked after, prison conditions being improved — and through all there is no graft." (Applause.)

Mr. E. J. B. Pense (Kingston), the Opposition critic, followed. He joined in extending congratulations upon the splendid financial showing of the province, particularly so, he said, because it was largely the result of the policy adopted by the predecessors of the present Government.

It seemed hard, said Mr. Pense, that after toiling in the wilderness it was not the lot of the party he represented to enter the Promised Land on these policies. Of the provincial income of last year, he claimed, some $3,645,000 of the $8,000,000 was the direct result of the policies inaugurated by the Liberals.

With so large an increase in revenue, Mr. Pense said, the Provincial Treasury should show a greater reserve. The Government, he believed, were honest, but he did not think they had been economical.

Mr. Pense dwelt at length upon the increases in expenditure and reminded the Government that in the old days of Opposition they "clamored long and loud for economy."

Mr. G. H. Ferguson (Grenville) followed, and Mr. A. Hislop (East Huron) moved the adjournment of the debate.

Munday and Art. Edmunds

Challenge to Canada's "Little Demon"—Edmunds Ready to Take Munday on.

The Toronto Star says:—

Toronto had had but little experience with professional fighters and wrestlers until this present craze of wrestling and boxing at burlesque houses broke out. Now the chances are that the town will see more of them and a few fine wrestling matches.

They seem to like this town.

Yesterday Young Munday, who gave Eugene Tremblay such a hard battle at Montreal last Friday night, drifted into town and commenced stalking around for a match. He found out that Artie Edmunds was in town awaiting news of a proposed fight in Montreal, and today drifted into the Star office to talk match.

Munday in repose, is a quiet fellow, but today when he blew in with a couple of ten strikes in his mitt and a match on his brain, he swelled up until the poutiest pouter pigeon would have looked like a slate pencil in comparison to him and struck off a line of talk that had the sporting man seeing like Jack Roache after the Tommy Burns wallop.

Young Munday had flopped, according to his own tale, about everything in the business from Frank Gotch down, and he wanted a crack at Edmunds. In vain it was pointed out that Edmunds would be giving much weight away. He wanted a match and wanted it badly. He jammed the yellow black into the sporting editor's hand and told him he would wrestle Edmunds in public or private for $50, no holds barred, or would make a match best two out of three falls for the gate receipts.

Edmunds came in late and said he would tackle Young Munday if he would make 142 pounds the day of the match.

"I only weigh 127 and Munday is now around 150," said Edmunds. "I'm not big enough to tackle a young mountain goat, but if he'll come down I'll tackle him best two out of three falls anywhere."

The Star Theatre people want to put on the bout, but the wrestlers are negotiating for a hall themselves.

CRICKET

The last match between M.C.C. and South Australia ended in a draw slightly in favor of South Australia. Gunn 120 and Dolling (Aus.) 140, were the chief scorers.

Longboat Wants to Start in 3 Olympic Races

Last night's Toronto News says;

Longboat will start in three races in England, if he can secure permission from the committee, namely, the one-mile, five-mile and Marathon events. It is not likely that he will be allowed to do this, as it is felt that he should be reserved exclusively for the big race.

WILL SAIL IN MAY.

Flanagan proposes to sail from Canada with the Indian about May 10. This will give him two full months in Limerick before the Marathon. He purposes about three weeks before this, the feature event of the Olympic games, to hold a trial race at fifteen or twenty miles. in Ireland, open to anybody who cares to compete. This would be the final real try-out of the Indian, and he would be just held at his speed thereafter.

Longboat is at the Brantford reservation, where he will remain for a while. He has, by the way, disposed of his cigar business. The city's gift, together with the fund collected, will be held by the committee, until after the Olympics, when a house will be erected for his mother at the reservation.

The Tale of the Bowling Alley

About the Game Between the Underground Men and Construction Team

On one of the finest nights that 1908 has favored us with, two teams representing the Underground Department and the Construction Department of the Bell Telephone Company, donned their rubbers and fur-lined overcoats, and tripped up to the bowling alley to settle their respective abilities.

The doors were opened at 6.30 and the thousands who had been waiting since 4 o'clock for admission, began to climb the stairs leading to the field of battle. At 7 o'clock the marker took up his position at the board patiently waiting for the heros to appear. Amidst tremendous cheering captain Haley lead his men into the arena and the aroma of some of Sangram's special brands began to float mildly through the room. Accompanied by groans and hisses, Captain Leitch, looking a little nervous made his appearance, followed by the other members of his side. Amid intense excitement Captain Haley, who had by this time disposed of his coat, and his shirt sleeves having no buttons on them, had of course to be rolled up, therefore displaying a pair of arms that even the village blacksmith would have been proud to own. At this point the spectators held their breath as the captain of the construction team, walked gracefully to the first alley and putting down a splendid ball knocked down everything before him, even the little lad at the end of the alley had just time to jump clear or he too, would have been mixed up with the pins. For fully two minutes the room was out of order owing to the thousands who wanted to shake the hand of the noble captain at the second and third alleys he came off very successful and left the arena smiling gracefully to the thousands who were yelling, 'Good old Haley,' 'Good old Irish,' 'Get them going Haley,' etc.

His opponent, a youth of great promise, by the name of F. Cross, who looking a little cross, made his way to the first alley and knowing the great display he would have to make to beat Haley, began with a ball that never left the right gutter. At the second and third alley he made great improvement, knocking down 2 pins with 4 balls. Standing back from this alley smoking a clay pipe, which he has got beautifully colored, was captain Haley, smiling up his sleeves, at the great advantage he had got over his opponent and going over to the younger members of his side, he spoke words of encouragement which told their value the minute his men took their positions on the alley. The underground team were by this time in a hopeless position and a roar of laughter came forward when someone remarked that the best thing they could do was to stay underground. Seeing defeat staring them in the face, the underground team proposed to put round a subscription sheet to raise the necessary amount to pay for the game, and the crowd responded manfully to the call and the magnificent sum of five cents was collected, but owing to the uneven amount they decided to buy a box of matches with the money. At the conclusion of the game a great demonstration took place, and Captain Haley in order to avoid the penalty of fame had to make his exit by the back door, but a few of his most ardent followers, knew the dodge and as soon as he made his appearance he was besieged and carried shoulder high down the main street, and coming to Mr. Ted Cavanagh's comfortable house they carried their load into the bar, and after drinking the health of the health of the underground team, and smoking a few of Ted's special 15 cent cigars, the noble captain was placed carefully in bed—all in.

American Soo Lost to Them Last Night by Score of 5-1

Sault Ste Marie, Ont., March 19.—The last game of the season on local ice between the rival Soos was played Wednesday night. The game was hard and fast, the players being inclined to rough-house tactics. The half-time score was 1 to 1, and the final score 5 to 1 in favor of the Canadian Soo.

The line-up:

Referee—Lott.

How About Lacrosse in Peterboro'?

The appearance of the mild weather naturally brings thoughts of summer sports to the enthusiasts. Lacrosse is one of the fastest of warm weather games and there is naturally much speculation concerning the outlook locally for Canada's national game.

No definite arrangements for the coming season have been made in Peterborough lacrosse circles, but there is plenty of material for a team. The annual C.L.A. convention takes place in Toronto on Good Friday, but no suggestion as to who will be the local representative has been made.

The Review was in conversation with Mr. Ambrose Regan of the C.L.A. Council, and who with Mr. Walter Davidson was Peterborough's C.L.A. representative. He said there was plenty of material for a team this year, if the boys get out to practice early enough. He stated he would not try for a place on the council this year.

Among the good men in the city are "Dinny" Dobbin, the far-famed goal tender; Morgan, Derocher, Regan, Ford, Meagher, Mein, McGrath, Judd, McCabe, Glover, Stroud, Roberts, son and Best.

YOUR GLASSES
AND HOW TO TAKE CARE OF THEM
This little talk may not appeal to you at first but really now do you know how best to take care of your glasses? My experience for the last three years has shown me that 90 out of every 100 do not know the right way of putting on or taking off a pair of glasses. They don't know how to clean them or how to hold them when cleaning or rubbing them. They don't know how to put them in the cases or take them out right. We take the greatest pleasure in showing you how to do those things. It does not matter if you bought your glasses elsewhere, you will receive the most courteous treatment at our hands, and we will straighten your frames free.

AMELIA BINGHAM

A Great Theatrical Star to Appear at the "Grand" To-morrow Afternoon and Evening.

Miss Amelia Bingham, supported by one of those superior casts for which she is noted, comes to the Grand tomorrow under every favorable auspice. The attraction selected for the evening performance is an elaborate production of Clyde Fitch's most interesting and successful play, "The Climbers." The piece is indissolubly associated with Miss Bingham's name, and the demand for it to-day is as potent as during the first season on tour, following its remarkable run at the Bijou Theatre, New York. Clever and absorbing, "The Climbers" has held its high rang among American plays through the entire line of later successes.

A genuine treat will be offered at the matinee in Haddon Chamber's "A Modern Magdalen," Miss Bingham is said to have the biggest personal opportunities of her career in "A Modern Magdalen" Miss Bingham's support will include Byron Douglas, Gordon Edwards, Jane Gordon, Jane Wheatley, Angela McCaull and numerous others. THE DOCTOR DENIES THAT HE IS GUILTY

Emergency Operation Only, Says Dr. Fletcher, at Gould Inquest at Toronto

Toronto, March 20—The inquest on the death of Jessie Gould, the young woman who died under suspicious circumstances on the 10th inst, at the Western Hospital, was opened last night at the City Hall, and was adjourned until Monday next.

Dr. A. G. Ashton Fletcher, who is charged with murder in connection with the girl's death, and a young man named Harry Saunders, charged with having produced an illegal operation to be performed upon her, were both present and represented by counsel, Mr. J. W. Curry, K.C., appearing for Dr. Fletcher and Mr. Thomas Phelan for Saunders.

When first called upon to give evidence, both Dr Fletcher and Saunders refused to testify, on the advice of their counsel, but later Dr. Fletcher, after being promised protection by the court, gave his evidence. Saunders, however, still persisted in his objection and was committed to gaol on the order of the Coroner, Dr. A. J. Johnson.

In his evidence Dr. Fletcher admitted having performed an operation upon the girl, but denied that it was of an illegal nature. He said the operation he performed was an attempt to save her life, and such as any medical man would make under similar circumstances. He insisted that he had no knowledge of what caused the girl's illness, and merely acted because he was called in to treat the girl in an emergency.

Dr. J. Harvey Todd, who was called in to 75 Shuter street on the morning of Tuesday, March 10th, to administer an anaesthetic, told of what had occurred there, and also of a conversation he had with Dr. Fletcher. Most of the evidence was of a medical character, and cannot be printed.

Drs Gideon Silverthorn and J. Milton Cotton, who conducted the autopsy, said that the woman's death appeared to be due to septic poisoning.

Hamilton may lose $40,000 through the settlement of the Kramer-Irwin suit.

Justice McLennan denies that he will retire from the Supreme Court bench.

Neil, the 14 year old son of James Taylor, of Bradshaw, was accidentally shot while hunting and lived only a few hours.

GLASS TELEPHONE POLES

Europe is now beginning to use glass telegraph poles, and patents have been granted to an architect of Cassel for a machine to be used in their manufacture. These patents have been issued in Germany and other European countries. The poles are especially valuable in countries where wooden poles are quickly destroyed by insects or climate. The Imperial Post Department of Germany has already ordered that these poles be used in its telegraph or telephone lines. The poles will be more sightly than the present wooden affairs, and in countries where the forests are nearly exhausted, they will lessen somewhat the great drain upon the rapidly vanishing forests.

Death of Millbrook Lady Recalls Days of Long Ago

Mrs. Thomas Medd Was One of the Pioneer Residents of This Part of the Province—Had Relatives in This City.

On Wednesday last at "Medd Home," the residence of her daughter, at Millbrook, Mrs. Thos. Medd, there passed away at the ripe age of 90 years probably one of the last of the generation, that lived and helped forward the first settlement of this part of Ontario. The late Mrs. Scott, formerly Elizabeth Holmes, was the second daughter of James Holmes, Esq., who came to Canada and settled in or about the year 1822, in what is now known as the Township of Cavan, taking up land near the present village of Centreville. The early records of the pioneers of the district show him to have been a man of strict integrity and sterling worth and highly esteemed by all those with whom he came in contact. Always ready to aid and take part in anything for the general good, and one of the first elders and for years after an elder in the Presbyterian church of that community.

Mrs. Scott was four years of age at the time her father settled in Canada, and had many interesting stories to relate of the trials and struggles of the little community in which she lived, twice a year the settlement was quite cut off from the outside world. The roads and blazed trails became practically impassable in the late fall and early spring. Travelling about was either on foot or on horseback; from childhood a good horsewoman she often spoke with pleasure of long trips in the saddle. The deceased lady was married on March 6th, 1840, to the late Adam Scott, eldest son of Mr. Adam Scott of Scott's Plains, now Peterborough, one of the earliest pioneers of that now busy city, who built and owned the first flour mill and the frame dwelling house in Peterborough. Mr. Adam Scott's friends carried on a flour and lumber industry for several years in Cavan, at the place now known as Mr. George Needler's low mill, and superintended and opened up the road from the boundary between Cavan and Monaghan to that mill. He was working on it with his men when word was brought him that his son was drowned in the flume at the saw mill. He afterwards moved to Manvers, where he built a number of mills and settled, and built up the village of Lotus and was reeve of the township for several years.

Mrs. Scott had ample scope for the full exercise of those estimable qualities of mind and heart with which she was endowed. The pioneer life of her husband and the undertakings he was engaged in, were such as kept her in close touch with the country side, whose wants she knew and sympathized with; many a case of distress and misfortune found her taking what means were at hand to assuage or aid, and with her friendly advice and material assistance often helped to soften the troubles and trials incident to pioneer life. Brought up from childhood in the Presbyterian Church she was a consistent member of that communion till the time of her death. Blessed with full possession of all her faculties to the end, her later years were spent in the perusal of those passages on which she loved to dwell and passed her declining years between reading them and a friendly intercourse with the few that were left of her immediate relatives. Mrs. Scott had two sisters and one brother, Mrs. Samuel Dickson of Peterborough, Mrs. McAbe and Mr. W. Holmes of Cartwright, all of whom predeceased her. Of ten children only three are left to mourn her loss; Mrs. J. H. Persen, Port Hope; Mrs. P. Brown, St. Louis, and Mrs. Thomas Medd, Millbrook.

The late Mrs. Scott was the grandmother of Mr. S. T. Medd of this city.

The Grand Orange Lodge of Ontario east went into session at Port Hope Wednesday afternoon at 2 o'clock and over three hundred delegates were in attendance. A large contingent of delegates arrived this morning and the lodge room is taxed to its utmost capacity.

AFTERNOON SESSION.

The Grand Master, George Boyce, occupied the chair and in opening delivered a very able address. He expressed the hope that the Grand Lodge would do something tangible to recognize the services of Grand Treasurer Gordon, of Tweed, and also pointed out that the work Grand Organizer G. McCarthy was doing was deserving of special mention. He urged the delegates to elect men to the various offices who would be a credit to the Order and country, and called the attention of the meeting to the high position the Orange Order occupied in the estimation of the people of the Dominion.

Grand Secretary, F. M. Clarke, of Belleville, presented his annual report showing an increase in membership of 1,649, 1,2? by initiation and 305 by certificate. In this jurisdiction there are 24 county lodges, 79 district lodges and 374 primary lodges. There are 13,452 active members, having lodge property to the value of $206,000.

The Grand Treasurer, R. Gordon, of Tweed, presented a very gratifying report, showing a healthy surplus. The receipts were $6,482.86; disbursements $1,683.65 and $1,150 was spent for organization purposes.

The Grand Lodge was paid a fraternal visit by Grand Master E. T. Essery, of London. This was the 49th annual meeting of the lodge and it was the first time that the Grand Master of Ontario West ever paid a visit to his eastern brethern. Bro. Essery was tendered a hearty reception and his visit is much appreciated by delegates now in session.

At four o'clock the members of the Town Council paid a visit to the lodge room and were introduced to Grand Master Boyce, by Past Grand Master R. H. Holland, of this town. The members received a right royal wlecome from the delegates and in the unavoidable asence of his Worship Mayor Goddy, Reeve Burnham read the following adrdees:

To the Rt. Worshipful, the Grand Master, the Delegates of the Orange Order of Eastern Ontario:—

Having learned with pleasure that your honorable body would once more assemble in our town, we, the Mayor and Town Council, feel deeply honored in extending to you a cordial greeting and the freedom of our beautiful town. We have gratification in the fact that this is not the first occasion of a similar anture and trust, as time goes on, to again welcome your loyal body.

You will not fail to see that we are progressive; our churches and schools are excellent and you will notice the substantial industries established here since your last visit. And we are aware that the honor you have conferred in selecting our town for a convention will "thoroughly show the wisdom of your councils" lead to good results.

Port Hope, March 18, 1908.

Replies were made by Grand Master Boyce and Dr. Sproule, Rt. Worshipful Grand Master of British North America, expressing their gratitude for the same, and assured the members of the pleasure it gave them to visit Port Hope once more.

Previous to this the following address was presented on behalf of the local lodge:

To the Right Worshipful Grand Master and members of the Grand Orange Lodge of Ontario East.

Right Worshipful Sir and Brethren,—The Loyal Orange District Lodge of Port Hope deems it a great honor and privilege to extend to you a most cordial and fraternal welcome to the good old Orange town of Port Hope, on the occasion of this, your forty-ninth annual session.

Knowing the grand objects that will engross your attention, we will not occupy more than a few moments of your valuable time; but will merely express the heartfelt wish that your session here may be most pleasant and profitable.

There will be a public meeting in the Opera House in this town this evening which is not designed to conflict in any way with the work of your Right Worshipful body—being called for the purpose of enabling our most Worshipful Grand Master and Sovereign to couple the good work which he began here in December last and harvest the crop of which he then sowed the seed.

This meeting is to be held for the sole purpose of adding to our membership here in Port Hope. But we shall be glad to see as many of the members of your Right Worshipful Grand Lodge as can make it convenient to attend, and can promise them a hearty welcome and a good time.

Fraternally yours,
JAMES EVANS
District Master of Port Hope.

But in the evening came the big doins'. The Ideal band was out in full force and after a couple of selections at the corner of Queen St. they struck up the old familiar air which makes every son of King William throw out his chest.

Had it not been for the chilly atmosphere and the white mantle which covered the earth, one would have been led to believe that it was a regular 12th of July celebration. The delegates, three hundred strong, lined up with the band and paraded the main streets and the music was continued until every wearer of the orange was confortably seated in the Opera House. The large hall was packed to the doors and many were unable to secure seats.

Past Grand Master Holland of Port Hope occupied the chair and on the platform with him were; M. W. Bro. Dr. T. S. Sproule, Supreme Grand Master; E. T. Essery, KC, of London, Grand Master Ontario West; Wm. Lee, Toronto, Supreme Grand Secretary; Controller H. C. Hocken, Toronto, editor of the Orange Sentinel; Grand Master Boyce, of Ontario East, J. E. Thompson, County Master, Toronto; A. W. Wright, a Toronto Past Master; J. C. Boyten, W.M. of Toronto Junction and Robert Birmingham, Toronto, Grand Organizer of Ontario West.

A brief but very pleasing musical programme by local talent was given consisting of the following numbers:

Piano solo—Miss Edith Brownscombe.

Quartette—Messrs. Nicol and Wickett, Mrs. Massie and Miss Garnet.

Vocal selections—Misses Day and Thorndyke.

Stirring addresses were read by Grand Master Essery, Supreme Grand Master Dr. Sproule, and Robert Birmingham, Grand Organizer, showing the flourishing condition the order was in and the advantage every young man gained by becoming a member.

The question which is causing the delegates much unrest is the statement of Mayor Kelley, of Buckingham to the fact that he will prohibit a procession in that place on July 12th.

A section of the brethren want His Worship interviewed and asked to reconsider his decision pointing out that the Orange celebrations are not carried out with an unlawful purpose in view. They wish to avert any possible trouble that is likely to arise, for they feel that if Mayor Kelly persists in his refusal to let the Orangemen walk, the brethren will be forced into asserting their rights as they see them, and the whole question of public celebrations will be thrown open for discussion. The Orangemen who are here today by every utterance on the subject of a demonstration at Buckingham on July 12th, demonstrated that they will go a long way in order to avert a possible dispute with the Chief Magistrate of the Quebec municipality. A lengthy reference was made to the stand taken by Mayor Kelly in the address of the Grand Master, Colonel J. R. Orr of Madoc to the Grand Black Chapter. 'What have you got to say about it,' was the question put to the Sir Knights.

THURSDAY SESSION.

The attention of the Orange Grand Lodge was directed this morning to the subject of separate schools in the counties of Russell, Prescott and Glengarry. Some trustees, it was claimed, could neither read nor write and it was also said that proceedings in certain townships were carried on in French. A resolution asking for legislation making it compulsory for trustees to be able to read and write and to conduct their business in English was passed. And the recommendation was for the Government in all instances to make the grant to public schools equal to that paid to separate schools.

Orangemen in session here are pointing with pride to some shreds of a French flag which they say was taken from the enemy by the Prentice Boys at Londonderry, May 6th, 1688.

Knocked Down by a Sleigh

Small Boy Met With Accident on Hunter St. This Morning

A little lad about 9 years old, by the name of Edwards, and who as near as could be learned lived on Water street, was knocked down this morning by a grocer's rig on Hunter street and rather badly shaken up and somewhat scratched about the face.

He was able to proceed to his home unaided.

Peterborough Man On Power Scheme

Hastings, March 19.—Mr. Andrew Cameron, lately of Hastings, but now of Peterborough was in town last week working on a power scheme for this district which seems to meet with the approval of a large number of the influential farmers of this district, and which if put through should be a good thing for all concerned. It is nothing less than a combination of the townships in this district to purchase the power rights here and develop them for the use of residents of the different municipalities, for both light and power.

Nothing could be more convenient than this for all concerned and should be heartily sanctioned by those interested.

At present all use kerosene lamps and lanterns on the farm, both in the dwellings and at the barn where the upsetting of a lantern among inflammable matter means not only the loss of a barn; but stock and contents, but with electric lighting if a lamp should burst or be broken there is no possibility of ignition as the light goes out as soon as the air enters the globe. As to convenience instead of losing time and patience after a cold drive, in lighting lanterns, all you will have to do is to turn a switch and your building is lighted and when you are finished turn the switch back and all is done. With regard to power for farm use, nothing could be more convenient. No steaming up or danger from sparks from engines, and the power is as cheap. The wood is fast disappearing and it is only a matter of a few years before power generated in this way will be a necessity and why not start now.

Mr. Cameron has some prominent men interested in the scheme, and no doubt the matter will be brought before the municipal councils, and if it goes through, success is assured.

A TYRANNICAL MEASURE; HEAVY LOSS TO PROVINCE

An Act has passed its third reading in the Dominion Parliament and is now before the Senate, which authorises the incorporation of industrial co-operative associations. Should the Act become law it will mean a $50,000 loss of revenue to the Province of Ontario.

The bill chiefly concerns farmers and the labouring classes, and provides that the associations shall not operate outside the electoral division in which the head office is located except by the permission of the Minister of Labour.

The Act contraverts the words "incorporation of companies with Provincial objects" in section 92 of the British North American Act. Of course, these associations, by being confined to electoral divisions, are purely local, and the courts have held that local companies are purely within the jurisdiction of the Province, and that they are the only kind of companies that can be incorporated by the Province.

Any incorporated co-operative company may, by another clause, be put under this Act, which is in the teeth of the decision of the Supreme Court in the case C.P.R. vs. Ottawa Insurance Company, a decision which had a bearing upon the York Loan Nova Scotia shareholders.

The court then held that the Dominion had no right to interfere with the Provincial Act, or extend its powers in any way. There is no provision under the new Act for any fees to be collected by the Dominion, and Mr. Mulvey, the Assistant Provincial Secretary, states that the loss to Ontario would be $50,000 per annum.

The proposal of Ontario is to have all the Provinces unite at once and represent their case immediately to the Senate.—Toronto News.

Mill at Fowler's Corners Totally Destroyed by Fire

On Wednesday evening between 8 and 9 o'clock the shingle mill of Mr. John Bradley, Fowler's Corners, was totally destroyed by fire. The loss amounted to between three and four hundred dollars, partly covered by insurance. The conflagration started from a smokestack and the material being very dry the blaze spread rapidly and soon the whole structure was one mass of flames. It was only about an hour when the building was razed to the ground. The mill was built last fall and has been kept busy all winter. The nearest house was about a quarter of a mile away and there was no danger at any time of it taking fire.

The mill is about a mile from the Corners.

Keene Improvement Society And What it Has Accomplished

Annual Meeting was Held Recently—Sum of $398.17 Was Spent During the Past Year—Over $600 Spent During Existence of Society.

Special to the Review.

Keene, March 19.—The following is the report of the annual meeting of the Keene Village Improvement Association, held in the Council hCamber Wednesday evening.

The President, Mr. Jas. McNeil, occupied the chair.

The minutes of the last annual meeting and of the meetings of the committee, were read by the secretary, Mr. Andrew Shearer, and, on motion of Mr. John Lang, seconded by Rev. B. D. McDonald, adopted.

Mr. Shearer next presented the financial statement, which showed a deficit for the year of $155.06. On motion of Mr. Wm. Drummon, seconded by Rev. D. D. McDonald, the statement was accepted.

It was moved by W. Drummond, seconded by J. C. Read, that Mr. Jas. McNeil be re-elected President, and Mr. Andrew Shearer Secretary-Treasurer.—Carried.

On motion of Mr. John Lang, seconded by J. C. Read, Mr. Thos. McIntyre was recommend for the position of roadmaster for the coming year, and Dr. W. T. Harrison and J. C. Read were appointed to interview the Council regarding the appointment.

On motion of Mr. S. Smithson, seconded by R. J. McCamus, the following gentlemen were appointed members of the Executive Committee: Wm. Campbell, Dr. W. T. Harrison, James Henderson, Wm. Drummond, John C. Read, Wm. Moore, John Lang and Thomas McIntyre.

Moved by A. D. Anderson, seconded by W. Campbell, that J. J. Moore, J. R. McIntyre and R. J. McCamus be re-appointed members of the Entertainment Committee.

Mr. S. Smithson moved, seconded by Mr. William Drummond, a vote of thanks to the nEtertainment Committee for their services during the past year.—Carried.

Mr. R. J. McCamus responded, thanking the association for their appreciation and giving reasons why entertainments were not held in the latter part of the year, as had been intended.

A discussion took place regarding plans for raising funds during the coming year. Also the improvements to be out on the streets during the coming year, the matter finally being left in the hands of the executive committee, with the recommendation that the cement sidewalk on Bridge street be extended as far as Messrs. Anderson & Skinner's store, if the necessary funds are available.

Messrs. James Henderson and Wm. Drummond were appointed to take charge of the work of cleaning up the streets on Arbor Day—the first Friday in May.

During the past year the society has spent $398.17, most of the expenditure being for about nine hundred feet of cement sidewalk.

The receipts for the year were $117.00; commutation of statute labor, $50.00; township grant and $76.11, raised by concerts and excursions and from private subscription. Besides the above, the Association has done, as usual, a great deal of voluntary labour on the streets. An instance of this is the case last year where the cost of grading about nine hundred feet of road was only six dollars for one man and team two days, the balance of the work being done by the members of the Association.

Since the formation of the Association three years ago, the sum of six hundred and fifty-three dollars and twenty-six cents has been raised by voluntary subscriptions, concerts, dances and excursions. The Association has by voluntary subscriptions, concerts, etc., paid for about forty per cent of the expenditure on the village streets, and the amount of voluntary labour would be difficult to estimate, but must, at a conservative estimate, been worth over a thousand dollars during the last six years.

Before the Association was formed there was only a small strip of cement sidewalk and the board walks were in a bad condition. Now the cement sidewalks extend nearly all over the village, are, excepting about a hundred and fifty feet of board walk being replaced by cement sidewalks in many places, where before tebre were no walks at all. Besides a considerable amount of draineing and grading has been done, and the streets have been wonderfully improved as regards neatness and cleanliness.

While, as is usually the case in any such undertaking, the heaviest share of the work has fallen on the shoulders of a few of the members, yet all the residents of the village have taken part in the work, and there is not a citizen of Keene who has not helped the Association, either by voluntary subscription or labour, and none but are proud of the cleanliness and neatness of the streets, due to the efforts of the Village Improvement Association.

THE ENGLISH IMMIGRANT

The story told by an English immigrant girl of brutality on the part of a man with whom she had engaged to work, is but one of many cases of inhumanity on the part of people we are ashamed to call Canadians towards English immigrants. Our government has established in the United Kingdom a number of agents, who hold meetings under distinguished auspices and there tell the English people a glowing tale of prosperity awaiting them on landing. This tale is, if realizable, only realizable after waiting. In the meantime the slender resources of the immigrants become exhausted and undeserved want follows. Our slender charity to them we publish from the housetops and in the newspapers instead of considering it what it is, viz., a very poor and miserable way of backing up the circus-talk of our agents abroad. Whether we like it or not, the plan of indiscriminate yarning is the way the Laurier Government has adopted to beguile immigrants in shiploads into Canada, and we must bestire ourselves as individuals and communities to make amends for it. All Canadians are not like the brute who attacked the defenceless English girl, but neither are all immigrants like the few whose delinquencies some of our people love to dwell on as if they were representative of the inhabitants of the United Kingdom. As a matter of fact there is very little crime or criminal tendency as their personal history shows, amongst the Old Country immigrants, and it is high time that justice was done them and decent treatment shown them. Canadians going to England sometimes cut a sorry figure, and it should be borne in mind that if our people had to emigrate to Enfland, Scotland or Ireland, they would scarcely do so well.

PRETENCE VS. PRACTICE

The Dominion Government will be well advised in refusing to increase the duty on pork products or any other line of food supplies. It is admitted that the farmer is the chief loser by protection and is entitled to compensation, but compensation by increased tariff would not get beyond the pork-packers. While they continue to sell as cheaply in London, England, as in Canadian cities our people should not be asked to pay them more protection.—The Globe, March 18, 1908.

The chief Liberal organ is relapsing into its old know-nothing attitude respecting protection. Would not protection to the farmer as indicated in the case of pork make a difference in the price of pigs in the home market, which the Conservative party is trying so hard to build up? The Globe's reference to London is the same old reference revamped, which used to be made in the old soup-kitchen days, to Liverpool. Always the cry it was that we Canadians could do nothing Liverpool prices ruled us. The Conservative party knocked that idea on the head, we thought, but here it is again. The minute the supply of pigs got near the failing point pork-packers would raise their prices, London or no London. But London as a matter of fact, has to pay according to supply. The Globe puts the cart before the horse. It will quote this very argument one day and go straight back on it the next, as in this instance.

The statement also that the farmer is "the chief loser" by protection is absurd. Time has proved its absurdity. If the farmer loses by protection, how is it that he is better off now than ever before? High prices for food-stuffs on the home market are what helps the farmer. The farmer is not the one to kick. If anybody it is the consumer who should do that. Protection has done more for the farmer than for any other class of the community, for come what may we must have food and wool, which he alone supplies. Therefore a manufacturing country is his salvation, and that is why England is a good market. If Canada could be made like England to do her own manufacturing the farmers' millenium would have arrived. England is not slow to adopt protection. The cattle embargo is only one of a dozen similar contrivances which she adopts. The invasion of Germany has turned the whole feeling of the country, as recent elections show, protectionwards. If people don't need protection, then they should not use it. If they do need it they must be daft not to do it. It merely means "fair play" to and for the country adopting it.

PURITY OF ELECTIONS

The Christian Guardian speaks out with no uncertain sound regarding the determination of right-thinking people to have clean elections. Let us say at once that if it be true that the right-thinking people really want clean elections, no power on earth can stop them. Wherever crime, and its half-brother, neglect, have been rampant they have retired when "clean" people woke up and came to the rescue. Many 'right-thinking' people, however, do not think that fraud is crime. So long as it is to their advantage they laugh good-humoredly at it. Sometimes, as in Kentucky and Missouri, it leads almost to civil war. At other times like a pestilence it fastens on a community or a people and they die of its horrors as one in a bazaar-house. There is no excuse for electoral neglect. The civil power is the basis of electoral liberty and if it falls into the hands of crooks what else can ensue but crookedness? The win-or-steal man is worse than the common murderer for the latter usually kills but one while the former strangles the virtue of an entire people.

The Old Story of a Faithless Man

Sad Plight of Young English Woman at Kingston

Kingston, March 18—An English immigrant, aged 19, escaped from a house here and with an infant sought shelter in the Infants' Home. She had met a man on the street, picked up an acquaintance and later she took up with him under promise of marriage.

She says when she came under his power he locked her in the house day after day and used to beat and kick her.

Soon after her babe was born she determined to escape. She succeeded and is now being cared for. The man has gone, fearing prosecution. He deceived the girl for he could not marry, as he has a wife already.

Poultry Meeting Largely Attended

Held Last Evening in Labor Hall —Mr. J. McClelland Gave Address

A largely attended meeting of the Poultry Association was held last evening in Labor Hall, Simcoe street. Mr. George Paxman, the vice-President, was in the chair, and opened the meeting. The chief feature of the evening was the talk by Mr. John McClelland on the Black Minorca and Brahma. Mr McClelland dealt with these two species of birds in a clear and comprehensive manner, showing that he had made a careful study of his subjects. Following Mr. McClelland's address a discussion took place in which Messrs. Jas. Baptie and Harry Lush spoke on the subjects of the evening.

Messrs. E. C Scrigley and J. Y Smith were appointed auditors.

Building Operations Will be Commenced as Soon as Navigation is Opened—New Quarry Promises Well.

Work on the new Catholic church at the corner of Aylmer and Romaine streets will be commenced as soon as navigation is opened and stone can be brought from Stoney Lake. Contractor Sheehy is now making arrangements to proceed with the work with rapidity as soon as conditions are favorable. A large number of men will be employed, so that the starting operations cannot come to soon to suit the working men of the city as it will provide work for many who are now out of employment.

The stone used in the building of the new church will be brought from a quarry at Stony Lake. This is the first quarry that has ever been opened in that locality, and as a fine quality of stone can be obtained it should be of great value to the contractors of the city. Previously the stone used for building in Peterborough had to be brought by rail from points some distance from the city. The quarry at Stony Lake will do away with this. The stone can also be brought here by water at less cost than by rail.

The new church will be an exceedingly handsome structure and will add greatly to the appearance of the portion of the city where it will be located.

Here's a Chance for This City's Musical and Dramatic Talent

An Ottawa despatch says;

The Governor-General will make a public presentation of the musical and dramatic trophies that the Canadian Conservatory of Music of Ottawa and the Ottawa Thespian Club, respectively, won last month when they competed against Toronto, Montreal, Quebec and other Ottawa teams.

The musicians of the Canadian Conservatory of Music are holding a concert at the Russell Theatre on the evening of April 9, and while there is nothing definite yet, it is fully expected a party from Government House will be present that night and that it will be then that Earl Grey will present the trophies.

At a meeting of the executive committee of the Earl Grey Musical and Dramatic Trophy Competition yesterday it was decided that the competition in February next should be held in Montreal and, in the following year, that is in 1910, in Toronto.

The committee have been urged to adopt this course by a number of people in these cities. In acceding to the request, the committee hope that it will result in widening the interest in the contest, and bring forward competitors from towns and cities that have not so far been represented.

His Excellency Earl Grey will endeavor to be present in Montreal during the week's entertainments in 1909.

Some changes in the regulations have been made for next year. No play of less than one hour will be accepted and there must at least be six speaking parts.

No extra marks will be given by the judges for original plays, and all plays must be submitted to the committee for approval. A more detailed system of marking will also be adopted for the musical competition on the advice of Prof. Parker.

Hospitals Want Larger Grant From Government

Big Deputation Waited on the Provincial Secretary Wednesday—Rate Per Patient Has Been Declining, While Expense Has Increased.

Toronto, March 18—The hospitals of Ontario were represented by a deputation about one hundred strong which waited upon the Provincial Secretary and a number of his colleagues this morning to ask an increase in the Government grant. The Ministry was represented by Hon. Messrs. Hanna, Matheson, Cochrane and Reaume.

ASK FIFTY PER CENT. INCREASE

There was formerly a lump sum voted to the hospitals by the Province, which was divided among these on a per capita basis. With the increasing number of hospitals and patients, the grant had fallen from 40 cents to 17 cents per patient. Therefore it was decided last session to make a flat grant to each hospital on the basis of 20 cents per patient. Today's deputation suggested an increase to, say 30 cents or more. They were promised consideration.

Rev. Dr. McLeod of Barrie, introduced the general subject of hospital need, remarking that there is no hospital in the world which is a self-sustaining institution.

HOW THE RATE DROPPED

He was followed by Mr. W. E. Rundle of Toronto, who headed the deputation. He remarked that during the past seven years the hospitals of the Province as a whole met expenditure for maintenance in only one year. He went on to say that in 1882 there were five sources of revenue, Government grants, revenue from patients, private donations, municipal grants and revenue from investment. Comparing the years 1882, 1894, and 1907, the percentage of revenue received from these sources was as follows;

	1882	1894	1907
Government	36	26	13
Municipal	18	21	17
Patients	16	19	53
Donations	20	27	13
Investments.........	10	7	4

Mr. Rundle added that the Succession Duties Act was originally intended to provide a revenue for hospitals and kindred institutions. Although succession duty is now, as Mr. Matheson pointed out, collected simply as a tax, the wealthy men of today are failing to provide for hospitals in their wills, contending that the succession duty on their estates will cover this need.

FOR NEW ONTARIO

Dr. G. S. Lebel of Sudbury, appeared with Mr. C. N. Smith, MPP. to represent New Ontario. The Grey Nuns are in charge of most of the hospitals there, and labor under exceptional difficulties, said Dr. Lebel. In Sudbury hospital last year, the lumbermen patients alone owed the hospitals $2209 which the bulk of them are unable to pay. In 250 townships there are only fourteen organized municipalities, so that municipal aid cannot be secured. Under these circumstances Dr. Lebel asked that New Ontario receive special consideration.

EXPENSE HAS RISEN

Mr. G. Y. Chown, of Kingston pointed out that hospitals had done their best to get increased municipal grants. Though the government had raised their grant, still further assistance is necessary, as the cost of maintenance per patient has risen from 68 cents in 1882 to $1.16 at present.

Dr. Robertson, of Ottawa; Mr. J. A. Hutchinson, of Brockville, and Dr. Guest, of St. Thomas, followed. Dr John Ferguson, of the Western Hospital handed in a prepared statement of hospital needs.

MR. HANNA'S REPLY

"I wish," said Mr. Hanna, "that more of my colleagues had been here, in order that you might have convinced them as completely as you have convinced me—" and thereupon the delegates applauded.

But Mr. Hanna had something up his sleeve. "Convince me," he went on, "that the succession duties belong to my department. If they were convinced of that and would act on it, there would be no difficulty in granting your request."

Seriously, however, he said that the present grant did not measure the Government's good-will. All he could say was that the application did not come too late for consideration as the supplementary estimates are yet to be brought down. It would come before the Cabinet and be discussed. Action would follow if the Ministry was as convinced as the deputation of the necessity for it. He said this not as a promise, but merely to intimate that the request did not come too late.

A WEDDING.

The residence of Mr. and Mrs. Robt. Buchanan, was the scene of a very pretty wedding on March 11th, when their only daughter, Annie Edith, was united in marriage to Mr. Ernest Moss, second son of Dr. J. H. Moss, formerly of Havelock.

The ceremony took place under an arch of evergreens and roses, Rev. J. A. G. Stirling officiating.

The bride looked charming in a dress of pointe d'esprit over white silk, trimmed with satin ribbon wearing a long veil surrounded with a wreath of lillies of the valley and carrying a bouquet of white carnations. The wedding march was played by Miss Margaret Buchanan, while Miss Lila Kirk acted as ring bearer and Miss Violet Buchanan as flower girl.

The bride's travelling dress was of navy blue venetian cloth, trimmed with silk and braid. She wore a picture hat and handsome sable ruff.

The young couple left next morning on the seven o'clock train for Toronto, Hamilton and other western points.

On their return they will reside at "Tyneholm," Belmont.

Their many friends will join in wishing the young couple every happiness.

MILK CANS WERE THROWN TO THE ROAD

Exciting Runaway on Aylmer St. Yesterday at Noon

The spirited fire team when answering a fire alarm yesterday at noon was the means of scaring the horse of Mr. W. Hetherington. Mr. Hetherington was delivering milk on Aylmer street. He left his horse standing while he made a call and the fire team suddenly came out of the hall and galloped down the street. The milkman's horse started off too at a terrible fast clip. Milk cans were thrown to the road and two young fellows who put up an endeavor to stop it, stumbled and fell on the road. After running a few blocks, the animal evidently became tired and slackened up. It was captured at Dalhousie street.

POST BROKE THE WINDOW

A Small Boy an Accessory to the Deed—Loss From $25 to $30

Yesterday afternoon about five o'clock the plate glass window in the George street cigar store and barber shop conducted by Mr. Archie Campbell was broken in a peculiar manner.

A young lad who was playing with some companions on the street caught hold of the barber post fastened to the side of the doorway in front of the shop, while suddenly stopping himself. The top staple holding the post pulled out and the post swung around, shattering the upper half of the window.

The loss is estimated at from $25 to $30. There is no insurance.

Two Entrances—George and Hunter

MIDNIGHT CALLER WANTED TO FIND OUT WHERE HE WAS

To be aroused out of his cosy bed at 12.30 o'clock at night and asked to tell a stranger where he (the stranger) was, formed the unpleasant experience of a young man in the north end of the city on Wednesday night. The sleeper who was so rudely awakened said some things that were more forceful than poetical, but perhaps he should be forgiven under the circumstances.

About 12.30 o'clock on Wednesday night, or rather Thursday morning, a family living at the north end of Water street, heard a loud knocking at the front door. One of the men of the house went down and on opening the door was greeted with the question, "What street is this?" The information asked for was given and then the stranger at the door wanted to know how he could reach Lakefield. He was told to keep going going north and resumed his journey without even expressing his thanks.

It is learned that he called at another house a little further north and asked for similar information, coupled with a request for something to eat. He told a hard luck story and was taken in, fed, and allowed to stay all night. The fellow had apparently been wandering from the temperance ranks and was hardly responsible for his actions.

AID RURAL TELEPHONES

Bill of Mr. Bowyer Before Municipal Committee.

Member For East Kent Would Prohibit Municipalities From Granting Exclusive Franchises—Alleged Gifts of Money From Bell Co.—Dual System a Nuisance Says Hon. Adam Beck.

Toronto, March 20.—Exclusive telephone franchises and their relation to rural lines formed the subject of a debate of an hour and a half in the Municipal Committee of the Legislature yesterday. The bill of Mr. Bowyer (East Kent) to prohibit municipalities from granting exclusive franchises was under discussion, but no decision other than to refer the bill to a sub-committee was arrived at.

During the course of his argument Mr. Bowyer said that several municipalities had received money from the Bell Co. The reason that the company had such a grip on the country, he maintained, was because of the supiness of past Legislatures and the weakness of municipal councils. He thought it was nothing short of bribery for an agent of the Bell Co. to approach town councils promising so much a year and so many free 'phones.

There were several utterances along the line of provincial 'phones, and Mr. Hoyle (North Ontario) thought "this progressive Government" would some day take the matter up.

The whole point of the question apparently was summed up by Mr. McDougal (Ottawa), when he stated that what was wanted was to give the Municipal and Railway Board power to compel the Bell Co. to give connections with the rural 'phone lines.

Hon. Adam Beck stated that the Dominion Government should take over all the trunk lines. He thought a dual system was nothing short of a nuisance in most places.

At the suggestion of Hon. Mr. Hanna, the entire problem was referred to a sub-committee composed of Messrs. Bowyer, Preston (Brant), McDougal, Sutherland and Pattison. The names of Hon. Messrs. Hanna and Beck were added as ex-officio members.

Some discussion ensued regarding the bill of Mr. Preston (Brant), which was intended to make it obligatory for assessors to take the name of every child between the ages of eight and fourteen years, so as to help in enforcing the law regarding truants. Mr. McNaught pointed out that it would cost $20,000 a year in Toronto to do this, and the bill was allowed to stand over.

A DARING BURGLARY.

Bullets Whizzed Freely In a Desperate Raid at Thamesville.

Thamesville, March 20.—A daring robbery occurred here about 2.30 yesterday morning. Messrs. Brooks and Howes, who are residing over a jeweler's store, were awakened by hearing a noise at the door.

Brooks, getting up, walked towards the door and spoke in a loud tone, asking who was there. The answer was a report from a gun and bullets smashed through the window.

Howes was awakened by this time, and got up, as three burglars walked in on them and began to fire in all directions.

Howes, grabbing his money, hid it under the carpet and made a dash for the window and tried to escape, but all in vain. He was grabbed, tied and gagged with one of the sheets on the bed, which was cut in pieces for the purpose. Brooks by this time had been bound, and both were put in bed. The daring three went on looking for their valuable, and found eight dollars in Brooks' pocket, and Howes' watch. Then they made good their escape.

The burglars are supposed to be Indians of Moraviantown, which is situated southeast from here about six miles.

LIQUOR MEN TO FIGHT.

Say That Fifty Million Dollars Are Invested In Quebec.

Montreal, March 20.—The wholesale liquor men, the brewers and all the affiliated industries of the Province of Quebec, have picked up the gage of battle thrown down to them by the Dominion Alliance, the Anti-Alcoholic League and the other temperance societies, both English and French, and yesterday they held a meeting here presided over by Herbert Molson.

The claim was made that no less than fifty millions of capital was represented. Lawrence A. Wilson explained that the situation was serious and that 100,000 signatures had been affixed to a petition presented to the Legislature asking for a change in the license law.

He said that every French paper was at present preaching temperance, and the priests were conducting an active campaign. It was decided to send a monster delegation to Quebec and ask for the maintenance of the present law, which he said had been accepted by the Dominion Alliance a few years ago.

Hold Labor Conference.

Washington, March 19.—A conference of far-reaching importance to labor began here yesterday. Participating are President Gompers and the members of the executive council of the American Federation of Labor, together with the executive officers of the International Trades Unions of America, who met pursuant to a call issued by President Gompers to consider the consequences of the recent injunction decisions of the Supreme Court of the United States affecting labor organizations, with particular reference to the Danbury Hatters case, in which that court substantially held that labor organizations were to be considered trusts as much as organizations of capital.

The conference will take up the amendment to the Sherman Anti-Trust Act, which are being drafted to prevent injustice through the operation of law to organizations of laboring men, particularly through injunctions.

One Stamp For Tobacco.

Ottawa, March 19.—It may interest cigar consumers to learn that after the new inland revenue regulations outlined by Mr. Fielding in his budget speech shall have gone into effect, it will be no longer possible for them to distinguish by the color of the stamp upon the box the origin of their smoke.

Under the regulations at present existing a man knows when he sees the blue label on the box that the contents are imported cigars. The black label denotes cigars manufactured in Canada from imported leaf, while the green stamp denotes a cigar made in Canada from "Tabac Canadien."

When the new rule comes into force there will be but one stamp in use, to wit, a black stamp. This will mean that when the new regulations come into effect the cigar smoker will have to depend upon his expert knowledge of the smoking qualities of the weed or trust to his dealers.

Premier Whitney Made Important Statement in Committee Meeting This Morning—The Re-distribution of the Counties.

Special to The Review.

Toronto, March 20th.—The special Redistribution Committee of the Legislature met this morning, when Premier Whitney let in additional light as to the Government's plans. A large number of constituencies will remain unchanged. The ridings marked "unchanged" are East and West Victoria, North and South Waterloo, North and South Wentworth, Addington, Lennox, Frontenac, Kingston, Hamilton, East and West; Durham, North and South; Norfolk, North and South; Ontario, North and South; Oxford and North and South Renfrew. Regarding Addington, Lennox and Frontenac Premier Whitney remarked this morning that after the next census a re-arrangement was needed, but they would be allowed to stand at present. The Premier did not care to say anything at present regarding regarding. Grey, Hastings, Huron, Kent, Lamoton or Lanark. A change was hinted at in Northumberland. Mention of Peterborough was made, and the Premier remarked that the village of Lakefield would be moved from one riding to another. Three new ridings will be created in New Ontario.

Poor Family Got Clothing From Churches and Sold it

That a certain alleged poor and destitute family residing in the north end of the city, has obtained assistance from several of the charitable societies of the city churches through fraudulent means, is the story told by a person who has done much this winter in alleviating the sufferings of the poor people of the city. It is said that several ladies representing different societies visited this home and from the appearance of the house the family seemed to be without the necessaries of life. There were hardly any cups and quilts and blankets were also scarce. Consequently bundles of clothing and bedding were sent them. Things were being sent there for some time, but strange to say, the family was as poor as ever and the good-hearted ladies were at a loss to know what was being done with what they sent. However, it was later found out that the woman of the house had been selling the goods as she received them, and now no more has been given her.

KATHRYN OSTERMAN AND ANNA BELMONT "THE LAUGH PROVOKERS."

If you want to laugh as you have never laughed before, journey to the Grand Opera House Monday, March 23rd, and see charming Kathryn Osterman and her clever sister Anna Belmont, in "The Girl Who Looks Like Me." Of course you have seen some very excellent comedies exploited by some clever people, but none like the "Girl." This is a veritable inciter of "acute laughitis"—attacks of which physicians declare to a unit are highly beneficial to all sizes, ages and conditions of humanity.

Charles Barnard and Mark Swan, who wrote the piece, are responsible for various good things, for instance, "Brown's In Town," and "What Happened to Jones," but "The Girl Who Looks Like Me," is their masterpiece and easily outdistances all their previous efforts, as good as they were.

These Boys Will Get Themselves in Trouble

Householders in various parts of the city are complaining of the nuisance caused by boys collecting scrap iron, rags and other kinds of junk. A lady on Homewood avenue, has been bothered several times by the boys prowling through the back yard and in the outbuildings.

Frequently the boys carry off articles that are of value and take stuff to which they have no right. The boys who called at the house on Homewood avenue, had a horse and sleigh and went about the "looting" in a very business like manner.

The police have been notified and if the boys persist in such work they will find themselves in trouble.

Two More Arrests Made at C. G. E. Works for Stealing

Two Young Men Taken Into Custody Yesterday Afternoon · Alleged to Have Stolen From the Factory—Remanded Till Monday.

That the arrests and subsequent appearances in police court of four employees of the C.G.E. works a week ago on charges of theft, did not prove the lesson to the other employees that it should have, was evidenced yesterday afternoon, when two more arrests were made.

Two employees of the works were taken into custody by P.C. Newhall. One has charge of the mahogany department of the works, and it is alleged that these two men stole quantities of mahogany, beech and other woods from the works. P. C. Newhall and P.C. McGinty were searching for these fellows yesterday afternoon and towards evening P.C. Newhall arrested them. One of them appeared before the Magistate between five and six o'clock and pleaded not guilty to the charge of theft. He elected to be tried summarily. He was remanded until Monday morning and was allowed out on his own bail.

The second man was arrested later in the evening and it was after six when he came before the Magistrate. He was also charged with theft. He did not plead or elect and was allowed out on his own recognizance.

P. C. Newhall visited the homes of these men after their arrests and found mahogany and other woods, alleged to be the property of the Canadian General.

Reach's Official Guide to Baseball

Harbinger of the Baseball Season Has Arrived—A Splendid Volume

Reach's Official American League Guide for 1908, published by the A. J. Reach Company, of Philadelphia, and edited by Mr. Francis C. Richter, of "Sporting Life," is out, and is, as usual first in the field, thus making it the harbinger of the base ball season. It can be said without qualification that, excellent as all of the editions of the Reach Guide have been in recent years, the 1908 Reach Guide is the best hand book of the kind ever issued by this or any other publisher. The special distinctions of the 1908 Guide, is next to the text, the superior quality of paper used and the number and beauty of the engravings furnished, the world's championship series being specially well dowered with splendid action pictures. The American League Guide for 1908 is in all respects a first-class hand book of the National game and a decided credit to the American League and to the publishers, the Reach Company. This is the seventh annual issue of the Reach Guide as the official hand book of the American League, and the twenty-sixth consecutive year of its publication as a book of record and reference for the entire base ball world.

THE AMERICAN LEAGUE FIELD

The book gives a complete review of the American League's seventh eventful season as a major league; complete records and averages of the American League 1907 race and players; a graphic story of the American League's part in the memorable post-season's world's championship series of 1907; a synopsis of all remarkable American League pitching feats and also of the noteworthy games of the 1907 season, and a general review of all matters affecting the American League during the whole of 1907 up to date of publication. In this section is also given a review of the remarkable happenings during the 1907 race; and a signed article by President Ban Johnson. The illustrations comprise portraits of President Johnson, publisher A. J. Reach, Editor F. C. Richter; a group picture of the American League umpires; pictures of the champion batsman, Tyrus Cobb; of the leading base runners, Flick and Conroy, and of the leading pitcher, Donovan; individual pictures and sketches of the champion Detroit players; and specially designed group pictures of all the American teams of 1907. It may be justly said that these illustrations alone are worth more than the modest price of the volume.

THE FIELD AT LARGE.

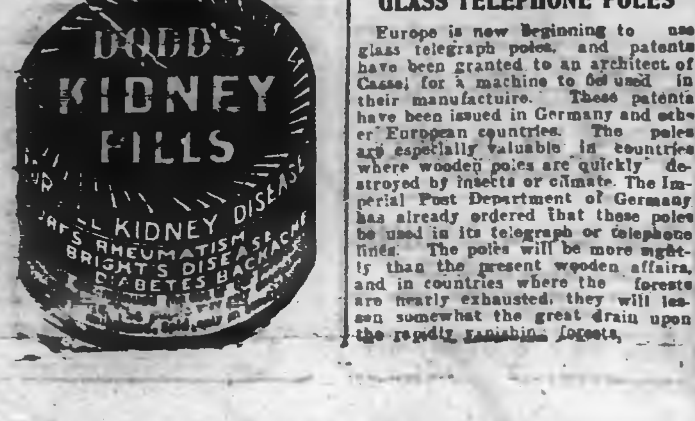
The National League race of 1907 is also fully treated and exhaustive averages of the National League players are furnished together with portraits of players Wagner, Evers, Magee and Reulbach; pictures and sketches of the individual members of the champion Chicago team; and especially designed group pictures of all 1907 National League teams in the order in which they finished. The minor league field has been more exhaustively covered than ever before, and the records and averages of no less than thirty-three minor leagues are given in full, together with group pictures of champion teams of many leagues.

1907 WORLD'S CHAMPION SERIES.

is made the great special feature of the 1908 Reach Guide. In this is given the official accounts of all the wonderful games, together with the official scores and averages, all from the pen of Editor Richter, who was the official scorer of the world's series, by appointment of the National Commission. To this is added a series of illuminating action pictures and remarkable half-tone pictures of panoramic views of various games in the greatest world's championship series yet played. In addition there is given a special article containing biographical sketches and portraits of all of the players comprising the great Chicago club, champions of the National League and winners of the world's championship; also a similar illustrated article dealing with the Detroit American League champion team.

OTHER SPECIAL FEATURES.

In addition to the above there is a great deal of general information contained in special articles, namely the Chronology of 1907, a record of all major inter-league games of 1907, and details of numerous record-breaking events in 1907. Special chapters are devoted to the Cincinnati Field Day, an innovation in the major leagues, and a review of the many wonderful extra inning games of 1907, several new records having been established. The work of the great minor league body, the National Association, and of the supreme National Commission, is also detailed. The Guide also contains the new uniform Playing Rules Code for 1908, and the 1908 championship schedules of the American League and National League. In short, everything of interest or value either for record or reference will be found within the covers of this great book. The Reach American League Guide for 1908 is for sale by all newsdealers at 10 cents the copy.



GLASS TELEPHONE POLES

Europe is now beginning to use glass telegraph poles, and patents have been granted to an architect of Cassel for a machine to be used in their manufacture. These patents have been issued in Germany and other European countries. The poles are especially valuable in countries where wooden poles are quickly destroyed by insects or climate. The Imperial Post Department of Germany has already ordered that these poles be used in its telegraph or telephone lines. The poles will be more sightly than the present wooden affairs, and in countries where the forests are nearly exhausted, they will lessen somewhat the great drain upon the rapidly vanishing forests.

CANNOT PROVIDE WORK.

Government Can Do Nothing For the Unemployed Just Now.

Toronto, March 20.—In reply to several hundred unemployed men, who assembled in front of the Parliament Buildings yesterday morning, who wanted work. The following statement from the Premier's private secretary was read:

"I have been directed to inform you that the Government has given careful consideration to the application made by your deputation, as well as to several similar applications on behalf of the unemployed in a number of cities and towns of the province and finds with regret that there is no employment under its control or within its power at the present time that it can give to those whom you represent. The Government will be glad to facilitate the wishes of yourselves and friends in every way possible, and later on in the season may be able to do this especially by indicating the direction in which employment may be found. The Government views the situation with regret, but is unable at present to deal with it under the circumstances."

To a deputation Premier Whitney said that there are no public works in progress, and that a money grant would involve making impossible distinctions between applicants. They suggested employment in the Government mines, but Prof. Miller gave the information that there are applications for employment daily at Cobalt.

The statement will be sent to the English press.

NOT GOING TO ROME.

Decision of Prince Regarded as Great Church Victory.

Rome, March 21.—The King of Italy yesterday received a telegram from the Prince of Monaco saying he regretted that his doctors, in consultation had informed him he was not well enough to come to Rome to deliver his proposed lecture on Oceanagraphy, covering the results of his more recent explorations in the north. This is the official version of why the prince has decided not to visit King Victor Emmanuel.

The visit of this Catholic prince has been followed with deep interest by the Vatican because of the prohibition placed by the Vatican upon all Catholic rulers from visiting the quirinal during any sojourn they may make in Rome. Consequently the church exerted its influence to stop the coming of the prince. It has been successful, for, as a matter of fact, the prince decided not to come here on account of the opposition offered by the Vatican. The outcome is regarded as a great victory for the church, and the course decided upon by the prince will give great offence to the quirinal.

Ends Life With Bullet.

New York, March 21.—Falling at the feet of Mrs. Lafayette B. Gleason, whom he sought to marry, Herbert Kremer, president of the German-American Insurance Co., committed suicide in Mrs. Gleason's apartments on the tenth floor of the St. Charles Hotel on West Forty-ninth street.

Mrs. Gleason, who recently obtained a divorce, told the police that when she refused Kremer for the last time he smiled at her, lit a cigarette and, after taking two whiffs at it, said:

"Very well, then. That settles it. I'll end the matter in good American style," whereupon he drew a revolver from his pocket and fired a shot into his head.

Troops Attack Natives.

Lisbon, March 21.—An official despatch has been received here to the effect that the Portuguese troops have made an attack upon the revolting natives at Jafueno and Egina, in Portuguese Guiana, and destroyed the town of Varella.

Emma Goldman Collapsed.

Chicago, March 21.—Emma Goldman, anarchist, suffered a nervous collapse Thursday night, attributed to her efforts during the last few days to secure a hall in which to speak in defiance of the police.

The Talent of Talking.

If you would be a good talker, tell the truth as far as possible.

When not possible, keep still.

Remember that unpleasant frankness, unkind opinions, harsh judgments, are no part of truth.

When you are among people do not feel as if you must at once make a special effort to be different from what you always are.

Let your brain work as it would if you were at home alone, and then you will be sure to say and do just as bright and entertaining things as you imagine yourself saying and doing when you are alone.

Not a Question of Grammar.

"From the grammatical standpoint," said the fair maid with the lofty forehead, "which do you consider correct, 'I had rather go home,' or 'I would rather go home?'"

"Neither," promptly responded the young man. "I'd much rather stay here."—Answers.

Witty and Caustic.

A woman suffrage lecturer, according to the Boston Globe, recently brought down the house with the following argument: "I have no vote, but my groom has. I have a great respect for that man in the stables, but I am sure if I were to go to him and say, 'John, will you exercise the franchise?' he would reply, 'Please, mum, which horse be that?'"

A Variation in Sport.

"What happened when you passed a law against gambling in your state?"

"The bookmakers got right to work making bets on whether it would be enforced or not."

Sarcastic.

Art Master (pointing to a lean horse)—What do you call that? Cabby—An 'orse, sir. Art Master—A horse! Rub it out, and do it again.—London Answers.

NATURE AND A WOMAN'S WORK

LYDIA E. PINKHAM

Nature and a woman's work combined have produced the grandest remedy for woman's ills that the world has ever known.

In the good old-fashioned days of our grandmothers they relied upon the roots and herbs of the field to cure disease and mitigate suffering.

The Indians on our Western Plains to-day can produce roots and herbs for every ailment, and cure diseases that baffle the most skilled physicians who have spent years in the study of drugs.

From the roots and herbs of the field Lydia E. Pinkham more than thirty years ago gave to the women of the world a remedy for their peculiar ills, more potent and efficacious than any combination of drugs.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is now recognized as the standard remedy for woman's ills.

Mrs. J. M. Tweedale, 12 Napanee Street, Toronto, Canada, writes to Mrs. Pinkham:

"I was a great sufferer from female troubles, had those dreadful bearing down pains, and during my monthly periods I suffered so I had to go to bed. I doctored for a long time but the doctor's treatment failed to help me. My husband saw Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound advertised and got a bottle for me. I commenced its use and soon felt better. I kept on taking it until I was well and an entirely different woman. I also found that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound made childbirth much easier for me. I would recommend your Vegetable Compound to every woman who is afflicted with female troubles."

What Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound did for Mrs. Tweedale, it will do for other suffering women.

WESTERN PROSPECTS ARE BRIGHT

Mr. Albert Kerr returned on Saturday, from a three months' trip through the Western provinces, covering Manitoba, Saskatchewan, Alberta, and British Columbia. Speaking of the condition of the country, Mr. Kerr reports that the West has not suffered greatly through the stringency of the money market. Some of the farmers in Saskatchewan lost their large crops of wheat through the severe frosts, which ruined great stretches of grain in some places, passing over other parts, leaving them entirely unharmed. Many farmers did not even cut their grain, simply burning it off the ground as it stood. This failure in some districts advanced the price of wheat, and those having heavy crops received an unusually good price for the same; thus leaving as much money in the country as former years although unevenly divided. The winter has been especially fine, most of the stock having wintered out on the ranches without extra feed, and in some instances being shipped direct off the ranch to the English market for beef. While in Vancouver, Mr. Kerr was the guest of Mr. W. L. Tait, brother of Mr. Andrew Tait of this town, and of Mr. G. R. Tait, son of Mr. W. L. Tait. Mr. W. L. Tait retired several years ago from the lumber business, and is now one of Vancouver's most prosperous citizens. Last summer Mr. Tait built the "Manhattan Block," one of the modern and handsome blocks in the city, and is at present engaged in erecting a similar one. Mr. Kerr visited Mr. John T. Johnstone, formerly of Orillia, now of Victoria, another Orillian who has prospered in the West. He also called on Mr. Dave Hadden, who is engaged in the manufacture of shingles, and doing well in Cloverdale, B.C., Mr. Kerr, who has spent the last five or six winters on the Coast, returned home delighted with climate and people alike, having had a prosperous trip, financially, doing good business all along the route. Indications point to an early spring and a heavy crop for next year.—Orillia News-Letter.

SPORTING NEWS

A City Baseball League is Now Topic for Consideration

One Should be Formed in Peterborough This Season—Y M.C.A., Strathconas, T.A.S. and Other Teams Could be Entered—Trophy Will be Given by Local Business Man in Case League is Organized.

The winter sports are over, or practically so, and summer athletics now come in for some attention. As a popular summer game in Peterborough it is generally admitted that baseball cannot be beaten. Of course, if a good article of ball is not furnished the citizens will not extend a very liberal patronage, but there is no doubt that baseball could be made a paying issue in Peterborough, provided a fast, interesting article were provided. And there is only one way to have that desirable end accomplished, as far as city baseball is concerned, and that is by the organization of a city league.

There is no room for argument on this point. Of course, interesting games played independently might attract a certain amount of spectators, but there is nothing like contests in which a schedule is drawn up, where organization is evident, and where affairs are managed in a systematic and business-like way.

CITY HOCKEY LEAGUE AN EXAMPLE.

As a proof of how city sports may be made to pay for the time and trouble taken in them, the Peterborough City Hockey League is a bright example. When the league was first organized there were the usual number of knockers, who predicted it would only have a short life, but it has proved a successful organization, and the prospects are that it will be even more successful next winter than ever. Some splendid games have been furnished this winter and the spectators have certainly had their money's worth. There seems no reason why an equally successful City Baseball League could not be formed. There is certainly an abundance of material in the city and, while it may seem a little early in the season, now is the time for supporters and players of ball to get busy concerning the season's prospects.

TEAMS FOR THE LEAGUE.

A good four-team league would form a strong card in Peterborough. The games could be played every Saturday afternoon and a nominal fee of admission charged. The Y.M.C.A. is thinking of taking up baseball this season, and no doubt a good nine could be picked from the Association's material. The T.A.S., Strathconas, South Ends and Ashburnham nines are others that it would seem could find plenty of material to worthily represent them on the diamond. Old players are dropping out of active participation in ball, and a City League would be the very best means of developing men to take their places.

TROPHY PROMISED.

A prominent George street business man, who takes an active interest in legitimate sports of every kind, has practically promised to donate a trophy, should the league be formed. The Review was in conversation with him yesterday, but he does not wish his name mentioned until the league has actually been organized.

It's certainly up to those actively interested to call a meeting for the purpose of considering the organization of a City Baseball League. A preliminary meeting, when the matter could be discussed, would be an excellent means of reviewing the outlook for the coming season. After some drumming up had been done by the various clubs interested, the actual meeting of organization might then be called.

CRESSMANS WERE BANQUETTED

Hockey Team Guests of Mr. A. W. Cressman at Long and Hooper's Last Night

A most enjoyable informal banquet was given last night at Long & Hooper's Palm Parlors to Cressman's hockey seven, by Mr. A. W. Cressman. The team and the male members of the staff were in attendance, about twenty being present altogether. Mr. J. C. Edwards, the popular advertising manager of the store, made a very happy toastmaster. The usual toast list was run off and some impromptu speeches were made.

During the evening Mr. Edward Koen, of St. Peter's Cathedral choir, sang a couple of solos in excellent voice.

The banquet was a fitting conclusion to a highly successful season.

GREAT BOUTS IN TORONTO

The wrestling preliminaries in the Olympic trials pulled off at the Central Y.M.C.A., Toronto, last night were fast and interesting. Twenty-four bouts were pulled off and everything was conducted in good order. Cote, the Montreal crack, won his bouts in both the 115 and 125 pounds classes.

Track Team for Belleville

Local Y. May Send One to Compete in Olympian Games

It is quite possible that the Peterborough Y.M.C.A. will send a track team to Belleville to compete with several other Associations in their annual Olympian games. The team securing the highest average in the Pentathlon events will be the holder for the ten succeeding months of a magnificent trophy, together with the names of the winning team engraved thereon.

Toronto Bowlers Like Peterboro'

Queen City Ten Pin Men Report Having a Good Time Here

Charlie Fletcher's Bronchos returned from Peterborough last night, where they went to open up the new alleys installed by Joe Hay. The boys all report a good time, having had the freedom of the town conferred upon them by the Mayor, who also was the guest of honor at the opening and delivered the first ball. "Bill" Seagar, one of the party, in speaking of the good time, said:—"Don't overlook Peterborough when leaving Toronto on a bowling tour."

A Summary of Games Played by Cressman's

Cressman's hockey team wound up their season with a banquet last night, reference to which is made in another article.

The team has played fast, clean hockey and has made a decidedly creditable showing.

Below is a summary of its record:

Eleven games played, 9 won, 1 tied, 1 lost.

Fifty-five points scored by Cressman's.

Fourteen points scored by opponents.

Tied game played at Lakefield with intermediates, score was 5—5.

Game lost to American Cereal Office staff 3—1. Shut outs, four.

SUMMER SPORT TALKED OVER

Strathconas Discussed Them at Meeting Last Night — No Definite Arrangements

A largely attended meeting of the Strathconas was held last night at the Y.M.C.A. A general discussion of sport for the summer was held, but no definite arrangements concerning the games were made. Much interest was shown by those in attendance and the club promises to take an active part in athletics this summer.

Straths Won From Team 3

An Exciting City League Basketball Game at Y.M.C.A. Last Night

In the City Basketball League an exciting and very rough game was played last evening between the Strathconas and Team 3. The score by no means indicated the play, and some good combination work was done by both teams. Two or three changes were made on each team. They lined up as follows:

Strathconas—Captain Dobson, Wallace, Metheral, Baker, Loomis.

No. 3—Captain Pringle, Lees, Daly, Maguire, Laing.

The Strathconas won out by a score of 29 points to 5.

Merchants Beat The Pastimes

Interesting Match Game at Peterboro' Bowling Club Last Night

A big match game was played at the Peterborough Bowling Club last night between Chas Frost's Merchants and Boyd's Pastimes and splendid scores were hung up all along the line. One of the surprises of the evening was the excellent work of Cyril Géroux, a young bowler, who boasts a very graceful delivery and an effective corner ball. Old trundlers who saw him in action predict that he will become one of the best in Canada before long.

Charlie Frost was high man for the night, with a total of 514, beating out McIlroy by six pins for the honor. The latter had high single for the evening, toppling over the timber to the extent of 195 pins in his first game. Geroux and Davidson were tied for second place for high single with 186 pins, both in the last game.

Billy Warham, who holds the record for the alleys, with a single score of 231, was high for the Pastimes with a total of 483 pins, his high single being 171. Boyd ran him close for this distinction with a total of 169 in his first game. Joe Pollard started off badly in his first game, but came back to something like his own form in the last two, and had a fairly respectable total. Cairns bowled very consistently in his three games and the same might be said of Ambie Regan, who, with a little more luck, would have made a better showing.

All three games went to the Merchants, whose total for the night was 2249, just 200 pins more than their opponents.

The scores follows:—

MERCHANTS
Frost	172	156	186
Geroux	146	155	186
Davidson	157	117	121
Connors	120	114	118
McIlroy	195	150	163
	784	691	774

PASTIMES
Boyd	169	136	150
Warham	171	150	162
Cairns	142	147	139
Pollard	97	133	120
Regan	110	106	114
	689	673	685

ECHOES OF THE ALLEYS.

It looks like Billy Warham's high record of 231 for a single game made on the opening night on the new alleys, will shortly go by the boards. With only a couple of days' experience on regulation alleys several merchants of the club are hanging up large scores and totals of 200 will be very common within the next few days. Bill McIlroy bowled sensationally in a practice game yesterday and piled up a total of 105 pins in his first four frames, but a couple of unlucky splits spoiled a bright chance for a new record.

The shoe stores report a strange off season demand for moccasins, which is about the best footwear to bowl in.

Watch the bowling career of young Cyril Geroux. He is picked as a coming Canadian champion by many experienced trundlers, who have seen him at work the last couple of nights on the new P.B.C. alleys.

Regan's Stars hereby issue a challenge to Chris Graham's Nondescripts, the game to be rolled on the P.B.C. alleys on any date suitable to the Hunter street oracle.

Charlie Frost was simply invincible yesterday. He was prominent in the big game in the evening and during the afternoon beat Boyd in a match game by 166 to 132.

THEY PLAYED A DRAW GAME

Barrie's Bedelias and Hickey's Terriers are apparently very evenly matched. A short time ago they played a game which was won by the Bedelias by 5-4, and last night the two teams tied in a warmly contested game. At half-time the Bedelias led by 4—3.

Long and Graham were the stars of Hickey's men, while Elliott and Hamilton were the pick of the Bedelias.

Mr H. McIlmoyle, of Barrie's, gave good satisfaction as referee.

For the Junior Championship of Peterboro'

The Chieftians and West End Juniors play for the junior championship of the city at Brock street rink on Monday evening from 7.30 to 8.30. The Chieftians are one of the fastest little septettes in the business and play swift and systematic hockey all the time. They will be opposed by a very strong aggregation from the west end who will endeavor to put it over "Jack" Thornbeck's colts for the first time this season and thus win the junior city championship.

The contest will be a splendid one and the general admission is only ten cents. Manager Jack Thornbeck says this is the last time this season that his pets will perform. Everybody should see the game.

A COMMITTEE APPOINTED

The Grafters held an important meeting in their club rooms, Hunter street last night for the purpose of considering sports for the summer.

Mr. Tom Reilly was chosen as secretary-treasurer, and a sports committee was appointed, consisting of Messrs. Staunton, Sherwood and Reilly.

OBITUARY

MURIEL C. LINDSAY.

At her father's residence, George street, the death occurred of Miss Muriel C. Lindsay, formerly of Kingston, who has been ailing for some time, having contracted a cold last September, and came to Peterborough in January, thinking the change would be an improvement, but she gradually grew worse, till death ended her sufferings this morning. The deceased had lived from childhood with her aunt, Mrs. Cameron of Portsmouth. Miss Lindsay received her education at the Kingston Collegiate, and afterwards attended Queen's University and from which she graduated two years ago receiving her B.A. The deceased young lady will be greatly missed by all her friends, as she was clever, unselfish and pious, and her early death will be deeply regretted by her friends both here and in Kingston.

The funeral will be held on Monday 23rd at 2.30 from her father's residence 659 George street, to the Little Lake cemetery.

Ground Bones for Poultry at Mervin's Meat Market. wtf

In the tea-producing countries of the Orient the price of tea, has almost doubled during the past year. This has necessitated the 'Salada' Tea Co., in order to maintain the high standard of perfection to which they have brought blended Ceylon Teas, to advance the price of the 25c grade to 30c per pound.

Eggs Dropped to 19 Cents a Dozen

To-day's Market Was a Large One—Butter Still High

Today's market was a large one, and for about an hour the crowd was so great that it was almost impossible for one to get near the tables. Eggs took a considerable drop in price and today were plentiful at 19 and 20 cents per dozen. Butter was in large quantities, but nevertheless there was no change in the prices. The prevailing figure for this household necessity was thirty cents. Fowl was very scarce and those who were fortunate enough to have any realized a big price for them. Chickens sold at one dollar per pair, while turkeys brought $2.50 a piece.

On the outside market beef sold at 5 1-2 and 7 cents per pound, while pork brought nine and ten cents per pound.

TOBOGGANISTS

Any one having toboggans at the Jackson Park Slide will have opportunity to get it on Saturday, Monday or Friday evenings between 7.30 and 8.30 o'clock. A charge of 50c each will be made on all toboggans stored at the park during the summer. 2d

YOUR GLASSES AND HOW TO TAKE CARE OF THEM

This little talk may not appeal to you at first but really now do you know how best to take care of your glasses? My experience for the last three years has shown me that 99 out of every 100 do not know the right way of putting on or taking off a pair of glasses. They don't know how to clean them or how to hold them when cleaning or rubbing them. They don't know how to put them in the cases or take them out right. We take the greatest pleasure in showing you how to do those things. It does not matter if you bought your glasses elsewhere, you will receive the most courteous treatment at our hands, and we will straighten your frames free.

Board of Directors of the Y. M. C. A. Resign in a Body

And Meeting of the Members of the Association Will be Held to Select a New Board—The Proposed Improvements to Equipment.

The Board of Directors of the Y.M.C.A. held a meeting last evening and gave careful discussion to matters relating to the schemes and objects of the institution. The proposition to add certain features to the equipment of the Association was discussed as well as the ways and means to accomplishment. As a result of the conference the following resolution was adopted, and it was decided to call a meeting of the membership at an early date as it was considered desirable that there should be a larger representation of younger men on the Directorate.

"That in view of the fact that it has been considered wise to have on the Board a larger representation of the younger members, it is the opinion of this meeting that the best interests of the Association will be served by the Board, as a body placing their resignations in the hands of the membership to be dealt with as they may deem best.'

The proposition that from among the young men a number of the directors should be selected is a good one. From time to time they bring up suggestions that are worthy of consideration and adoption, but they have to be considered in the light of the financial support accorded to the institution, the burden of the raising of which falls largely on the older members of the directorate. With younger men to assist these With younger men to assist their problems can be dealt with to better advantage.

MAPLE SYRUP SEASON LATE

The maple syrup season is late this spring. Many householders went to the market with pails this morning expecting to secure some of the sweet stuff but were disappointed. There was no syrup on the market, and it was learned from the farmers that no tapping has yet been done. The season is considerably later than last year.

A NEW SONG.

'I'm Looking for the Man That Wrote the Merry Widow Waltz.' This waltz has reached Peterborough at last, and threatens to become as popular as 'After the Ball,' and 'The Good Old Summer Time.' This person in the song is so weary of hearing the refrain that he starts upon a hunt for the composer with a dark and sinister purpose in his mind, and what that purpose is the song explains for itself. The chorus contains the few bars from the celebrated waltz, which are now all the rage, and this will doubtless help to make the song popular.

The "Merry Widow" Sailor hat holds first place as the most up-to-date model, closely followed by gorgeous hats in Neapolitan, Panama chip, leghorn and straw. The beautiful imported Parisian flowers, ribbons and novelties adorn the cases. The black hats are as much in favor as usual. One gorgeous "Merry Widow" of Black Point D-Esprit, is trimmed with a magnificent wide plume, which falls far over the wide brim at the back. New Equipment for a Local Optician

Mr. A. A. Fowler's Parlors Refitted After the Style of Leading Opticians in Large American Cities

One of the interesting spots to visit among the George street business establishments is the optical parlors of A. A. Fowler, in the Nugent Drug store. These beautifully fitted parlors are modelled after the best of those in use in the largest American cities and are a credit to the proprietor and to Peterborough. Extensive improvements have lately been inaugurated, necessitated by the rapidly increasing business of Mr. Fowler, which in the three years he has been in business has grown to large proportions. The extent of the business done is shown by the large cabinet full of records, where full particulars of every case treated are kept by the improved card system.

One of the finest instruments lately installed, a muscular testing instrument, for testing the power of the eye, and investigating any muscular deficiency. This instrument does away with the old trial frame and is of the very latest improved style. Another instrument is a combined Geneva Opthalmoscope and Retinoscope, which is used for looking into the eye and correcting astigmatism.

A complete dark room is in use, where the hand retinoscope can be used, but in all the rooms only artificial light is depended on, both electric and gas, while ventilation is secured by an electric fan. By the use of prismatic shades the light can be thrown to any part where it is wanted, thus giving the operator perfect control of it.

A very large and complete stock of glasses and frames of the best makes only are kept in stock, comprising nearly every style of frame that is made. A workshop, where all kinds of repairs are made, is immediately adjoining the parlors, and fitted with all conveniences.

It is now under consideration to install a grinding plant for lens work with which addition the establishment would be on a par with the best to be found anywhere.

To Develop Power From Trent Canal

Deputation From Belleville Waited Upon Hon. Geo. E. Graham

Ottawa, March 20—A deputation representing the municipality and Board of Trade of Belleville waited on Hon. Geo. P. Graham, Minister of Railways today to ask that the city be given the right to develop electric power at dam No 2, of the Trent Valley Canal north of the town of Trenton. On completion of the canal it is estimated that from 8000 to 12,000 horse power will be available at this point. A few days ago a deputation from Trenton preferred a similar request for the right of the town to develop power at dam No. 2. The Minister told the deputation today that, pending the completion of the canal, the Government's policy with respect to leasing power rights along it had not yet been decided upon.

By the use of prismatic shades the light can be thrown to any part where it is wanted, thus giving the operator perfect control of it.

A very large and complete stock of glasses and frames of the best makes only are kept in stock, comprising nearly every style of frame that is made. A workshop, where all kinds of repairs are made, is immediately adjoining the parlors, and fitted with all conveniences.

It is now under consideration to install a grinding plant for lens work with which addition the establishment would be on a par with the best to be found anywhere.

To Develop Power From Trent Canal

Deputation From Belleville Waited Upon Hon. Geo. E. Graham

Ottawa, March 20—A deputation representing the municipality and Board of Trade of Belleville waited on Hon. Geo. P. Graham, Minister of Railways today to ask that the city be given the right to develop electric power at dam No. 2, of the Trent Valley Canal north of the town of Trenton. On completion of the canal it is estimated that from 8000 to 12,000 horse power will be available at this point. A few days ago a deputation from Trenton preferred a similar request for the right of the town to develop power at dam No. 2. The Minister told the deputation today that, pending the completion of the canal, the Government's policy with respect to leasing power rights along it had not yet been decided upon.

Death of D'Arcy Strickland At Fort Saskatchewan, Alta.

The death of Major D'Arcy Strickland, Inspector of the Northwest Mounted Police, took place at Fort Saskatchewan, Alta., yesterday.

It is understood that it was due to dropsy. Major Strickland was the eldest son of Mr R. C. Strickland of "The Homestead," Lakefield, and was very well known here, where he passed part of his school days Going to the Northwest Territories, as they were then, he joined the Mounted Police and rose rapidly in that service until he attained his present position of inspector. He was a brave and efficient officer and was entrusted with many important missions, notably those into the Yukon territory. He was a man of powerful physique and an athlete of considerable repute Of a cheery and kindly disposition, he will be much missed by a large circle of friends and acquaintances He leaves a wife and several children to mourn his untimely death.

New Orange Lodge Will Be Organize Monday Night

This event of the season in Loyal Orange Association circles takes place on Monday next at 8 p.m. in the Orange Hall, Simcoe street, when a new lodge of the above Association will be duly organized and set in working order. A meeting of the District Orange Lodge has been called by the District Master, Bro. A. Robson at the above time and place for the purpose of installing the officers and further necessary work to set the new lodge in working order. The new lodge will be known as 'The Duke of Manchester Lodge, No. 50.' The reason why this name has been chosen, is the Master elect, Bro. W. H. G. Armstrong was a member of the Tandragu District Lodge, Ireland, of which the Duke of Manchester, as well as his father and grandfather before him were active members the grandfather having built an Orange Hall on the Tanradgu Estate of the Manchester Peerage in Ireland and presented it to the Orange Order. The event Monday promises to be a milestone in Orange circles which, when past and gone, many will look back upon with pleasant memories of the evening's ceremonies. Some of the Grand Lodge officers are expected to be present and assist in the organization of the new lodge, which will be composed of a membership which any organization might well feel proud of.

Trade Increases Slowly; Canada Makes a Poor Showing

The Balance of Trade Several Hundred Millions Against Her—The G. T. P. Has Failed to Float its Bonds—Tens of Thousands Out of Work—A Record of Maladministration.

This is March-hare madness. The fact is that no country in the world has enjoyed so tremendous an increase of trade as Canada has done under a Liberal Government. —The Examiner, March 20, 1908.

The above quotation from the Examiner requires some explanation. The Review a few evenings previous had stated that Canadian trade had not kept pace in its rate of increase with that of any of its equals in the world's markets, excepting New Zealand. The Examiner replied to this in a long article, the pith of which is contained in this one paragraph. Between the two journals the public will now judge. The figures substantiating the Review's statement follow. That the Examiner's assertion appears rather flat in view of the facts is of no particular consequence, but the sad lagging behind of Canadian trade is a cause of much misgiving in view of Canada's tremendous liabilities. Now that the GTP. has failed to float its bonds the Canadian taxpayer may well look gloomy. The facts are these.

Argentina's foreign trade has increased faster than Canada's. Between 1900 and 1905 five of the most favorable years for comparison, Argentina's trade increased 97 per cent while Canada's increased 23 per cent. Then during this term of years Argentina's exports were 455 millions of dollars greater than her imports, while Canada's were 116 millions less than her imports, a most disastrous comparison. Then take Mexico. In ten years Mexico's trade increased 145 per cent with the balance of trade in her favor while Canada's increased 130 per cent. with the balance of trade very much against her. It is the same with Australia, Cape Colony, Newfoundland and even India, New Zealand alone sharing our poor position. In fact the balance of trade being so many hundreds of millions against Canada, its trade, strictly speaking, is not trade at all. It is nearly a dead loss. It is useless for the Examiner to make such an outcry. If everything about Canadian trade is so good why is it Canada is in the throes of a financial horror with an admitted deficit of millions in prospect for next year. It is of no avail to tell a sick man that he is doing well.

Drill Season of the 57th Regiment Will Soon Open

Annual Meeting Will be Held on Monday Night—Prospects Are of the Brightest Nature.

The annual meeting of the 57th Regiment, Peterborough Rangers, will be held on Monday night, and the event brings up the question of the prospects for the coming season. This will be the last season in which the old armoury will be in use, and it is the intention of the officers to put the regiment in such shape during the summer that it will be, as it has always been, a credit to the city when the new home is taken possession of.

LIEUT. COL. STEVENSON

Commanding Officer of the 57th Regiment

It is understood that the regiment is in good condition financially, altough the annual trips have been somewhat of a drain on the resources. The finances, however, have been well looked after and there is no room for anything but the greatest optimisum.

The regiment commences the season under a new commanding officer, in the person of Lieutenant-Col. Stevenson, Lieut.-Col. Miller having retired at the close of last season. Col. Stevenson has been working hard getting everything in shape for the opening of the season, and promises to fill his new position with credit to himself and to the regiment.

MAJOR L. H. HAYES

Paymaster of the 57th Regiment.

With the annual meeting over, the drill season will open in a few days. Captains of companies are already on the lookout for recruits, and it is expected that there will be no difficulties in filling up any vacancies that may occur in the ranks. The fact that the new armoury is well under way is causing many young men to join the regiment, as they realize that the coming of the new quarters will mean a new regime in connection with local military matters. The armoury will be equipped with bowl-alleys, pool and billiard tables, etc., making the conditions much different from in the past.

MAJOR E. B. CLEGG

Acting Adjutant of the 57th Regiment.

CAPT. R. T. HOUNSELL

Of No. 4 Company, 57th Regiment.

There is a possibility that the regiment may spend four days in camp at Quebec during the summer on the occasion of the tercentenary celebration, and the visit to Canada of His Highness the Prince of Wales. Nothing has been heard definitely regarding the matter, but the officers have been given to understand that if any men are required from district No. 3, the Peterborough regiment will be given the preference. This will be one of the matters discussed at the annual meeting on Monday night. The trip would be a splendid one for the regiment and every effort is being made to have it materialize.

CHILDHOOD INDIGESTION MEANS SICKLY BABIES

The baby who suffers from indigestion is simply starving to death. It loses all desire for food and the little it does take does it no good; the child is peevish, cross, and restless, and the mother feels worn out in caring for it. Baby's Own Tablets always cure indigestion and make the child sleep healthy and naturally. Mrs. Geo. Howell, Sandy Beach, Que., says: "My baby suffered from indigestion, colic and vomiting, and cried day and night, but after giving him Baby's Own Tablets the trouble disappeared and he is now a healthy child. The Tablets will cure all the minor ailments of babyhood and childhood. Sold by medicine dealers or by mail at 25 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

STOCK MARKET QUOTATIONS

New York, March 21—The market opened strong today with gains all through the list. The floor element was actively at work on bull side on the theory that the short interest had become too widely extended recently to permit of successful bearish operations.

The market until the middle of the session continued exceedingly strong and the setbacks were of small extent and duration.

There was an exciting marking-up of lead which rose four points above yesterday's close and this influenced the rest of the market and especially the industrials. The steel stocks were strong and bullish element used without effect the statements made by the officials in the annual report, showing that business had been increasing at a rate of 25 per cent. per month since December.

The market acts very well today and all indications point to a further rally, but we would take fair profits and for the time being buy only on the reactions.

The bank statement makes a very good showing and should help sentiment. There is good accumulation on the drives and eventually the market should work a good deal higher. London market was quiet today, although prices were steadier. Foreign houses had no orders of consequence here.

There was some profit-taking in the last few minutes and the closing, while firm, was generally under the high for the day.

ORANGE JUICE AND HEALTH

For Stomach and Skin.

Few of us realize what an important part the skin plays in keeping us well or making us ill.

The millions of tiny glands, or pores, are intended to rid the system of waste matter, which the blood brings to the skin. It is a well-known medical fact that the healthy skin carries off more Urea or waste matter than the kidneys. Just think how much poison remains in the system when there is any skin trouble.

The skin and stomach are intimately associated. Find a person with a dry, harsh skin and you will find one who suffers with indigestion or constipation, and both, usually.

Both may be relieved by a judicious use of orange juice. Both can be cured by taking the juice of an orange every morning before breakfast, and taking "Fruit-a-tives" at night. "Fruit-a-tives" are fruit juices in tablet form. The fresh juices of oranges, apples, figs and prunes are separated from the pulp, and then combined in such a way that the medicinal action is intensified.

Orange juice alone will not cure Skin, Stomach or Bowel troubles. But when taken in connection with "Fruit-a-tives," a positive cure results. "Fruit-a-tives" may be obtained at all dealers or will be sent on receipt of price—50c a box—6 for $2.50. "Fruit-a-tives" Limited, Ottawa.

PUBLIC OWNERSHIP

Would any sane man suggest that our canals be handed over to private purchasers! Why then should main thoroughfares of any description, not feeders but trunk lines, be handed over or left in the hands of private owners! We do not advocate for one moment state ownership of all industries and utilities. To stifle individual ambition and to override individual energies would be the ruin of all hope of a free and refined civilization. As much individual liberty as is consistent with individual liberty or in other words all the freedom than an individual can use without interfering with that of any other individual, is the ideal condition of human existence.

It is frequently curtailed through necessity but nothing less dire should be allowed to interfere. Unless free himself no man's conscience can be free. It seems a far cry from canals to consciences, but it is not. As a matter of fact they are intimately connected. We all agree then that both should be free—in fact that all main highways material or intellectual should be open to all who wish to use them and not at the mercy of private companies. Beyond this no man should wish to go, farther than to say that grants of public privileges or public monies to private companies may very well be made with corresponding favors in return. Otherwise they are inexcusable. To go to the opposite extreme and demand all franchises for private companies would be very like seeking to put the people entirely at the mercy of the individual. The few would rule the many. The tyranny of the remote past would be restored.

HOSPITALS

"I wish," said Mr. Hanna, "that more of my colleagues had been here, in order that you might have convinced them as completely as you have convinced me——" and thereupon the delegates applauded.

An immense deputation, consisting of one hundred representatives of the various hospitals of Ontario, waited upon the Ontario Government recently. Its object was increased subsidies. Strange to say, the deputation had delayed its visit until not only the Government's main estimates had been brought down, but the early supplementaries as well. However, it was not quite too late, Mr. Hanna said, to find a chance to help on a good work. The case of the hospitals was well and strongly put. The work being done by them is increasing out of all proportion to the subsidies granted year by year. In the old days many people thought it a disgrace to send sick relatives away from home. Others dreaded the mechanical appliances so glaringly displayed. But now the first idea one has when taken ill is to get to the hospital as soon as possible. Nursing has been brought to such a pitch of perfection that it is scarcely second to the medical profession itself. The accuracy and kindness to be experienced in a hospital are unsurpassed. These are the reasons then for increased subsidies. Increased work demands increased sums of money to do it with. Our local hospitals are centres of skill and care. Everything that can be done for the sick is done for them there. They are open to the public at large and the public should subsidize them accordingly. Subsidies are the people's pay for work well done and approved of by them. Since all general hospitals are open to inspection no inefficient hospital can impose on a generous government. It is much more desirable that the great public should be properly provided for with regard to its hospitals and schools than with regard to many of the costly works called public, but scarcely more so than being called so.

EDITORIAL NOTES

A Mr. Cummings from Boston, U. S., seems to have "cut loose" in his opinion of the British Empire in a recent speech at Massey Hall, Toronto. His audience, however, did not seem altogether to agree with him. He probably had an axe to grind.

The Bank of England's rate has gone down to 3 per cent. With this light embargo on the export of money, times in Canada would be good if it were not for governmental waste and extravagance which no rate could keep up.

Demonstrations of the unemployed will at least prevent the spreading of false impressions abroad regarding industrial conditions in Canada.—Toronto Globe, March 20, 1908.

Industrial conditions in Canada are bad then! Mr. Borden has been saying so in no uncertain terms but got nothing but abuse from the Laurier Government and its press for it. Why however, should the unemployed pay for Sir Wilfrid's mistakes!

"Our Lieutenant-Governor has sounded a warning against inconsiderate immigration. The evils are apparent and cannot be overlooked."—The Globe, March 20, 1908.

This quotation from yesterday's Globe would look like a joke if it were not positively identifiable. The Globe has steadily supported the Laurier administration in its outrageous immigration policy and North Atlantic Trading Co swindle and after a long and desperate struggle capitulates in an editorial note of three lines!

Although the Whitney Government is in no way responsible for the unhappy disillusionment of those who are brought here from abroad to swell the population, to reduce the debt 'per head' and to increase the ranks of the unemployed still in consideration of a condition of affairs for which these worthy people are not to blame and of the fact that work could be provided for them by the Whitney Government we feel like saying that public opinion would back up the government in any reasonable effort in that direction. The deserving unemployed should have work and any system of government that fails in this respect fails in a function of government. It looks like allowing red tape to interfere with a pressing need.

London, March 19—A man has been arrested at Moers, near Dusseldorf, on the Rhine, who was engaged in carrying on a propaganda among the ministers for emigration to Canada. Careful examination showed that quite an extensive propaganda was being carried on among the coal mining population with reference to emigration to Canada. The first transport had already sailed at the beginning of February and a second batch was to follow in March. Further investigations resulted in the confiscation of sixty steamship tickets for Halifax at the premises of the agent.—The Globe.

The reader will begin to ask what the Laurier Government is doing in the way of governing if this sort of immigration work goes on unchecked under the eyes of its agents in Europe.

"Kenilworth" Was Subject Of an Interesting Essay

At Meeting of Ladies Literary Society of St. Peter's T. A. S. Last Night—Miss Margaret Ward Was the Essayist.

An essay of a high degree of literary excellence and a musical programme of rare merit combined to make the regular meeting of the Ladies' Literary Society of St. Peter's T.A.S. last evening a most successful one. Miss Margaret Ward was the essayist of the evening and delighted the audience by the reading of "Kenilworth."

Miss Ward introduced her subject of an exceedingly interesting essay by referring to Scott's brilliant reputation as a gifted writer of narrative and descriptive poetry and of prose romance. It has been said that the literary world was delighted with his fascinating tales, particularly his Waverly novels. He was always fond of collecting old ballads and weaving them into novels. It was from one of these, a sort of elegy on the subject of "Cumnor Hall," that he formed the plot of "Kenilworth."

The plot of this interesting novel was then most minutely given. The Earl of Sussex and the Earl of Leicester stood rivals in the favor of Elizabeth. Leicester had advantages more than sufficient to counterbalance the military services, noble blood and frank bearing of Sussex. It is certain that in some way he was instrumental in causing his wife's death in order that he might become the husband of Elizabeth.

Sir Hugh Robsart and his beautiful daughter Amy lived at Lidcote Hall and with them resided Tressilian, a noble youth whose ancestors had become impoverished by espousing in many rash ways the cause of the House of York during the reign of Henry VII. Amy loved Tressilian as a brother, but he loved her with all the ardour of a noble nature and hoped to make her his wife. Sir Hugh sanctioned this desire, but in compliance with Amy's wish, the marriage ceremony was to be deferred for a year. In the meantime Richard Varney, a dependent of the Earl of Leicester, tried to win Amy's love, but she showed him only aversion. He then conceived the idea of arranging meetings between Amy and the Earl of Leicester. Leicester wins her love, marries her secretly, and takes her to Cumnor Hall. Fearing that Sussex may supersede him in the Queen's favor he does not acquaint her of his marriage. Varney encourages Leicester in this secrecy and so ingratiates himself in his favor that he allows him to dictate to him and share all his confidences. He had many reasons for thus entangling his master in this matter. He wished to bring misery to Amy and to get Leicester so entrapped that the master would become a slave to the servant.

Sir Hugh and Tressilian know nothing of Leicester's love for Amy, and thinks she has gone with Varney. The poor old man becomes ill through grief and for his sake the wronged lover determines to trace Amy and Varney, and bring the girl home to her father. By chance he meets Michael Lambourne who wagers that he can enter Cumnor Hall, despite the vigilance of Foster who was an inmate of the hall, and unravel the mystery concerning the fair girl. Subsequently they set out, enter the park through an old fashioned gateway, pass through avenues overshadowed by great oaks, through the wood which is as dark as a wolf's mouth, and walk slowly along the solitary and broken approach until they come in sight of the monastic front of the old mansion with its ivy mantled towers. Lambourne knocks loudly and boldly on the strong door. They both are admitted and escorted to a gloomy room, where they wait some time ere Foster appears.

The animated conversations carried on between Tressilian and Foster and Lambourne and Foster, were then very vividly given. Tressilian being then left alone, heard a noise in the apartment and turning around beheld Amy. She thinking him the Earl of Leicester, ran towards him, but on beholding Tressilian staggered back. He told her the effect her disappearance had on her father and begged her to return but she haughtily resented his interference in her affairs. Threatened with all manners of violence should he divulge and secret regarding the place, Tressilian was then roughly expelled from the hall. In his excitement he missed the way by which he entered. While trying to think of a plan to escape he heard some one insert a key, unlock the door and in a moment he was face to face with Varney. A desperate struggle ensued and Tressilian was about to plunge his sword into the heart of Varney when his arm was stayed by Lambourne. He left the place assuring Varney that he yet would have satisfaction. Lambourne remained with Varney and Tressilian went back to the inn.

In his agitation he forgot to follow the directions of the inn keeper. After encountering many difficulties and meeting with peculiar characters, among them being an alchemist named Wayland Smith and Dickie Dickie Sludge he finally arrived at Lidcote Hall, and related his experiences to Sir Hugh, who is overcome with grief when hearing of the imprisonment of his daughter Amy.

Tressilian was now summoned to Sayes Court owing to the sudden illness of Sussex. He was soon restored to health by the administration of a drug by Wayland Smith. Elizabeth visited him and informed him that she intended to settle the dispute between him and Leicester and ordered him to attend court. The court scene was then very ably described by the essayist, showing that the result of the trial was an enforced reconciliation between Sussex and Leicester. A charge against Varney, Leicester's servant, for the detaining at Cumnor Hall, of Sir Hugh Robsart's daughter was then made by Elizabeth, but he declared that he was her husband.

Continuing, the writer gave a vivid description of the deception and cowardice of Leicester in order to gain favor with the Queen, his cruel treatment of Amy, using Varney as an instrument to administer it, his confession of his secret marriage, to the Queen whose anger on hearing of it cannot be fully described and which caused her to exclaim, "My Lord of Leicester's stolen marriage has cost me a husband and England a king," the sad death of Amy, the fate of the villian Varney, who showed no sorrow but rather a fiendish pleasure in the success of his diabolical plot, the manoeuvres of Tressilian, the true character of the story, the sad death of Sir Hugh Robsart, the effect Amy's death had on the pleasures of Kenilworth and the retirement of Leicester from court.

This excellent essay was intensely interesting throughout, the treatment of the subject by the talented essayist being most praiseworthy.

Each number on the musical programme which preceded the reading of the essay was received with merited applause and deservedly so as the various renditions were most pleasing.

The following was the musical programme introduced by Miss Tangney, who occupied the chair for the evening.

Instrumental Duet—Misses Primeau.

Chorus—Misses L. White, C. Tangney, K. Gorman, J. Tangney.

Vocal Solo—Miss Verna Devlin.

Instrumental Solo—Master E. Condon.

Instrumental Duet—Misses B. Flynn and N. Sherlin.

The accompanists of the evening were Misses B. Flynn and B. Picard.

This interesting meeting was brought to a close by the singing of the National Anthem.

The next meeting of the society will be held on Friday evening, April 3rd, when an essay will be read by Miss Mahoney.

DANGEROUS PURGATIVES

Many People Ruin Their Health Using Purgatives in Spring

A spring medicine is an actual necessity. Nature demands it as an aid to carrying of the impurities that have accumulated in the blood during the winter months. Thousands of people recognizing the necessity of a spring medicine dose themselves with harsh griping purgatives. Ask any doctor and he will tell you that the use of purgatives medicine weakens the system, but does not cure disease. In the spring the system needs building up, —purgatives weaken. The blood should be made rich, red and pure— purgatives cannot do this. What is needed in the spring, is a tonic, and the best tonic medical science has yet devised is Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. Every dose of this medicine actually makes new rich red blood. This new blood strengthens every organ, every nerve every part of the body. That is why Dr. Williams' Pink Pills banish pimples and unsightly skin eruptions. That is why they cure headaches, backaches, rheumatism, neuralgia, general weakness and a host of other troubles that come from poor, watery blood. That is why men and women who use Dr. Williams' Pink Pills eat well, sleep well and feel bright, active and strong. Mrs. Joseph Lepage, St. Jerome, Que. says; "My daughter suffered from headaches and dizziness. Her appetite was poor. She had no strength, and could not study or do any work. She was thin and pale as a sheet. A neighbor advised the use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, and after taking a couple of boxes we could see an improvement in her condition. She used the pills for some weeks longer when they fully restored her health and she is now enjoying the best health she ever did." Try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills this spring if you want to be healthy and strong. Sold by all medicine dealers or by mail at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50 from the Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

The work going on at Little Bob seems to be arousing the curiosity of the natives. Last week a large wildcat took a quiet survey of the proceedings. He came along just as the men were going to dinner. Two of them took after him ,but the depth of the snow prevented any chase. He hustled to the strip of woods along the bottom of Oliver's hill. Tuesday a fine large mink came along to see what was doing and what all the noise was about. He paid very little attention to a hunk of wood that was thrown at him, and appeared to be fairly well satisfied with the work that was done.—Bobcaygeon Independent.

"THE MAYOR OF TOKIO" A JOLLY OLD FELLOW

With both scenes laid in the ancient city of Tokio, Japan, a Russian spy and the remnants of an American comic opera company, there is plenty of local color and many amusing situations in the new Richard Carle farcial opera, "The Mayor of Tokio," that will be the attraction at the Grand next Wednesday, March 25th. The music, which is by W. F. Peters is said to be unusually tuneful with more catchy numbers that often falls to the lot of present day comic opera Among the numbers that have achieved the most popularity are; "Pity My Pitiful Plight," "When the Ocean Breezes Blow," "The Silver Sea of Love," "Foolishness." "Tokio," and "I Like You."

This merry bit of tuneful nonsense will be presented here with practically the same company that made the long New York and Chicago runs last season, but a new and costly dress of scenery and costumes has been given the production for the current year. Mr. John L. Kearney is the funmaker, as Marcus Orlando Kidder, he is said to be exceedingly droll and most amusing in the most unique role, and his clever songs and dances are demanded again and again.

KATHRYN OSTERMAN'S GOWNS AN INTERESTING PARAGRAPH TO LADIES

The ladies of Peterborough will be particularly interested in the engagement of Kathryn Osterman at the GrandOpera House, as the frocks worn by the brilliant commedienne and her clever sister, Anna Belmont, in "The Girl Who Looks Like Me," are said to be dashing and glaringly adorable. Miss Osterman has a beautiful figure and her graceful curves are most fetchingly revealed in a frock of silk crepe of a delicious shade hovering between pink and lavender. The whole gown is wonderfully inserted with Valenciennes lace the upper part of the skirt being cut into panels which form a sort of tunic, below which are billowy miles of crepe finely plaited between lines of the insertion. The bodice is guiltless of fulness, the lines converging simply and exquisitely at the delicately rounded waist, while the decolletage reveals the beautiful neck and arms, which are crowning charms to this very lovely woman.

Most beautiful of all her frocks is the evening gown of shell pink crepe Miss Osterman wears in the last act. This has a long trailing skirt plaited and elaborately inlaid with heavy cream guipure as is also the very low bodice. The frock is of marvellous lines in a sort of tunic (overskirt we would have called it 25 years ago) which covers the upper part of the skirt, fits smoothly over the hips, falls to the knees in front and slopes upwards to half that length at the back. There is no lace on the tunic and it is simply bordered with a single row of rich crystal fringe. The effect is so original as to be startling, but when you get used to it, it charming, too. Jewels worth a king's ransom are worn with this costume, which is one of the smartest seen on the stage this season.

Little Miss Belmont, who is short and plump, where her sister is tall and of rounded slenderness, also wears several extremely chic and modish creations. A smart street frock of striped silk voile is worn with a wide brimmed hat from which droops a wonder willow plume as soft and light as if made of buttterflies' wings. Miss Belmont's pink satin gown is a Parisian princess model, opening in front over a wide vest and plastron and trimmed with heavy handmade lace in a deeper tone of rose. In the last act Miss Belmont wears a white princess, each seam covered with embroidery. From all of which it will be seen that these two gifted sisters, who are charming commediennes, are by no means without their feminine side and "know a pretty frock when they see one, as well as if they were mere butterflies of fashion.

The body of a new-born babe was found frozen in the ice on the bay at Hamilton.

Letters to The Editor

The Review Does Not Hold Itself Responsible for Opinions Expressed by Correspondents

AN IMMIGRANT PROTESTS

To the Editor of The Review;

I quite agree with what you say about the emigration question. Men better able than me to judge say that this will be a bad season for industrial workers if not for farmers. I am not a pessimist by any means, but things don't look too rosy. I know men right here in this city that have come out since Christmas, and have not started to work yet. The Salvation Army, I am informed, intend bringing out 50,000 emigrants this year, and they say they are all farm help. Are they? Where have they found 60,000 surplus farm helpers in England? What good will they be on a farm. About as much as I would be. Some of these, I expect, have never seen a farm, let alone work on it. Next winter you will see another subscription invited by the press and served out to the homeless by the clergy disguised as charity. Charity makes one sick to think of the word. Again, you will have another careful inquiry by the same agents—the Salvation Army —as to how many of their emigrants are out of work. I know some they have brought and they have never heard from Salvation Army and they were out of work. I read in the "News of the World that a man in New Brunswick had written a letter to Mr. Rose, a London Police Court Magistrate saying, "Why do men walk about in London starving when there is plenty of work in Canada?" Moreover, he said he wanted a wife, and could the Magistrate recommend him one. The Magistrate said he quite believed there was plenty of work in Canada. If men like Mr. Rose believe these statements, how are the working classes to disbelieve them? Such a man who wrote that letter did not want a wife, rather a nurse. But are the Salvation Army alone to blame? What about the other churches? Why do they sit still and look on? The churches with as great a power as the press remain idle. Shame on them! Are they afraid to cross the Salvation Army? Why do they not combine and send a resolution to the English press that would stop it quicker than anything else. I would have never broken up my home and spent all my savings if I had seen a resolution from the clergy to the effect that Canada's labor market was overcrowded. I am only one of hundreds. Thanking you for space, Mr. Editor, I close, wondering who is going to keep those 50,000 next winter when the cost of living is so high.

Yours, etc.

W. BRACKSTONE HOLMES

P.S.—What does it profit a man if he be starving in England, to bring him to Canada to starve also?

IMMIGRATION

To the Editor of the Review.

Dear Sir,—A few days ago I wrote you, giving you some facts re the influx of the undesirable element into Canada. I hope you will pardon me writing you again on the same subject. Our Government at Ottawa seems to be anxious to allow anything to come to Canada, and at Canada's expense. At our expense, for if we did not provide it one way we do another. Large tracts of land are being reserved in the Northwest for a certain class or race; no matter how much we have suffered on account of these class reservations, still what can we expect from a Government who is diving deeper every day into the money chest, to help, not only themselves, but their compatriots and friends So long as large tracts of land are reserved for the adherents of a church or for the people of a certain race, or those who wish to have a certain language and no other in certain districts, so long will the undesirable element congregate into communities, and instead of being a means of up-building this "greater empire than was ever seen," loyal to the mother land.

These communities will exist only to disintegrate the union of provinces on this continent Please excuse me if I quote from a paper which has only just come to hand "Fly the British flag from every school house and public building in the Dominion" This was called forth by the severe criticism of the Manitoba Government's action in making every teacher in that province hoist our flag over his or her school house. Teach the foreigner to respect the flag which is not only the symbol of our country's power, but is also the guarantee that so long as they conduct themselves properly and show our respect for law and order they will be accorded the fullest measure of civil or religious liberty. Teach them to love and honor the empire of which we form an integral part, and let us encourage noble sentiments, such as Lord Dufferin uttered in his farewell to Canada in 1878; "Love your country, believe in her, honor her, work for her, die for her. Cherish as one of the noblest traditions transmitted by your forefathers, that feeling towards Great Britain, the empire and the sovereign, by which you are animated, for it is in that direction, and not in any other, that your true course lies." Do these sentiments dwell in the hearts of even one quarter of the undesirable communities which is gathered in certain sections in this fair Canada. Let them be English, Doukhobors, French, Salvationists or Mennonites, they are not united in that one bond of fellowship which makes nations truly great, and which would make of this Dominion a "greater Britain beyond the seas." Sir Mortimer Clark only a few days ago said, and a timely warning it is too:

"The influx of new population of people who have had strange ideas about liberty and religion, is endangering our state These people come here believing that liberty means license, and as such are a menace to our institutions A class of people come here who call themselves English or Irish or Scotch True, they are British-born, but they are not British at heart. They are the children of foreign parents who came to the British Islands years before. The babies were born in the islands, but they were partakers of foreign dispositions They are not bred to principles we know of, and might at the ballot-box seriously injure us"

Excuse me if I quote from the Government organ. the Toronto Globe, to show that the country is being imposed upon. H. B. Dickson in presenting a deputation to the Hon J. P. Whitney, after complaining about the class of immigrants the Army was bringing out to Canada, said:

"All the Salvation Army want to know," he said, "is if a man has £5 10s If he has it doesn't matter whether he is a laborer or not, they will send him out to Canada"

In replying to Mr. Dickson and the other speakers the Hon J. P. Whitney is reported by the News as follows:—

"In most respects I think that the Salvation Army has done better than any other organization I'm afraid it is the only one that has made an effort to do its whole duty In the future, however, neither the Salvation Army or any other institution will be allowed to bring men here who are not needed and not wanted We shall require the immigrant to have some means or to be qualified to engage in farm work"

I would suggest that the "Silver tongued orator" of Ottawa take a few leaves out of the policy of the men in Toronto, who a few years ago were not "possessed of common sense enough to form a Government," but time has shown us that this is revised and it is Ottawa that at the present time possess a Government that this should be applied to

Thanking you, Mr Editor,

I am,

To-morrow at St. John's Church

The services at St. John's tomorrow will have special reference to the mission just concluded, and indeed form a fitting climax to them. At 8.30 and 11 a.m. there will be celebrations of the Holy Communion, with thanksgiving for abundant blessings received.

In the evening at 7 p.m. there will be a special festival service, when the choir will be supported by the full orchestra, under Mr. Gliddon. and the mission hymns will be sung. An address appropriate to the occasion will be delivered by the rector, and the whole service is expected to be one of great interest. All are invited and a particular invitation is extended to all who attended the mission services.

Local Agent Takes High Place on Roll

Mr. D. H. Moore a Successful Representative of the Sun Life

Mr. D. H. Moore, of this city holds a very high position among the agents of the Sun Life Assurance Co., not only personally but in a business way. Every month the company issues from its head office an honor roll based on the business secured by its agents throughout the world. For the month of February, Mr. Moore stood ninth in the list which is a highly creditable showing, when it is considered that the company has several hundred agents. Outside of the agents in Montreal and Toronto, Mr. Moore led the list in Canada for the month mentioned.

Mr Moore has a high place in the honor roll practically every month.

Assessors Will Soon Start on Their Rounds

Messrs. McGrath and McGregor, the city assessors, will probably start assessing the city for 1908 next week. They have been working on their books for some time and now have everything in shape for commencing their work. They will work together and hope as a result to have an equal assessment of the whole city and thus prevent the trouble that arose last year when the assessors worked independently of each other.

The assessors usually do not return their books until October but there is a probability that they may begin earlier this year. Messrs. McGrath and McGregor are both considered good men and the assessment this year should be a very satisfactory one.

Writer Says Stage "Cuss Words" Are Much Overdone

Believes That They Must go, at Least as a Theatrical Attraction—Should be Replaced With Something Better.

Alan Dale in New York American:

There is scarcely a musical show, a vaudeville entertainment or a legitimate comedy that does not give up, at one moment or another to those who have set the goal of approval upon 'cuss words.'

No matter how refined the subject or how polite the topic, it is safe to say that the introduction of such polluted colloquialisms as 'damn' and 'hell' will get a laugh. Anybody who is attached to the English language and who realizes its splendid possibilities, and its unexcelled vocabulary must feel a sense of disgust at this constant harping upon gutter words that were once considered too despicably low to find a place anywhere outside of a smoking room.

Nobody will deny that on the New York stage today audiences are expected to laugh and do laugh at utterances that were once considered as the [illegible] blasphemy of the slums. In fact, this is so general today that it is unnoticed except by the careful observer. The man or woman who today admitted offense at the 'innocuous' cuss word would be looked upon either as a fanatic or an escaped lunatic.

Profanity has come to be part and parcel of New York's daily vocabulary. Wherever men or women congregate it is inevitably heard. The little street lad seldom opens his mouth unless the name of the Nazarene emerges. You cannot walk two blocks in any crowded thoroughfare without hearing this nauseating form of profanity—often from the lips of babes and sucklings.

One is led to the conclusion that some plays and sketches are written around profanity. For instance, I saw a vaudeville sketch quite recently in which an actress—a recruit from the legitimate—was attempting to save her poor father from the arresting clutches of her lover. The piece [illegible] in her success. Poor father was freed, and as the curtain fell she cried dramatically to the escaping man: "Now run. Run like hell.' Quick curtain and tremendous applause. The profanity from the lips of a woman "went terrific.'

The lips of a woman that artists never draw as though wrenched into the contortions of some profane slang, are frequently plied with these perversions of humor. At first the shock of this innovation gave us a sort of sensational fillip. We no longer feel even that. We just accept it as natural and if the judicious deplore it and feel a certain sense of indignation—as the judicious do—we never hear anything of it. The voice of the judicious is stilled. It is the voice of the minority which is rarely in evidence.

What incentive has the playwright to evolve wit or humor when he finds that the mere utterance of a cuss word puts the audience at pleasurable ease. The fresh comedian and the equally 'fresh' librettist no longer hesitate. The once reluctant words are uttered with a gusto that is unmistakable. Phrases that years ago would have been received in silent wonder are now habitual. They are never lacking.

It is extraordinary when you come to think of it. The vocabulary of vulgar profanity and gutter phrases is, after all, limited. The vocabulary of pure English is practically illimitable. The English language is one in which every shade of thought can be beautifully expressed. So splendidly prolific is this vocabularly in every word tint and phrase hue, that French is called the language of diplomacy because its vocabulary is more limited and you cannot split straws in French as you can in English.

Yet the stage with this magnificent heritage for its own, can find nothing better to be frivolous with than the blasphemy and profanity of the gutters. The small boys who have been swearing all day go to the vaudeville houses to hear the funny man swear at night, or to the musical shows, that are much more profane than the vaudeville houses. It is the 'fresh' writers, the 'Lobster square' caterers, who are fondest of this sort of thing. They are anxious to get a laugh in any old way—the quicker the better—and this way is invariably the easiest.

To say that this offends the women would be absurd and untrue, because usually it doesn't. They laugh heartily—because very frequently they hear their own sex on the stage emitting these expressions. Possibly they were hurt at first, but they have grown used to it, as eels are said to grow used to being skinned. It is time to wake up and realize the infection of the language. It is time that a concerted effort be made to save it while there is still time. As a matter of fact, this constant use of decayed English is repulsive to anybody who cares to think what it means.

Profanity is a sort of eczema that spreads. Logically it is ever funny. There is not a scintilla of humor in the rankest street phrase, however loudly it may be uttered. The comedian who gets laughs for cuss words may delude himself with the belief that he is amusing. He is catering to the very feeblest intellects—those who mistake mere sound for humor. There is no completer delusion.

Let us have undefiled English on the stage if it is possible; and it is possible. If a few hisses were heard every time an oath crossed the footlights there would be a swift change. But we do not hiss. Sometimes I think it is a pity. We mentally disapprove and mental disapprobation cannot cope with a scourge like this. If you are hit with a club you want to hit back with a club. A mental club may be very polite but it is singularly ineffective.

The 'cuss word' must go at least as a theatrical attraction. The theatre can find something more innocuous among the garbage of the gutters.

Some of the Trials of The Editor of an Ocean Paper

The duties of Herr Rabien, chief steward of the Kronprinzessin Cecilie, involve among many other things the editing of the Ocean Gazette. This publication is issued every day of the passage for the purpose of setting forth the news of the world as it comes to the ship from the various wireless telegraph stations on the coast, or islands, or lightships of this country and England.

In addition to the printing of news the Gazette and other papers of the kind are devoted to advertisements, "thumbnail" short stories and humorous skits. As these fill the editorial sanctum knee deep Herr Rabien has a little time in supplying the pages devoted to matter of the sort.

When it comes to news—well, then it all depends upon the kind of reporter at the other end of the ether, so to speak. There are good wireless reporters and bad reporters. There are some, according to Herr Rabien, whose color sense or whose flow of words is of just the proper sort. There are others whose ideas, or facts, rather, flow turgidly.

"Now, that Cape Cod man," he will say, "ah, he is bad—very bad. When he sends news I must write more to it myself. But Poldu is good, excellent, and Cape Race; but at Nantucket, I should like to hang that man. He adds to my trebules.

Here is an item of news sent out by an American wireless man.

"Bryan made a fighting speech in Carnegie Hall. The text of his speech was 'Thou Shalt Not Steal.'" The editor swore over this because other news had been scarce. He wrestled with the question an hour, while the paper waited. More matter—copy—was needed. Then—Eureka! He added from the storehouse of his fund of common sense; "Bryan was indorsing all the policies of Roosevelt, and bitterly attacking the Trusts."

That would have been all very well had not Poldhu fallen down in the interim. It did. Here was the despatch;

"London people are suffering from a mild type of epidemic influenza."

Herr Rabien swore again. With space to fill, here was a pitiful contretemps. No death list; no peculiar feature—no details at all. Bah! He thought of treating it humorously; a bit of verse, perhaps; but he could find nothing to rhyme with London, and nothing with influenza, except possibly Venezuela, and even that rhyme had its limitations.

He had to let it go. Space still yawned. At the height of despair came the following:

"At least twenty-four soldiers of the foreign legation perished in the heavy snowstorm of February 2."

An inspiration here. A French paper of a date a week back lay on his desk. Here was a brief report of an engagement between French and Arabs, in which 500 men of the desert were killed. Herr Rabien merrily dragged that in, neck and [illegible].

This was so good that the editor took an hour off for rest and recreation. When he returned he faced a fresh crisis. No news had come in and the hour of going to press was at hand. There were still several inches to fill. He went over all the dispatches and stuffed them full of words, as his chefs at the moment were stuffing their capons. Still space remained.

Action was necessary. He went out on deck and interviewed an officer. When he returned he sat at his desk with a pleased smile and turned out a page of copy as follows;

"Moonset tonight at 11h. 35m.

"Sunset today at 4.56 p.m.

"Sunrise tomorrow morning at 6.55 a.m.

The followed figures telling the passengers how many times they would have to walk about the deck to cover a mile. There was still a hole left. Even the paragraph showing how many feet there were in a land mile and sea mile failed. The consideration of showing how many feet there were in several thousand sea miles as a means of covering paper with printed figures suggested itself, but there was not time to compute that. Despair! Then just as the paper was going to press with a gaping blotch of white in the starboard column the following came in;

"Lost! A gold veil pin with pearls. If found please return to the steward or to room No. 438."

Herr Rabien seized it gratefully. He could have shaken the hand of the loser of the pin. He inserted it, and then placed a cut of an eagle below it. The hole was filled.

About the Schoolmaster

A St. Catharines despatch says;

A large crowd embraced the opportunity afforded them by the Art Club to hear again Principal Hutton of University College, Toronto. It was the fifth of the series of lectures arranged this year, and one of the most instructive of them as well as one of the most enjoyable up to the present. Principal Hutton's subject was 'The Schoolmaster from Within and Without' and it proved a unique one in many ways. It abounded in humorous sarcasm, and, withal, was a masterly delineation of the character of the ideal schoolmaster, the scope of his work and influence. The learned lecturer is always heard with delight by St. Catharines audiences and it is safe to say that the mere announcement that he will lecture in this city at any future date will be sufficient to attract even a larger and more cultured audience than that which he addressed in the Collegiate Institute Hall on Saturday evening.

Principal Hutton in beginning his exceedingly interesting lecture said;

"I was asked some years ago to make an after-dinner speech in Toronto on 'The Schoolmaster,' and what I am going to say tonight is but an expansion of that speech, drawing from my experience. Our profession does not appear to advantage to outsiders. We are ever ill-used. We are a perpetual target, yet sufferance is the badge of all our tribe.' This has been true from time immemorial.'

He then, in a humorous strain, referred to the Greek and Roman legends regarding the schoolmaster and said that in America the old Greek verb 'I cane,' has been changed to 'I let loose.' Shakespeare makes his schoolmaster a tyrant and only Watson in 'The Bonnie Brier Bush,' and one other writer speak truly regarding the status and influence of the schoolmaster.

If the schoolmaster is open to criticism, he is forced to be what he is. He is charged with feeding milk to babes and then he is criticized because of his work. He is obliged to be a conventionalist, a formalist.

The schoolmaster must be an actor as well as a formalist, making little silly rules which the little boys may violate without being punished for it. He must keep up wholesome fear and discipline, and the schoolmaster, may, therefore, be excused for being a humbug. All government is, in a manner, a deception. Quackery seems to associate itself with the master. He has also the right to be a drill sergeant, a slave driver, a Pharisee, the man with the "big stick," for he must make men out of wood sometimes. Therefore, in the desert of Latin grammar, if the boy does not learn his Latin he will at least develop manhood through discipline. In these days men are shunted aside for women, for women have charge of religion, laundry work, cooking and all other things. They are supposed to do up the children's minds as they do up linen and perhaps they do.

The schoolmaster has also the right to be a Philistine, a man who carries a stick. He has a right to be narrow and commonplace.

He has the right also to be a big schoolboy himself, overbearing, high-spirited, of superabundant energy, having a contempt for precocious genius, like his boys. His work is to drive the unusual, dull, slow school-boy into a man of the right kind. He must be a big, masterful, domineering man, for if he is not he cannot have the influence over the child that the schoolmaster should have.

The schoolmaster is under a great strain constantly, and rarely has the admirable combined qualities of sound and fury.

He has no right, however, to be a poet, an artist, a Bohemian, a journalist or a philosopher. To live and deal with a child is to live upon a diet of milk and farinaceous puddings. It is a consolation of schoolmasters to live in the presence of immortal youth, of prolonged innocence.

The good schoolmaster is ever too strict a moralist to be a very successful statesman. He makes an admirable Bishop, when he is himself translated and a fair statesman. They have in the United States a President who wields a big stick. He would make an admirable schoolmaster.

A good schoolmaster should not strive to be a diplomat, for there he has to be all things to all men, and it is very difficult for him to play any instrument, but the fiddle. The The schoolmaster is, in other words, a Roman and not a Greek.

It is also a question whether the schoolmaster should be an orator, a humorist or a gentleman. He is a leader of boys, who are like men, who will not tolerate too much humor in a man whose business is a very serious occupation. The humorist will not play the game, will not continue the make-believe and laughs at serious things, and, therefore, it would be a sore trial for a humorist to be a schoolmaster or for a schoolmaster to be a humorist. However, if the schoolmaster can infuse humor into mathematics or other branches, he can have a great influence over his pupils. He can be a splendid orator, but he must be the prosecutor, the crown attorney, and must never be on the defence. He must, however, be a defender of law and order. He has been found by the London law courts not to be a gentleman, although a coal merchant, if he be out of business, is a gentleman. A gentleman must be a man of good manners. A perfect gentleman must submerge himself and forego his own opinions and personalities, and this a schoolmaster cannot afford to do. Aristotle called education the rattle of youth, the schoolmaster occupying the position of nurse to those being educated. "To teach school," said another classical writer, "is next to being dead." Bernard Shaw says, "Those who can, do; those who can't, teach."

The school-master is a strong-minded, self-willed, well-educated, average man or woman. He has all the virtues of a good man or woman, and also of a good celibate priest, a "parson with his coat off," and all the virtues of a parent. To him or her, many children will trace their spiritual or new birth, more sometimes than to their parents after the flesh.

Principal Hutton, in conclusion, read selections from Anster's "Vice Versa," to illustrate his remarks regarding the schoolmaster as a Pharisee, an actor, a drill sergeant, as schoolboy and a crown prosecutor.

Jealous Cousin Tried to Kill

Young Girl Who Objected to His Attentions Critically Wounded

Olean, March 19.—Chloe Hancock, the 18-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Hancock of No. 1213 Washington street, was shot twice by her cousin, Pacy Hill, of Galeton, Pa., this afternoon. Jealousy is ascribed as the cause of the deed. Hill has made his home for the past six years with the family which recently came here from Salamanca. His attentions to the young lady are said to have been objectionable to her.

Upon entering her home about 5 o'clock this afternoon, she noticed the absence of a valentine recently given her by another young man, and asked her brother, who sat in an adjoining room, where it was. He told her to ask Hill, who made a reply which she did not understand. When accused by the girl of throwing away the missive, he arose and advancing toward her, fired two shots from a small revolver. The first shot inflicted a flesh wound in the left hand, and the second penetrated her chest. Her brother Bert grappled with Hill as the second shot was fired and was burned by the discharge of the weapon.

Patrolman French, who was passing by, was attracted by the girl's cries and entered the house. He seized Hill and handcuffed him, and then found that Bert had disarmed the would-be assassin. Hill is being detained at police headquarters, awaiting the result of his cousin's injuries.

Miss Hancock ran from the house to the home of a neighbor, Mrs. William Kent, where she fell unconscious. Dr. Smith was called and restored the girl to consciousness, but failed to locate the bullet imbedded in her chest. She was unable to be removed from the home of Mrs. Kent, where she lies in a critical condition. Her recovery cannot be assured by Dr. Smith this evening.

Police Justice Cobb and Chief of Police Chapman took the young woman's deposition at her bedside tonight. The facts of the assault are given as related by Miss Hancock in her statement to the officers.

Opposed to Immigration As it is at Present Carried on

Lt. Governor Sir Mortimer Clarke Speaks—Reprimands His Own Party Chiefs—"No More Britons in Feeling Than the Hottentots."

Calling upon his Honor the Lieutenant-Governor Sir Mortimer Clark, the president said; "He's a man we all love so well, we can hardly believe he isn't an Irishman."

"I sympathize with you in your regret that I'm not an Irishman, especially on an occasion like this," said his Honor.

"The Irish are noted for their patriotic feeling, and on that account they are the best settlers we have in the range of the Empire.

"In this Province at present," he added, "we have arrived at a crucial time. There are many people arriving, and a lot of them come from lands that do not enjoy the liberty that we enjoy. When they come here they mistake liberty for license, and there is a danger to the institutions we have established.

"We must all stand together to maintain the integrity of our institutions.

PROBLEM OF FOREIGN SETTLERS

"A class of people have come here, too, who call themselves Englishmen and Scotchmen and Irishmen, but many of them are of a foreign parentage, and they are no more Britons in feeling than the Hottentots. They are not endowed with the principles we hold dear, and it is a most serious thing for us to grapple waith the problem raised by those people coming to us.

"Crime is increasing here, and crimes of violence and of an abominable character are rife where formerly they were unknown.

MR. TAFT ON THE NEGRO

Speaking before a representative Brooklyn audience at Plymouth Church New York, Secretary Taft expressed an optimistic opinion concerning the colored race in the United States. The occasion of the Secretary's speech was a meeting under the auspices of the Armstrong Association, and in the interest of Hampton Institute of Virginia. The historic edifice was crowded to the doors, and many who sought entrance were disappointed. Only a handful of colored persons were present.

Preceding the address of Secretary Taft, Dr. Booker T. Washington, head of Tuskegee Institute, spoke as did also Dr. H. B. Frissel, principal of the Hampton Institute.

Dr. Washington said in part: "On the platform here this evening we have two fine types of Americans, both of whom come from New England stock, both of whom are graduates of Yale University and both of whom are setting the American people a high example of unselfish living in refusing to seek luxurious ease and comfort for themselves, but are devoting themselves to the highest welfare of the nation—I refer to Dr. H. B. Frissel, principal of the Hampton Institute, and Secretary Wm. H. Taft.

"Something of the same character of unselfish public service is being rendered by educated black men and women throughout the country, and especially in our Southern States. The devotion of the educated negro to the uplifting of his fellows in the South in my opinion, has few parallels in this or any other country."

Dr. Washington told of the progress made by the negro race since the abolition of slavery and of the great necessity which existed of educating the negro children of the present day. He predicted that within a few years, perhaps in this generation, the negro race in America will have increased to 15,000,000.

"These millions can be made successful or useless," he said.

"They can be made to help or to hinder. They can be made to become criminals or law-abiding citizens. They can be potent factors in the intelligence of our country, or can they become a load of ignorance dragging down our civilization. Which shall it be?"

Secretary Taft strongly commended the work done by the Hampton and Tuskegee and advocated further assistance in the way of education and opportunity for the negro.

The Lackawana Railroad Company has issued an order to the clerks at Scranton, Pa., that they must not sneeze on their books, as tuberculosis may be transmitted.

She Stays With Chinese Husband

Sister of Mrs. Gould Will Not Leave Mr. Wong Sun Yue

San Francisco, Cal., March 20—Mrs. Howard Gould of New York, has offered to share her portion of her husband's wealth with her sister, Mrs. Wong Sun Yue Clemens, of San Francisco, to give her protection and a home. From the bedside of her ill and penniless husband, Wong Sun Yue, she has sent an answering message;

'No.'

These two women have held no communication for eight years. The silence has been broken by an acquaintance of Mrs. Wong Sun Yue, who wrote recently to Mrs. Howard Gould urging her to save her sister from want.

Mrs. Gould replied that she would gladly extend aid to her sister, that upon condition she came alone she would send a check for her immediate use for clothing and other personal necessities, also tickets for transportation to New York, that upon arrival she could go to her mother, Mrs. John Dayan, now in the East, and with her take passage for Europe, to spend the remainder of their lives in travel abroad under assumed names that should shield them from unpleasant comment.

Mrs. Yue said she was grateful for her sister's generous offer but she loved her husband and would rather starve with him than desert him.

GOT IT?

Don't want to work,
Don't want to play,
Just want to loaf
'Most all the day;
Don't want to think,
Don't want to scheme,
Don't want to read—
Just want to dream

Don't want to rise,
When you awake,
Wouldn't play hard
For any stake;
Don't earn a lot,
You must confess,
Whether you fail
Or meet success.

Don't want to strive,
Don't want to plan,
Don't want to be
The limelight man,
Don't want to earn,
Don't want to spend—
What's wrong? you ask—

BEVERLY OF GRAUSTARK

By GEORGE BARR M'CUTCHEON, Author of "Graustark." Copyright 1904, by Dodd, Mead and Company.

When she went to sleep she never knew. She was certain that her eyes were rebellious for a long time and that she wondered how her gray dress would look after she had slept in it all night. She heard low singing as if in the distance, but after awhile the stillness became so intense that its pressure almost suffocated her. The rush of the river grew louder and louder, and there was a swishing sound that died in her ears almost as she wondered what it meant. Her last waking thoughts were of the "black patch" poet. Was he lying near the door?

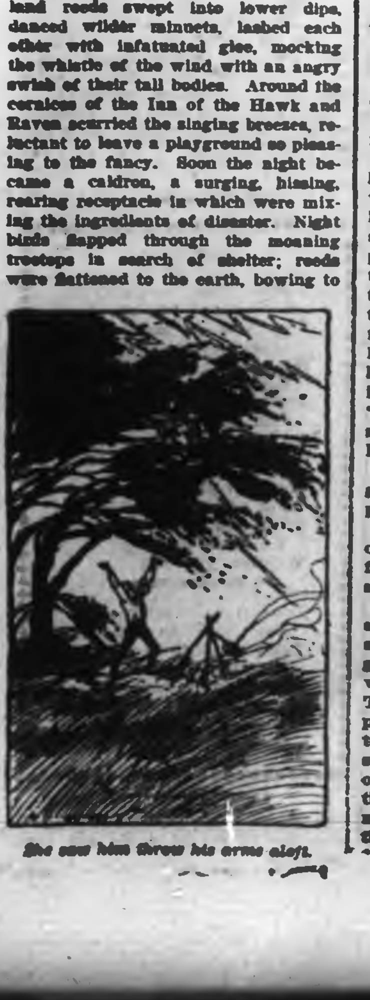
She was awakened in the middle of the night by the violent flapping of her chamber window. Startled, she sat bolt upright and strained her eyes to pierce the mysterious darkness. Aunt Fanny, on her bed of grass, stirred convulsively, but did not awake. The blackness of the strange chamber was broken ever and anon by faint flashes of light from without, and she lived through long minutes of terror before it dawned upon her that a thunderstorm was brewing. The wind was rising, and the night seemed agog with excitement. Beverly crept from her couch and felt her way to the fluttering doorway. Drawing aside the blanket, she peered forth into the night, her heart jumping with terror. Her highness was very much afraid of thunder and lightning.

The fire in the open had died down until naught remained but a few glowing embers. These were blown into brilliancy by the wind, casting a steady red light over the scene. There was but one human figure in sight. Beside the fire stood the tall wanderer. He was hatless and coatless, and his arms were folded across his chest. Seemingly oblivious to the approach of the storm he stood staring into the heap of ashes at his feet. His face was toward her, every feature plainly distinguishable in the faint glow from the fire. To her amazement the black patch was missing from his eye, and, what surprised her almost to the point of exclaiming aloud, there appeared to be absolutely no reason for its presence there at any time. There was no mark or blemish upon or about the eye. It was as clear and penetrating as its fellow, darkly gleaming in the red glow from below. Moreover, Beverly saw that he was strikingly handsome—a strong, manly face. The highly imaginative southern girl's mind reverted to the first portraits of Napoleon she had seen.

Suddenly he started, threw up his head and, looking up to the sky, uttered some strange words. Then he strode abruptly toward her doorway. She fell back breathless. He stopped just outside, and she knew that he was listening for sounds from within. After many minutes she stealthily looked forth again. He was standing near the fire, his back toward her, looking off into the night.

The wind was growing stronger. The breezes fanned the night into a rush of shivery coolness. Constant flickerings of lightning illuminated the forest, transforming the treetops into great black waves. Tall reeds along the river bank began to bend their tops, to swing themselves gently to and from the wind. In the lowlands down from the cave will-o'-the-wisps played tag with jack-o'-lanterns, merrily scampering about in the blackness, reminding her of the revelers in a famous Brocken scene. Low moans grew out of the havoc, and voices seemed to speak in unintelligible whispers to the agitated twigs and leaves. The secrets of the wind were being spread upon the records of the night. Tales of many climes passed through the ears of Nature.

From gentle undulations the marshland reeds swept into lower dips, danced wilder minuets, lashed each other with infatuated glee, mocking the whistle of the wind with an angry swish of their tall bodies. Around the cornices of the Inn of the Hawk and Raven scurried the singing breezes, reluctant to leave a playground so pleasing to the fancy. Soon the night became a caldron, a surging, hissing, roaring receptacle in which were mixing the ingredients of disaster. Night birds flapped through the moaning treetops in search of shelter; reeds were flattened to the earth, bowing to the sovereignty of the wind; clouds roared with the rumble of a million chariots, and then the sky and the earth met in one of those savage conflicts that make all other warfare seem as play.



She saw him throw his arms aloft.

As Beverly sank back from the crash she saw him throw his arms aloft as though inviting the elements to mass themselves and their energy upon his head. She shrieked involuntarily, and he heard the cry above the carnage. Instantly his face was turned in her direction.

"Help! Help!" she cried. He bounded toward the swishing robes and blankets, but his impulse had found a rival in the blast. Like a flash the walls of the guest chamber were whisked away, scuttling off into the night or back into the depths of the cavern. With the deluge came the man. From among the stifling robes he snatched her up and bore her away, she knew not whither.

CHAPTER VI.

"MAY all storms be as pleasant as this one!" Beverly heard some one say with a merry laugh. The next instant she was placed soundly upon her feet. A blinding flash of lightning revealed Baldos, the goat hunter, at her side, while a dozen shadowy figures were scrambling to their feet in all corners of the Hawk and Raven. Some one was clutching her by the dress at the knees. She did not have to look down to know that it was Aunt Fanny.

"Goodness!" gasped Beverly, and then it was pitch dark again. The man at her side called out a command in his own language and then turned his face close to hers.

"Do not be alarmed. We are quite safe now. The royal bedchamber has come to grief, however, I am sorry to say. What a fool I was not to have foreseen all this! The storm has been brewing since midnight," he was saying to her.

"Isn't it awful?" cried Beverly between a moan and a shriek.

"They are trifles after one gets used to them," he said. "I have come to be quite at home in the tempest. There are other things much more annoying, I assure your highness. We shall have lights in a moment." Even as he spoke two or three lanterns began to flicker feebly.

"Be quiet, Aunt Fanny, you are not killed at all," commanded Beverly quite firmly.

"De house is suah to blow down, Miss—yo' highness," groaned the trusty maidservant. Beverly laughed bravely but nervously with the tall goat hunter. He at once set about making his guest comfortable and secure from the effects of the tempest, which was now at its height. Her couch of cushions was dragged far back into the cavern and the rescued blankets, though drenched, again became a screen.

"Do you imagine that I'm going in there while this storm rages?" Beverly demanded as the work progressed.

"Are you not afraid of lightning? Most young women are."

"That's the trouble. I am afraid of it. I'd much rather stay out here where there is company. You don't mind, do you?"

"Paradise cannot be spurned by one who now feels its warmth for the first time," he said gallantly. "Your fear is my delight. Pray sit upon our throne. It was once a humble carriage pail of leather, but now it is exalted. Besides, it is much more comfortable than some of the gilded chairs we hear about."

"You are given to irony, I fear," she said, observing a peculiar smile on his lips.

"I crave pardon, your highness," he said humbly. "The heart of the goat hunter is more gentle than his wit. I shall not again forget that you are a princess and I the veriest beggar."

"I didn't mean to hurt you!" she cried in consternation, for she was a very poor example of what a princess is supposed to be.

"There is no wound, your highness," he quickly said. With a mocking grace that almost angered her he dropped to his knee and motioned for her to be seated. She sat down suddenly, clapping her hands to her ears and shutting her eyes tightly. The crash of thunder that came at that instant was the most fearful of all, and it was a full minute before she dared to lift her lids again. He was standing before her, and there was genuine compassion in his face. "It's terrible," he said. "Never before have I seen such a storm. Have courage, your highness. It can last but little longer."

"Goodness!" said the real American girl, for want of something more expressive.

"Your servant has crept into your couch, I fear. Shall I sit here at your feet? Perhaps you may feel a small sense of security if I"—

"Indeed, I want you to sit there," she cried. He forthwith threw himself upon the floor of the cave, a graceful, respectful guardian. Minutes went by without a word from either. The noise of the storm made it impossible to speak and be heard. Scattered about the cavern were his outstretched followers, doubtless asleep once more in all this turmoil. With the first lull in the war of the elements Beverly gave utterance to the thought that long had been struggling for release.

"Why do you wear that horrid black patch over your eye?" she asked, a trifle timidly. He muttered a sharp exclamation and clapped his hand to his eye. For the first time since the beginning of their strange acquaintanceship Beverly observed downright confusion in this debonair knight of the wilds.

"It has—has slipped off," he stammered, with a guilty grin. His merry insolence was gone, his composure with it. Beverly laughed with keen enjoyment over the discomfiture of the shame faced vagabond.

"You can't fool me!" she exclaimed, shaking her finger at him in the most unconventional way. "It was intended to be a disguise. There is absolutely nothing the matter with your eye."

He was speechless for a moment, recovering himself. Wisdom is conceived in silence, and he knew this. Vagabond or gentleman, he was a clever actor.

"The eye is weak, your highness, and I cover it in the daytime to protect it from the sunlight," he said coolly.

"That's all very nice, but it looks to be quite as good as the other. And what is more, sir, you are not putting the patch over the same eye that wore it when I first saw you. It was the left eye at sunset. Does the trouble transfer after dark?"

He broke into an honest laugh and hastily moved the black patch across his nose to the left eye.

"I was turned around in the darkness, that's all," he said serenely. "It belongs over the left eye, and I am deeply grateful to you for discovering the error."

"I don't see any especial reason why you should wear it after dark, do you? There is no sunlight, I'm sure."

"I am dazzled, nevertheless," he retorted.

"Fiddlesticks!" she said. "This is a cave, not a drawing room."

"In other words, I am a lout and not a courtier," he smiled. "Well, a lout may look at a princess. We have no court etiquette in the hills, I am sorry to say."

"That was very unkind, even though you said it most becomingly," she protested. "You have called this pail a throne. Let us also imagine that you are a courtier."

"You punish me most gently, your highness. I shall not forget my manners again, believe me." He seemed thoroughly subdued.

"Then I shall expect you to remove that horrid black thing. It is positively villainous. You look much better without it."

"Is it an edict or a compliment?" he asked, with such deep gravity that she flushed.

"It is neither," she answered. "You don't have to take it off unless you want to"—

"In either event it is off. You were right. It serves as a partial disguise. I have many enemies and the black patch is a very good friend."

"How perfectly lovely," cried Beverly. "Tell me all about it. I adore stories about feuds and all that."

"Your husband is an American. He should be able to keep you well entertained with blood-and-thunder stories," said he.

"My hus— What do you— Oh, yes!" gasped Beverly. "To be sure. I didn't hear you, I guess. That was rather a severe clap of thunder, wasn't it?"

"Is that also a command?"

"What do you mean?"

"There was no thunderclap, you know."

"Oh, wasn't there?" helplessly.

"The storm is quite past. There is still a dash of rain in the air, and the wind may be dying hard, but aside from that I think the noise is quite subdued."

"I believe you are right. How sudden it all was."

"There are several hours between this and dawn, your highness, and you should try to get a little more sleep. Your cushions are dry and"—

"Very well, since you are so eager to get rid of"— began Beverly, and then stopped, for it did not sound particularly regal. "I should have said, you are very thoughtful. You will call me if I sleep late?"

"We shall start early, with your permission. It is forty miles to Ganlook, and we must be half way there by nightfall."

"Must we spend another night like this?" cried Beverly dolefully.

"Alas, I fear you must endure us another night. I am afraid, however, we shall not find quarters as comfortable as those of the Hawk and Raven."

"I didn't mean to be ungrateful and —er—snippish," she said, wondering if he knew the meaning of the word.

"No?" he said politely, and she knew he did not, whereupon she felt distinctly humbled.

"You know you speak such excellent English," she said irrelevantly.

He bowed low. As he straightened his figure, to his amazement, he beheld an agonizing look of horror on her face, her eyes riveted on the mouth of the cavern. Then there came an angrier sound, unlike any that had gone before in that night of turmoil.

"Look there! Quick!"

The cry of terror from the girl's parted lips as she pointed to something behind him awoke the mountain man to instant action. Instinctively he snatched his long dagger from its sheath and turned quickly. Not twenty feet from them a huge catlike beast stood half crouched on the edge of the darkness, his long tail switching angrily. The feeble light from the depth of the cave threw the long, water soaked visitor into bold relief against the black wall beyond. Apparently he was as much surprised as the two who glared at him, as though frozen to the spot. A snarling whine, a fierce growl, indicated his fury at finding his shelter, his lair, occupied.

"My God! A mountain lion! Ravone! Franz! To me!" he cried hoarsely, and sprang before her shouting loudly to the sleepers.

A score of men, half awake, grasped their weapons and struggled to their feet in answer to his call. The lion's gaunt body shot through the air. In two bounds he was upon the goat hunter. Baldos stood squarely and firmly to meet the rush of the maddened beast, his long dagger poised for the death dealing blow.

"Run!" he shouted to her.

Beverly Calhoun had fighting blood in her veins. Utterly unconscious of her action at the time, she quickly drew the little silver handled revolver from the pocket of her gown. As man, beast and knife came together, in her excitement she fired recklessly at the combatants without any thought of the imminent danger of killing her protector. There was a wild scream of pain from the wounded beast, more pistol shots, fierce yells from the excited hunters, the rush of feet, and then the terrified and almost frantic girl staggered and fell against the rocky wall. Her wide gray eyes were fastened upon the writhing lion, and the smoking pistol was tightly clutched in her hand.

It had all occurred in such an incredibly short space of time that she could not yet realize what had happened.

Her heart and brain seemed paralyzed, her limbs stiff and immovable. Like the dizzy whirl of a kaleidoscope, the picture before her resolved itself into shape.

The beast was gasping his last upon the rocky floor, the hilt of the goat hunter's dagger protruding from his side. Baldos, supported by two of his men, stood above the savage victim, his legs covered with blood. The cave was full of smoke and the smell of powder. Out of the haze she began to see the light of understanding. Baldos alone was injured. He had stood between her and the rush of the lion, and he had saved her at a cost she knew not how great.

"Oh, the blood!" she cried hoarsely. "Is it—is it—are you badly hurt?" She was at his side, the pistol falling from her nervous fingers.

"Don't come near me. I'm all right!" he cried quickly.

"Take care—your dress"—

"Oh, I'm so glad to hear you speak! Never mind the dress! You are torn to pieces! You must be frightfully hurt. Oh, isn't it terrible—horrible! Aunt Fanny! Come here this minute!"

Forgetting the beast and throwing off the paralysis of fear, she pushed one of the men away and grasped the arm of the injured man. He winced perceptibly, and she felt something warm and sticky on her hands. She knew it was blood, but it was not in her to shrink at a moment like this.

"Your arm too!" she gasped. He smiled, although his face was white with pain. "How brave you were: You might have been—I'll never forget it—never! Don't stand there, Aunt Fanny! Quick! Get those cushions for him. He's hurt."

"Good Lawd!" was all the old woman could say, but she obeyed her mistress.

"It was easier than it looked, your highness," murmured Baldos. "Luck was with me. The knife went to his heart. I am merely scratched. His leap was short, but he caught me above the knee with his claws. Alas, your highness, these trousers of mine were bad enough before, but now they are in shreds. What patching I shall have to do! And you may well imagine we are short of thread and needles and thimbles."

"Don't jest, for heaven's sake! Don't talk like that. Here! Lie down upon these cushions and"—

"Never! Desecrate the couch of Graustark's ruler? I, the poor goat hunter? I'll use the lion for a pillow and the rock for an operating table. In ten minutes my men can have these scratches dressed and bound—in fact, there is a surgical student among them, poor fellow. I think I am his first patient. Ravone, attend me."

He threw himself upon the ground and calmly placed his head upon the body of the animal.

"I insist upon your taking these cushions," cried Beverly.

"And I decline irrevocably." She stared at him in positive anger. "Trust Ravone to dress these trifling wounds, your highness. He may not be as gentle, but he is as firm as any princess in all the world."

"But your arm?" she cried. "Didn't you say it was your legs? Your arm is covered with blood too. Oh, dear me, I'm afraid you are frightfully wounded."

"A stray bullet from one of my men struck me there, I think. You know there was but little time for aiming"—

"Wait! Let me think a minute! Good heavens!" she exclaimed, with a start. Her eyes were suddenly filled with tears, and there was a break in her voice. "I shot you! Don't deny it—don't! It is the right arm, and your men could not have hit it from where they stood. Oh, oh, oh!"

Baldos smiled as he bared his arm. "Your aim was good," he admitted. "Had not my knife already been in the lion's heart your bullet would have gone there. It is my misfortune that my arm was in the way. Besides, your highness, it has only cut through the skin, and a little below, perhaps. It will be well in a day or two. I am sure you will find your bullet in the carcass of our lamented friend, the probable owner of this place."

Ravone, a hungry looking youth, took charge of the wounded leader, while her highness retreated to the farthest corner of the cavern. There she sat and trembled while the wounds were being dressed. Aunt Fanny bustled back and forth, first unceremoniously pushing her way through the circle of men to take observations and then reporting to the impatient girl. The storm had passed, and the night was still except for the rush of the river. Raindrops fell now and then from the trees, glistening like diamonds as they touched the light from the cavern's mouth. It was all very dreary, uncanny and oppressive to poor Beverly. Now and then she caught herself sobbing, more out of shame and humiliation than in sadness, for had she not shot the man who stepped between her and death? What must he think of her?

"He says yo' all 'd bettah go to baid, Miss Bev—yo' highness," said Aunt Fanny after one of her trips.

"Oh, he does, does he?" sniffed Beverly. "I'll go to bed when I please. Tell him so. No, no—don't do it, Aunt Fanny! Tell him I'll go to bed when I'm sure he is quite comfortable, not before."

"But he's jes' a goat puncheh er a"—

"He's a man, if there ever was one. Don't let me hear you call him a goat puncher again. How are his legs?" Aunt Fanny was almost stunned by this amazing question from her ever decorous mistress. "Why don't you answer? Will they have to be cut off? Didn't you see them?"

"Fo' de Lawd's sake, missy, co'se Ah did, but yo' all kindeh susprise me. Dey's p'etty bad skun up, missy; de hide's peeled up consid'ble. But hit ain' dang'ous, no, ma'am—jes' skun; 'at's all."

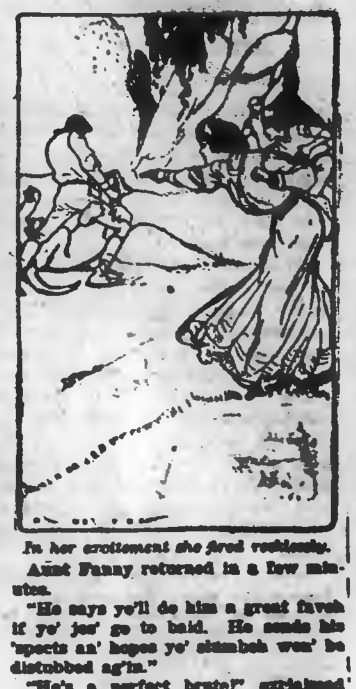
"And his arm—where I shot him?"

"Puffec'ly triflin', ma'am—yo' highness. Cobwebs 'd stop de bleedin', an' Ah tole 'em so, but 'at felleh couldn' un'stan' me. Misteh What's-his-name, he says somethin' to de docteh, an' den dey goes afteh de cobwebs, suah 'nough. 'Tain' bleedin' no mo', missy. He's moutes neah doin' ve'y fine. Co'se he cain' walk fo' sev'l days wiv dem laigs o' his'n, but"—

"Then, in heaven's name, how are we to get to Edelweiss?"

"He c'n ride, cain't he? Wha's to hindeh him?"

Quite right. He shall ride inside the coach. Go and see if I can do anything for him."



In her excitement she fired recklessly.

Aunt Fanny returned in a few minutes.

"He says yo'll do him a great favah if yo' jes' go to baid. He sends his 'spects an' hopes yo' slumbeh won' be distubbed ag'in."

"He's a perfect brute!" exclaimed Beverly, but she went over and crawled under the blankets and among the cushions the wounded man had scorned.

CHAPTER VII.

THERE was a soft, warm, yellow glow to the world when Beverly Calhoun next looked upon it. The sun from his throne in the mountain tops was smiling down upon the valley the night had ravaged while he was on the other side of the earth. The leaves of the trees were a softer green, the white of the rocks and the yellow of the road were of a gentler tint. The brown and green reeds were proudly erect once more.

The stirring of the mountain men had awakened Aunt Fanny, and she in turn called her mistress from the surprisingly peaceful slumber into which perfect health had sent her not so many hours before. At the entrance to the improvised bedchamber stood buckets of water from the spring.

"We have very thoughtful chambermaids," remarked Beverly while Aunt Fanny was putting her hair into presentable shape. "And an energetic cook," she added as the odor of broiled meat came to her nostrils.

"Ah cain' see nothin' o' dat beastes, Miss Beverly, an' Ah—Ah got mah suspicions," said Aunt Fanny, with sepulchral despair in her voice.

"They've thrown the awful thing into the river," concluded Beverly.

"Dey's cookin' hit!" said Aunt Fanny solemnly.

"Good heaven, no!" cried Beverly. "Go and see, this minute. I wouldn't eat that catlike thing for the whole world." Aunt Fanny came back a few minutes later with the assurance that they were roasting goat meat. The skin of the midnight visitor was

Dear Sir.—I wish to thank you for the magnificent profits I received from you on the 2nd inst on Policy 10074 on my life, th dividend period having matured on the 1st inst.

To think that all I have paid the Company during the past twenty years was $442.00, and that my reserved cash profits for that period amount to $214.04, leaving the net cost of my insurance of $1,000 during those years only $227.96, and that now I have a free paid-up policy of $1,000 still drawing profits EVERY FIVE YEARS hereafter, as long as I live, is a result that surprised me most agreeably and causes me to regret that I have not taken more insurance twenty years ago.

However, as you know I am trying to redeem the past to the best of my ability and have applied for further insurance on the same plan with you.

Again thanking you and desiring to know the splendid results I received, and hoping it may assist some, at least, in making a wis selection when insuring, I wish your Company the patronage deserves, and remain stretched upon the ground not far away.

BEVERLEY OF GRAUSTARK

"And how is he?" asked Beverly, jamming a hatpin through a helpless bunch of violets.

"He's ve'y 'spectably skun, yo' highness."

"I don't mean the animal, stupid."

"Yo' mean 'at Misteh Goat Man? He's settin' up an' chattin' as if nothin' happened. He says to me 'at we stahrt on ouah way jes' as soon as yo' all eats yo' b'eakfus'. De hosses is hitched up an'"—

"Has everybody else eaten? Am I the only one that hasn't?" cried Beverly.

"'Ceptin' me, yo' highness. Ah'm as hungry as a poah man's dawg, an'"—

"And he is being kept from the hospital because I am a lazy, good for nothing little— Come on, Aunt Fanny; we haven't a minute to spare. If he looks very ill, we do without breakfast."

But Baldos was the most cheerful man in the party. He was sitting with his back against a tree, his right arm in a sling of woven reeds, his black patch set upon the proper eye.

"You will pardon me for not rising," he said cheerily, "but, your highness, I am much too awkward this morning to act as befitting a courtier in the presence of his sovereign. You have slept well?"

"Too well, I fear. So well, in fact, that you have suffered for it. Can't we start at once?" She was debating within herself whether it would be quite good form to shake hands with the reclining hero. In the glare of the broad daylight he and his followers looked more ragged and famished than before, but they also appeared more picturesquely romantic.

"When you have eaten of our humble fare, your highness—the last meal at the Hawk and Raven."

"But I'm not a bit hungry."

"It is very considerate of you, but equally unreasonable. You must eat before we start."

"I can't bear the thought of your suffering when we should be hurrying to a hospital and competent surgeons." He laughed gayly. "Oh, you needn't laugh. I know it hurts. You say we cannot reach Ganlook before tomorrow? Well, we cannot stop here a minute longer than we— Oh, thank you!" A ragged servitor had placed a rude bowl of meat and some fruit before her.

"Sit down here, your highness, and prepare yourself for a long fast. We may go until nightfall without food. The game is scarce, and we dare not venture far into the hills."

Beverly sat at his feet and daintily began the operation of picking a bone with her pretty fingers and teeth. "I am sorry we have no knives and forks," he apologized.

"I don't mind," said she. "I wish you would remove that black patch."

"Alas, I must resume the hated disguise. A chance enemy might recognize me."

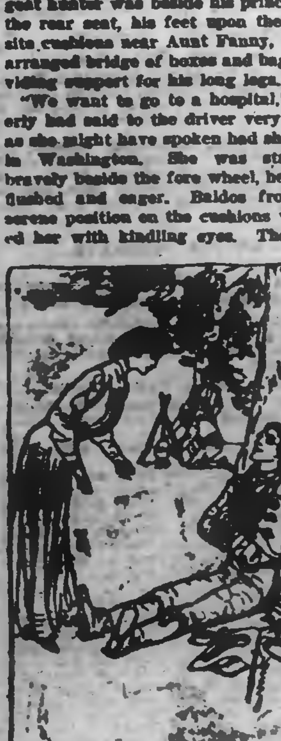
"Your—your clothes have been mended," she remarked, with a furtive glance at his long legs. The trousers had been rudely sewed up and no bandages were visible. "Are you—your legs terribly hurt?"

"They are badly scratched, but not seriously. The bandages are skillfully placed," he added, seeing her look of doubt. "Ravone is a genius."

"Well, I'll hurry," she said, blushing deeply. Goat hunter though he was and she a princess, his eyes gleamed with the joy of her beauty, and his heart thumped with a most unruly admiration. "You were very, very brave last night," she said at last, and her rescuer smiled contentedly.

She was not long in finishing the rude but wholesome meal and then announced her readiness to be on the way. With the authority of a genuine princess she commanded him to ride inside the coach, gave incomprehensible directions to the driver and to the escort and would listen to none of his protestations. When the clumsy vehicle was again in the highway and bumping over the ridges of flint the goat hunter was beside his princess on the rear seat, his feet upon the opposite cushions near Aunt Fanny, a well arranged bridge of boxes and bags providing support for his long legs.

"We want to go to a hospital," Beverly had said to the driver very much as she might have spoken had she been in Washington. She was standing bravely beside the fore wheel, her face flushed and eager. Baldos from his serene position on the cushions watched her with kindling eyes. The grizzled driver grinned and shook his head despairingly. "Oh, pshaw! You don't understand, do you? Hospital—h-o-s-p-i-t-a-l," she spelt it out for him, and still he shook his head. Others in the motley retinue were smiling broadly.



"You will pardon me for not rising."

"Speak to him in your own language, your highness, and he will be sure to understand," ventured the patient.

"I am speaking in my—I mean, I prefer to speak in English. Please tell him to go to a hospital," she said confusedly. Baldos gave a few jovial instructions, and then the raggedest courtier of them all handed Beverly into the carriage with a grace that amazed her.

"You are the most remarkable goat hunters I have ever seen," she remarked in sincere wonder.

"And you speak the most perfect English I've ever heard," he replied.

"Oh, do you really think so? Miss Grimes used to say I was hopeless. You know I had a—a tutor," she hastily explained. "Don't you think it strange we've met no Axphain soldiers?" she went on, changing the subject abruptly.

"We are not yet out of the woods," he said.

"That was a purely American aphorism," she cried, looking at him intently. "Where did you learn all your English?"

"I had a tutor," he answered easily.

"You are a very odd person," she sighed. "I don't believe that you are a goat hunter at all."

"If I were not a goat hunter I should have starved long ago," he said. "Why do you doubt me?"

"Simply because you treat me one moment as if I were a princess and the next as if I were a child. Humble goat hunters do not forget their station in life."

"I have much to learn of the deference due to queens," he said.

"That's just like 'The Mikado' or 'Pinafore,'" she exclaimed. "I believe you are a comic opera brigand or a pirate chieftain, after all."

"I am a lowly outcast," he smiled.

"Well, I've decided to take you into Edelweiss and"—

"Pardon me, your highness," he said firmly. "That cannot be. I shall not go to Edelweiss."

"But I command you"—

"It's very kind of you, but I cannot enter a hospital—not even at Ganlook. I may as well confess that I am a hunted man and that the instructions are to take me dead or alive."

"Impossible!" she gasped, involuntarily shrinking from him.

"I have wronged no man, yet I am being hunted down as though I were a beast," he said, his face turning haggard for the moment. "The hills of Graustark, the plateaus of Axphain and the valleys of Dawsbergen are alive with men who are bent on ending my unhappy but inconvenient existence. It would be suicide for me to enter any one of your towns or cities. Even you could not protect me, I fear."

"This sounds like a dream. Oh, dear me, you don't look like a hardened criminal," she cried.

"I am the humble leader of the faithful band who will die with me when the time comes. We are not criminals, your highness. In return for what service I may have performed for you, I implore you to question me no further. Let me be your slave up to the walls of Ganlook, and then you may forget Baldos, the goat hunter."

"I never can forget you," she cried, touching his injured arm gently. "Will you forget the one that gave you this wound?"

"It is a very gentle wound, and I love it so that I pray it may never heal." She looked away suddenly.

"Tell me one thing," she said, a mist coming over her eyes. "You say they are hunting you to the death. Then—then your fault must be a grievous one. Have you—have you killed a man?" she added hastily. He was silent for a long time.

"I fear I have killed more than one man," he said in low tones. Again she shrank into the corner of the coach. "History says that your father was a brave soldier and fought in many battles," he went on.

"Yes," she said, thinking of Major George Calhoun.

"He killed men then, perhaps, as I have killed them," he said.

"Oh, my father never killed a man!" cried Beverly in devout horror.

"Yet Graustark reveres his mighty prowess on the field of battle," said he, half laconically.

"Oh," she murmured, remembering that she was now the daughter of Yetive's father. "I see. You are not a—a—a mere murderer, then?"

"No. I have been a soldier. That is all."

"Thank heaven!" she murmured and was no longer afraid of him. "Would—would a pardon be of any especial benefit to you?" she asked, wondering how far her influence might go with the Princess Yetive.

"It is beyond your power to help me," he said gravely. She was silent, but it was the silence of deep reflection. "Your highness left the castle ten days ago," he said, dismissing himself as a subject for conversation. "Have you kept in close communication with Edelweiss during that time?"

"I know nothing of what is going on there," she said quite truthfully. She only knew that she had sent a message to the Princess Yetive apprising her of her arrival in St. Petersburg and of her intention to leave soon for the Graustark capital.

"Then you do not know that Mr. Lorry is still on the Dawsbergen frontier in conference with representatives from Serros. He may not return for a week, so Colonel Quinnox brings back word."

"It's news to me," murmured Beverly.

"You do not seem to be alarmed," he ventured. "Yet I fancy it is not a dangerous mission, although Prince Gabriel is ready to battle at a moment's notice."

"I have the utmost confidence in Mr. Lorry," said Beverly, with proper pride.

"Baron Dangloss, your minister of police, is in these mountains watching the operations of Axphain scouts and spies."

"Is he? You are very well posted, it seems."

"Moreover, the Axphainians are planning to attack Ganlook upon the first signal from their ruler. I do not wish to alarm your highness, but we may as well expect trouble before we come to the Ganlook gates. You are known to be in the pass, and I am certain an effort will be made to take possession of your person."

"They wouldn't dare!" she exclaimed. "Uncle Sam would annihilate them in a week."

"Uncle Sam? Is he related to your Aunt Fanny? I'm afraid he could do but little against Volga's fighting men," he said, with a smile.

"They'd soon find out who Uncle Sam is if they touch me," she threatened grandly. He seemed puzzled, but was too polite to press her for explanations. "But he is a long way off and couldn't do much if we were suddenly attacked from ambush, could he? What would they do to me if I were taken, as you suggest?" She was more concerned than she appeared to be.

"With you in their hands, Graustark would be utterly helpless. Volga could demand anything she liked and your ministry would be forced to submit."

"I really think it would be a capital joke on the Princess Volga," mused Beverly reflectively. He did not know what she meant, but regarded her soft smile as the clear title to the serenity of a princess.

She sank back and gave herself over to the complications that were likely to grow out of her involuntary deception. The one thing which worried her more than all others was the fear that Yetive might not be in Edelweiss. According to all reports, she had lately been in St. Petersburg, and the mere fact that she was supposed to be traveling by coach was sufficient proof that she was not at her capital. Then there was, of course, the possibility of trouble on the road with the Axphain scouts, but Beverly enjoyed the optimism of youth and civilization.

Baldos, the goat hunter, was dreamily thinking of the beautiful young woman at his side and of the queer freak fortune had played in bringing them together. As he studied her face he could not but lament that marriage at least established a barrier between her and the advances his bold heart might otherwise be willing to risk. His black hair straggled down over his forehead, and his dark eyes—the patch had been surreptitiously lifted—were unusually pensive.

"It is strange that you live in Graustark and have not seen its princess—before," she said, laying groundwork for inquiry concerning the acts and whereabouts of the real princess.

"May it please your highness, I have not lived long in Graustark. Besides, it is said that half the people of Ganlook have never looked upon your face."

"I'm not surprised at that. The proportion is much smaller than I imagined. I have not visited Ganlook, strange as it may seem to you."

"One of my company fell in with some of your guards from the Ganlook garrison day before yesterday. He learned that you were to reach that city within forty-eight hours. A large detachment of men has been sent to meet you at Labbot."

"Oh, indeed," said Beverly, very much interested.

"They must have been misinformed as to your route or else your Russian escort decided to take you through by the lower and more hazardous way. It was our luck that you came by the wrong road. Otherwise we should not have met each other, and the lion," he said, smiling reflectively.

"Where is Labbot?" asked she, intent upon the one subject uppermost in her mind.

"In the mountains many leagues north of this pass. Had you taken that route instead of this you would by this time have left Labbot for the town of Erres, a half day's journey from Ganlook. Instead of vagabonds your escort would have been made up of loyal soldiers, well fed, well clad and well satisfied with themselves at least."

"But no braver, no truer than my soldiers of fortune," she said earnestly. "By the way, are you informed as to the state of affairs in Dawsbergen?"

"Scarcely as well as your highness must be," he replied.

"The young prince—what's his name?" she paused, looking to him for the name.

"Dantan?"

"Yes, that's it. What has become of him? I am terribly interested in him."

"He is a fugitive, they say."

"They haven't captured him, then? Good! I am so glad!"

Baldos exhibited little or no interest in the fresh topic.

"It is strange you should have forgotten his name," he said wearily.

"Oh, I do so many ridiculous things!" complained Beverly, remembering who she was supposed to be. "I have never seen him, you know," she added.

"It is not strange, your highness. He was educated in England and had seen but little of his own country when he was called to the throne two years ago. You remember of course that his mother was an Englishwoman, Lady Ida Falconer."

"I—I think I have heard some of his history. A very little, to be sure," she explained lamely.

FARM GATE.

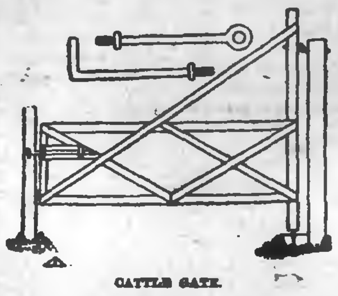
It Swings Lightly, Without Sagging, if Properly Built.

The principle of hinge hanging may not be new, but I have never seen another of such light skeleton build as our nonsagging cattle gate shown in the drawing. The material used for its construction is generally to be found on every farm, so that all the usual necessary expense is that of having the blacksmith make the hook and eye hinge for the top of the gate, the lower hinge being merely an iron pin inserted in an upright end piece and set into a block at the base of the post, making the cost of construction very light.

The top and bottom boards are 1 by 6 inches and sixteen feet long. The hinge end upright is 4 by 4 inches and ten feet long, and the latch end is 3 by 4 inches and four and one-half feet long. The braces are all of 1 by 6 inch stuff.

When this gate is intended to turn other stock than cattle and horses, either woven or barbed wire, the former preferable, is stretched over the frame tightly and secured with staples.

To hang the gate bore a hole in the bottom of the hinge end upright and drive in a three-fourths or one inch iron pin that when set will project about four inches from the bottom. This is inserted into the block shown at the ground line spiked to the post, first screwing or spiking on an iron plate, with hole to match size of pin, to prevent wear and working loose. A similar plate should also be fastened to bottom of upright for the same purpose.



CATTLE GATE.

The top hinge is made of a three-fourths inch rod, one end a hook, the other an eyebolt, with threaded ends, explains a writer in Farm and Fireside. Nail a substantial brace on the top of the gatepost and to a post set solidly in the ground in line with the fence (or a heavy twisted wire will serve the same purpose) to hold the post firm against weight of gate, and it will swing lightly and easily, remaining for years without sagging, provided the post is properly set.

Snow For Poultry.

The possibility of lessening the labor of caring for poultry by supplying snow instead of water has been studied at the Connecticut Storrs experiment station by C. K. Graham. When pullets and hens were fed wheat screenings and beef scrap from hoppers in colony houses on low ground frozen during most of the experimental period and covered with snow during part of the time the old hens did not furnish as many eggs or appear to be in as good condition as the younger birds.

The old hens were apparently affected by the snow, the egg production being smaller on the days when snow was on the ground and also considerably less when the ground was frozen—that is, on the cold days when water was not accessible. These conditions do not seem to have affected the younger birds, and they show an increase in eggs immediately after each snowstorm, gradually dropping back as the snow disappears.

In the case of other lots kept under much the same conditions in houses on higher and drier ground the cold weather did not affect the egg production materially, "but there was a noticeable increase in the amount of grain eaten during the cold weeks when comparison is made with the very mild ones. This, however, may have been caused by the birds foraging more during the milder periods. These birds did not appear to mind the cold, and there was not the slightest sign of frosted combs among them, nor were there any colds."

Texas Grows Oranges.

Southwest and southern Texas is this year entering for the first time into the orange market of the country, says a writer in Farm and Ranch. Satsuma oranges are being shipped in quantities and are yielding big returns. The Satsuma is grafted upon the Citrus trifoliata, originally imported from Japan and used as hedges. This tree, being deciduous, makes the fall of sap in cold weather overcome the danger from frost which the orange tree as an evergreen otherwise suffers. Satsuma oranges have been grown successfully in a latitude fifty miles north of San Antonio. Groves are being planted over this section, and southwest Texas is preparing to compete with California and Florida in the orange business.

Hemlock and Oak.

Over two-thirds of the tanbark consumed comes from hemlock and over one-fourth from oak; chestnut and other woods contribute the remainder. More extract is secured from chestnut, however, than from all other domestic woods combined. A small quantity of extract, or a little over a thousand barrels, comes from the roots of palmetto.—Forest Service.

MILK PRODUCTION.

Dairying That Is Satisfactory to Cow and Owner.

By Professor H. H. DEAN, Canada.

Atwood says that one quart of milk has about as much nutritive value as a pound of beef. Now, we can purchase in milk nutritive material at about one-third the cost that you can get in beef. I would like you to bear in mind that milk is one of the cheapest of the nutritive foods which we may purchase and has this great advantage over beef—that it is almost entirely if not entirely digested. Man in the process of the study of this question looked for some animal which could give him this nutritive material at the smallest cost, and after experimenting with all the lower animals he came to the conclusion that the cow was the one which would produce milk in the greatest quantity and at the lowest cost.

We have in our stable a Holstein which has produced 2,522 pounds of milk in thirty days, within 500 pounds of the average annual production of cows of Ontario and Quebec. In seven days she gave us 643 pounds and in one day ninety-six pounds of milk. If we had cows like that there would be no trouble about having plenty of milk to drink. A man cannot afford to keep cows that produce only 3,000 pounds of milk in a year.

Two Factors of Success.

One of the factors that we must bear in mind regarding a good cow is that we must have a strong, healthy, vigorous one if we would have milk that has what is called vitality. I think it would be impossible to get the best milk for drinking purposes from a cow that is low in vitality.

Second, the cow must be fed the right kind of food. There are some men so generous that they will feed their cows straw all winter, give them all the straw they can eat and then swear at them because they will not give more milk.

It is little wonder that many farmers are unable to obtain satisfactory milk production. They do not feed.

Winter Feeding.

For five or six months of the year the farmer must substitute for grass such foods as mangels, carrots and corn silage. Turnips should not be fed to cows producing milk. Some people enjoy the flavor of turnips in milk, but the majority do not. If you want the best quality of milk do not feed turnips.

We should recommend the following ration for winter milk production: Eight to ten pounds clover hay, thirty to forty pounds corn silage, twenty to thirty pounds mangels, eight to ten pounds meal made up of equal parts of oats and bran by weight and one to two pounds of oil cake, gluten meal or pea meal, the ration to be given in two feeds daily to each cow. A cow does not need to be fed more than twice a day under ordinary conditions.

Water and Salt.

Give the cow plenty of water. How much water do you think was drunk by the cow that gave ninety-six pounds of milk in one day? Nearly 200 pounds. That does not mean that the milk was water, as her milk tested about 3.5 per cent fat. You cannot water milk through the cow. Only man has learned that trick.

Next give the cow plenty of salt. Treat her kindly. Treat her as if she were your friend.

The cow house should be kept clean and sweet and well ventilated. It is impossible to get good milk from a cow kept in a stable that is not clean.

Sugar Beet Lands.

Every observing man must have noticed that the advent of the sugar industry in Colorado has surely had an effervescing effect on land values, and this is one of the most satisfactory features arising from the business. We have seen land advance in price from $30 or $50 to $200 and $300 an acre, but we must imagine that the latter figure is about the limit when the earning capacity of a farm is based on its percentage of earning from annual crops. The effect of beet culture has been to bring down the average size of the farms to twenty or thirty acres, but of course we still have many of 100 and 300 in extent. As intensive farming is the rule, however, the ordinary grower finds twenty or thirty acres about all he can manage when put in beets, dependent, as he is, upon the uncertainties of such labor as may stray along. Another salutary effect has been the improvement in cultural methods, and this is shown tentatively in all other crops, says Denver Field and Farm. The introduction of alfalfa as a fertilizer to beet lands has proved a great stroke in advancing the science of farming, for the system is gradually coming into use in all other lines of farm production in places where the fertility of the soil is deteriorating.

Keep the Teams at Work.

There can be little doubt that deeper plowing will not only lessen the tendency of southern soils to wash, but that it will increase their general productive capacity. Bearing in mind these factors, pay no heed to those who say do not plow in the winter, but whenever the land is dry enough keep the teams at work, plowing and also subsoiling when the subsoil is a good clay or the land has a hardpan subsoil. Turn in all the vegetable matter which has been produced on the land. Do not burn anything which will made humus. Land so treated can be fitted quickly for crops in the spring by the use of the disk or cutaway harrow.—Southern Planter.

Half Sugar Mangels.

Two half sugar mangels—Vilmorin Half Sugar Rosy and Carter Half Sugar—are recommended as suitable stock for feeding purposes.

Justice McLennan denies that he will retire from the Supreme Court bench.

For the Man Who Sells Wall Paper

If you have been advertising properly and have used proper judgment in the matter of stock, your wall paper department should now begin to be very attractive. Remember that everywhere the country over the busy housewife, with a handkerchief round her head, and broom or scrubbing brush in hand, is carrying on the annual spring war on dirt of all kinds. From the back yards of thousands of peaceful Canadian homes, issue forth sounds as of musketry, which sounds in reality are merely testimonials to the muscular skill of Messrs. Householder in making the dust of twelve months fly from the carpets.

Now is the time of all times to push wall paper for all it is worth. Get some convincing copy written for your newspaper space, and keep your windows filled with your choicest lines of wall decorations. Slack not in thine energy, O merchant, and don't, whatever you do, forget the advertising value of a show-card in the window.—From the Bookseller and Stationer, April, 1907.

In the Commons at Ottawa Sifton Speaks on the Budget

Ex-Minister of Interior Makes Notable Speech in House.

Would Build Railway to Hudson Bay—Favors All-Red Service—Give Land For Homesteaders—Develop Export Trade by Consular Service—Questions Wisdom of Government Acquiring Public Utilities.

Ottawa, March 21.—A new Siftonian policy was enunciated yesterday afternoon. The ex-Minister of the Interior delivered an address of one hour's duration, and crowded into that space of time a variety of ideas, most of them good, which he pressed on the consideration of the Government. He pointed the way for a policy of development and won applause from both sides of the House.

Dismissing the deeds and misdeeds of the past with a word, Mr. Sifton peered into the future. Whatever he said may have been "off his own bat," or it may have been, as many believe, with the full knowledge of the Prime Minister, who still entertains high opinions of the Brandon member.

But whether the speech was intended to prepare the country for the announcement that Mr. Sifton is coming back into the Government or retiring from public life, certain it is that it sounded like the utterance of a statesman.

Mr. Sifton's suggestions were:

Reform of the civil service by the appointment of an independent commission (as outlined in R. L. Borden's Halifax platform).

Establishment of a consular service for the purpose of developing our export trade.

Throwing open for homestead settlement of 30,000,000 acres of unearned railroad lands in the Northwest, reserving one-tenth for ten or twelve years.

Construction of a railway to Hudson Bay, the cost to be returned to the treasury by the sale of a portion of the 100,000,000 acres of unsurveyed lands in the north that will be available for settlement when the railway is built.

Establishment of an "all-red" route from England to New Zealand. This would be possible by subsidizing the venture to the amount of a million pounds sterling a year, the proportions being: Great Britain, £500,000; Canada, £325,000; New Zealand, £100,000; Australia, £75,000. This is Mr. Sifton's pet scheme. A twenty-four knot service on the Pacific will reduce the time of delivering English mails in New Zealand by thirteen days.

Mr. Sifton, in advocating the construction of the Hudson Bay Railway by the Government, took a fling at the principle of public ownership in the following words: "I am not an advocate of the construction or operation of a railway by the Government. I have no faith whatever in the idea that when a public utility is being properly carried on by a corporation there is any sense in the Government taking it out of the hands of the individuals or corporations and driving them out of business on the plea that the Government can do the work better. Everybody knows it cannot. For my part I have not the slightest faith in the idea, and I would like that other gentlemen who likewise do not believe in it in the slightest degree would say they do not. Too many of us are inclined to hedge on questions of this kind because we think public opinion may be strong upon them. But, of course, public opinion is apt to be strong on a question in an improper direction if the men who take healthy views of it are afraid to say what they think. I am not in favor of the Government acquiring public utilities when these utilities are well carried on by individuals or corporations simply on the idea that the Government will do better. But there are cases in which a company cannot be got to undertake an enterprise on a commercial basis. A case of this kind was the construction of the T. & N.O. Railway."

A Candid Speech.

Mr. Bergeron followed, remarking that the moderate speech of Mr. Sifton indicated a disposition to cut loose from the party. It was understood that Mr. Sifton had been offered a portfolio, but had refused to re-enter the Cabinet except on condition that Sir Richard Cartwright, Mr. Paterson and Mr. Scott should be dropped.

Mr. Pardee found great cause for gratification in the budget statement and expressed his satisfaction with the condition of the country's trade and industry in general.

E. D. Smith (Wentworth) congratulated the ex-Minister upon his candid speech, especially his demand for a department to deal with foreign trade, which, by the way, was a severe reflection upon the Department presided over by Sir Richard Cartwright. He also commended Mr. Sifton's endorsation of the civil service reform plank in Mr. Borden's Halifax platform.

He agreed with Mr. Sifton's criticism of immigration, adding that the country would be better off if 25,000 of last year's immigrants had never came to Canada. Mr. Smith declared that the Government had done nothing to stimulate foreign trade. It had not opened up a single new market in any part of the world, while it had managed to close to Canadian exporters the market of Germany, which was the second largest importer in the world of such goods as Canada produced.

Hon. A. W. Craven, member of the Victoria, Australia, Assembly, was accorded the privilege of a seat on the floor of the House. He is making a tour of the Dominion.

Mr. MacPherson (Vancouver) called the attention of the Minister of the Interior to a despatch from Vancouver, that 143 Hindus had been ordered deported, and that a C.P.R. steamship had sailed without the undesirables.

This was a high-handed action on the part of the C.P.R., and he asked Mr. Oliver if the Government proposed to take action in view of well-defined orders of Government.

Mr. Oliver said the C.P.R. refused to obey the deportation order. The Department of Justice had been instructed to take necessary proceedings.

Mr. Borden asked what policy had been adopted in respect to the entrance of Japanese and Hindus.

Mr. Oliver said both were subject to the same regulations.

Mr. Borden asked the Prime Minister if negotiations were pending with respect to the passage of United States war vessels through the canals to the upper lakes.

Sir Wilfrid Laurier said no negotiations were pending, but occasionally permission had been asked to pass not a war vessel but a training ship through the canals, and permission had been granted.

ASIATIC EMIGRATION.

Great Britain, India, and Canada to Co-operate In the Matter.

London, March 21.—The suggestion made by Canada, that there should be co-operation between Great Britain, India and Canada for the prevention of the continued influx of Indians into British Columbia has been sympathetically received in official circles, and there is every prospect that an arrangement satisfactory to all concerned will be reached.

Mackenzie King, Deputy Minister of Labor from Ottawa, who arrived here last week, has had lengthy interviews with the Earl of Elgin, the Secretary of State for the Colonies, John Morley, Secretary of State for India, and the permanent officers of the Indian Department, all of whom realize the necessity of doing something.

The emigration of Indians, which is not only harmful to Canada, but to the Indians themselves, is receiving the most earnest consideration here, and Mr. King has a mass of information to give the various departments in support of Canada's contention that an end must be put to the unrestricted emigration of Asiatics.

Any agreement reached however, must be confirmed by Ottawa, so it is not expected that the result of Mr. King's visit will be announced until after his return to Canada.

Students On Strike.

Woodstock, March 21.—Because a Toronto student, Chas. King, son of W. A. King, had been suspended for playing basketball, 150 students at Woodstock College went on strike and paraded the streets at an early hour yesterday morning.

It is claimed King had written on the blackboard statements reflecting on the character of food supplied the students.

As a punishment, Principal McNeill ordered him not to play with the college basketball team in a game with Hamilton a few nights ago. King did not play the first half, but got into the game in the second half, with the permission of a teacher, it is said. For this he was expelled.

Afraid of United States.

Mexico, Mexico, March 21.—El Tiempo, the organ of the Catholic Church in the Republic of Mexico, published on its first page Thursday an article which appeared in a New York newspaper recently in which the writer advocates the purchase by the United States of the Peninsula of Lower California.

Commenting editorially on the article, the paper urges that Mexico immediately begin to prepare for a war with the United States, as it is declared that the northern republic, failing to obtain the consent of Mexico for the sale of the peninsula and its harbor, Magdalena Bay, they will take it by the force of arms.

Hotel Blaze at Strathroy.

Strathroy, March 21.—What might have been a disastrous fire occurred at the Queen's Hotel at eight o'clock last night, but was easily extinguished.

The Queen's Hotel is equipped with 37 bedrooms and loss of life might have resulted had the fire occurred late at night.

GERMAN TROOPS FIGHT

Big Battle With Hottentots in South African Desert.

Soldiers Lose Heavily — Captain and Twelve Privates Die In Encounter With Unfriendly Natives—Chief of Tribe Made His Escape — Enemy Had Many Killed — Four Days Without Water.

Berlin, March 21.—The Government publishes a cablegram from South Africa reporting a battle between the German expeditionary forces and a body of Hottentots in the Kalahari desert.

The German troops had been sent out to find Simon Koppers, the last of the Hottentot chiefs, who is still hostile. The engagement was a very severe one. The enemy lost 58 killed. Seven men and several women were captured, but Koppers escaped. The German losses also were heavy. Capt. Von Erckert, commander of the expeditionary force, Lieut. Ebinger, and twelve privates being killed, and 17 wounded, of whom nine were seriously wounded.

The German force left Cochos on March 6, 430 strong, with four machine guns and seven hundred camels. They made forced marches into the waterless desert for four days before stopping long enough to cook a fresh supply of food. The only water found was a dirty pool, which was insufficient to quench the thirst of the camels.

Capt. Erckert finally located the Hottentots camp on March 15. He began the attack next morning at daybreak, and soon there was fierce fighting all along the line. The German commander fell in the first onslaught, and the second officer in command took charge of the expeditionary forces, which drove the Hottentots from one position to another, until finally they broke and fled in all directions.

Chief Koppers' power has been badly weakened by this defeat, but it will be necessary for the Germans to continue a vigilant watch over the approaches to the desert.

A collision between German troops, accompanying an expedition which is engaged in delimiting the Cameroons and natives, also was reported on Thursday. The Germans defeated the natives, but Capt. Clanning was killed.

King Edward Visits Spain.

San Sebastian, March 21.—King Edward arrived here at noon yesterday in an automobile from Biarritz. He wore the uniform of a colonel of the Spanish cavalry regiment of Zamora, of which His Majesty is honorary colonel. The secretaries accompanied the King.

He was received by the municipal authorities and a committee of officers from the regiment of Zamora, who presented him with an album containing portraits of all the honorary colonels of that regiment. The King expressed himself as deeply grateful, and said he would consider the album as one of his greatest treasures. He decorated the officers with the Royal Victorian Order.

King Edward expressed his happiness at the safe journey of King Alfonso to Barcelona. During the luncheon which followed, the King proposed a toast to the Spanish royal family and the Spanish army, and later telegraphed to the Spanish sovereign thanking him for the attentions of which he had been the object. His Majesty left in the evening for Biarritz.

Dashed Through Flames.

Smith's Falls, March 21.—Mrs. Robert Moulton, 81 years of age, who lives alone at Drummond Centre, had a narrow escape from being burned to death in a fire which destroyed her home Thursday.

She was awakened about 1 o'clock by a strong odor of smoke. Hastily snatching a quilt from the bed, she enveloped herself in it and started to make her way out of the house. When she opened the door of her room the flames burst out in all directions, but she succeeded in making her way through them and the blinding smoke to the outside door. In doing so her hands and face were badly burned. Once outside she went across the fields to the house of a neighbor, over a quarter of a mile away, and called to them for assistance. Without waiting for anyone to accompany her she returned to her home, which was by this time completely enveloped in flames. The old lady, nearly frozen and badly burned, was taken care of by some friends.

Will Appeal to President.

Cleveland, March 21.—Angered by the exoneration of school officers and others after state and county enquiries 150 parents of the 167 children who perished in the burning of the Lakeview school in Collinwood on March 4, united last night in a demand on President Roosevelt that a federal enquiry be made.

Added to this demand were resolutions asking that Congress be urged to enact a law to aid in fixing responsibility for such a disaster, and which shall define criminal negligence. A committee was named to perfect the resolutions and to present them to the President with a plea for prompt action.

Prison and Ten Lashes.

Brandon, Man., March 21.—At the assizes yesterday the jury returned a verdict of guilty against Ernest Shouldine, charged with attempted assault on a five-year-old daughter of a Shoal Lake hotel man, where the accused had been staying.

Judge Perdue sentenced him to four months hard labor and ten lashes.

Fatal Boiler Explosion.

Steubenville, Ohio, March 21.—A boiler in a sawmill on the Abrams farm, near here, exploded yesterday, fatally injuring William Abrams, James Oler and Bert Baker.

Shower baths will be used by the Cleveland police to sober up drunks before trial.

NEW BRUNSWICK CABINET.

Premier Hazen Selects Strong Men to Govern the Province.

St. John, N.B., March 21.—At noon yesterday the Robinson administration placed its resignation in the hands of Governor Tweedie, who at once called upon J. D. Hazen, leader of the Conservative party, to form a Cabinet.

At 9 o'clock last evening Hazen announced his Cabinet, as follows:

J. D. Hazen, Premier and Attorney-General.

J. K. Fleming of Carleton County, Provincial Secretary.

Dr. D. V. Landry (Kent), Commissioner of Agriculture.

W. C. H. Grimmer (Charlotte), Surveyor-General.

John Morrissey (Northumberland), Commissioner of Public Works.

Harry McLeod (York), Solicitor-General.

Robert Maxwell (St. John City), member without portfolio.

The new administration will be sworn in at the executive council rooms next Tuesday, and the dates of the bye-elections will also be announced then.

It is generally conceded that Mr. Hazen has displayed great wisdom in his choice, and there is no doubt he starts out with one of the strongest Cabinets the province has ever known.

The political tension in New Brunswick has been unusually strong during the last few days, and as day by day went by without Premier Robinson announcing his resignation it became evident that there was wrangling over the filling of the several vacant offices.

It has now developed that Mr. Robinson filled the vacancies and recommended the appointments to Governor Tweedie, who promptly refused to sanction them. The governor said the old administration had been discredited in the eyes of the people, and he, therefore, thought all appointments should be left to the new Government. His decision has aroused the indignation of those Liberals who aspired to office. The vacant offices were: Judge probates in the city of St John, with a salary of $2,500; registrar of probates, St. John, $1,400; Supreme Court reportership, salary $1,000; Equity Court reportership, salary $500.

Premier Hazen would make no announcement last night as to how or when these offices would be filled, although it is known there will be no delay.

BISHOP FOWLER DEAD.

Distinguished Ecclesiastic Was Native of Burford, Ontario.

New York, March 21.—Right Rev. Charles A. Fowler, Bishop of the Methodist Church, died at his home here yesterday.

Bishop Fowler's long life was filled with activity for the church and the cause of education. Born in Burford, Ontario, in 1837, he early evinced deep interest in his studies and graduated from Genesee College, now Syracuse University, in 1859, as valedictorian of his class. He also headed his class at graduation from the Garrett Biblical Institute, which he entered soon after leaving college, and was the first man to receive the honorary degree of D.D. from that institution.

After completing his education he moved to Chicago, where he studied law, but never practiced that profession.

Entering the ministry at the conclusion of his law studies, he served as pastor of several churches in Chicago during the next twelve years, and in 1872 was elected president of Northwestern University.

He remained at the head of the institution four years, when he became editor of The Christian Advocate in New York. He was made a general missionary secretary of the church in 1880, and four years later became bishop.

Count Tolstoi Ill.

St. Petersburg, March 21—The state of Count Tolstoi's health is causing great anxiety here.

A message received from Moscow last night from Count Tolsto's son confirms earlier reports of improvement in the condition of the count, who has been seriously ill.

Count Tolstoi has been in the habit of taking daily rides on horseback. He persisted in this in the face of blinding storms, and twice recently lost his way several miles from his home. On the second occasion, about a week ago, he fell into a snowdrift, but was able to extricate himself and came home afoot, exhausted. In spite of the remonstrances of his family, he returned to the scene of the accident to save his horse.

Vancouver's Rich Convict.

Vancouver, March 21.—Charles Hendricks, who owns one hundred thousand dollars worth of property in Vancouver, was sentenced yesterday to six months' hard labor without the option of a fine for renting a building to women of ill-fame.

Hendricks tried to start a new restricted section in the centre east end residence district, and told women formerly of Shanghai and Canton streets that he had squared everything with the mayor and chief of police for opening the new immoral quarter.

He turned out regular tenants and trebled rents to women. Yesterday Hendricks refused to work in a chain gang breaking stone. He is now in a dark cell on bread and water diet.

Three Years For Firebug.

Cornwall, March 21.—The Finch firebug, Phil. Low, who confessed on Wednesday to Reeve McNaughton of Finch, that he had been guilty of two charges of arson in connection with the almost total destruction of the village of Finch last summer, entered a plea of "guilty" to two charges of arson before County Judge O'Reilly yesterday.

He was sentenced to three years in the penitentiary on each charge, the penalties to run concurrently.

Shot for Seventy Cents.

Norfolk, Va., March 21.—John B. Blayler, a contractor of Lamberts Point, was shot and killed by Henry Hystop in a quarrel over 70 cents.

HON. ADAM BECK AND MR. SMITH HAVE LIVELY TIFF

Hot Time in Provincial Legislature Yesterday Afternoon.

Power Minister Collides With Member For the Soo—Denies Statements Made in Recent Speech at Hamilton—Prime Minister Scores Mr. Smith—No Money Was Paid For His Horses.

Toronto, March 21.—Before the orders of the day were taken up in the Legislature yesterday Hon. Adam Beck rose and said he desired to make a brief statement in relation to certain language used the previous evening at a Liberal meeting in Hamilton by the member for Sault Ste. Marie, Mr. C. N. Smith. These utterances Mr. Beck read. They characterized the power policy as "a fairy scheme" and declared that "after the next election neither electric power not Hon. Adam Beck would ever be heard of again."

Mr. Smith rose. "May I ask," he enquired, "where the hon. gentleman got his report?"

Hon. Mr. Beck: "I am glad to tell the hon. gentleman that this time we have a verbatim report of his utterances. (Government applause.)

We thought it well, in view of past experiences to do this. Last year the same gentleman went into a western riding and made certain statements regarding the Provincial Secretary. When confronted with a report of his utterances in this House, he promptly denied the accuracy of the report. In order to be accurate this time I secured a verbatim report from the reporter's notes." (Government applause.)

"Now as to the statement that not a contract has been closed or a thing done in the work of securing power for the municipalities, I may ask the hon. gentleman to consult with his colleagues from Ottawa, who I am sure will be kind enough to tell him that Ottawa has a contract for power in accordance with the act, and through it solved a difficulty that seriously threatened an outlay of possibly thousands of dollars. The members for Ottawa will testify that for that contract the commission has, I believe, the gratitude of the press and the people irrespective of politics.

"As to other municipalities we are prepared and patiently waiting to proceed at the suggestion of the municipalities. Eleven of them have already definitely decided, and, as soon as the remaining four, who have indicated their intentions, are received, there will be no delay in proceeding. I trust that will take place next week.

"One thing more," concluded Mr. Beck. "The member for the Sault also declared that while Mr. Beck had not made a good showing with power, he had with his horses, but that he did it at the expense of the people, and that the province had spent $2,000 on a horse show. I merely want to say this: that I never received, or ever asked one dollar of provincial funds for the exhibition or transportation of my horses to the International Horse Show."

Hon. Mr. Whitney: "Hear, hear."

Mr. Smith, replying, said he got his information from page 201 of the Public Accounts, and the Minister of Agriculture had admitted that horses were shown. "I was not criticizing the expenditure," said Mr. Smith. "What I said was that there were other people breeding horses in the province, and they were not given sufficient opportunity of knowing the decision of the Legislature to assist the expense of Ontario breeders who would exhibit at the exhibition. I said the province had paid $1,709.99 towards the transportation of horses.

"As to my statements on the power question," Mr. Smith continued. "I do not recall my exact words, but what I meant was that to places such as Hamilton, Brantford, Galt, Woodstock and Owen Sound not one horsepower of electric energy had been delivered."

Mr. Whitney—"We haven't delivered any to Winnipeg yet." (Government laughter.)

Mr. Smith—"Winnipeg isn't in the power zone."

Hon. Nelson Monteith, Minister of Agriculture, expressed surprise that Mr. Smith would make such statements after the facts had been fully discussed in the House. "No money has been paid," he said, "for transportation or otherwise to Hon. Adam Beck." (Government applause.)

Mr. Smith—"Then we had better have some explanation as to whom it was paid."

"The coolness of the member for the Sault is refreshing," observed the Prime Minister. "Mr. Beck and Mr. Monteith, both of whom have given the incident more attention than I would, have stated that the hon. Minister from London did not receive a cent of provincial funds. The member for the Sault, who attacks in the absence, and at 40 miles distance, according to his custom, and who, alike according to his custom, makes statements which are utterly unjustifiable and beyond the truth, now begins to see that he needs information, that he is not conversant with the facts. He knows the proper way to secure this information and I trust he will secure it and make such amends as decency will suggest."

After the second reading of Hon. Mr. Cochrane's bill to amend the Mines' Act, the House adjourned.

BOYCOTT THE REICHSTAG.

Reporters Refuse to Send Out News Unless Apology Is Forthcoming.

Berlin, March 21.—The press representatives, whose duties are to attend the Reichstag, have ceased entirely to report the meeting of the body because of the incident Thursday during the debate on the colonial budget, when Herr Groeber, the Centre leader, called the journalists "swine," because they jeered at a statement used by a member to the effect that negroes also had immortal souls.

Over one hundred newspaper men debated the matter in the Reichstag building yesterday morning and decided that no further reports would be sent out unless an apology was forthcoming.

The newspaper proprietors and the news agencies all support the reporters. It was suggested by various of the newspaper men that one of their number be selected to challenge Herr Groeber to a duel.

Trooper Mulloy Declines.

London, March 21.—(C. A. P.)—Trooper Mulloy, writing to the Canadian Associated Press, says: "I have just received The Globe of March 5, and while grateful to The Globe and all who subscribed, I cannot recognize the right of any man to thrust on me his benevolence. I must firmly refuse to accept private charity and gifts given now to the patriotic fund are really donations to myself.

"From the Canadian Government or from the original fund I will thankfully accept what is my due, but to take private gifts would be to lower me in my own esteem, to take away that belief in my manhood which I thank God is still strong in me."

Gasoline Destroys Garage.

Pittsburg, March 21.—William Meigs and Elmer Speicher were probably fatally burned yesterday when the gasoline tank of an automobile belonging to Charles E. Dinkey, general manager of the Edgar Thompson Steel Works, exploded. The garage, automobile, three valuable horses and two carriages were destroyed by the fire which followed, causing a loss estimated at $25,000.

Dangerous Lunatic Deported.

Stratford, March 21—William Curry, a dangerous lunatic, who was arrested as a vagrant here about a month ago, was yesterday deported to the United States, under the immigration laws. He is 22 years old, and escaped from Pontiac, Mich., asylum in January.

Jumped From Brooklyn Bridge.

New York, March 21.—An unknown youth of about twenty years, wearing the uniform of the United States navy, minus the cap, plunged head foremost from the Brooklyn bridge yesterday and was drowned.

Arrested For Threat.

Montreal, March 20.—"Recorder Dupuis must die to-day by my hand."

Charged with having made the above sensational statement, Joseph Lanouette, saddler, 268 St. Antoine street, was arrested on St. James street at 11 o'clock yesterday by Captain Landreault Memorable Day in History Of the Peterborough Y.M.C.A.

Nearly a Score of Young Men Decide to Lead the Better Life—Mr. Best's Fine Addresses.

Yesterday was a memorable day in connection with the local Young Men's Christian Association. Nearly a score of young men publicly expressed their decision to lead the better life, which is a record for one day in the history of the Association.

The presence of Mr. T. F. Best in the city and the addresses given by him were among the factors that led to the turning point in the lives of so many. Mr. Best is secretary of the Hamilton Y.M.C.A. and a Christian worker who has met with great success in winning souls for Christ. Mr. Best spoke at the Murray street Baptist church in the morning, at the Y.M.C.A. in the afternoon and at George street at night. Before the meeting at the Y.M.C.A. in the afternoon he also addressed the adult Bible class of the George street church.

"Heroes of the Veldt" was Mr. Best's subject at the Y.M.C.A. in the afternoon and he related many interesting incidents of the war in South Africa. Mr. Best went through a large part of the campaign in connection with the work of the Y.M.C.A. The important played by the Dominion in the war, the heroism of the Canadian boys, the hardships and privations of the campaign, an athe wor kof the Y.M.C.A. in winning soldiers for Christ, were touched on by the speaker. In concluding he made a strong appeal to those present to fight on the right side in the battle of the world, in which the forces of good are battling against he force sof evil. In response to the appeal several arose and expressed their decision to lead better lives.

Mr Best spoke on "Revivals" at the Murray street church in the morning and on the Y.M.C.A. and its work at George street church at night. Large congregations were present and the splendid addresses had a splendid effect. There were over three hundred men present at the meeting at the Y.M.C.A. in the afternoon.

After the service at George street church at night, an informal meeting for young men was held at the Y.M.C.A., when a dozen young men decided to change their way of living and accept Christ.

Mr. Best returned to Hamilton this evening.

AN INSURANCE EXPERT

The April number of 'Busy Man's Magazine' contains a cut of Mr. Herbert C. Cox, a former Peterborough boy, accompanied by the following biographical sketch:

Coming from a family long identified with life insurance business in Canada, Mr. Herbert C. Cox, in the words of Shakespeare, the world's greatest dramatist, is 'to the manor born.'

His father, Hon. George A. Cox, began life in Peterborough—then a small town—in the late sixties and early seventies as a modest, earnest, active agent of the Canada Life Assurance Company. He was animated by an unconquerable ambition and that was to attain the honorable and responsible position of president of the company. It seemed, while in every way laudable, a lofty desire—a mere Utopian dream—but in the year 1900 that dream was realized. Mr. Herbert C. Cox gives abundant promise of following in the footsteps of his illustrious parent. Although he has not yet celebrated his thirty-fifth birthday, he has scaled high the insurance ladder until today he is not only a leading figure in one of the oldest and most reliable companies of the Dominion but a recognized authority on insurance both in Canada and across the boundary line.

Mr. Herbert C. Cox is president of the Life Underwriters' Association of Canada, and first vice-president of the National Association of Life Underwriters. Both bodies held their annual conventions in Toronto last August.

The Canadian Association was organized in June, 1906, Mr. G. H. Allen, of Montreal, being its first president. He was succeeded last year by Mr. Cox. This association is affiliated with the National Association which is the representative organization of all companies over the border.

After receiving his education in the public schools of Peterborough, the Jarvis Street Collegiate Institute and Toronto University, Mr. Cox, in 1894, began his career as correspondence in the Eastern Ontario branch office. Rising step by step he has reached the position of manager of the company for Eastern Ontario and Michigan branches. Under his jurisdiction and progressive oversight, this territory has shown splendid results. He is exceedingly popular with his business associates and sets those under him an example at all times worthy of emulation in industry, zeal and energy.

Mr. Cox has devoted study, thought and research to all insurance legislation and financial problems. He is an authority of widely recognized reputation, and during the past few months has addressed influential gatherings of insurance agents and State associations in Chicago, Detroit, Pittsburg and other leading cities in Uncle Sam's domain, as well as in Canada. As president of the Life Underwriters' Association of Canada, with a membership of over 500 of the most aggressive and wide-awake agents in the Dominion, the executive of which embraces representatives from twenty-three local associations, Mr. Cox recently appeared the Banking and Commerce Committee at Ottawa. He delivered before the members, a thoughtful and comprehensive address in which objection was taken particularly to clause 53 in the Insurance Bill. This clause deals with the limitation of expense beyond which no company can legally go, and for several reasons the underwriters are asking for the elimination of this and subsequent relative sections of the bill. They contend that such a limitation would bear primarily upon the canvassing agent, and place upon him an insupportable burden. Section 53 fixes, not only the sum which may be spent under the heading of expense but stipulates the manner in which it may be used. The companies maintain that this would be inimical to the best interests of the policy-holder and his beneficiaries, as well as to the agent and the company. A year or two ago, Mr. Cox was one of the representatives of the association to appear before the Royal Commission on Insurance.

Vigorous and alert in every move, Mr. Cox possesses a pleasing personality and an affable disposition. In addition to his wide connection with insurance he is identified with several other organizations of national prominence. He is vice-president of the Provident Investment Company, a director of the Central Canada Loan & Savings Company, the Toronto Savings & Loan Company, of Peterborough, the Imperial Accident & Guarantee Company and the Dominion Securities Corporation. He is also a director of the Robert Simpson Company, of Toronto, a trustee of the Toronto General Hospital, a member of the committee in charge of the erection of the proposed million dollar building, as well as director of the Toronto Conservatory of Music.

CHINESE ARE ANGRY.

Outburst of Popular Feeling Over the Tatsu Maru Affair.

Canton, March 23.—The greatest indignation prevails here against the Government for yielding to the Japanese demands in the Tatsu Maru case, it being considered that the Government's action has brought disgrace upon this province.

The Self-Government Society of Canton has organized several monster indignation meetings, at which resolutions were adopted that the anniversary of the release of the Tatsu Maru be observed as a day of public mourning. The resolutions also declared a boycott against Japanese goods.

More than fifty thousand persons attended the mass meetings held yesday; buildings were draped in mourning, and twenty or more orators delivered denunciatory speeches.

Among the speakers was a 12-year-old boy, whose declamation against the Japanese caused the greatest enthusiasm. A great number among those who had assembled thereupon divested themselves of Japanese-made garments, including caps and handkerchiefs, and made a huge bonfire of them. One dealer in Japanese goods offered to sacrifice his entire stock.

The meeting recommended the impeachment of Yuan Shi Kai, of the Board of Foreign Affairs, for weakness in yielding to the Japanese.

Appeals to Old Foe.

New York, March 23.—Gen. Francois Joubert-Pienaar, who fought in the Boer army against Great Britain, and who is now in the United States, urging that efforts be made to bring about the suppression of slavery in Portuguese West Africa, has appealed to Sir Edward Grey, the British Secretary for Foreign Affairs, to save his family from alleged unjust treatment at the hands of officials of the Portuguese Government in Angola.

Gen. Joubert-Pienaar, in his communication to Sir Edward Grey, states that his second son has written from Angola declaring that the Portuguese authorities induced him to leave British territory in the interior to come to Angola, where he was ordered to embark at once.

The general in another communication to Sir Edward Grey states that he has received word that his son was taken away from Angola and he fears he has been killed.

GRAVE SMALLPOX EPIDEMIC.

Churches, Schools and Theatres Closed In Moncton, N.B.

Moncton, N.B., March 23.—With something like a hundred cases of smallpox in this city, and a large number of cases in adjoining counties of Albert and Kent, the situation is serious and the authorities are somewhat puzzled what steps to take to prevent the further spread of the disease, and eventually stamp it out.

The epidemic in Moncton is confined almost entirely to the French district, but as the French are great people to visit, in spite of the warning of the Board of Health, cases have broken out all over town.

All churches, schools and places of entertainment have been closed and general vaccination ordered. Outgoing trains are also being watched.

The City Council has called upon the Provincial Board of Health to take charge of the epidemic and that body will at once issue most stringent orders and endeavor by every way possible to prevent its spread.

In Albert County, it is believed, the epidemic is well in hand, but its rapid spread in Moncton is causing great alarm. The disease was brought here from the lumber camps.

Killed at Crossing.

Stratford, March 23.—Miss Smith, aged about 56, who lived with her deaf and dumb brother two miles east of Shakespeare, was instantly killed at the crossing, near her home Saturday evening.

She was driving home, and was almost at her destination when the fatality occurred. The cutter was struck squarely, the occupant thrown out and her neck broken, while the horse escaped uninjured.

Coroner Devlin adjourned the inquest until Monday night.

Deceased was a sister of Mr. Smith, M.P. for Oxford.

Newspaper Strike.

St. John, N.B., March 23.—As a result of the refusal of the management to discharge three printers who had been expelled from the union owing to non-payment of special dues, the entire mechanical staff of The Morning Telegraph and The Evening Times went out on strike Saturday night.

The matter has been under discussion for several weeks and notice had been given by the union that if its demands were not granted it would call all the men out.

Winter Port Figures.

St. John, N.B., March 23.—Seventy-six ocean cargoes have been filed in the customs house this season to date. These steamships carried goods valued at $10,838,799, and foreign goods valued at $5,327,964, making a total of $16,164,763.

Wheat shipments to date are close to 5,000,000 bushels. Deal shipments are over 34,000,000 feet, while cattle sent forward are over 14,000.

Hop Lee, a Montreal laundryman, was shot and dangerously wounded by a stranger who demanded laundry he had left elsewhere.

WILL GRANT PENSIONS

Old-Age Annuity Scheme Agreed Upon in France.

Radicals Compromised With the Senate—Workmen Are to Contribute Two Per Cent of Wages and Employers an Equal Amount — State Will Aid Where Necessary—Liability Is Limited.

Paris, March 23.—Finding that the continued opposition of the Senate to the workmen's old-age pension bill, passed by the Chamber in 1906, promised to postpone indefinitely the realization of this social reform which the Radical wing of the French Republicans have been promising for years, the Chambers have finally consented to the principle of a compromise, and have voted a resolution serving notice on the Government and the Senate that this compromise must become law before the expiration of the present year.

By the terms of the bill workmen contribute two per cent. of their wages and the employers a like percentage during a period of thirty years, thus creating a fund from which the workman thereafter is to receive an annual minimum pension of $72. The state is to contribute only when the forced savings of the workmen do not create a fund large enough to furnish a pension of that amount. Upon the promulgation of the law it is proposed to grant annual pensions to all workmen over sixty who have worked thirty years, and then gradually increase the scale of pensions of those "graduating" each succeeding year until at the end of thirty years all will receive at least $72. The liability after the scheme is in "permanent" operation is fixed approximately at $68,000,000. The Chamber has agreed to the principle of absolutely limiting the Government liability for the present to $20,000,000 annually.

NAVIGATING THE AIR.

Remarkable Flights of Henry Farman at Issy, France.

Paris, March 23.—Following a record-breaking performance of Friday in flying a mile and a half in his aeroplane, Henry Farman, Saturday made another spectacular flight at Issy, covering two and a half kilometers, a little less than two miles, in 3 minutes and 21 seconds.

Later, in company with Leon Delagrange, he entered the latter's aeroplane, which moved over the ground at the rate of about 30 miles an hour, and then went into the air making a short, but highly successful flight.

This is the first time that an aeroplane carrying two persons, has made a successful flight, and the aeronauts were enthusiastically cheered by thousands of people who had gathered.

These accomplishments are hailed with delight, as they are considered as having demonstrated that the problem of aerial navigation can be definitely solved, especially the question of equilibrium.

Was a Case of Suicide.

Chatham, March 23.—As the locality was out of his jurisdiction, Coroner E. V. Bray of this city did not conduct the inquest into the death of Fred Maunday, keeper of the St. Ann's Island, Mitchell Bay. Instead he notified the crown attorney at Sarnia, and Coroner Macdonald of that town investigated and finds that Maunday committed suicide. Maunday had been found dead in his home early Friday morning by his wife, with a bullet in his breast.

Foul play was suspected because of feuds existing on the island, which is largely peopled by Indians. Duck hunters from various places have club houses here and one of them was burned the other night. Incendiarism was suspected when several guns were not found among the debris. Then when A. B. Wells of Chatham had his gun returned with the threat to keep quiet or get a bullet in the breast next time he was at Port Dover, matters took a serious turn. It was thought that Maunday, who was weak-minded, might have been a victim.

Tried to Burn Barracks.

Stratford, March 23.—Charged with attempting to set fire to the Salvation Army barracks, Fred Bryant, aged 35, married, was locked up yesterday. He caused consternation on the street by gathering a crowd around him and publicly denouncing the Army, saying that he had been brought out to this country by the Salvationists and then cast aside. He openly confessed that he had entered the barracks, turned on the gas, flooding the rooms and setting fire to the building in two or three places. The building narrowly escaped destruction on Friday night. Bryant has caused the authorities much trouble during his two years sojourn here.

May Have to Lose Arm.

Madrid, March 23.—El Mundo says that it learned on good authority that the wound Prince Manuel—now King of Portugal — received in the arm on Feb. 1, when King Carlos and the crown prince were assassinated, has not healed, and recently has become very much worse.

The attending physician, says the paper, declares that amputation is imperative.

Premier's Strong Language.

London, March 24.—At Durban, South Africa, Premier Moor, defending the calling out of troops in December, said that certain members of the House of Commons had thrown discredit and dishonor on public institutions in the colony. Natal was bearing the white man's burden, which was not made lighter by their damnable interference.

Hayti Is Quiet.

Port au Prince, Hayti, March 23.—President Nord Alexis, in an interview at the palace yesterday, declared that conditions in the republic were absolutely tranquil.

The recent death of a woman at Powder Glen, is being investigated by Provincial Detective Greer.

SUICIDE FIGHTS POLICE.

With Throat Cut and Bullet Wounds Shoots at Rescuers.

Buffalo, March 23.—Crazed because he had been out of work for six weeks, Burton W. Grannis Saturday afternoon barricaded himself in his apartments in the Harvey Block, at the corner of Main and Swan streets, long enough to slash his throat with a razor. Then he unbolted the door as his wife rapped for admittance. He shot himself in the right side of the head, just above the temple, a short time later, and is dying at the Emergency Hospital.

Mrs. Grannis ran screaming down the five flights of stairs and told her story to the police. A call was sent to the West Seneca street police station, when it was found that instead of leaving his door unlocked Grannis had again bolted it and apparently had returned to his bed to die.

A heavy plank was obtained when entrance could not be gained in any other way. This was tried on the front door without effect.

"I kill the first man who come in," Grannis yelled to the police.

Time and time again the police tried to batter down the door.

When the first panel gave way a shot rang out. The bullet just crazed the hat of Acting Capt. Ryan.

After a brief consultation they made a rush against the door with such force that another panel was torn out. Another shot rang out.

The police again withdrew after the second shot. They stood in the hallway until there was a third shot, and then all was quite inside. They looked through the openings that had been made in the door and saw in the kitchen a bloody razor lying on the floor and the form of Grannis lay upon the bed in the next room.

Grannis is 51 years old. He is a stationary engineer, and is credited with being a man of good habits. He was married 27 years ago.

MOTHER SAID "GO HANG"

And Small Boy Was Cut Down Just In Time to Save Life.

Montreal, Que., March 23.—David Machrosky, a Russian boy of 9 years of age, residing at 36 West Lagauchetiere street, had a dispute with his mother on Saturday, the outcome of which was that she rather foolishly advised the boy to go and hang himself, little thinking that the lad would take her advice seriously.

Evidently the trouble had a depressing effect on the boy, as he got a rope and, tying it around his neck proceeded to strangle himself.

He was in a very weak condition when found and had to be hurried to the General Hospital for treatment, where he is recovering.

New Yorkers Wanted McManus.

Kingston, March 23.—It is whispered that an interesting plan of Senator Tim Sullivan and Sheriff Foley of New York, engineered in behalf of their friend, "Kid" McManus, has come to nought.

McManus was liberated from Kingston penitentiary a few days ago and prior to this event was visited by the New Yorkers, when it was arranged on the occasion that a guarantee be given the American Express Co. that bonds stolen by McManus and his pals in Paris would never reappear. By this it was believed that McManus could return to New York and resume his saloon business.

This did not take into account, however, the vigilance of the Paris authorities who hold him now at Montreal for extradition to France.

Russia Needs Money.

St. Petersburg, March 23.—M. Kokovsoff, the Minister of Finance, addressing the budget committee of the Douma Saturday, announced that new loans were inevitable, despite Russia's already heavy indebtedness.

He mentioned the double-tracking of the Siberian Railway, the building of the Amur line and the requirements for national defence and famine relief as alone involving an extraordinary expenditure of $75,000,000 annually for several years to come.

Asphxiates Self and Children.

Fall River, Mass., March 23.—With a crucifix clasped in her hand and with a rosary hanging from her arm, Mrs. Florida Terrien, aged 25 years, and her four-year-old daughter, Mary, and two-months-old boy, Joseph, were found dead in the kitchen of their home yesterday by her husband, from illuminating gas.

Mother and Child Burned.

Montreal, March 23.—Mrs. Cyrille Thomas, aged 23, and her baby daughter, Albina were fatally burned in their home, Beaudry street yesterday.

The accident was due to an attempt to make a fire with a quantity of coal oil to help it along.

An explosion followed with fatal results.

Eleven Dead.

Paku, Trans-Caucasia, March 23.—A violent explosion occurred last night in the workmen's quarters of the naphtha works at Balachari. So far eleven bodies have been recovered from the wreckage.

The cause of the explosion has not been ascertained.

Congressman Resigns.

Rockland, Me., March 23.—A sensation was caused in political circles here yesterday by the receipt by Governor Cobb of a letter from Congressman Chas. E. Littlefield, tendering his resignation as a member of Congress.

Dined By the King.

Biarritz, March 23.—King Edward gave a private dinner last night, the guests including Whitelaw Reid, the American Ambassador to Great Britain and his daughter, Miss Jean Reid.

Bold Threat.

St. Petersburg, March 23.—The Znamya, the organ of the Union of True Russian people, yesterday prints threats of assassination, headed by a black cross and the words: "Death to Milukoff."

SHIPWRECKED SAILORS.

Thrilling Tale of Privation Is Brought to New York.

New York, March 23.—The story of a shipwreck on the high seas and a narrow escape from death was told by Capt. Griffis and the crew of five men of the Baltimore schooner Wm. H. Skinner, who arrived here yesterday, from Liverpool aboard the steamer Etruria.

The Skinner sailed from Georgetown, South Carolina, Feb. 14, for New Haven, Conn., with a cargo of lumber, but the next day ran into a heavy southern gale, and in the high seas the heavily-laden craft began to leak. The crew manned the pumps, but the schooner filled rapidly and suddenly turned over on her port side. Capt. Griffis and the crew scrambled up on the starboard side of the hull and lashed themselves fast. Swept by the seas the men remained thus for three hours, when the schooner suddenly righted itself. Cutting themselves free from the lashings, the crew succeeded in reaching the schooner's deck.

Days passed and provisions and water, though carefully husbanded, gave the men only scant nourishment. In a week's time they faced death from starvation. On Feb. 29, when hope was almost lost, the British steamer Brayhead, bound for Belfast, bore down upon the waterlogged schooner and took off her sailors. So weak from exhaustion were Capt. Griffis and his crew that it was feared that they might not live until the Brayhead could reach Belfast. The sailors finally recovered, though they still show the effects of their experiences.

RESULT OF TOBACCO WAR.

Farmers Will Cease to Raise Crop and Leave District.

Lexington, Ky., March 23.—Because of warning letters and visits from night riders, many farmers in nearly all of the 62 counties in the White Burley tobacco region, are destroying their tobacco beds, and at the present time fewer than one-third of the normal number have been started.

In many counties huge signs have been erected on buildings and in high places nearby declaring the intention of the farmer not to raise a crop this season. Realizing the difficulty of making a living for their families in case the decision to raise no tobacco is adhered to, many tenant farmers are preparing to move to other states, while many farm owners have placed their property on the market with the avowed purpose of leaving Kentucky.

The murder of Farmer Hedges in Nicholas County Saturday, and the raids in Woodford and other counties last week, have increased the alarm. In announcing their determination to go elsewhere, the tenants declare that it will be impossible to subsist from the proceeds of crops of hemp, wheat and corn.

In the neighborhood of Mount Sterling, many farmers have received threatening letters with which were matches, powder and poison, and armed guards have been placed at threatened points. Conditions throughout the state are declared to be worse now than at any time since the tobacco war began.

The four insurance schedules in operation in the order of Woodmen of the World, will end after May 1, and all members shall pay the same rates.

Which Team Will Win the Game Chieftains or the West Ends?

Great Match To-night for Junior City Championship—A Line on the Chieftains—Their Opponents Will be Fast—C.G.E. Teams Will Play.

It is generally admitted that Jack Thornbeck's Chieftains can show up pretty nearly anything of their age and weight when it comes to playing hockey and many fans are of the opinion that they are the strongest juvenile seven in this country. In the matter of individual play and team work they show remarkable skill and are easily superior in these respects to any other local team that has yet been seen in action this winter. The 'kids' were not taken as seriously in the first part of the winter as they are now but their great playing has called attention to them. However they will be up against a strong septette tonight when they face the West Ends for the junior championship of the city. The latter are confident of their ability to defeat the Chieftains and will make a big attempt to win the game.

There can be no doubt that the match will be one of the very best of the season and it will be a real treat to see the speedy youngsters in action. The general admission will be ten cents and a particularly large crowd should be in attendance.

The game will commence at 7.30 and at the conclusion of it two teams from the CGE. will clash. The same admission price will admit to both games.

ANOTHER WIN FOR AUBURN

Doubled the Score on Park St. Seven—Sixth Straight Victory This Winter

The Auburn Hockey team is certainly doing great work this winter and by doubling the score on the Park street sins at Brock street on Saturday made their sixth consecutive win. The game was a good one all the way through, but teams putting up a fast article of hockey. At half time the Park street seven were in the lead by 2—1, but in the second half the mill men pulled away from them and scored three straight to their opponent's none.

The teams did not show an indication to rough it, but played clean hockey throughout the game.

F. Weatherstone of the Strathconas made an impartial and satisfactory referee.

Following was the line-up;

Referee—Weatherstone.

Not ten minutes after play started Gillespie and Kendry bumped heads and Kendry was out of the game until nearly half time. Barrie went off to even up. Shortly afterwards Loomis went through the whole bunch and scored, 1—0.

It was not long before Guerin took the puck from centre ice and scored, 2—0.

Shaw notched the first one for Auburn, 2—1.

SECOND HALF.

Kendry scored the first in this half making the game a tie, 2—2.

Brumwell put Auburn ahead, 3—2.

The last goal was scored by Kendry, making the final score 4—2 in favor of Auburn. Shaw got one on an offside, but of course it didn't count.

DID LEE EXPECT DEFEAT?

The General's Significant Statement After Sailors Creek.

My last official intercourse with General Lee was on the retreat. I was sent to him with dispatches from President Davis and reached him near midnight of April 6 near Rice's station. I approached without being challenged by a single sentinel and found him standing near a smoldering fire with one of his hands resting on an ambulance wheel. He was dictating some order to Colonel Marshall, who sat in the ambulance with a lap desk receiving his dictation. As General Lee spoke he gazed into the bed of coals as if weighing every word. There was no staff or escort about, so far as I could see. Touching Sailors Creek, he spoke bitterly and said in answer to Mr. Davis' desire to know his proposed line of retreat that it was beyond his control; that he had intended to retreat by the line of the Danville road, but had been forced off that route by the arrival of Sheridan ahead of him at Burkville; that he was then following the line of the Southside road to Lynchburg, but the enemy was outmarching him and might force him off; that his movements were dependent on the developments of each hour, and then he added: "How can I tell? A few more Sailors Creeks and it will all be over—just where I thought it would end from the beginning." When I first published this statement its truthfulness was questioned. Fortunately I afterward saw two of his staff, both of whom said they had heard him express himself in the same way. There may have been times when General Lee, elated by some of his surprising successes, felt hopeful about the triumph of our cause. From the probabilities based on numbers and resources his judgment may have been warped away now and then by the feeling he expressed when, after Second Manassas, Sharpsburg, Fredericksburg and Chancellorsville, he said, "No general ever commanded such troops as those under me." But his mind was too mathematical in its workings, and all its calculations were too habitually based upon what could be done with a given number of men and a certain amount of material to make him forget the vast disparity between the contestants or hope for ultimate triumph.—John S. Wise in Circle Magazine.

A WITTY JUDGE.

His Conclusions on the Evidence of Ditto and True.

The late Hon. Noah Davis, well known throughout the country as the judge who tried and sentenced Boss Tweed, was justly celebrated in many ways. He was of that type of jurist for which western New York was famed during the half century following 1850. Orleans county is proud of him as one of her noblest and most distinguished sons. He was slightly above medium height, full habited, large head, fine, clean cut face—indeed, a striking figure in any community. He was a well read lawyer, an honest, fair minded judge, with a keen sense of humor and withal something of a writer and poet. The following lines from his pen, written on the spur of the moment and in the midst of a trial, illustrate the alertness and quality of his mind. They are perhaps the best play upon words of which we have any record in the English language.

It was at the Niagara circuit in the early seventies. Judge Davis presided. An action in ejectment was called. The dispute was over a party wall or a division line. It was purely a question for the civil engineer. The division line established and the case was won. The defendant's attorney, realizing this, called as expert witnesses the Hon. John A. Ditto, city engineer of Buffalo, and the Hon. A. R. True, the engineer who constructed the cantalever bridge over Niagara river at the falls. They were two of the most eminent civil engineers in the state. They made a survey of the premises and established the division line as contended for by the defendant and when called to the witness stand so testified, giving monuments, courses and distances with such minute exactness that they could not be successfully controverted. The moment True, who followed Ditto as a witness, left the stand, Judge Davis wrote these lines and passed them to the clerk to hand to plaintiff's counsel:

Since True swears ditto to Ditto,
And Ditto swears ditto to True,
If True be true and Ditto be ditto,
I think they're too many for you.

—Daniel H. McMillan in Buffalo Truth.

Man and His Sweet Tooth.

"If you want to have that tradition upset about women only having a sweet tooth," remarked the stenographer who works downtown, "just go into a quick lunch room occasionally and watch the men who drink coffee or chocolate with their midday meals. I give you my word I have seen not one, but many men, put six lumps of sugar into their one cup of coffee or chocolate and then eat apple pie that is fairly covered with powdered sugar."

Makes a Difference.

A girl who used to make all sorts of fun of those who were poor spellers is now receiving three fat letters a week from a man who can't spell correctly more than forty words altogether. But he has a big, nice house and money in the bank—and that spells something to her.

Perhaps She Did.

"Did your daughter inherit her talent for drawing?"

"Well, I never thought of it before, but it may be that she did. One of my brothers is a dentist."—Chicago Record-Herald.

Mrs. Filman, born in Ireland 95 years ago, is dead at Hamilton.

Lord Elgin has been asked to attend personally, or to send a representative, and also to invite Australia to send one representative, South Africa four, New Zealand one, Newfoundland one, France one, and the United States one.

France and the United States are also expected to send fleets to participate in the fetes.

For Smuggling Grain.

Neche, N.D., March 23.—T. O'Brien, deputy collector of customs, has seized the team and sleigh of Peter McKinnon, together with 2,700 pounds of barley a man had just brought from Gretna, Man., one mile north of here. The barley was purchased there and McKinnon brought it across without offering to pay duty.

This is the first seizure made at this port of entry of grain, though it is believed smuggling has been going on for years. The duty is 30 cents a bushel. Barley, team, harness and sleigh will be sold at public auction.

Quashed the Bylaw.

Toronto, March 23.—Chief Justice Meredith on Saturday morning issued judgments quashing on a technicality the civic bylaw to reduce licenses from 150 to 110, and refusing to unseat Controllers Harrison, Spence and Hocken, who had supported the bylaw, for alleged lack of property and other qualifications.

The Chief Justice held that the terms "license year" and "calendar year" had been confused in such a way as to make the bylaw invalid.

Cut in Head as Result of Fall From Scaffold

Walter Forsyth Had Narrow Escape as Result of Fall on Saturday Evening

As a result of falling from a scaffold at the Collier-Cunningham Company's establishment on Hunter street on Saturday evening, Mr. Walter Forsyth had a severe cut put in his head, several stitches being required to close the gash. He was employed with Mr. Fred Cook, putting up a sign for the Collier-Cunningham Co. and fell from the scaffold and landed among the monuments beneath. He was exceedingly fortunate in escaping with only a cut, for had he fallen on one of the sharpstones he would undoubtedly have been much more seriously injured. Mr. Forsyth is able to be out today.

AMUSEMENTS

THE CLIMBERS

Clyde Fitch's 'The 'Climbers' was seen for the first time at the Grand on Saturday night and was thoroughly appreciated by the intelligent audience that welcomed the presentation of the piece. Miss Amelia Bingham appeared in the leading role of Blanche Sterling and proved an intelligent and resourceful actress. The character she essayed was an exacting one and she did it full justice. At the conclusion of the second act she bowed to four curtain calls. Her work was most finished and satisfying. Mr. Byron Douglas was virile and honest as Edward Warden and his fine portrayal of the part earned him a large measure of applause. Mr. J. Gordon Edwards had a peculiarly difficult role as Richard Sterling, the husband whose weakness for unwise speculation caused incalculable trouble for himself and his wife and innocent little boy. He was excellent however, in his delineation of the part. In his confession of his misdeeds after the dinner party scene and when he deliberately took an overdose of his sleeping draught in the last act, and committed suicide was particularly effective.

Miss Jane Gordon must be commended for her work in the role of Miss Goldesby and Miss Adelyn Wesley was splendid as the Merry Widow, Mrs. Hunter. Mr. Frank Hollins was a real 'dodo bird' in the character of the effeminite and ridiculous fop Johnnie Trotter. He certainly gave a clever interpretation of the part both in the way of facial expression and general bearing. The other members of the cast were pleasing in their various roles.

'The Climbers,' when the essential features of the plot are taken into consideration, is written in serious mood but contains throughout an abundance of bright comedy, there being many amusing lines and situations. The production is splendidly staged.

"COMING THRO' THE RYE"

"Coming Thro' the Rye," the greatest musical comedy success that has ever been brought forward in this country, will be presented at the Grand next Friday. It comes with a large company of comedians, singers and dancers and with all of the scenery, costumes, and other effects which have made its production conspicuous among its contemporaries. The comedy element of the piece is said to be exceptionally bright and to keep an audience immoderately laughing from the beginning to the end of the performance. It was written by George V. Hobert, one of America's distinguished humorists, and this talented author is said to have evolved a story and to have devised scenes and incidents which exceed any that have been accomplished by a writer of musical comedy. The musical score, which was contributed by A. Baldwin Sloane, is not only delightfully tuneful, but it is jingling and catchy—just the kind of music which is so popular nowadays. The chorus and dancing ballet in this organization is said to be one of its most attractive features. It includes an unusually large aggregation of sweet-faced, graceful girls. George E. E. Mack is the principal comedian of the company and the success he has achieved in this piece has given him a place among the foremost comedians of the day. There is no doubt whatever that the forthcoming presentation of "Coming Thro' the Rye" will pass in the history of amusements in this city as one of the most delightful events that have ever occurred here, and it is to be hoped that it will be greeted by an audience commensurate with its undoubted merits. The advance sale of the seats begins Wednesday morning at ten o'clock.

C.G.E. Employee Acquitted On Charge of Stealing

Considerable Evidence Taken But His Worship Ruled That There Was Not Sufficient to Prove That Man Had Not Paid for What He Had Taken.

One of the men arrested on a charge of the theft of a quantity of mahogany at the C.G.E. works, appeared for trial this morning at the police court and was honorably acquitted. His worship stated that there was no direct evidence that he had taken more than what he had paid for. Mr. F. D. Kerr appeared for the defendant and pleaded not guilty.

THE EVIDENCE.

The other young man implicated in the theft was sworn and stated he was an employee of the Canadian General Electric Co. He knew the defendant. He got some mahogany from him about a year ago. Witness did not pay for it. The defendant was working at the C.G.E. Works at the time looking after the patterns. Witness stated that he had not got any wood from the prisoner since then. He had bought some from the company.

"Where did you get the mahogany to make articles of furniture that are in your house," witness was asked.

"I bought them from Mr. Layfield about three years ago," was the answer.

Witness stated that about a year and a half ago, the defendant showed him a receipt of where he had paid for the mahogany.

The two boards of mahogany produced in court would be worth about 75 cents a piece, the witness remarked.

An employee of the pattern shop was the next witness. He knew the defendant. Witness bought some mahogany from him last summer. It was in four pieces, about 12 feet altogether. This employee said that he paid one dollar for it. The prisoner told him that he had a receipt from the company for the goods he had sold the witness.

Mr. R. E. Layfield, accountant, was sworn and identified a receipt signed by him for a cash sale of mahogany to the defendant. Witness accompanied Police Constables Newhall and McGinty to the prisoner's house where they found a cabinet of mahogany and three other pieces of the same wood. He would judge that it would take about 15 feet of mahogany to make the cabinet. The receipt would not represent all the wood found in his possession or what he is said to have sold to the previous witnesses. The receipt shows the quantity of mahogany sold to the defendant by the works. On Friday afternoon, the defendant was asked if he had taken anything from the works within the last two weeks and he replied that he had taken a small pine board. The wood produced is kept in the carbon works department. The defendant had charge of the pattern stores and he was considered honest and trustworthy.

"Mahogany is the same no matter whose it is, isn't it?" asked Mr. Kerr.

"But that has carbon dust on it," said Mr. Layfield.

"That is pretty good Sherlock Holmes work," reiterated Mr. Kerr.

Through the defendant's admissions and the previous witness' story, Mr. Layfield said that there were several feet that there is no receipt of sale.

P. C. Newhall was called and stated that Mr. Layfield, P. C. McGinty and himself went to the prisoner's house on Friday. He examined the cabinet. It was part mahogany, part cedar. Prisoner stated that it was made from the 12 feet of mahogany he purchased from Mr. Layfield.

His worship dismissed the case, after which the trial of the other employee was proceeded with.

"THE MAYOR OF TOKIO"

The attraction coming to the Grand next Wednesday, March 25th, is the much talked of Richard Carle's fastastical opera "The Mayor of Tokio," a merry jingle of Oriental comedy, the rights of which are controlled by Jos. M. Gaites, and among the many musical comedies produced in recent years none has earned greater popularity nor more fully deserved. Its superior merit in book, music, and mounting was so manifest when it was staged in New York that it started on a career of prosperity which has not ended yet. It was received with equal favor in Philadelphia, Baltimore, Pittsburg, Washington and Detroit. The hit that it made at the New York theatre eclipsed that of anything known to musical production.

The cast includes Mr. John L. Kearney whose ability as a comedian makes him a valuable factor in any production in which he assists.

Farmers Puzzled by Presence Of Pigs on Side of the Road

Somewhat of a Mystery on the Burleigh Road About Six Miles From Lakefield—Is Causing Considerable Talk.

Farmers who travelled the Burleigh road on their way to the city on Saturday, had a strange tale to tell about something they saw about six miles from Lakefield at a point on the road near Cox's hill.

It appears that all winter a dead pig has been lying on the side of the road at the point mentioned above. The porker was frozen hard and where it came from no one seemed to know. Passers-by frequently got out of their sleighs and placed the pig upright in the snow so that from a distance it would appear that a live pig was standing on the side of the road.

Although the pig on the roadside was the cause of considerable comment, the excitement was increased tenfold on Saturday when farmers driving to the city noticed eight dead hogs lying on the side of the road. The old friend of the winter was still there along with seven others. Each hog would weigh from 125 to 150 pounds, and they were placed along the roadside in regular order, being about eight feet apart. Several farmers had difficulty in getting their horses past the place where the pork was displayed.

There is considerable mystery as to where the pigs came from and the farmers who passed the spot are greatly puzzled. They hope the hogs will be removed before the weather becomes warm.

Letters to The Editor

The Review Does Not Hold Itself Responsible for Opinions Expressed by Correspondents

SMITHSON'S DOCK

To the Editor of the Review.

Sir,—We have had exposed in the House of Commons the gross extravagance and worse, shown in the cost of maintaining Canada's "Fleet." She certainly holds the record amongst the nations, so far as maintainance is concerned.

We have had an insight into the "Merwin" contract, the "Montcalm's" outfit and Arctic's equipment, and in the Province of Ontario we had the historic "Minnie M's" cruise But these are, I believe, all eclipsed by the cruise of the chartered steamer "Sovereign" on our own Otonabee river last summer.

A small dock down the river had just been completed the dock should not have cost over $500. what it did cost no mere man can dare to guess It was thought that this would be a great opportunity to bring the "boys" into line and to give them a goodtime. The "Sovereign" was accordingly chartered, the work of outfitting the vessel was placed in trusty hands, it is stated that the amount of liquors, etc, taken on board to celebrate the great event, far excelled the actual cost of the dock.

Mr. Stratton was master of ceremonies, supported by his protege, Mr. R. R. Hall, who is, however, getting a big boy now, is becoming ungrateful and is showing signs of rebelling against his foster parent.

When the vessel tied up at the new wharf messengers were sent out into the highways and bye-ways to call the faithful to the feast, everyone within miles was prevailed upon to join in the celebration and assist in lightening the vessel and absorbing part of her load. On her return trip the "Sovereign" floated buoyantly, her "load" having been taken care of.

After all that Mr. Stratton has done for his "boy," as he used proudly to call him—and after the tears that he so copiously shed for him when he thought his future doubtful, it does seem unkind and unfilial on the part of R. R. Hall to drive Mr. Stratton from the warm and genial west out into the cold, blustering winds of the east, where there is great danger of his getting cold feet.

R R. Hall owes J. R. Stratton great gratitude, we might be sure, therefore, that he would betray him

But why are the electors of the East Riding to be made the catspaws of those political adventurers Are they going to rule the East Riding?

Of this I feel confident, that the electors of the East will not submit to be bought or dictated to by an outsider who has no interest and ends to serve, but his own There are good men in the East, worthy to represent the constituency, without dumping foreign goods of an inferior and questionable quality into the riding

May Build New Sunday School

George St. Church School is too Small

There is a possibility that in the near future George Street Methodist congregation will erect a new Sunday School building. The present one is far inadequate as the membership of the school is rapidly increasing and already there are more scholars on the roll than the building will seat. At present the church is utilized as a class room. It has not been definitely decided what steps will be taken.

INSPECTOR STRICKLAND'S BUISY LIFE

Held Several Important Commands—Was a Capable Officer

Ottawa, March 22. — Col. Fred White, Comptroller of the Royal North-West Mounted Police, received a telegram yesterday announcing the death at Fort Saskatchewan of Inspector Strickland, for many years a capable officer of the force.

Deceased was a member of the well known Strickland family of Lakefield, Ont. He took a cadet course at the Royal Military College, Kingston. After receiving his military education, but before graduating, he joined the Mounted Police. He held commands at Prince Albert, Edmonton and Fort Saskatchewan. While in command of the two last named posts, he had charge of several expeditions into the Peace River region. He had charge of the building of the first 94 miles of pack trail from Fort St. John, on the Peace River to the Yukon. He also effected the arrest of Charles King, the man who killed his chum, Edward Hayward, at Lesser Slave Lake, and buried the body.

Peterboro' to be Congratulated

On Having Opportunity of Witnessing "The Girl Who Looks Like Me"

Kathryn Osterman and Company, who appear at the Grand tonight in 'The Girl Who Looks Like Me,' arrived in the city this morning and are registered at the Oriental.

Mr M. Osterman, the manager of the production, says the show has been playing to record houses all along the line and the people of Canada are evidently pleased with this widely known metropolitan success. It promises to be the strongest local attraction of the season.

An Old Joke.

My Lord Craven, in King James First's Reign, was very desirons to see Ben Jonson, which being told to Ben, he went to my Lord's House; but, being in a very tatter'd Condition, as Poets sometimes are, the Porter refus'd him Admittance, with some saucy Language, which the other did not fail to return. My Lord, happening to come out while they were wrangling, asked the occasion of it. Ben, who stood in need of no-body to speak for him, said, he understood his Lordship desired to see him; you, Friend, said my Lord, who are you? Ben Jonson, reply'd the other. No, no, quoth my Lord, you cannot be Ben Jonson who wrote the Silent Woman, you look as if you could not say Bo to a Goose. Bo, cry'd Ben. Very well, said my Lord, who was better pleas'd at the Joke than offended at the Affront, I am now convinced by your Wit, you are Ben Jonson.—"Joe Miller's Jest Book," 1739.

A Wide Distinction.

Barney Malloy and Mike Cairey were shingling a roof. "Barney," Mike asked, removing a bunch of shingle nails from his mouth and settling back comfortably, "what is the difference between satisfied and content?"

"The difference? Sure, there's none," answered Barney. "If you're satisfied, your're content, and if you're content you're satisfied."

"That was my opinion, too, Barney, me boy, up to now, but it struck me sudden-like as I put that last nail in that I am satisfied, all right, that Molly Cairey is my wife, but I am durned sure I am not content!"

Seatless.

An English hostess was entertaining about 300 people at a reception and had provided only about seventy-five seats. In despair she said to a compatriot: "Oh, I am so distressed! Not three-fourths of these people can sit down!"

"Bless my soul, madam!" he exclaimed. "What's the matter with them?"

Powerful Sermon Delivered By Rev. R. Pogue Last Night

Week of Special Revival Services Opened Last Evening at St. Paul's Church--Earnest Appeal by the Pastor—A Large Congregation.

A week of special revival services was commenced last evening at St. Paul's church, when an earnest and powerful sermon was delivered by the pastor, Rev. Robert A. Pogue. The congregation was a large one, and joined heartily in the singing of the hymns. Rev. Mr. Pogue asked for the co-operation and prayers of the congregation in the special efforts that are to be made during the week to win souls for Christ. Every afternoon at 3.30 o'clock a prayer service for women will be held and in the evening at 7.30 the men will gather for prayer. The regular service will commence at eight o'clock and the pastor will preach each evening. The choir will be present and the gospel solos will be sung by Miss Davies.

Speaking from the story of the conversion of Zachaeus, as told in the 19th chapter of St. Luke's Gospel Rev. Mr. Pogue made a strong appeal to those present to turn from the world an deconsecrate their lives to the service of God. In a plain, simple statement, the speaker drew attention to the zeal and earnestness of Zachaeus the Publican, who had been an outcast and derided by his fellow-man, yet, despite this, he loned to see Jesus and so fervent was he in his purpose that he overcome all obstacles that stood in his way and saw the Saviour.

"And Jesus entered and passed through Jerico. And behold, there was a man, Zachaeus, chief of the Publican, and he was rich," etc. The conversion of Zachaeus on Christ's triumphant entry into Jerusalem is las trecorded before the crucifixion. This was the Publican's last opportunity. He knew that probably never again would he have the chance to see Jesus of Nazareth. Likewise said the speaker, today might be the last opportunity we have of seeing Him.

Zachaeus had many difficulties to overcome. His occupation, that of a tax collector, was against him. He was spurned by the priests of his time. But his heart was not hardened by the ridicule of his fellow-men. He had heard of Jesus and his desire for good filled him with a longing to see Christ. The fact that Zachaeus, notwithstanding that he was outcast in the eyes of those around him, desired to see Jesus should be a striking example to men today who are keeping away from the kingdom of God because of inconsistencies of those attending church. The speaked, that if any were living in unrighteousness, to come to Christ and He would receive them joyfully.

Zachaeus was little of stature and he was inventive and he was not to be baffled by the fact that he was small. He runs and climbs into a Sycamore tree. Nothing will stand in the way of a man bent on being saved. Earnestness will overcome difficulties.

The Publican sees Christ, who looks up to him and says: "Make haste and come down, for today I must abide at thy house." Zachaeus came down and received Him joyfully. Zachaeus saw in Christ's eyes His willingness to receive him.

"Christ is waiting to receive each one of us," said the speaker. "He is looking to us. He knows our sins. Those who are in darkness and away from the church, make haste and receive your Saviour joyfully. Let Him abide with you and have Him in all that you do."

Miss Helen Davies sang in excellent voice, "Jesus of Nazareth Passeth By."

Made Plea for a Closer Observance of Lord's Day

Rev. W. G. Hanna, Provincial Secretary of the Lord's Day Alliance, Gave Addresses in Peterborough Yesterday.

At a mass meeting at St. Paul's church last night after the regular evening service Rev W. G. Hanna, B. A. provincial secretary of the Ontario Lord's Day Alliance spoke to a large representative gathering of the various churches of the city on the work of the Alliance. He presented in a forcible manner a strong plea for a closer observance of the Lord's Day Act. Rev. Mr. Hanna's address was a sympathetic appeal to the people to assist in the work of endeavoring to secure for those who are held in the bondage of seven days labor one day of rest.

Sunday is God's day he said and is also man's day in the sense that he may ensure the highest good by specially worshipping God. The Lord's Day Alliance tries to give to everyone the opportunity of resting on this day. Speaking of the Lord's Day Act, Rev. Mr. Hanna said that several of its clauses limited its scope but that every man had the legal right to one day's rest. The fact that the Attorney-General of a province in which an infrition of the Act is alleged to have taken place, must give his assent to a prosecution has not been entirely satisfactory. In British Columbia there have been no prosecutions; in Manitoba there have been several but in Quebec and Nova Scotia the law is not enforced. It is carried out, however, in the other five provinces.

75,000 SET FREE

Rev. Mr. Hanna stated that since the new Act came into force eight months ago, 75,000 men or half the seven day toilers have been set free in Canada. These figures have been computed carefully by labor unions for a leading journal and are considered practically exact.

The American Sunday newspaper was severely censured by Mr. Hanna who hopes to see its circulation on the Lord's Day entirely forbidden. Over 80 per cent. of the Sunday distribution has been already stopped in Canada.

Another fact the speaker mentioned was that more than 300 different violations of the Act had been stopped. Rev. Mr. Hanna explained the methods of the Alliance in its endeavor to peaceably come to terms with violators. Up to the present 98 per cent. of the cases have been stopped without going to the courts, thus refuting the statement that the Alliance is a disturbing factor in a community.

REST REQUIRED

Continuing Rev. Mr. Hanna pointed out the necessity of rest and stated even mechanical apparatus does better work and has a longer life when it has periods of rest. Where the Lord's Day is violated crime grows apace and Mr. Hanna quoted statistics dealing with some districts of the United States. In conclusion Mr. Hanna asked for the assistance of the people in promoting the work. Canada has a future which will claim every attention. Sunday rest should be a birthright privilege for every Canadian and the present is the time to adjust the laws which will govern it.

Large Crowds at Service at S. A. Barracks

Brigadier and Mrs. Hargrave Addressed Meeting Yesterday

There was an unusually large attendance at the services at the Salvation Army Barracks on Saturday evening and yesterday. Brigadier and Mrs. Hargrave, Provincial officers, of Montreal, were present and gave addresses at each meeting. Yesterday morning the Brigadier addressed the holiness meeting and in the afternoon the barracks was again crowded with an enthusiastic audience who listened attentively to the able address delivered by Brigadier Hargrave.

At the evening service, the attendance was probably the largest and there were a number of converts. Mrs. Hargrave spoke from the words "Prepare to meet thy God." Mrs. Hargrave is an earnest speaker and kept her audience deeply interested throughout. Special music was rendered yesterday by the band and songsters brigade.

Tonight the Brigadier and Mrs. Hargrave will be present at a private meeting of the local corps.

The Situation at Havelock is Interesting

Rateryayers are Anxiously Awaiting the Decision of the Hotel Men

Havelock, March 23.—The citizens of town and especially the upholders of the high license by-law, are anxiously awaiting to see what the liquor party will do.

It was reported that they would attempt to quash the by-law on the ground that the returning officers did not use standard time, but this appears to have gone through.

It was said that they would all close up on May 1st, but this is very unlikely, as many think it would pay them to pay the high license of $750. Everyone is anxiously waiting to see if they take out license. Applications for license must be made before April 1st, so they have just a week more in which to apply for them.

They will either close their houses altogether on May 1st or if they pay the high license, they will raise the price of sealed whiskey to 15c. per glass.

It is rumored in town that the citizens will object to giving a license to at lease one hotel, even if they do make application, for reasons which they claim, will bar them from taking out license.

HAVELOCK

Havelock, March 23.—The small collection of houses termed Preneveau, had an awakening on Thursday night last and looked somewhat like its old self as it used to be when the mines there were in operation before.

People, old and young, gathered in from all points of the compass including Havelock, Norwood and Marmora and soon the small town hall which has been the scene of many a red-hot political meeting and where the Belmont Council have gathered many a time to see what they could do to improve the township, was crowded full of the most happy looking people that ever drew breath in our broad Dominion.

The sweet and harmonious sounds of the violin and mouth-organ soon burst forth in monstrous volume upon that vast assembly and dancing commenced and the small feet of the dizzy dancers beat time to the music until the hour grew late and early and late again.

At twelve o'clock lunch was served; those present enjoyed themselves immensely with the result that another dance and social re-union has been booked for Wednesday.

The dance was under the management of Mr. Bert Easton, of town.

The Havelock Electric Light Co. are advertising for a manager and secretary.

Messrs. H. Morrison and F. Hilton spent Sunday in Peterborough.

Forty of the young people of Norwood put on a splendid concert in the Opera House on Friday night, under the auspices of the Methodist church and there was a large attendance.

Mr. and Mrs. Jas. McCracken, of Craighurst, formerly of town are the guest of their daughter, Mrs. Jessie Waymark.

Mr. Clarence McKown, formerly of town, now of Winnipeg, is in town on business.

Mr. Wm Mathieson, spent a few days in Toronto last week.

We are pleased to hear that Mr. Jas. Bryans is improving favorably.

Mr. P. Cromar, who has been transferred to North Bay, shipped his household effects on Friday.

Miss Bertha Bryans has returned from visiting friends in Peterborough.

Mr. Sherry, of Norwood, was in town on business on Saturday.

Mr. W. R. Marks, of Peterborough, was in town on Monday last.

Mr. J. Barlow spent Saturday with friends in Peterborough.

The next meeting of the Village Council will be held on April 6th.

The Crystal Amusement Co, will appear in town hall on March 23rd, 24th and 25th.

The roads in town are getting very bare of snow and as the farmer brings in his load of wood he does not think it quite appropriate to sing "Merrily over the snow we go," as he gets stuck here and there in the mud, so he contents himself with saying things under his breath when he strikes the patches of mud.

SEABROOKS MINE MAY BE DEVELOPED

Interesting Report From Havelock — Change in Ownership Said to Have Taken Place

Special to The Review.

Havelock, March 23—The Seabrooks mine, which was supposed to be a very valuable gold proposition, has turned out to be very rich in copper and it is likely that it will be opened up in earnest in the spring by the Spears Canadian Mining Syndicate of Toronto. These mines which were worked some years ago for gold are situated about three miles east of here on the Marmora road, and cover a considerable amount of ground. They are owned by Messrs. John and Sam. Seabrooks but it is reported that one of the gentlemen has sold out his interest in the mine. The Spears Mining Syndicate have an option on the mine, and have been making extensive examinations of it and as the report is most favorable it is likely that a deal will go through. It is reported that the amount named in the option will put the Seabrooks Bros. on 'easy street' as the mine is said to be very rich in copper.

Annual Meeting of Power Company

Harmony Existed at Meeting of Northumberland-Durham Power Company

The Port Hope Guide says;

The annual meeting of the Northumberland-Durham Power Company, Limited, was held at Cobourg, March 16th, shareholders being present from four counties —representative manufacturers and business men.

The meeting was unanimous in every respect, perfect harmony existing.

Managing-Director J. A. Culverwell, reported that construction work had been stopped, pending a settlement with the Dominion Government for their intervening portion of the Upper Healey Rapids.

This company holds a new lease from the Ontario Government, and owns other portions of the rapids and necessary lands for development.

The company, therefore is not to blame that the district is not yet receiving cheap power, as will be seen from the above statement.

THE STEEL INDUSTRY IN CANADA

Mr. Wm. Rudkins Speaks at a Public Meeting at Campbellford

On Monday night last a public meeting was held at Campbellford for the purpose of discussing the bylaw in connection with the steel industry to be located in that town. In reporting the meeting the Campbellford Herald has the following:

Mr. Wm. Rudkins, one of the members of the proposed company, was the next speaker. He congratulated the people on turning out in such large numbers, showing their interest in the town. He said that as a boy he began the foundry business and had been in it ever since. He had been instrumental in establishing the Peterborough Shovel Company and the Rapid Tool Company in Peterborough. These companies along with other large concerns in Peterborough had imported about 500 tons of steel in the past two years, for which they paid $60 a ton. This steel can be manufactured in Campbellford just as well as in the United States, and as a Canadian he would like to see it made here. There are about 100 such concerns in the United States employing from 300 to 500 hands each, and many of the men receiving $5 or $6 per day. He instanced a small concern started in Chicago with small capital which is now established at Tonawanda, N.Y. and employing 500 hands. There is no reason why in five years the Steel Company locating here should not employ 500 hands. He gave some idea of the profits of the business by stating that rails for which railway companies get $18 per ton returned to us at a cost of $60 per ton. Mr. Rudkins also stated that Niagara Falls had made them an offer of power at $10 per horse power for a 24 hour service, but the company preferred Campbellford as a shipping point, it being more central and nearer the market. During the year 1906 there was $1,989,116 worth of steel imported from the United States,

Had a Hard Time Getting Hair Cut

The following has been handed the Review with a request that it be published;

A prominent young man of this city wanted his father to undertake cutting his hair as he had tried all the barbers in town and had not been suited. His father took the contract but he went at it in great dread being afraid he could not suit him. His hands trembled and several times he let the scissors drop. The young man got up in a hurry and jumped from the chair, and said, "You are making a fool of me," and would not let his father finish the job and a storm began. The father's nerves got so worked up he on with his hat and took a walk up street, and stayed away for several hours, leaving the son chewing the rag. When his father returned home he found to his relief he had called a neighbor into finish him to his own taste. He had four looking glasses around him, and that so unnerved the new apprentice that he is in bed over it with a nervous prostration, but the attack is not serious.

KILTIES BAND STRANDED

The famous Belleville Kilties' Band, which toured the world over, is stranded in Jonesboro, Arkansas, U.S. This information, which, to say the least, is very surprising, was received by to-day by Mr. Wm. F. Robinson, who was leader in the days of the band's glory. The band always had an enviable reputation among the concert bands touring the country, and up to a year ago was doing great business. Lately, however, it has been going back; and about eight weeks ago it went all to the bad. A new bandmaster, Mr. W. J. Robson, came over from England to take charge recently. At the present time the band is about 25 strong, with no hope of getting away from the little burg in the big State of Arkansas. It is understood that no salaries have been paid the men for the past eight weeks and they had to leave the band to shift for themselves The stringency of the money market and the lack of engagements caused the trouble

In the tea-producing countries of the Orient the price of tea has almost doubled during the past year. This has necessitated the 'Salada' Tea Co., in order to maintain the high standard of perfection to which they have brought Blended Ceylon Teas, to advance the price of the 25c grade to 30c per pound.

THE YELLOW PERIL

London, Ont., March 20.—Rev. Dr. Johnston of Montreal, former pastor of St. Andrew's church, spoke at the Canadian Club's luncheon yesterday afternoon, his topic being "The Asiatic Problem in regard to Canada." In the course of his remarks the speaker said:

"Canada is sparsely populated, and Europe densely; and as Canada is able to support at least a billion souls, it is impossible to keep our doors closed against nations like Japan and China, which are the most industrious and far-seeing nations on the globe. It is further impossible that the yellow nations should open their doors to our exports while we refuse them admittance. Japan is on equal footing with Britain and for us to close our doors against them will but mean a struggle which can terminate but one way, when the mighty giant, China, awakes from her slumbers and spreads across the seas to assert her rights."

"Swing open the gates of Canada," said Dr. Johnston, "and allow the nations of the world to come in and make this the crowning nation of history."—Exchange.

We have here the issue fairly before us. This extraordinary statement of Rev. Dr. Johnston nevertheless represents the policy of Sir Wilfrid Laurier. It seems too strange to be real. It means the deliberate transforming of Canada into lethargic opium-eating China and its rival-ally Japan. It means the conquest of the white race by the yellow, of the fresh young west by the stale cynical calculating east—the conquest of a Christian nation by an unchristian nation—the removal of all that we hold most dear from the map of the world.

If Mr. Borden did nothing else than to protest with all his might against this treachery to our father land he would deserve the gratitude of all Canadians even to the last one of whom standing on the moss-covered remains of the Bridge at Quebec bids adieu to his country plunged into darkness and antiquity once more. The root of all this evil is as the scripture says, "The love of money." The G.T.P. is in a parlous way. It has failed to sell its last issue of bonds. It put ten millions of pounds worth on the market and lo! only two millions were subscribed for! Why? Because under present conditions such an investment and such an undertaking are dangerous. The financial world realizes this. We will find it out ourselves to our sorrow before long. Cheap labor is the only hope. Cheap labor can be got only in the east. The country must be flooded with yellow slaves. Mammon must be served. Capital is in danger. What is this land of sunshine and former happiness in comparision with the glint of gold! Lie, cheat, swindle and enslave—all may be done it so only gold may be served. We of course do not speak of the saving few amongst capitalists, of such men as Sir Wm. McDonald, who is an honor to his race, of Lord Strathcona, of Sir Wm. Van Horne, of Senator W. C. Edwards, or of all that noble but small body of men who use capital as it employs labor, fairly, faithfully and honorably. But we do refer to that ever watchful soulless body of men who conspire together to skim the cream off everything, to take the kernel from every nut, to live on fatness though even leanness should not remain for others—to all in a word of those who would still strive to make money dishonorably though love and joy, good and evil, life and death, yea, heaven and earth should pass away. It is to check these that the nation must protest. The Laurier administration has capitulated to the G.T.P. Capital is at stake, but so is Canada; for Wilfrid disappoints his most faithful friends. The verdict of his countrymen is that he has betrayed them.

AXES TO GRIND

The Examiner of March 21st enlivens its editorials with a sharp attack on the Whitney Government for thinking of transferring Lakefield to the East Riding. Do the Lakefield people want the change? Or are they indifferent? If so, and the populations of the two ridings can be better or more nearly equalized, why not have the transfer made? Ashburnham was taken into the city of Peterborough, and now Lakefield might very reasonably go into the East Riding. The Examiner, as usual adduces no argument. Its article reads very like as if, also as usual, it had some personal purpose to serve. It alleges that 62 majority in favor of Mr. Bradburn is one of the "reasons why." If Lakefield wanted, however, as the Examiner asserts, to remain where it is, very badly, it would probably reduce that governmental majority considerably, in case of its wants being neglected. Little things like these do not seem to occur to our contemporary, but they frequently validate or invalidate an argument as we see. The great Liberal convention at Norwood is, we are informed, to be made to do what the Examiner ordered it to do, but which it declined to do, namely, to break up into two, and thus leave over to a later date the selection of a Dominion candidate. Now, in the West Riding all sorts of Laurier Government literature is finding its way to the electors, and from city centres of party activity, too. Why is this? Everybody knows that the Dominion Government will not wait to go to the country on a deficit as predicted by its own Finance Minister, Mr. Fielding, and a promised decline in trade. More axes to grind—more axes to grind. But the people are wide awake. To be in two ridings is not desirable, as Lakefield is at present.

EDITORIAL NOTES

No one is fond of paying out money to lawyers, but when, as was explained by Hon. Mr. Foy, the paying of $30,000 in law fees brought in a very much increased revenue to the province, there is little room for argument. It's the result that counts. —Hamilton Spectator.

The concluding words of this paragraph furnish the key to the solution of many a problem. It's the defeated party to a law suit who is the regulation fool.

Hard Times of Immigrants

Many Anxious for Work—Are Not Able to Secure it

A young Englishman, twenty years of age, who has only been out in the country a very short time, was given protection at the police station, on Tuesday night, says the Kingston Whig. He says that he had been working for a farmer, but that he could not do the work, and was discharged. Yesterday, he arrived in the city penniless, and was glad to be given a chance to stay in the station over night. He said that he was brought over to this country by the Salvation Army. He felt very much discouraged at not being able to secure work, but was well aware of the fact that he was not the only person out of work. This morning he spent about the city in search of employment. He appeared very willing to work, and it is to be hoped that he will strike good luck.

Three other men, also English immigrants were given shelter in the police cells. They said that they walked here yesterday from Gananoque, and were on the way to Trenton, where they had been promised work. There are a great many of the newcomers who do not care very much for work, but there are also large numbers who are very anxious to secure work, but often it is very difficult for them to secure it on account of the spirit shown by the others.

GIVES VALUBLE ADVICE

Simple Home Recipe Said to do Wonders for Many People.

A well-known authority says that Backache is often nature's danger signal, which notifies the sufferer that the kidneys are sick.

The following simple home-made mixture is said to relieve backache and cleanse and build up weak, disordered kidneys, if taken before the stage of Bright's disease; Fluid Extract Dandelion, one-half ounce; Compound Kargon, one ounce; Compound Syrup Sarsaparilla, three ounces. Mix by shaking well in a bottle, and take in teaspoonful doses after meals and at bedtime.

A well-known local druggist is authority that these ingredients are mainly of vegetable extraction and harmless to use, and can be obtained at small cost from any good prescription pharmacy. Those who think they have kidney trouble or suffer with lame back or weak bladder, or such symptoms as frequent desire to urinate, especially at night; painful, thick, discolored urine, etc., should give this prescription a trial, as no harm can possibly follow its use, and it is said to do wonders for many people.

A STRANGE PHOTOGRAPH

London, March 21.—A remarkable phenomenon illustrating photography by lightning has just been discovered by some workmen in Belfast. The men employed by the Ulster Furnishing Company, York street, were sawing a log of mahogany, which was found to contain right through a very clearly-defined "photograph" of a small deer and larger animal, running. Doubtless the "photograph" was transmitted by lightning during a storm, and the picture must have been "taken" a long time ago, as the tree, being four feet in diameter, is an exceedingly old one. Every plank of the log right through shows the images clearly.

The idea of photography by lightning has suggested itself to a well-known novelist, who utilized the seemingly bizarre suggestion in the plot of a popular sensational story.

The curio is being exhibited in the firm's shop window, and will doubtless eventually find its way into a museum.

Hamilton Street Railway Company now propose to expend $500,000 on the system in return for certain concessions from the city.

A Sensational Incident; Dr. Thompson Joins Mr. Borden

The Independent Representative of the Yukon Approves Opposition Policy—The Machine Scored—A Memorable Event.

Three years ago the people of the Yukon, by a large majority, condemned the Government machine in that district, and elected Dr. Thompson as an independent opponent of the vicious ruling element. Dr. Thompson promised to keep clear of party ties at Ottawa, and to give his whole attention to the rescue of the Yukon from the hands of the spoiler. He had carried out that pledge, neither speaking or voting on party questions, attending no party gatherings, but working steadily for honest Yukon government. Friday night he left Ottawa for home, and as this might be the last session of the term he made a brief statement to the House. He condemned the extravagance of the administration, denounced the policy of bonusing immigrants, and expressed strong disapproval of the huge Government grants of farm lands, timber lands, coal deposits, and fishing lakes and rivers to speculators and favorites. In conclusion, he declared that, as he was now free from the obligation of non-partizanship, he would henceforth support the Conservative party, whose platform he approved, and in whose leader he had confidence. This announcement was greeted with Conservative cheers, and Dr. Thompson set out for home to tell the Yukon electors that if he returns to Ottawa it will be to act with the Conservative party. He has been long enough in parliament to learn that the evils in the Yukon are part of a general system, and that the vicious machine, which he came here to destroy, is simply an attachment to a greater and equally vicious machine operated from the National Capital.

G.T.R. Mortgage Bonds Fail in the London Market

A Most Serious Blow to Canadian Credit—The Grand Trunk Not Wholly to Blame—Complicated by the Immigration Scandal.

The fact that disaster seems to have overtaken the issue of Grand Trunk mortgage bonds offered in the London market, after all previous Canadian issues has scored a marked success, proves that investors are seriously concerned over the enormous decreases in earnings being steadily reported by the Grand Trunk, and are still incensed at the Grand Trunk board on account of some of its recent acts.—The Globe, March 21st, 1908.

The above clipping is from the financial columns of the Globe. The "recent acts" referred to are largely in connection with the G.T.R's. huge progeny, the G.T.P., whose bonds it has guaranteed. The G.T.P. is fencing with the Government and the financiers are fencing with the G.T.P. The result will be that rather than lose what the administration has already sunk, it will plunge deeper and guarantee the bonds of the whole road. The spectacle will then be presented to the world of a private railway enterprise (from Fort William westward) being guaranteed by a public administration. Sir Wilfrid Laurier and the magnates of the G.T.P. are using the credit of Canada for their own glory and profit and Canada will yet pay dearly for it. What the G.T.R. proper will do with respect to its declining business and increased burdens no patriotic Canadian would care to forecast.

TWO ITALIANS CHARGED WITH MURDER OF A COUNTRYMAN

Man Who Was Stabbed at Dundas Dies in Hospital

Two Italians Are Held—Guiseppe Greco and His Brother Bruno Arrested—Found In an Old Hut Near Paris, Ont.—Taken to Hamilton—Alleged Confession of the Crime to Police Sergeants.

Hamilton, March 23.—Guiseppe Greco, wanted on the charge of stabbing Antonio Riesso, who died on Saturday, was captured yesterday with his brother Bruno at Blue Lake, about four miles from Paris. The arrests were made quietly by Chief Twiss of Dundas and Constable Robson, who set out Saturday afternoon and drove as far west as Brantford. On their way back from Brantford, they called at an old shanty about four miles east of Paris that had been fitted up as a sort of hotel for Italians. In response to the summons of the officers, the five inhabitants of the place turned out of their bunks and the Greco brothers submitted to arrest without resistance. They were brought to No. 3 police station yesterday afternoon.

Guiseppe, who is charged with stabbing, is only about 20 years of age, and small. The charge in the summons is stabbing and wounding, but this will be amended to something more serious, either murder or manslaughter. His brother, Bruno, who is a big fellow, 36 years of age, is now charged with assaulting Riesso's companion, who tried to stop the fight between his brother and the dead man, and who, it is alleged, was knocked down by Bruno with a club. The charge against him will likely be amended to aiding and abetting the stabbing.

The only motive the police have been able to unearth for the stabbing is jealousy due to the fact that the dead man had been appointed as foreman in the stone quarry of Doolittle & Wilcox, superseding one of the Greco brothers.

Brantford, March 23.—It is understood that at the police station yesterday morning Greco made a confession to Sergts. Wallace and Donnelly. He said he had been drinking at the time of the tragedy and plunged the knife once into the victim. On sobering up he realized the crime, and, with his brother, fled.

MAYBEE BECOMES CHAIRMAN OF THE RAILWAY COMMISSION

Justice of Ontario High Court Goes to Railway Board.

Leaves Bench to Assume Greater Responsibilties of Commission—Difficulty Over Retiring Allowance Has Been Arranged by the Government—Special Legislation Will Be Passed—Begins Duties at Once.

Ottawa, March 23—The appointment of Justice J. P. Mabee as chief commissioner of the Dominion Railway Board is now officially announced. His duties will commence almost at once.

When spoken to a fortnight ago, Mr. Mabee seemed genuinely surprised that his name was mentioned in connection with the vacancy occasioned by the death of the late Justice Killam, and which Mr. Mabee attributed primarily to the strain of the work the late chairman had been performing. By the proposed changes in the Railway Board, however, this strain should be materially removed from the new occupant of the office.

A few days ago it was said that Mr. Mabee had declined the appointment, owing to the fact that he would lose the retiring allowance which his position on the bench entitles him to. This, however, has been satisfactorily arranged.

When Justice Killam accepted the chairmanship the act was changed so as to allow him to carry his retiring allowance after fifteen years' combined service on the bench and on the commission. The conditions will be the same for Justice Mabee as regards salary and retirement.

Justice Mabee is one of the youngest members of the bench in Ontario. He is a native of Stratford, where he practiced law previous to his elevation a couple of years ago. He had been the Liberal candidate in North Perth at the general election of 1904, when he was defeated by A. F. MacLaren.

He stands high in his profession and is noted for his capacity for hard work. His attainments as a judicial exponent of equity as well as law admirably fit him for the position of chairman of the Railway Commission.

His gifts as a cross-examiner may be of service also when it comes to probing matters about which in the public interest it is occasionally difficult to throw sufficient light.

The chief commissionership has a salary of $10,000 a year attached.

SHALL THE PEOPLE RULE?

When the Toronto City Council, acting in a perfectly legal way, voted to reduce the possible hotel licenses for the city by forty, it was not expected that the men whose licenses were in danger would be very enthusiastic over the action. At once every agency known to the liquor party was set to work to upset, if possible, the action taken by the council. The right of those who voted for the reduction to a seat in the council was challenged and the method of procedure that had been unchallenged for twenty years was attacked. This method had been followed in the case of those who voted for it, but the temperance people did not challenge the votes of any. This matter is now before the court. Then, a petition was circulated asking the Government to interfere in the matter and override the plain law in the case. To this petition some thousands of signatures were obtained. Some of them it is asserted, being secured by most peculiar methods. Finally, an immense mass meeting was called for Massey Hall, and at this it was most emphatically asserted that "the people should rule," and that the action of the council was unfair and unjust, because two years before, the people of Toronto has decided by an majority vote that there was to be no reduction of licenses.

Now, if there is one thing to which the temperance party is sensitive, it is to any accusation of unfairness. And if there is one plea which consistency should teach the license advocates to shun, it is this one of fair play.

Is it true that the temperance party is unwilling to trust the people? Are not all the facts rather upon the other side? When, in the referdum vote, in 1902, Toronto gave a majority of 1,629 for the abolition of liquor licenses, why did not these men come forward and raise the cry: "Let the people rule." How is it that the vote of 1906, when a majority of 1,580 declared against the reduction of licenses, should be held to be of such vast importance, and the larger vote of 1902 should be quietly ignored? By what rule of fair play is such a result reached?

Again, how is it that the very men who claim that a majority of less than one and a half per cent. should be sufficient to rivet licenses upon Toronto, are found heart and soul in favor of continuing the legal unfairness that prevents the passage of local option anywhere unless a majority of fifty per cent is secured? Yet these are the very men who raise the cry in Toronto, "Let the people rule." Temperance men are not afraid to trust the people. The men who demand a majority of fifty per cent. assuredly must be.

But we would like to ask a question of our friends: Suppose that tomorrow the temperance voters in Toronto came forward with a proposition that the people should rule, would they themselves be willing to abide by it? If the vote of 1906, with its majority of 1,580 should bind the council of 1908, are they willing that a like vote should bind the council of 1909? For instance, suppose the temperance party next year were to submit to the temperance people this question: "Shall we abolish the bar?" and a majority of 1,580 said, "Yes," would the council be bound in all fairness to abolish the bar? Where would the men be then, who are now so eloquently pleading that the people should rule? Is it not a fact that, almost without any exception, the men who now pose as champions of the people's rule would be the bitterest opponents of any council that would listen to the voice of the people if it said, "No License." It is too late in the day for the liquor party to pose as the champions of the people's will.—The Christian Guardian.

Note.—The recent action of the Toronto City Council in reducing the number of licenses has been declared illegal by Chief Justice Meredith. The action referred to was in contravention of the vote of the people at the polls.

MASKS AT A WEDDING

London, March 21.—A party of masked men, who are locally known as "straw boys," broke up a wedding party at the house of a Mrs. Guckins at Drumkeerin, county Leitrim, a few days ago.

The men rudely invaded the house, took the leading part in the various dances, drank most of the liquor, which was in abundance, missed the bride, "ragged" the bridegroom, generally terrorized the guests, and when departing carried away a quantity of cold fowl meant for the entertainment of the wedding party.

The invaders returned later and indulged in further horse-play. They fired several shots outside the house out of antiquated rifles, but did no damage. Some of the young men of the wedding party attempted to interfere, but the masked men "wiped the floor" with them in the most approved Donnybrook style.

The terrified guests remained inside the house until late in the morning. The cause of the visitation to Mr. Guckins' house is believed to be some differences arising out of the North Leitrim election between the Sinn Feiners and the supporters of the Parliamentary party.

Blood on Engine Gives A Clue to Fatality

TRAGIC DEATH OF BEN HOWARD

The Well Known Indian Runner Struck by Engine of Belleville Train on Saturday Night and Instantly Killed—Body Horribly Mangled—Coroner's Jury Viewed the Remains and Inquest Will be Held on Monday March 30th—Splendid Athletic Career of Deceased.

Most unfortunate and distressing is the death of Ben Howard, the 23 year old son of Mr. Madden Howard, of Hiawatha. This morning, as the body lay on a plank in a removing basket at Comstock's undertaking rooms, it was almost impossible to recognize the distorted remains as those of the young Hiawatha athlete who had so suddenly sprung into prominence through his skill as a distance runner.

BLOOD ON THE ENGINE.

On Saturday night, about 8.40, just after the Belleville train had arrived at the Grand Trunk station, the engine driver, Mr. John McMahon, noticed blood on the front of the engine as he was making an inspection of the engine. The train despatcher of this district, No. 8, was communicated with, and he sent messages all along the line between Belleville and Peterborough to make investigation as to whether any person had been killed or injured.

BODY FOUND BY SECTION MEN.

About seven o'clock yesterday morning section forman for the G. T.R. Peterborough section east, accompanied by two section men, set out on a handcar in an endeavor to find the cause of the blood on the engine. About 10.15 o'clock they discovered a mangled body in the centre of the G.T.R. tracks. The place where the body was found was three miles east of the G.T.R. station, and about three-quarters of a mile southeast of Downer's Corners.

CORONER NOTIFIED.

The body was removed to the side of the track by the men and Dr. Gray, the coroner, was notified. He ordered its removal to the station house. This was done and there the remains were identified by a young man from Hiawatha, Jas. Cowie, an employee of the George Matthews Company, Mr. Jos. Lynch of Ashburnham, and Mr. Mr. Arthur Morgan of this city. A post card was found in one of the pockets of the dead man, addressed to Ben Howard. The remains were removed to Comstock's undertaking rooms and have been there ever since. At 11 o'clock this morning they were viewed by the coroner's jury and a post-mortem in charge of Dr. Cameron, with Dr. Young as assistant, was ordered.

LEFT HOME TO GET LOAD OF OATS.

Between six and seven o'clock on Saturday morning the victim of the fatal accident left his home in Hiawatha with a team and sleigh with a hayrack. He was going to Peterborough to get a load of oats at the Peterborough Cereal Company and to make arrangements according to Mr. Dick Baker, the well-known local trainer, concerning what he should do in the line of athletics during the coming summer.

HAD BEEN DRINKING

He got the oats about 3 o'clock in the afternoon and left them with his team and sleigh at the Munro House. He forgot where he had left them as the deceased had unfortunately been drinking during the day and went over to Hogan's Hotel at East City, to see if he could find them. This was about 6 o'clock at night. He could not find them at Hogan's and thinking some of his friends had driven them home for him he took a ride with an Otonabee farmer later in the evening as far as the GTR. crossing about one hundred yards above Downer's Corners. He proceeded to walk down the track towards home. This was about 8 o'clock. During the day he had been with a Mohawk Indian from Deseronto, by the name of Culverson. The two had worked together and were renewing old acquaintances.

SAD NEWS REACHES HIS NATIVE VILLAGE

The shocking intelligence of the death of Howard was conveyed to Hiawatha yesterday by Messrs. Jos. Cowie and Jos. Lynch of East City, who, as before mentioned, had identified the body at the station. A deep gloom was cast over the village when the tidings became known. The young man was well known and liked in his native village and was much admired for his ability as an athlete. He was also a good canoeist and shot. He was a member of the Hiawatha Methodist church and quite frequently sang in add howard the choir. He is survived by his father and mother and brother and sister. His father is Mr. Madden Howard, the well-known expert canoeist of Rice Lake, and his brother who is a little younger than he is Mr. Handley Howard. His sister, Bella, resides at Mount Elgin, Ont. Mr. Jim Howard, one of the most widely known members of the Hiawatha reserve, is an uncle.

CORONER'S JURY VIEWS BODY.

The following jury viewed the remains at Comstock's undertaking rooms this morning; James Hendry, T. Hendry, P. O'Keefe, T. C. Holden, (foreman), Thos. Hooper, R. Pullyblank, Edward Lee Welch, Edward Jewett, John Blackford, George Frost, Walter Kidd, W. L. Taylor and Roy Deyell.

After the remains had been viewed it was decided to hold a post-mortem examination to find out if any drugs or other matter were in deceased's stomach. The doctors appointed to conduct the post-mortem was Dr. Cameron and Dr. Young was decided upon as his assistant. The inquest was adjourned until Monday morning, March 20th, in the City Council chambers.

FRIGHTFULLY MANGLED.

The body was frightfully managled and although little blood was found on the track it was practically shattered. The neck was apparently broken. The left leg and right arm were broken, the bone protruding through the flesh of the arm. The right hip was lacerated with two long cuts. Other injuries were also noticeable when the clothing was taken from the body at the undertaker's rooms.

A CLEVER RUNNER.

The late Ben Howard was looked upon as a runner of great promise. On the 24th of May last he first came before the public as a runner when he won the five-mile running event under the auspices of the Peterborough Turf Club, making good time. On July 1st he went to Lindsay where he came in second in the ten-mile running race at the Dominion Day sports being defeated by the crack Hiawatha runner Fred Simpson.

He took up his residence in Sunderland a short time later and joined the forces of the Irish-Canadian Athletic Club. He established a great name for himself when he defeated Percy Sellen in a five-mile race in Hamilton in one of the best events ever seen in that city. The time made was 27.30. He also won the Indian race in Hamilton. After that he raced in the Ward Marathon in the fall of 1907, finishing 12th or 13th. The next race he entered in was the Examiner road race of last fall, coming in second. The last race he won was the 3-mile one with Hilton Greene at the Brock street rink under the auspices of the local Harriers Club.

OBITUARY

ARCHIBALD MOFFAT

The death is announced on Sunday, 22nd, at the residence of his brother-in-law, Mr. Alex. Gibson, of Archibald Moffat, at the age of 55 years. Deceased was one of the best known of Peterborough citizens as youth and man. In his early days he entered the hardware store of the late John Bertram, and on the death of Thomas Lannin, Mr. Bertram being one of the executors of the estate, placed Mr. Moffat in charge until the business was sold to Mr. Adam Hall. Mr. Moffat remained with Mr. Hall for many years, afterwards going to Winnipeg with the Ashdown Company. For the last two years he had been with the Cavendish Lumber Co. Lakefield, in charge of their work in the woods. The immediate cause of death was an attack of pneumonia. He leaves his mother, who is living with her daughter, Mrs. Gobson, and two sisters, Mrs. Starr and Miss Moffat, of Toronto. The funeral will take place on Tuesday at 2.30 pm. to the Little Lake cemetery.

MRS JOSIAH HUNTER.

The funeral of the late Alice Coates, wife of Mr. Josiah Hunter, of Lakefield, took place on Friday, March 20, from the family residence Regent street, to the Lakefield cemetery. The pall-bearers were four sons and two nephews of the deceased. The funeral services were conducted by the Rev. Mr. Jones, of the Baptist church, of which the deceased was a devoted member. The late Mrs. Hunter was married to her bereaved husband 60 years ago. They resided in Smith township until about fifteen years ago when they retired from farm life and removed to Lakefield. The deceased was in her 88th year. Besides the sorrowing husband there are five sons and one daughter left to mourn her loss. Geo. W., of Rochester, N. Y.; Louis, of Douro; Wm. A., of this city; Sidney, of Lakefield; Josiah, of Smith, and Miss Eliza J., at home. Two brothers still survive her, Wm. and Joseph Coates, of Bewdley, Ont.

Messrs. Allan and F. A. Coates, of this city, are nephews of the deceased.

An elder sister of the deceased lady passed away in Rochester about a month ago, aged 80 years.

WILLIAM RUNNELS

On Wednesday, March 11th, after a very brief illness, the angel of death called home one of the oldest residents of this section of the country, in the person of Wm. Runnels, who contracted blood poisoning from a slight cut in his finger by a razor.

The subject of this memoir was born in Cornwall, England in the year 1817. Early in his life he married and went to Wales to reside, and while there his wife and three children died of black cholera. He afterwards married a second time and as a result of this union fourteen children were born, six of whom survive. In 1856 Mr. and Mrs. Runnels, with a family of five children, emigrated to Canada arriving in Cobourg on the 5th of June. Soon after they settled on a farm in Cramahe where they lived for three years, afterwards moving to Campbellford where they spent the remainder of their days. Mrs. Runnels died about five years ago.

During his long life of over 90 years the deceased encountered many hardships and the story of his life would recount many an interesting adventure. His early occupation was that of a miner and history records the hardship and privation endured by those engaged in the mining business in those days. Mr. Runnels was once shipwrecked and almost perished for want of food.

After settling in Campbellford, then but a hamlet, he pursued the trade of a stone mason. With his son, William, he laid down the first sidewalk in Campbellford, one piece extending from what is now the corner of Tice and George streets to Mr. Cockburn's residence, now Mr. A. A. Mulholland's, the other reaching from what is now Douglas' corner to a point near where the St. Lawrence hotel now stands.

Mr. Runnels was a man of the strictest integrity and the highest sense of honor. He originally belonged to the Bible Christian church, but at the time of the union he threw in his lot with the Methodists, of which denomination he has since been a member. So long as his strength permitted, he was a regular attendant at divine worship and up to the last, his life was characterized by faith and hope in the Saviour.

The surviving sons and daughters are; Francis, G., of Hastings; Ewin of Peterborough; William and Albert of Campbellford; and Mrs. Cogam of Detroit and Mrs. Waller, of Peterborough.

The funeral took place on Friday and was conducted by Rev. G. H Copeland, the remains being interred in Mount Pleasant cemetery. —Campbellford Herald.

GUISEPE CUPIDO

The death occurred this morning at St Joseph's Hospital of Guieseppe Cupido as a result of his leg being amputated a few days ago. He was born in the province of Chiete, Italy, and was 33 years of age. He came to Canada about four years ago, but later returned to Italy. He last came to Canada about a year ago. He leaves one brother, Fiorinto Cupido, in this country to mourn his loss.

The funeral will take place to-morrow morning at nine o'clock to the Roman Catholic church and thence to St Peter's cathedral.

THE LATE REV. EDWARD ROBERTS

In the death of Rev. Edward Roberts, on Thursday, February 27th came the close of an eminently useful ministerial life, embracing fifty years of service as a Methodist itinerant. Our now translated brother was born in the little Cornish town of Nevagizzy, in 1832, and while yet a youth experienced converting grace. In 1854 he married Miss Jane Lea, and soon after marriage the young couple left England for Canada. After a long, weary voyage, characteristic of that period, they reached Upper Canada and settled in the town of Cobourg. At once uniting with the church, his earnest Christian character and gifts soon led to Bro. Roberts' employment as a local preacher and his success and popularity as such prepared the way for his engagement in a still wider field, eventuating in his candidature for the Christian ministry in 1858. All through subsequent years, until his superannuation in 1900, no minister of the Bible Christian Church in Canada was more welcome on stations than Bro. Roberts, and he invariably left his charge better than he found it. His pastorates under the old regime were; Peterborough, Bowmanville, Exeter, London, Lindsay and Toronto, with a second term at Peterborough; Edward Roberts kept close to his instructions to preach the gospel, and while an adept in the use of appropriate incident and anecdote, he never outruded these except by way of illustrating the Gospel theme under discussion and always kept the fact before him that the great end of the Gospel ministry is to win souls. During his twenty-six years of ante-union ministry, every official position in the gift of his brethren Bro. Roberts received, finishing off with a second term as president. This brings matters down to the year 1884, when appointments began under Methodist union, of which he was a most enthusiastic advocate and towards the consummation of which there was no more efficient worker in the ministry of the Bible Christian Church. In the first General Conference of united Methodism, Bro. Roberts was honored with the vice-presidency, and in that august body, he was recognized as a most useful and hard-working member; and he was a member of each succeeding General Conference so long as he continued in the active work. During this latter period he was continuously district chairman, and in 1892 was president of the Bay of Quinte conference.—Christian Guardian.

Spring Assizes Opened To-day With Only One Criminal Case

Chief Justice Mulock Presiding—Address to the Grand Jury—Port Hope Brewing & Malting Co. Against Moffat & Jackson Settled Out of Court.

The Spring Assizes of the High Court opened at the court house this afternoon at one o'clock before Chief Justice Mulock. The following gentlemen compose the grand jury;

Messrs. R. E Burgess, foreman; David Burgess, John Carlisle, Geo. W. Fitzgerald, Ed. Galvin, Robt Northey, Cornelius O'Brien, Nathan Payne, John Rothwell, Alexander Thompson, Anthony Taylor, Timothy Welsh and Porter White.

After the jury had been chosen, His Lordship proceeded to address them on the duties they had been called upon to perform. He said in commencing, that their labors would be rather light. There is just the one indictment, requiring your attention. The offence is one of rape committed in this city some time last summer. His Lordship related the facts regarding this case and impressed upon the jurymen the seriousness of the offence and the extreme carefulness they must exercise in reaching a decision. It must be proven that the girl was used violently, but the fact that she did not relate the incident to her mother before she did is very much in the young man's favor. However, the matter must be carefully considered before any conclusion is made.

His Lordship referred to the several public institutions which it was necessary for the Grand jury to inspect. The gaol, hospitals, Protestant Home and House of Refuge at Lakefield, would have to be visited, but as the House of Refuge, would be inspected in June, His Lordship did not think it was necessary to visit it this time. In the county gaol at the present time, there are sixteen prisoners. Nine of those are vagrants. "How is it that there are so many men in gaol for vagrancy?" asked His Lordship. Sometimes men do not want to work. A man forty-four years of age should not be a vagrant. Some cases are excusable. A man of 88 years of age is not able to work and has to go to gaol. There are a number of vagabonds who go about the country doing nothing all summer and then go to gaol for the winter.

After His Lordship's address the grand jury retired and the non jury cases were proceeded with.

The first non-jury case taken up was that of Ada Hill, of Dummer, against Francis Kavanagh, also of Dummer. Mrs. Hill bought a piece of land from Kavanagh for $225. She paid him ten dollars on the property but later he refused to carry out the agreement. O'Connell & Gordon are solicitors for the plaintiff and George J. Sherry, of Norwood, for the defendant.

SETTLED OUT OF COURT.

The case of the Port Hope Brewing and Malting Co., Ltd., against Messrs Wm. Moffat and Irvine A. Jackson, of Belleville, was settled out of court. O'Connell & Gordon were the solicitors for the plaintiffs and Porter & Carnew were solicitors for the defendants.

Campbellford Carries the Steel By-law

Vote Was Almost Umaminous in Favor of Granting Certain Privileges

Campbellford, March 23.—The ratepayers of Campbellford to-day carried a by-law to give the Canadian Steel Company a site of five acres, fixed assessment for ten years, and to supply them with power at $10 per horse-power. The vote was almost unanimous, being 280 for and 8 against the by-law. Campbellford is developing 5,000 horse-power out of which they have sold the Steel company 1,500 horse-power. The company will commence at once to erect buildings at a cost of $80,000, and will employ 100 men to start.

Several Peterborough gentlemen are interested in the Canadian Steel Company, among them Mr. Wm. Rydkins and Jas. Davidson. The other members of the company are American capitalists.

Peterborough tried to secure this industry, but the city was unable to compete with Campbellford in furnishing electric power. Peterborough could not provide power at $10 per horse-power and as a result the industry was lost.

Drooping—Tired—Weary

You Feel Depressed, Dragged Out, and Sort of "All Gone" —Shake Off That Tired Feeling, Get Well and Strong, Fortify Your Nerves, Nourish Your Blood.

FERROZONE

You are getting pale and thin. You're dragged down with a "don't care" feeling that makes life most unhappy. Your strength is fleeting away, and weakness is creeping in. Every day your chances for cure becomes smaller.

Trouble is you don't assimilate your food, consequently the body is poorly nourished. The blood is thin, lacks those red corpuscles that denote health.

You can only prevent a total collapse by building up all the powers of the body with Ferrozone, which will surely make you well. Ferrozone creates tremendous appetite, increases the power of digestion, and insures perfect assimilation. Everything you eat is at once converted into nourishment.

FERROZONE makes rich, pure blood, a surplus of energy, new life for the nerves and all over-strained organs. Robust health will glow on the cheeks, jovial spirits, increased weight, and a clear, active brain will evidence a few of the benefits that follow Ferrozone.

GAINED 15 POUNDS.

Mr. H. A. Thurston, of 228 Vermont St. E., Indianapolis, Restored by Ferrozone.

"A year ago I took the grippe. I was as weak as a child. I was no longer able to eat. My blood was thin. My cheeks were white and hollow. Doctors gave me all kinds of medicine, but none of them brought me strength. My friends said I was wasting away with some slow disease, and I bade them good-bye. Then I heard of the wonderful Ferrozone. After three days it gave me an appetite. I gained strength and became cheerful. Under Ferrozone I improved steadily. I am well to-day. I weigh fifteen pounds heavier than ever before, and feel like a new man.
(Signed) "H. A. THURSTON."

The effect of Ferrozone is instant, yet permanent. For upbuilding and invigorating the listless and depressed it has no equal. It's the concentrated nourishment in Ferrozone that makes it so beneficial. We guarantee it contains no opiates, no alcohol, nothing but the most strengthening qualities known in medicine. Won't you use Ferrozone; it will surely make you well.

BUILD UP WITH FERROZONE!

Ferrozone Makes the Weak Strong—the Sick Well.

CAUTION! Be on your guard against the substitutor who urges something "just as good." Get FERROZONE when you ask for it. Other tonics are not so good as FERROZONE, which is guaranteed to cure. Price 50c per box of 50 chocolate coated tablets. Sold by all reliable dealers, or by mail from N. C. Polson & Co., Hartford, Conn., U.S.A., and Kingston, Ontario.

In Legislature at Toronto; For Suffrage for Women

Annual Motion in Favor of Votes For Women.

Mr. Smith (Peel) Takes Up Cudgels For the Ladies—Meets With Scant Support In the House—Mr. Bowman's Bill to Deal With Speed of Motor Vehicles on Country Roads—Reports on Commissions.

Toronto, March 24.—The report upon commissions was the only feature of the proceedings at the Legislature yesterday.

John Smith (Peel) made his annual motion in favor of woman suffrage, and introduced his bill to amend the Election Act with that object. To oblige Mr. Smith, if not to "oblige a lady," Dr. Smellie seconded the motion, with the conviction that the Government would kill the bill. So John Smith remains the only truly loyal, gallant, chivalrous and devoted champion of the sex in the House. John will be known as the great suffragan when the suffragettes come to their own.

Other bills introduced were:

To amend the act to regulate the speed and operation of motor vehicles on highways.—Mr. Bowman.

To incorporate the Town of Keewatin.—Mr. Smellie.

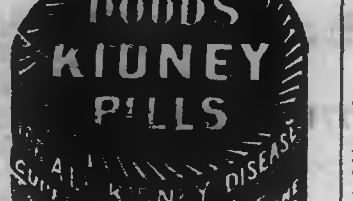
Respecting bylaw No. 4, 1908, of the Town of Clinton.—Mr. Gamey.

Mr. Bowman's bill requires motor-cars to stop at least 100 yards before approaching a horse on the highway, and requires the chauffeur to assist the driver in pacifying restive horses. Another clause prevents the operation of motor-cars outside cities between 7 a.m. and 9 p.m. on Saturdays and 7 a.m. and 3 p.m. Sundays.

Mr. Preston's bill respecting Port Arthur was reported in committee.

Second readings were given Mr. Craig's bill to amend the act to prevent the spread of noxious weeds, Mr. McCowan's bill to amend the Municipal Act, and Mr. Fisher's bill to amend the same act.

The redistribution committee will meet this morning to receive the schedules dealing with the Government proposals respecting the sixty-five constituencies not yet dealt with. It is not likely that any discussion will ensue until the schedules have been considered.



Abandoned Her Husband.

Detroit, Mich., March 24.—Married to a man whom she did not love because her mother and the priest told her she would thus save him to the church and discovering after two months of wedded existence that the condition was unbearable, a young girl from Webbwood, Ont., presented herself at the local immigration office for admission to the United States Saturday night. She told her story frankly.

Her one idea was to come to a big city, where she would be swallowed up beyond possibility of tracing. Local Inspector Frick finally convinced her that she should return to her husband, and she promised to do so, taking the train for her home.

A Narrow Escape.

Smith's Falls, March 24.—Walter McWatt, an employe of the Cooperage Co. at Galetta, Lanark County, had a narrow escape from death a few days ago.

He was working at some lumber which was buried in sawdust to a considerable depth. A sudden jerk on a piece brought the sawdust down, felling McWatt to the ground and burying him beneath its weight. He was powerless to move, and in a few moments would undoubtedly have smothered had it not been for the timely arrival of two fellow workmen, who rescued him from his perilous position.

Execution Stayed.

Harrisburg, Pa., March 24.—At the request of the British ambassador at Washington, Governor Stuart yesterday issued a respite staying the execution of James McLeod McDonald, alias William Smith, at Pittsburg, from to-morrow until April 28.

McDonald was convicted of murdering his common law wife, whose throat he cut with a razor following a jealous rage. He deserted a wife and family in England for the woman he killed.

Two Hundred Drowned.

Tokio, March 24.—The Mutsu Maru, an 800-ton coasting steamer belonging to the Nippon Yusen Kaisha line, was sunk in collision with the Hidoyoshi Maru, 696 tons, at 2.30 yesterday morning, two miles from Todohokko, near Hakodate.

The captain of the Mutsu Maru, a majority of her 244 passengers, and forty-three of the crew perished. The Hifyoshi Maru and another steamer rescued the survivors.

WANTED HER LOVER BACK.

Paid $50 to Alleged Fortune-Teller, But Charm Didn't Work.

Windsor, March 24.—Mrs. Carrie Becker of this city is charged with witchcraft and sorcery. For some time past Mrs. Becker is alleged to have been supplementing the income of her husband, a workingman, by unrolling the veil of the future for a consideration.

The information is laid by one Lizzie Bastien, from whom she is said to have taken $50 at various times, and there are also a couple of other witnesses who mourn the loss of about $25.

The evidence the police expect to be able to produce is that one of the women enlisted Mrs. Becker's assistance to win back the affections of a lover who had grown cold and took his departure for unknown points some time before.

Various expedients were employed, each costing money, but none of them proved sufficiently efficacious for one reason or another, and additional expedients were recommended costing more money.

One of the expedients the police promise to produce in court is a love charm consisting of a leaden car seal, picked up on the railway track and carefully wrapped up in tinfoil.

The missing lover, it is claimed, was represented as being on his way back in response to the charms and at one time got as far as Detroit, but didn't cross the river.

Prince Paid Head Tax.

Montreal, March 24.—Prince Helie de Sagan, who fought a fist fight in the gutter in Paris with Count Boni de Castellane, passed through here yesterday on his way to join the Gould family in New York, where Anna Gould, the divorced wife of Count Boni, has just arrived from France.

He came out on the Virginian under the name of H. Thomas and registered at the Windsor. When he came to pass the United States immigration officials he had to give his real name, and he stormed when he had to pay up his two-dollar poll tax.

Poisoned Sweetheart and Self.

Milwaukee, Wis., March 24.—Nettie Plaschek, aged 17 years, daughter of Mrs. Ida Plaschek, 764 Tenth avenue died early yesterday from strychnine, administered by her sweetheart, Leo Wojeinski. The drug was mixed with ice cream. When Wojeinski learned of the death of the girl, he immediately took a dose himself, dying an hour later.

The crime was probably inspired because the man's parents had objected to a proposed marriage to the young girl.

Found Body In Snow.

Teulon, Man., March 24.—A Galician was found buried in the snow near here yesterday by his own wife, with every indication of his being murdered.

He had been to town with cordwood, and started home all right. The oxen returning alone, his wife organized a searching party, with the above result, he being found buried fifty feet from the road.

WOUNDED BY KOREANS

Murderous Attack on Japanese Diplomatic Advisor.

Dr. D. W. Stevens Severely Hurt at San Francisco—Knocked Down In Lobby of Hotel—Was Shot Three Times — Koreans Resented Statements Made as to Their Protection by Japan.

San Francisco, March 24.—Following an attack upon him by four Koreans at the Fairmont Hotel last night, D. W. Stevens, advisor for the Japanese Consul at Seoul, was shot and perhaps fatally wounded yesterday morning at the ferry depot as he was about to leave for Washington. The shooting was done by N. W. Chun, a Korean. Stevens, was shot twice, one bullet penetrating his right lung and the second the groin. A third bullet struck a companion of the shooter, I. W. Ching. A mob of 500 men pursued Stevens' assailant, and H. Sexton, a deputy in the assessor's office, finally captured him.

Mr. Stevens and the wounded Korean were taken to the Central Emergency Hospital. The diplomat, accompanied by the Japanese consul, had just stepped out of the hotel omnibus when several Koreans approached them. One of the party said a few words to Stevens and struck him in the face. He then drew a revolver, covered with a handkerchief, and began shooting at Stevens. At the hospital Dr. Hill extracted a bullet from the Korean, who had been shot through the lungs.

Burns Prove Fatal.

Chatham, March 24.—Cecilia Carron, the four-year-old daughter of Mederic Carron, of Dover, while playing round a bonfire on Friday last was severely burned about the hands and body. Her clothing caught fire and her mother, who rushed to the rescue, was also burned badly before the flames were extinguished. The little child died yesterday as a result of her injuries.

The mother is still in a critical condition, and it is not thought that she will recover.

Three men named Somerfield, Burkie and McGraw, appeared in the police court yesterday morning charged with selling liquor to an Indian named Sturgeon. They pleaded guilty and were fined $50 apiece or six months in the Central Prison.

Dynamite Shattered Stove.

Smith's Falls, March 24.—Lucy Lindie, a 10-year-old girl of Admaston, Renfrew County, found what she supposed was some refuse on a floor in her home, and seizing a broom she carefully swept it up and put it in the stove.

The "refuse" proved to be some dynamite caps, which her father had taken from a drawer a few minutes before for the purpose of using them for blasting. They exploded as soon as they were put in the stove, and one of the flying fragments of iron from the shattered heater struck little Lucy in the eye and injured it so badly that the sight was completely destroyed.

Escaped From Convent.

Cincinnati, O., March 24.—Jennie Pennington, a 14-year-old Toronto girl, is laid up at the Convent of the Good Shepherd here, with a broken bone in her left ankle, as the result of her daring escape with two other girls from that institution Sunday afternoon.

They lowered themselves out of a fourth floor window but were compelled to leap more than half the distance because of the shortness of the rope.

Miss Pennington's injury was the cause of their being recaptured by the police who found the trio in the heart of the city in convent garb, the two uninjured ones helping along the cripple.

Ran Into Open Switch.

Smith's Falls, March 24.—An accident occurred on the C.P.R. at Burritt's Crossing a few miles east of Merrickville yesterday.

A freight train going west ran into an open switch and ten cars were detached. All were empties except one. Engineer Birkett and Conductor Hutchings of Smith's Falls were in charge.

The morning express followed down, but the line was blocked here and went around by Ottawa.

The auxiliary and steel crane were taken down from here and the track was cleared about noon. No one was injured.

A Royal Wedding Day.

St. Petersburg, March 24.—The wedding of Prince Wilhelm of Sweden to Grand Duchess Marie Pavlona has been fixed for May 2.

Prince Wilhelm is the second son of King Gustave of Sweden. He visited America last summer. The grand duchess who he is to marry is a daughter of Grand Duke Paul Alexandrovich.

Yardman's Error Fatal.

Guelph, March 24.— At the adjourned inquest, held at Campbellville, into the circumstances leading to the wreck on the C.P.R. at Guelph Junction, in which Engineer Charles Armstrong of Toronto Junction lost his life, a verdict was rendered blaming Richard Newton, yardman for negligence.

Man Dropped Dead.

Smith's Falls, March 24.—Richard Brunton of Beckvich Township, dropped dead while assisting a neighbor to move some chattels to another farm. The deceased had been a prominent member of Beckvich council for some years. He was 60 years of age.

Dynamited Newspaper Office.

Rock Island, March 24.—The Daily News office was dynamited early yesterday. The press-room was badly damaged.

The paper has been attacking gamblers and advocating local license.

David Hartley Issues a Statement to the Public

Says He is in the Peterborough Walk to Win—Something About the Kansas City Walk—Local Man Was Sick.

The Review has received the following communication which is self-explanatory;

To the Editor of the Review.

Sir,—I wish you would tell your readers and my friends that I am in training every day at the Y.M.C.A. under Mr. "Dick" Baker, and I wish all to understand I am in the rase to win. I wish to state here to the public of Peterborough that I was sick for three days in Kansas city, and that was the reason I only got fifth place. There was 23 started, so the public can see I did something even the last three days of the race there. If I had been well from the start there would have been a different story told. Now here is the record, the Kansas City winner walked 4 1-2 miles an hour and three miles over on 62 hours, and I walked 4 3-4 miles an hour, 12 hour in Toronto and 7 laps over.

Now you can see by these two records that if I had been well where I would have been. I will show the people of Peterborough a walk. It was admitted by all the walkers in Kansas that my last day's walk was a wonder and had never been done before. I will endeavor to give you something the first four hours here to talk about. Now if any one wishing to help me in my training expenses will buy a card (5 cents), and mail it to their friends, they will help me and help advertise the walk. I wish everybody, boys and girls, old and young to join in to help to advertise this walk, and it will be a grand success.

The merchants are doing all they can to help advertise it on the back of their envelopes. Thanking you, I am,

DAVID HARTLEY,
Peterborough, March 24th.

Wilson to Enter the Five Mile Event With Coley and Sellen

The big CAAU indoor meet next month to raise Olympic funds will be managed by Tom C. Flanagan of the ICAC. The CAAU Committee in charge decided this Saturday night. With the resourceful Flanagan in charge the affairs should be a huge success. He is already arranging star attractions.

Today he proposes to bring Bob Stamp, the Hamilton lepper, George Barber, of Toronto, and Mike Creed, the Irish champion, together in the high jump. The second day he has framed a three-cornered five-mile race between Tom Coley, Ernie Wilson of Peterborough who beat him at the Armories at three miles, and Percy C. Sellen of the ICAC., the Canadian five-mile record holder; while for the last night Tom Longboat, Jack Tait, Tom Coley, George Adams and Bert Goldsboro will run a five-mile relay exhibition.

Flanagan has just returned from a trip to the Six Nations Reserve, where he was looking Longboat and Green over. Both are big and strong. Longboat is doing light training. He doesn't want to come back to town and start hard work for another ten days.

Will be Held at the Y. M. C. A. This Evening

The annual meeting of the Y.M.C.A. Harriers Club will be held at the Y.M.C.A. tonight. Reports for the last year will be presented and officers elected for the coming season. The coming summer promises to be the most important in the history of the club as there is a possibility or one or more representatives of the local club catching a place on the Olympic team. All interested in athletics are invited to be present this evening.

Rifle Team for the Olympic

Bisley Team Will Represent the Dominion

It has been decided by the executive of the D.R.A. that the Canadian Bisley team will be competitors in the shooting contests at the Olympic games in London in July.

The matches include the International, individual competition at 1,000 yards, team competition at 300 metres and individual competition at 300 metres, team and individual competition for the running deer, minature rifle shooting, pistol and revolver shooting. In all except the team matches there are permitted 12 representatives from each country. In the International, the Canadians expect to make their strongest shooting, as it includes all the ranges from 200 to 1,000 yards.

The first man to announce his acceptance of a place on the Bisley team is Sergt.-Major Utton, R.C.R. The composition of the team will not be known definitely until the week before sailing for England at the end of June.

Strathconas to Meet To-night

An important meeting of the Strathcona Hockey Club will be held at the Y.M.C.A. tonight at 7.45 o'clock. All officers and players are requested to be present as there is business of importance on the order paper. The meeting is called for 7.45 o'clock sharp, as several other meetings are being held at the Y.M.C.A. this evening.

Ten Pin League To be Organized

A ten pin league will be organized in Peterborough at once. Arrangements are now being made by Mr. J. B. Hay, and it is expected to have the league working next week. There will be plenty of teams to enter and some great games should be the result. Mr. Hay of Toronto, a brother of J. B. Hay, has arrived in the city and is now engaged with his brother in the management of the local alleys.

Chieftans Are Junior Champions

Thornbeck's Chieftains again demonstrated their ability to play hockey as it should be played when they defeated the West Ends in a splendid game at Brock street rink last night the score being 6-1. At half time it was 3-1 and the winners had the game well in hand all the way through.

The ice was somewhat soft, but despite this the match was very fast and was one of the most interesting of the winter.

Both teams showed good form, but the Chieftains were faster individually and as a team than their opponents.

By winning the match the Chieftains are junior city champions. They have played great hockey all winter and richly deserve the title.

Mr. W. Rose gave good satisfaction as referee;

HOCKEY

CALLS IT PING PONG

Winnipeg, Man., March 23—Manager Lee and Maple Leafs have returned from their unsuccessful attempt to lift the Stanley Cup. All the boys returned excepting Lorne Campbell, Grindy Forrester and Darcy Regan, who will summer in the East. Campbell has gone to Pittsburg, Forrester will likely play lacrosse in Toronto while Regan goes back to Northern Ontario, where he is a trapper. Kennedy came home a day ahead of the rest. Lee is not favorably impressed with the style of hockey in the East.

PARLOR GAME

"It is a regular parlor game; something like ping pong,' he said. 'Why, our fellows were simply ruled off for raising their sticks over their shoulder. Of course, that is one of the rules down there, but our boys simply could not remember it. So far as the first game was concerned we were beaten by a better team. The officials were satisfactory, but in the second game, they were rotten. I believe that if Power had been judge of play again we would have won. We were playing a man or more short all the time.

TEAM WAS STALE

"The team seemed somewhat stale and hardly played up to form. Barney Holden and Lake were particularly disappointing. Lake did good work on his wing, but missed chances innumerable in front of the net. At Ottawa we played our best game, as the Ottawas are more our style of players. Yes, I lost my bet that the Wanderers would double the score of the Torontos, but if the game had not been played in an inch of water, I should have won all right. It is not likely the Leafs will play again this winter, unless a challenge is sent in.'

Lee would like to see the Edmonton team come down.

A LITTLE LARGE.

The people of Coboconk witnessed a somewhat interesting game of hockey on Tuesday night, the teams being Coboconk vs. Victoria Road. The home team won, the score being 23—7; but the contestants parted good friends.—Fenelon Falls Gazette.

FOOTBALL

Bowmanville, March 23 — The annual meeting of the Bowmanville Football Club was held in Dr. Devitt's parlors recently. The following officers were elected for the coming season.—Hon. Presidents, J. A. McClellan, Esq., D. B. Simpson, K. C.; President, Rev. H. Munroe; 1st Vice-President, A. R. Cameron; 2nd Vice-President, F. C. Vanstone; Secretary, E. C. SPANISH COURT SCANDAL.

Natural Sons of Alfonso XII. Suing For Annuity.

Madrid, March 24.—The judges in the Elena Sanz affair called at the palace yesterday to take the evidence of the Queen Mother.

Elena Sanz was a Spanish actress by whom King Alfonso XII. had two natural sons. These children are now suing the heirs of Alfonso XII. for an annuity which they claim was left to their mother by the king and which was to revert to them.

The Queen deposed that a few days after the death of Alfonso XII., Senor Salmeron came to Senor Abbella, who was then Master of the Household and told him that Elena Sanz had in her possession certain letters of the late King, the publication of which would cause a great scandal.

She would give them up for $15,000 and in addition Salmeron claimed $1,000 for his services in the matter. Trusting to the integrity of Salmeron the Queen paid over these two sums and was assured by him that all the letters in question had been destroyed.

The present suit of the Sanz heirs however, is based entirely upon letters identical with those which the Queen paid to have burned.

The Sanz matter is to come up before the Supreme Court, that tribunal having declared itself competent to try the case.

Killed While Cutting Wood.

Brockville, March 24.—Robert Vanston, son of Robert Vanston, ex-county councillor of Escott, while at work on Grenadier Island, yesterday, met with a fatal accident.

He was engaged cutting wood with a circular saw and the fly wheel becoming loose was hurled some distance from the engine. It struck Vanston about the right hip, crushing the bones and almost severing the leg from the body, leaving it hanging by only a few slender cords. He died ten minutes after being removed to the St. Vincent de Paul Hospital in Brockville.

A Novel Ham Dish.

It is particularly attractive when served as a salad at luncheon or supper, says the Delineator. Thicken a quart of rich milk by letting it stand in a warm but not hot place overnight. Then put it into a cheesecloth bag and let it drain thoroughly. When it will drip no longer beat the drained milk for a few minutes or until it is smooth and creamy, add half a teacupful of sweet cream, with pepper and salt to taste, and at the last moment half a pound of finely chopped, cold boiled ham from which all the fat has been removed. Stir together thoroughly and serve on crisp lettuce leaves garnished with sliced olives.

Drowned In a Cistern.

Brampton, March 24.—While its parents were in Brampton on Saturday afternoon the seven-year-old son of Mr and Mrs. George Cram of Britannia, Peel County, fell into a cistern by stepping on a broken board and was drowned before he was discovered.

You have Not One Reason for Not Using

Zutoo

Some people think that all headache cures are alike—that they all undermine the health, even if not perceived at the time of taking them.

Well, we'll admit that some cures do this, those, for example, which contain opium, morphine, antipyrene or chloral.

But this is no reason why you should not use Zutoo.

Zutoo Tablets do not contain one iota of any of the drugs above mentioned. They do not contain a single ingredient that does not come from Old Mother Earth herself.

One ingredient is soda—just old-fashioned soda that our grandmothers used to take to settle the stomach when they had sick headache.

There is not one ingredient in Zutoo tablets that is not approved by both the British and American Pharmacopœias. And the world has no higher authority in medicine than these.

Your family physician, even if a personal friend, would approve of and prescribe every ingredient.

There is absolutely no reason why you should not use Zutoo.

If you suffer from headache there is every reason why you should.

Taken in time, two tablets will ward off a headache. Taken later, they will stop it in twenty minutes, and leave you feeling bright and well in both mind and body.

It is Harmless as Soda

Dr. Gray Assaulted While Returning Home at Midnight

John Lowery Attacked Him on George St.—The Doctor Arrested His Assailant—Had to Defend Himself Against Fierce Mob—Prisoner Heavily Fined.

While returning home last night between 12 and 1 o'clock, Dr. Gray, was the victim of a most dastardly assault at the corner of George and Charlotte streets. However, Dr. Gray's assailant struck the wrong man for the doctor was fully equal to him and also to the gang of thugs who assisted their friend in the assault. Dr. Gray took the man and by considerable force brought him to the police station. The prisoner gave his name as John Lowry and in the police court this morning was fined ten dollars to be paid forthwith or ten days in gaol for assault. He had not the money so was taken up to the castle on the bill.

Dr. Gray in court this morning, stated that in company with Mr. Durston, Inspector of Post Offices, he left the post office shortly after 12 o'clock and proceeded to the doctor's office where Mr. Durston was going to procure some medicine. They went down the west side of George street and as the neared Charlotte street, they noticed a gang of fellows on the corner. Lowry was away from the rest of the crowd and was moving towards Demetrie's restaurant. Just at the railway track the doctor met him. Quite unexpectedly Lowry swung around and struck the doctor inflicting a slight cut over the left eye. Dr. Gray was somewhat stunned by the blow but he grabbed his assailant by the coat collar, saying, "I have authority to arrest you and you are my prisoner.' He dragged him across the street and the gang followed, endeavoring to get their pal free. But the doctor boldly resisted all attacks, fighting the fellows back. When half way across the market, nightwatchman Finnie appeared and with his big cane that he invariably carries, made the bunch of thugs scatter.

Lowry stated that he was not one of the gang but they had been annoying him and he thought that it was one of them he had struck, instead of Dr. Gray. He said that his home was in Warsaw. The prisoner did not seem to remember much about the affair. He had never been in police court before, so His Worship made the fine comparatively light.

Blame for Death of Jessie Gould Not Definitely Fixed

Coroner's Jury Return an Open Verdict But Dr' Fletcher and Harry Saunders Are Still Held.

Toronto, March 24.—"That Jessie Helen Gould came to her death in the city of Toronto on March 10th as a result of a criminal abortion produced on her, the said Jessie Gould.'

After three hours and a half deliberation at the city hall last night, Chief Coroner Johnson's jury returned the above verdict. At one time the jury stood 7 to 5 for disagreement on the cause of death.

Harry Saunders was arrested and committed to jail on a charge of contempt, for refusing to take the witness box at the inquest.

When Saunders refused to take the stand the detectives on the case and a newspaper reporter all swore to information they had been told by Dr. Fletcher and Saunders, the two men under suspicion, concerning the death of the girl.

J. Percy Haverson told of a conversation he had with young Saunders, who told him that deceased wanted Saunders to get her out of her trouble. Saunders related to the witness the bargain he (Saunders) had made with Dr. Fletcher to perform an operation for $20. Saunders, asked by the witness, said that deceased had said that she had had an operation performed upon her by Dr. Fletcher.

Detective Mackie corroborated Haverson's evidence regarding the bargain, according to Saunders, made with Dr. Fletcher and the visit made by the deceased to Dr. Fletcher's house on the Sunday afternoon.

Detective Twigg said that Dr. Fletcher had stated to him that part of Saunder's story was true and part of it was not. Fletcher admitted the Sunday visit to his home and also his other visits to the Shuter street house. He further admitted that he had taken the foetus away on Tuesday morning. To the witness Fletcher denied that there had been any bargain.

Inspector Duncan told of Saunder's story corroborating Detective Mackie's evidence. He also corroborated Twigg's evidence.

In his address to the jury Chief Coroner Johnson summed up the evidence briefly. He pointed out that there was no necessity of young Saunders setting up a story when he was equally liable if that story were true.

"Why does Saunders set up a story of this kind as he has told to the police and Mr. Haverson, if it is a story of his,' asked Coroner Johnson.

The question for you to consider, gentlemen, are which of the two stories—Dr. Fletcher's and Saunders—do you believe. If Saunder's story is true then he and Dr. Fletcher have combined to cause a woman to abort. She did abort and she did die of abortion. If Saunders is putting up all this then Fletcher has not committed any offence, because he says he did not enter into any bargain; he did not do anything on that Sunday afternoon.

Young Man Honorably Acquitted

Charged With Theft at C. G. E. Works—Case Dismissed

The second young man charged with stealing mahogany and other expensive woods as well as some wire and a sheet of rubber from the C.G.E. works, was also honorably acquitted this morning in police court. He was exonerated from all connection with theft, there being no proof that the goods found in his home were the property of the C.G.E., or that they had been stolen from there. His Worship said that he could not convict on the evidence and he was glad to be able to dismiss a man who had for over thirteen years been in the employ of the Company. However, His Worship said that it was his intention if he ever found a man guilty of stealing from the electric works, to give such a judgment that would serve as an example for all time to come.

The principal speaker of the evening will be Rev. Canon Tucker, of Toronto. Rev. Canon Davidson and Rev. Dr. Langfeldt will also be in attendance and will give short addresses.

The banquet will start at eight o'clock sharp, and all those having tickets are requested to be on hand in good time.

Mr. Harry Latimer, president of the club, acted as toastmaster at last night's banquet, and short speeches were made by all in attendance.

A Famous Story Told in New Way

"Uncle Toms Cabin" Reproduced in Moving Picture Form—At the Crystal

Something of unusual excellence in the way of a moving picture is now being given at the Crystal. It is the illustrated story of "Uncle Tom's Cabin," and the famous work of Harriet Beecher Stowe is presented in a most descriptive and interesting form.

A lecturer gives a lucid explanation of the significance of the various scenes, and the best from whose acting the picture was reproduced, have given the picture a most realistic and intelligent interpretation.

Greatest Importations of New Dress Fabrics

More of Satisfaction--Less of Price--The Strong Features of Our Spring Dress Goods.

Our Dress Goods Department is our particular care and pride. It s standards of quality are so strict—just "good" won't do—BEST is what's bought and sold there always.

Experience has taught us that our customers prefer Fabrics ranging from 50c to $1.25 per yard in price, and fashion has advised us that Striped Armures, Poplins, Crepe de Chenes Taffeta Cloths, Tweeds and Voiles, will be correct for 1908 wear. The best colors and patterns of these fabrics that the market produces for retailing at these prices are now on display in our Dress Goods Department, and they are better than those usually sold for such prices.

The new and popular (as well as much that is exclusive) is represented in our Spring stocks in a wide range of beautiful colorings and weaves, and nowhere can more excellence and style be had for lesser prices.

When you come to make your selection, you'll see that we haven't at all exaggerated the advantages of our Dress Goods Department.

HAIR CUTTING

To the Editor of the Review.

Sir,—I saw in your paper last evening about a young man having a hard time getting his hair cut. Now is there anything in the world so provoking as to have your hair sheared off like a sheep when you only asked to have your neck shaved. It is the first time in my life that I ever knew a man's neck extended to the crown of his head.

All that is the matter with our amateur barber is that he dislikes to see young men with a nice head of hair, so he thought he had a had a good chance for revenge. Because he likes to look like a sheared poodle in summer time, there is no reason why he should make his son look the same. Thanking for for space, Mr. Editor,

I remain,

THE SON OF THE AMATEUR BARBER.

MEEHAN-PAYNE CASE DISMISSED

The Spring Assizes were brought to a speedy close yesterday afternoon and the Grand Jury made their presentment last evening. The only criminal case that of Payne against Meehan was thrown out, the Grand Jury being unable to find a true bill against the defendant. In the non-jury case of Hill vs Kavanagh, His Lordship suggested a settlement, and suitable arrangements were made between the two parties, and the case was brought to a close.

Lang and Maher are Opening A New Branch

Local Firm Extending its Business to Lindsay—A Progressive Concern

Messrs. Lang & Maher, the live clothiers and furnishers, have secured the lease of the clothing store in Lindsay, formerly occupied by Mr. A. J. Graham, and are opening at once a new stock of clothing and furnishings. They are in possession and are making a few alterations and expect to be ready for business about Saturday, April 4th.

This firm has been advancing in popularity so rapidly with the buying public that they find they are compelled to reach out, and have selected Lindsay as the most convenient place, being in close touch with their business interests here.

Mr. Maher will go to Lindsay and locate there permanently. This step forward will increase the output of the firm very materially and will give larger buying powers. The firm are not strangers to the people of Lindsay by any means, that being the birthplace and home of Mr. Maher, and who has many old friends who will welcome him back to his native town. Lang & Maher have already very many customers from that portion of the country who will be very much pleased to welcome them to Lindsay for their clothing is their best advertisement, and any who have already worn it can at once notice the distinguishing effect it has over the ordinary class. In short "they feel dressed up," a fact which insures the continued popularity of their branded garments.

This firm open up under very favorable circumstances, and are very lucky to secure the old clothing house so familiary to the people of Lindsay. Lang & Maher are extensive advertisers and will assume the same aggressive style of doing business in Lindsay that they have made such a success in Peterborough, keeping strictly to one price and that price the lowest possible for dependable goods. Their stock will all be new and up to date, no old of styles to show and everything throughly guaranteed. We have no hesitancy in predicting for Lang & Maher a very large share of the clothing business in and around Lindsay right from the very start.

Former Peterborough County Man Succeeding in the West

Saturday's Winnipeg Free Press contains an interesting write-up of the village of Asquith, a somewhat remarkable town which sprang up like magic when the CPR. line from Winnipeg to Edmonton was begun eighteen months ago. In the sketch mention is made of Mr. Andrew Mather, a former resident of Peterborough county. Part of the write up is as follows:—

"Asquith is a somewhat remarkable town which sprang up like magic when the CPR line from Winnipeg to Edmonton was begun eighteen months ago. It proved most conclusively last year that the faith of its founders was not misplaced. While reports of frosted crops and light yields in other parts of Saskatchewan have been so diligently circulated, the farmers of Asquith district harvested the largest crop in the history of the place, and marketed it at the highest price they have yet received for their wheat, as most of the grain in this favorable locality was safely cut days before the frost. It has been the boast of Asquith farmers, since the first crop was raised here, that the crops grown near Asquith are certain to mature before the earliest frosts in anything like a normal season. Last season conditions could hardly be worse over the entire world yet there was a large increase in the quantity of grain shipped from Asquith and most of it has graded high. The slight decrease in the yield per acre was more than made up for by the higher price of grain.

Andrew Mather was born in Edinburgh, Scotland, 54 years ago and came to Peterborough county, Ont., in the first year of his life. In '79 he came to Manitoba and homesteaded near Morden living there and prospering for 23 years. He came west in 1902 to Saskatoon and engaged in a boarding house business there for a year or so. Mr. Mather homesteaded near Asquith and located here permanently in the spring of 1906 and demonstrated his faith in the town's future by building a residence that would be a credit to any town. He erected a store building during the summer of 1907 and has opened up in the general store business within the past few weeks in partnership with T. W. J. Mather, under the firm name of A. Mather and Son. The firm also deals in real estate, owning a great portion of the town site of Asquith.

Local Man Wanted by Police Came and Gave Himself Up

Fred LeBarge, who has been wanted by the local authorities since the second of March on a charge of assaulting and inflicting grievous bodily harm to Henry Castle, came to the police station and gave himself up this morning. It will be remembered that on the evening of March 2nd in a row at the Royal hotel it is alleged that LeBarge bit Castle on the lip. Castle was confined to the Nicholls Hospital for several days. The police were on the lookout for LeBarge, but were unable to find him. However, he came this morning and faced the charge. He elected to be tried summarily and pleaded not guilty. The Crown was not ready to go on, so the case was enlarged until Thursday morning. In the meantime LeBarge was allowed out on his own recognizance.

He also had another charge against him, that of being drunk and disorderly. He pleaded guilty and was fined two dollars, to be paid in ten days.

One hundred years ago at Wilkesbarre, Pa., Judge Jesse Fells discovered that anthracite would burn, thus starting the great anthracite coal trade. Sixteen years ago "Salada" Tea was placed on the market. Canadians have discovered that for rich, uniform, deliciously-flavored tea "Salada" satisfies the demand. One out of every six Canadians drink it and this number is steadily increasing.

Americans Coming to Canada Have Tidy Sums of Money

Montreal, March 24.—There are farmers coming into the western provinces this spring from the Northwestern States with cash in their pockets amounting to sums ranging from ten to seventy-five thousand dollars each, is the information given to friends in this city by the Hon. C. A. Cross, Attorney-General of Alberta, who has just left for the west. Mr. Cross thinks that the depression will soon be a thing of the past, especially in the provinces west of Lake Superior, where the influx of settlers from the south has begin several weeks earlier than usual, and that the number of new settlers to arrive in Canada will beat the record of past years.

Ottawa and Many Towns to be Connected by Trolley

Brockville, March 23.—Mayor Cossitt has received from James Hall, a civil engineer, a blue print outlining a proposed electric railway starting and ending at Ottawa, and for which a charter will be applied for.

The blue print outlines the run of the proposed railway south of Morristown, taking in Edwards, Metcalfe and other intervening points. From Morrisburg the run is up the river road to Brockville, branching off above the town for Lyn and Athens. From the classic village the route is to Perth, Lanark, Renfrew and return to Ottawa.

The estimated distance is 120 miles.

T. Bromwell, a rancher, lives with a woman he calls his housekeeper, while the wife he deserted in Boston ten years ago, is a dressmaker four miles from the ranch.

Meanwhile proof has been obtained that after deserting his first wife he took the second one in South Africa after fighting for the British in the war. After peace was declared he deserted wife No. 2, and a child, and returned to Canada, picking up his third partner in Nova Scotia and coming on to Duncan.

The first wife is suing for alimony which will undoubtedly develop into bigamy proceedings.

Spring Poetry Department

The open season for spring poetry is here. Scores of people at this time of the year are afflicted with a insatiable desire to break into rhyme, and that the sweetness may not be wasted on the desert air the Review has decided to open a spring poetry column. Contributions, no matter how good or how bad, will be published provided they are original. Police protection is guaranteed the writers and when desired the authors' names will be kept absolutely secret. Get into line and send in your stuff. It's a great chance for budding authors.

As a cue to the first verse of a spring poem we make the following suggestion;

…… …… …… …… …… Snow.
…… …… …… …… …… Spring.
…… …… …… …… …… Blow.
…… …… …… …… …… Sing.

GETTING THROUGH THE JAP LINES

Chinese Spy Carried a Message From One Russian General to Another.

Chinese honesty is proverbial, but would seem to have its exceptions. The Rev. John H. K. De Forest, of Auburndale, for thirty years resident in Japan and high in the confidence of the Japanese statesmen and officials, told of an episode of which he had personal knowledge while with the army of Kuroki in Manchuria.

"Some of the spies used by both sides during the war were Chinese," he said. "Complications not infrequently resulted.

"Kuropatkin one day had a particularly important message to send to General Stoessel. To get through the Japanese lines seemed almost out of the question, but the Russian commander went to a Chinese famous for his skill and intrepidity. The old fellow didn't want to risk it, but Kuropatkin cajoled him into it, giving him $300 and promising him $200 when he returned.

"When he reached the vicinity of the Japanese lines, with an intention that had evidently been with him from the start, he went straight to Kuroki, insisting that his business was very pressing.

He explained in full to Kuroki that the Russian General had given him a task which he could not perform because of the admirable disposition of the Japanese forces, that therefore he had done the next best thing and come straight to the illustrious leader of the triumphant Japanese.

"Kuroki read the despatch, gave it back to him, bade him go on to Stoessel with it and return with the answer to the Japanese camp, where he would receive $500 and be permitted to carry an answer on to Kuropatkin and collect his remaining $200. The Chinaman carried out his instructions in detail and collected for his exploit $1,000."

A GROWING NATIONAL DEBT.

Increase of net debt, 1907-8, $12,000,000.

Increase in 1906, $818,811.

Increase in 1895-6, $5,422,505.

Estimated increase of debt next year, $30,000,000 to $40,000,000.

In only four previous years in the history of the country has there been so large an increase to the debt, and in one of these it was due to a readjustment of the accounts of the provinces.

Notwithstanding this enormous increase of debt Mr. Fielding claims a surplus of $19,000,000 on current account. Next year he expects the current revenue to fall off $6,500,000 or more, not through reduction of taxation, for no change in that direction has been made, but through a falling of in trade. At the same time, Mr. Fielding expects a large increase in current expenditure, so that the alleged surplus will be almost wiped out and most of the capital outlay added to the debt. On the Transcontinental alone the Government expects to spend $30,000,000 next year; $5,000,000 will be required at once, and another $5,000,000 later for the Quebec Bridge; and Probably $5,000,000 to $10,000,000 for other enterprises. So, on Mr. Fielding's own statement we may look for an increase of some $40,000,000 to the debt next year. This is more than the total increase during the Conservative regime.

Montreal Live Stock.

MONTREAL, March 23.—(Special.)—At the Montreal Stock Yards, west end market, the receipts of live stock for the week ending March 21, were 3427 cattle, 245 sheep and lambs, 3306 hogs, and 986 calves, while the supply to-day for local consumption consisted of 700 cattle, 200 sheep and lambs, 1100 hogs and 150 calves. Choice beeves sold at $5.25 to $5.40; good, at $4.75 to $5; fair, at $4.25 to $4.50; common, at $3.50 to $4 per cwt. There were some good bulls on the market, which brought from $4 to $4.75, and very choice beasts sold at $5.25 per cwt. Cable advices from Liverpool on Saturday stated that trade in cattle was slow and noted a decline of ¼c per lb. in prices, for American and Canadian steers, as compared with a week ago. A much stronger feeling has developed in the market for yearling lambs and prices show an advance of ½c per lb. for the week. This is due to the continued small supply coming forward and the good demand for the same for local consumption. Sales of choice lots were made at 7c to 7¼c, and good at 6¼c to 6¾c per lb. Supplies of spring lambs are still very limited, for which the demand is also good, at prices ranging from $7 to $10 each. The tone of the market for sheep is firm, but as the offerings are small trade is quiet at 5c to 5½c per lb. Receipts of calves are steadily increasing, for which the demand is good for choice stock, at $5 to $6 each, while lower grades sell at $2 to $4. The undertone to the market for hogs continues strong and prices have scored a further advance of 12½c to 15c per cwt., which makes a net rise of 25c to 35c since this day week. Supply was fair, but owing to the near approach of Easter and the large number of orders coming forward for hams and bacon, the demand from packers is heavy, which is the only reason for the strength in the market, as foreign advices on Canadian bacon continue to be anything but encouraging. An active trade was done this morning and sales of selected lots were made at $6.25 per cwt., weighed off the cars.

"Fruit-a-tives" Cured in 2 Months

St. Raphaels, Ont.

For over twenty years I suffered from Chronic Constipation of the bowels, and I could get no medicine to cure me. I tried doctors and every known purgative, or laxative, medicine known but I was no better. Sometimes, if I did not take medicine, I would go four or five days, without any action of the bowels. During all this time I was weak and suffered from Indigestion constantly.

About a year ago a friend advised me to try "Fruit-a-tives" as they had helped her. I began taking "Fruit-a-tives" and from the outset I began to feel better, and inside of a month the pains were almost gone and the Constipation relieved. In two months I was perfectly well again, no pains, no constipation, and my complexion had lost all that sallow appearance.

(Sgd) MARY A. MCDONELL.

"Fruit-a-tives"—or Fruit Liver Tablets—are the only remedy known to science that actually cure Constipation. They do this by making the liver healthy and active—thus causing more bile to flow into the bowels. 152

"Fruit-a-tives" — or "Fruit Liver Tablets" are sold by dealers at 50c a box —6 for $2.50—or will be sent on receipt of price. Fruit-a-tives Limited, Ottawa.

THE INDIAN'S DEATH

Who sold poor Howard whiskey? Every effort should be made to run the offender down. We do not expect the police or the inspector to perform miracles, and now that Howard is dead it will be increasingly difficult to find him. Nevertheless the public expects an earnest and serious endeavor to find him, and no doubt it will not be disappointed. It is no satisfaction to us that we or our political friends either do wrong or prove weak. The efficient administration of good laws is the foundation of the material prosperity of a state and the material basis of civilization.

The efficient administration of law may not stop the ravages of whiskey, but it will help to do so. We have seen many Indians under the influence of liquor in late years. The fracas at Buckhorn is still fresh in the public mind. Every assistance must be given to Inspector Stewart and the police who we are confident will show neither favor nor mercy to those who have been, we might fairly say, the direct cause of this unfortunate man's death. The public is entitled to satisfaction.

HASTENING SLOWLY

To hasten slowly is one of the best pieces of advice ever given by experience to experiment. "Hasten hastily" is one of the worst. A country living and acting beyond its means, as Canada is doing today, is on the road to trouble. Any man of business who would conduct his affairs in the same way, would be written down as of unsound mind. Canada is like a stomach affected with indigestion. It has eaten too much and is still crying out for more. We are in the gravest danger. Our trade is not advancing as that of Australia, Cape Colony, India, or even Newfoundland. Its development is merely apparent. The adverse balance of trade will destroy us yet. We owe over 800 millions for goods bought, over and above all debts due to us. We are in precisely the position of a man who buys a house and lot, furniture, carriages and horses, clothes, etc., far and away above his means of paying for them. To tell such a man that having spent all he had, and having gone in debt for more, in other words, that the balance of trade is against him, but that it makes no difference, is pretty much of a hollow mockery. It is worse. It is deceiving a party—the great Liberal party—into the belief that the country has prospered under Sir Wilfrid and that the true way to get rich is to spend all one has. Moreover, this policy instils an extravagant spirit into the young. They mistake bluster for facts and find out only too late that an adverse balance of trade, whether in public or private life, is next door to being ruined. The end is near. The consolation of a hopeful prospect is not offered. A forty million dollar deficit for next year on a declining trade would daunt the heart and understanding of the bravest.

DR. THOMPSON M. P.

Dr. Thompson was elected member of the Federal House for the Yukon Territory at the last general election on the understanding that he should be thoroughly independent of both political parties. Therein the Yukon electorate displayed much wisdom. But human nature is human nature and sometimes more. Dr. Thompson has sat in the house and heard the revelations of common robbery and rascality in the west where M.P.s could directly and indirectly get what they wanted for next to nothing. This did not impress Dr. Thompson as good for the Yukon. It smacked more of brigandage and disorder than of improvement and British law. Then again, the budget although beyond both reason and precedent disclosed no help for the Yukon. It was all confined to the greatest of modern cormorants, the GTP. Then again, there was neither probability nor possibility of benefit in this action of the government in connection with the immigration policy. But worse than all was the underlying distrust and suspicion engendered in Dr. Thompson's mind, by the very apparent desire of the government to conceal by a refusal of original documents, their policy of stealing and misappropriation. This was the last straw. He arose in his seat and announced his approval of Mr. Borden and his policy. He has gone back to the Yukon to explain his decision to his people and to forewarn them for the next election.

IN A BAD WAY

All through the winter Toronto has been full of able-bodied idle men, many of whom came crowding in here from other places because Toronto has a reputation for generosity and is a comfortable place to live in.—Toronto Star (Liberal.)

The Laurier Administration and its defenders are not abashed by the problem before them. The Globe says that the unemployed can get work if they would work for less than those now employed whom they could displace. The Globe does not fail, however, to claim credit for immigration, which has been one of the direct causes of the unhappy condition of affairs prevailing. People are asking, naturally enough, why Sir Wilfrid persisted in allowing this utterly unreasonable state of confusion and social disruption to continue, until at last the threatening attitude of the Opposition, backed up by public opinion forced him to call for a property qualification for each British settler. Thus does the Preference work like a thing of magic. He puts the embargo on British men, but lowers the duty on British goods. We are arrived at an impasse with the glorious prospect of a 29 million deficit for next year, which Foster will have to face, but with his well-known financial ability will be able to provide for.

EDITORIAL NOTES

Dr. Gray showed much pluck and practical wisdom in apprehending his assailant. More of it would do away with the commonplace rowdyism that ornaments western civilisation.

The editor of the Examiner has received three dollars from the Lipton Co., for a limerick alleged to have been written by himself and forwarded with a tea label. We congratulate our contemporary. He has long been in training for nonsense-rhymes and other stuff of this sort and we can rejoice with him in his good fortune. We have known many people who have written but got nothing for it except tea.

Sir Percy Girouard, late of the C. P.R. made his name in South Africa. He was able to do the work assigned to him as an engineer and had no excuses to substitute for the real thing. The man who does is worth a million of the man who explains. Results count most in every walk of life. A man who cannot make things go in a subordinate position cannot do so in a commanding position. Sir Percy has been a right arm to Lord Kitchener who appreciates him.

Slowly but surely the pleased sunshine is getting plentiful and potent, and as this process goes on from day to day the spirits of people keep pace. Canada has had a rather hard winter, speaking financially and meteorologically. Business has not been up to the high level of the previous corresponding season, while the weather has been only fairly decent. —The Courier.

The prophecy of bad times and a deficit for next year uttered by Hon. W. F. Fielding in the Canadian House of Commons last week is a foretaste of coming disaster. Our enormous liabilities are increasing daily. Forty millions to be added to our debt this year.

The Rhode Island Democratic State Convention on Saturday decided not to endorse resolutions favoring the nomination of Mr. Wm. J. Bryan for the Presidency.

Lively Scene Was Created In the House at Ottawa

Dr. Sproule's Motion in the House of Commons.

Asks For Return Showing Religious Denomination of Employes In the House and Senate — Mr. Fielding Insists That It Should Be Withdrawn—No Seed Grain For Province of Ontario.

Ottawa, March 24.—A lively scene was enacted last night, when Dr. Sproule pressed a motion for a return showing the religious denomination, whether Protestant or Roman Catholic, of the employes of the House of Commons, Senate and printing bureau. The motion was resisted, Mr. Fielding making a plea that it be withdrawn for the sake of peace.

Dr. Sproule, however, claimed that his motive was to verify a statement he made recently at the Grand Orange Lodge at Mount Forest. Three members arose with him to call a division, but Sir Wilfrid Laurier moved the adjournment of the debate.

During the hour for notices of motion, Dr. Sproule said his motion might go unopposed, as he did not desire to discuss it. "We may wish to discuss it on this side," said the Prime Minister. Later when the item was again reached, Dr. Sproule moved his resolution without comment, and Col. Talbot (Bellechasse) submitted an amendment to include in the return the nationality of each employe and to cover all Departments of the Government.

Mr. Fielding asked Dr. Sproule to withdraw the motion, regretting that any attempt should be made to classify the employes of the Government. At any rate some people might take exception to limiting the classes of Protestants and Catholics alone.

"What about the Atheists of Quebec?" asked Col. Talbot.

Dr. Sproule stated he was prompted to make the motion by denials of his statement in the House the other day. He considered he was offensively called to task by Col. Talbot before he knew what he said. Moreover, this was not the first time such a return had been asked for and brought down. He had been in the House a long time, and he never made a statement yet but what he believed to be true.

There was another motive. It had been repeatedly said to him, as a prominent Orangeman, that in the matter of appointments justice was not done to Roman Catholics, and he had tried to combat that statement, endeavoring to show that there had been no inclination to deny Roman Catholics their proportion of the offices. For his own satisfaction he secured information showing the proportion of Roman Catholics to Protestants employed in the House was as three to one. By reference to the census returns he found that the Catholics comprised 40 per cent. of the population, and he considered they were entitled to a fair share of all the offices. Was he doing wrong in vindicating his character for honesty and truthfulness?

Col. Talbot said three or four years ago Dr. Sproule had made the statement that the Catholic clergy of Quebec were raising a fund to let out at easy rates to Catholic farmers for the purpose of buying out their Protestant neighbors.

Dr. Sproule said he merely quoted the authority of The Huntingdon (Quebec) Gleaner.

Thought It Unwise.

Mr. McIntyre (Perth) thought it unwise to bring up this question. It should be remembered that there were two official languages, and that the preponderance of Roman Catholics employed about the Departments was owing to the French-Canadians being conversant with both languages; hence they were more valuable than the employes who had but one language.

Hon. G. P. Graham said the necessity for Dr. Sproule verifying his statement would not have arisen if he had not made the statement. It would not do to require a religious qualification of applicants for the civil service. The only qualification should be ability to perform the duties they were to perform. It was regrettable that men taking a prominent part in the affairs of the country should attempt to make party capital out of the preponderance of any class of the community; they were all citizens of a common country.

Dr. Sproule refused to withdraw, and he, with Dr. Reid, Mr. Marshall and Dr. Barr, rose to ask for a division, but Sir Wilfrid Laurier moved the adjournment of the debate.

Nothing Very Crushing.

R. L. Borden, however, continued the discussion, asserting that Mr. Graham went far in his imputation of motives to Dr. Sproule. He did not expect so much of Mr. Graham.

"Nor want it," ventured the Minister of Railways.

"Oh, there was nothing very crushing in it," retorted Mr. Borden, who went on to say that the Minister might look closely to some of the newspapers under the direct control of this Government, and he will find imputations, examples of which he would give later on. Mr. Borden defended Dr. Sproule, who, he said, had been taunted with a circumstance which he had denied; and while they might doubt the wisdom of bringing up such a question Dr. Sproule had reason for his action.

Mr. Aylesworth said enough had been said on this occasion to demonstrate how dangerous it was to play with fire in this Assembly. The return could have no other result than to afford means to institute comparisons to the detriment of one class of the community. This was an entirely new thing.

"It was done once before," said Dr. Sproule.

"Unfortunately," replied Mr. Aylesworth, "it is a very old thing."

The motion of Sir Wilfrid Laurier prevailed.

Before the orders of the day were called Mr. Boyce (Algoma) asked the Minister if provisions of the seed grain distribution act would be extended to Ontario. Sir Wilfrid replied that no representations had been received from the Provincial Government.

R. L. Borden was informed that the report of civil service commission had been received by the Government, but it was incomplete and the commissioners had been requested to supply the deficiency.

One bill to incorporate the Institute of Architects of Canada being called in committee of the whole, Mr. Blain (Peel) asked if it was not an infringement of provincial rights. He thought it should be left for the provinces.

Mr. Gervais agreed to withdraw the clause excluding building contractors or manufacturers and as father of the measure (Mr. Walsh) was not present, the Prime Minister moved that further consideration be postponed.

PROTEST TO JOHN MORLEY.

Five Hundred Hindus Support Strong Resolution at Vancouver.

Vancouver, B.C., March 24.—Five hundred Hindus met Sunday in the Sikh Temple, and, after many exciting speeches protesting against their exclusion and deportation from Canada, and emphasizing the fact that this would be a strong weapon in the hands of those preaching sedition in India, sent the following cable to John Morley, Secretary for India:

"We protest against deportation and exclusion from Canada. As British subjects we claim protection throughout the Empire. If our interests are overlooked by others, those in India must necessarily resent your Government's neglect."

The cablegram is signed by Uday Ram, who is a nephew of Dr. Davis Chand, a Hindu of high caste, who came to British Columbia to spy out the land, but who is now agitating in India.

He Wants His Honor.

Chicago, March 24.—The Tribune to-day says: Oberlin M. Carter, formerly captain in the United States Engineer Corps, will seek restoration to the army and to his rank as a result of the vindication of the Savannah Harbor graft charges given him in the decision of Judge Kohlsaat, which was handed down on Saturday.

Restitution of the honor that was torn from him is placed above all other considerations by the former captain. It has been known among his friends for some time that he has refused repeated offers of high salaries from engineering concerns that recognized his ability. He would not accept them while his reputation was under a cloud and he always has declared he would devote the rest of his life if necessary to removing the stain on his name.

Log Rolled Over Him.

Chatham, March 24.—H. Murphy, aged 75, a partner of the firm which owns the Chatham Bent Goods Works, met with a serious accident as a result of which he may die. Yesterday afternoon at 2 o'clock he was superintending the raising of a number of logs. The tackling gave way and one of the logs slipped down the slide and struck him before he could get out of the way. The log rolled up on his body as far as his chest, he was rendered unconscious, and it was found that he was badly bruised. A number of blood vessels in his legs were broken. He is in a serious condition and it is not thought that he will recover.

Has a Bad Record.

Winnipeg, March 24.—A. A. Vivian, convicted in the Police Court yesterday of being a receiver of stolen goods, was sent down for three years.

His record is interesting. Four years ago he was employed in the Union Bank here, but dismissed under suspicion of small thefts, which then stopped. He then went to Sydney, Australia, for a while, painting on buildings, again fell under suspicion and was forced to move on to New Zealand, whence he made a bolt, pursued by the police, back to Winnipeg. He will have to face other charges when he emerges from Stony Mountain.

Would Stop Boycott.

Pekin, March 24.—Japan has asked China to take such steps as may be necessary to prevent a boycott on Japanese goods in China and to put an end to the anti-Japanese agitation growing out of the Tatsu Maru incident.

The native guilds and the press are giving prominence to sensational reports of the Canton demonstration against Japan, indicating a widespread attempts to use the Tatsu Maru case against the Pekin Government as well as against Japan.

On Trial For His Life.

Three Rivers, Que., March 24.—The long postponed trial of William McCraw on the charge of murdering his wife, began yesterday morning at 10 o'clock. Messrs. Wilson and Tourigny appeared for the Crown and Messrs. Greenshields, Laflamee and Deay for the defence. All the witnesses are present except Mrs. Sclater, who would not be summoned.

Robbers Secured $47,000.

Reno, Nev., March 24.—Three bandits, heavily armed, overcame Edward Hoffman and a companion on a road two miles from Rawhide late Sunday, threw them to the ground and made off with the victims' two-horse rig, taking gold and bank notes amounting to about $47,000. The money was consigned to the Coalition Mining Co. at Rawhide.

Wandered In Undress.

London, March 24.—Saturday night a patient named Walter Hickey, confined in St. Joseph's Hospital with nervous prostration, escaped from the institution in his underclothes, and was captured by a policeman after he had been racing through the streets and the C.P.R. yards for nearly two hours.

Mrs. Filman, born in Ireland 95 years ago, is dead at Hamilton.

An Industry in The North Country

Some Information About the Chemical Works at Lochlin

The Minden Echo says:—We have had the pleasure of an interview with Mr. J. A. McCormack, who is in charge of the wood cutting department for the chemical works at Lochlin. This enterprise is likely to bring a lot of money into this part of the country, for, from 300 to 400 men and a number of teams will be engaged all summer. There are about 180 men at work now, and others are being employed. An additional gang will fit up and operate the works at Lochlin station. We were especially pleased to hear Mr. Hodgson say that men of our own country wanting work, will be given the preference at any time.

On the same principal of keeping the money in the country, the farmers will have an opportunity of furnishing supplies and this will probably be the best way of obtaining their share of the very large sum to be necessarily spent in this way. The enterprise has evidently come to stay and we understand that the lands from which the timber may be taken will be used as a stock ranch.

ORIENTAL SECRET TELEGRAPHY

Strange Power of Communicating News Over Great Distances.

The hope that the movement of troops against the Zakka Khels would prove "a regular surprise" to those erring tribesmen left but of account the mystic Oriental power of rapidly and secretly maintaining news over vast distances. An instance of this faculty was furnished during the Indian frontier expedition against the Waziris in 1895. Seventy-five miles as the crow flies and 120 miles by mountain roads from their base at Sheik Budin the British troops defeated the Waziris. Heavy mists prevented the news of the success being heliographed until the following day, when, communication being opened up, the British officer at Sheik Budin anticipated the news of the victory by stating he had been informed of it by natives on the very evening of its occurrence. The most famous instance of this sort is associated with the assassination of Lord Mayo by a convict in the Andaman Islands. Within a few hours of this murder an English official at Simla was told by his Pathan servant that the Viceroy was dead. Telegrams announcing the news did not arrive until the next day. How such messages are transmitted is hidden from Europeans, but again, and again, in India, as also in Egypt during the Soudanese campaign and in South Africa during the Boer war, the authenticity and speed in such native telegraphy was proved.

DOCTORS' LIFE SPAN

Disease to Which They are Especially Liable—The Narcotic Habit.

Doctors as a rule are more subject to illness than their fellow men, and their expectancy of life is less than that of most. An explanation of this is readily found in the anxieties caused by responsibilities which must weigh heavily on every man of right feeling; in the amount and trying nature of the work the doctor has to do; in irregularity of meals and broken sleep; in exposure to weather and to infection; and last but not least, in the scanty remuneration which his labor too often brings him.

The combined influences of all these causes is suficient to undermine the strongest constitution long before a man has reached the limit of threescore and ten. A comparison of tables compiled by statisticians in different countries gives doctors an average of 57 years at death.

Doctors as a class are especially liable to certain diseases. Setting aside affections due to exposure and infection the practice of medicine levies a disproportionate tribute from its professors in the form of diseases of the cardio-vascular and nervous systems. Angina pectoris has been called the 'doctor's disease;' neurasthenia deserves to be ranked in the same category, and severer forms of neurosis are, as might be expected, common among men whose profession compels them to live at the highest tension both of brain and nerve force.

It is scarcely to be wondered at, therefore, that the narcotic habit is so common among doctors. After all what shortens the doctor's life is overwork, mental and bodily strain manifesting itself at the point of least resistance.—British Medical Journal.

A DISTINGUISHED CANADIAN

Sir Percy Girouard, the High Commissioner of Northern Nigeria, who has arrived in England for a holiday, is the most brilliant of all Lord Kitchener's brilliant young men. Moreover, he is the only one of them who is said to never have been afraid of his chief. On one occasion in Egypt, the general thought the railway was getting on too slowly. "You must go quicker," said Lord Kitchener. "I can't," replied Girouard. "I am not being properly supplied with materials." "I have no use for a man who says can't," returned the general, and he sent Girouard to Cairo. Within a week he recalled Girouard, and admitted that he was wrong.

Sir Percy Girouard has been recognized as the greatest railway engineer the army has ever produced. He began young, on the Canadian Pacific Railway, and at twenty-three he was traffic manager of the Royal Arsenal at Woolwich, where Kichener spotted him as just the man he wanted for the construction of the Soudan railway. Girouard laid a most wonderful line across five hundred miles of desert for the advance to Khartoum, in spite of constant harrassing from the enemy.

It is said that whenever he and the other sapper officers on the railway got overburdened with their difficulties Lord Kitchener used to give them a day or two off to go and take part in the fighting! At any rate, he received a D.S.O. for his deeds of "derring-do" and was awarded a lieutenant-colonelcy and the K.C.M.G. for his work at the end of the campaign. Since then he has been Commissioner of Railways in the Transvaal and Orange River Colony, and is now, as High Commissioner of Northern Nigeria, building a railway to open up trade in that, at present, inaccessible country.—M.A.P.

IN MEMORIAM

Lines to Gladys Irene Henry, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Henry, Peterborough, who died January, 10th, 1908, aged 10 years

Ah! Irene, when so few thy days,
Why hast thou left thy home and mother,
Renounced thy cheerful childish ways,
Departed from them, thus, forever!

Thy favorite books and pleasing toys,
Thou has left neglected, and forgot;
The friends who shared in all thy joys,
Are sadly grieved since thou art not

Thy memory lingers with us still,
Like shades that linger in the dawn,
Are loth to leave the towering hill,
Till night's dark curtain is withdrawn

O'er thy grave sweet showers will shed,
A mild fragrance and beauty round;
The robins sing in the trees o'er head,
Or mark lightly, with footprints, the ground

To a mother's attention and care,
They each kindly will lend a slight aid,
Spreading perfume and melody where
This, the joy of a household is laid

The daisy, primrose and fairy bluebell,
In the field and the forest that grow,
Wither, fade and go from the dell,
Whence the leaf of the laurel must go

But they'll re-bloom when winter is past,
And the breezes of springtime return;
So, then again you'll meet her at last
And cease for your loved one to mourn.

When they come from the east and the west,
To inherit a robe and a crown.
Ever to be of the Kingdom possessed,
And with Abram and Isaac sit down.

By the river pure in the City of Gold,
In white raiment she'll walk as a saint,
Her face benign, more fair to behold
Than the fairest your fancy can paint.

When the trump of the grim angel, death,
O'er the din of life's battle is heard,
Gladly may we depart from beneath,
"So forever to be with the Lord."

Thieves Broke Window and Stole Meat

Bold Robbery at Store of Mr. John James Corner of Reid and McDonnel Sts.—

Shortly after midnight last night the store of Mr. John James, a grocer and butcher, whose place of business is at the corner of Reid and McDonnel streets, was broken into and a considerable quantity of meat stolen. The thieves obtained their entrance by smashing a large pane of glass in the window of the meat shop. They took half a side of long clear bacon, about 14 or 15 pounds of fresh pork and some smaller pieces of meat.

Mr. James, who retired about 12 o'clock, heard the crash of the breaking glass, but thought it was the noise made by some cars coupling on the track near by.

The police were notified and P.C. Adams visited the scene of the theft this morning. No clue to the robbers has yet been obtained.

Grand Jury Made Presentment

Public Institutions are all in Very Satisfactory Condition

The presentment of the Grand Jury in connection with the High Court, was made by Mr. R. E. Burgess, (foreman) last evening. The jury reports the apparent absence of crime in this vicinity. They also found all the local institutions in a very satisfactory condition.

The Grand Jury's presentment was as follows:

To His Lordship,
Chief Justice Mulock.
Presiding at the Spring Assizes, Peterborough;

Sir,—We, the Grand Jury of our Sovereign, King Edward the Seventh beg leave to congratulate you and the County of Peterborough on the absence of crime in this vicinity, of which we have evidence in the very brief calendar.

We have to report that in the course of our duties we have visited the several local institutions, including the county gaol, and found all in a satisfactory condition. At the gaol we were impressed by the number of aged men, whose only crime is old age accompanied by poverty and it would seem to your jurors that the city of Peterborough should be urged to make some provision for the care of such people.

We were also impressed by the number of apparently healthy and young inmates, held as vagrants, and so a charge on the community. These seem to be making the gaol a boarding place during the winter months and we would suggest that labor be provided. If some provision was made they would prefer outside work to a residence in the gaol.

We also visited the Nicholls Hospital, St. Joseph's Hospital, and House of Providence and the Protestant Home and though our visits were entirely unexpected, we found everything very highly satisfactory.

We did not, however, visit the County House of Refuge, near Lakefield, but we understand that this institution is very ably conducted and a credit to the county.

We regret that we could not have had the satisfaction of visiting a similar institution in the City of Peterborough. In a community, numbering so many as the city does now, will always be found the poor, the aged and needy, and many who become, through infirmity and old age, a charge on the community. Your jurors express the hope that at a not far distant day their successors in office may have the pleasure of inspecting and reporting that the city has done that which it should.

All of which is respectfully submitted.

JOHN L. KEARNEY

As "Marcus Orlando Kidder" in the Big Musical Production "The Mayor of Tokio" at the "Grand" Tomorrow Night.

"THE MAYOR OF TOKIO"

"The Mayor of Tokio," Richard Richard Carle's latest and no doubt the best musical comedy he has ever offered will be given its initial performance here tomorrow (Wednesday) night. "The Mayor of Tokio" is one of those clean musical comedies that theatre-goers will welcome, as it is entirely different from musical comedies that have been seen here this season. It does not depend wholly on one or two characters for its success as the company contains about twenty principals and carries a chorus of over sixty young women and men. The costumes and scenery are among the handsomest seen on the stage today. Mr. John L. Kearney heads the list as comedian and his quaint humor and droll sayings stamp him as one of the best musical comedy comedians of today. Mr. Kearney is a great favorite here and his coming will ensure a full house.

AMUSEMENTS

THE GIRL THAT LOOKS LIKE ME.

The audience which attended the production of "The Girl Who Looks Like Me" at the Grand last night was relieved when the play was over. Relieved for the reason that it would have been painful for those who witnessed the piece to laugh, any more than they were compelled to do during its presentation.

As a farce comedy, "The Girl Who Looks Like Me" is distinctly in a class by itself. The lines are simply brimming over with the brightest and most laugh-provoking humor and during the entanglement of the complicated plot innumerable situations of indescribable funniness are introduced. "The Girl Who Looks Like Me" is indeed remarkably clever in conception and construction and was produced last night by an unusually well-balanced and capable company. From the first to the last curtain every moment was interesting and very amusing and when the farce is seen it is easy to understand why it has been accorded such unanimous praise in all the cities in which it has been produced.

Miss Kathryn Osterman as Erma Desmond and Miss Anna Belmont as Phyllis Burnham, her friend, provided the greatest fun of the comedy and they excelled themselves in their inimitably good work. Both are comediennes of a most original character and as vivacious and clever funmakers their superiors have never been seen by a Peterborough audience. To discriminate between the balance of the cast would seem almost unfair. Franklyn Searight as Prof. Hugo Stanley; H. Hartwell Sleight as Burton Blount an attorney, and E. D. Cromwell as Chester Cylnch, all gave fine portrayals of their various roles. Their acting was pleasing and finished. Olive Skinner was splendid as Pirker, the German maid-servant, and infused a quaint humor into the part. Florence Aller did good work as Mrs. Baddly Bytton the prominent divorcee. Guy J. Lampsel as Elbert Chetwynde, assistant to Professor Stanley. Milton Arnsman in the amusing role of Clyme the gardener, and Eugenia Campbell as Gilberta Stanley, all appeared to best advantage in the interpretation of that really meritorious farce, "The Girl Who Looks like Me."

EXHIBIT THAT IS VERY ARTISTIC

Display of Art Silk Embroidery in T. H. Adams' Window George Street

An especially attractive and artistic window is the one at T. H. Adams's dry goods store, George street, in which is shown a fine exhibit of art needlework. The exhibit contains a large display of centrepieces, cushion tops, etc., being the work of Miss Sisson of Toronto who is at present conducting free classes at Adams' store in art, silk and embroidery work. The classes will close on April 5th when Miss Sisson will leave the city. During her stay here an exceptional chance of learning this very interesting and delicate art is offered.

The exhibit referred to above is made up of art needlework, masterful observer.

Especially clever are a water-lily centrepiece, an eyelet, embroidery linen centrepiece, an outstanding wheat design worked on a linen centrepiece and a reproduction of a plate of fish. This latter is a striking example of what may be accomplished by a knowledge of art needle work. Another piece of the same design but somewhat larger and also the work of Miss Sisson, is being exhibited at one of the largest art places and is a delightful study to any interested in the work. It cannot fail either, to appeal to the casual needlework exhibits in London, Eng. The display of her work at Adams' indicates that Miss Sisson is a thorough accomplished and artistic exponent of art needlework and every lady should avail herself of the splendid opportunity presented of acquiring a knowledge of it.

Interesting Time at George St. Church Last Evening

The Junior Epworth League of the George street Methodist church had charge of the missionary meeting of the Senior League last evening. The subject of the evening was, "From Opium Field to Preacher," and those who read papers on it were Audrey Bennett, Lester Pearson, Vaughan Pearson, Eva Outram and Milford Hardill.

The following programme was rendered.

Recitation—Gladys Pentland.
Closing Prayer—Rev. E. A. Pearson.

THE NEATEST EYEGLASSES

The advantages of the deep curve (spoon-shaped)-lenses compared with the flat glasses are very apparent.

The deep curve fits the form of the eye, the lashes sweep in the curve. These lenses set closer to the eye, they look much neater and vision is clearer and wider than with any other form of glasses.

These lenses are ground in large factories employing hundreds of men who are experts and devote their whole life to lens grinding.

We have supplied this style of Glasses in many cities, and to quite a number of our citizens here in Peterborough. These Glasses always please the wearer.

Geo. Shepherd Sentenced to Two Years in Penitentiary

Pleaded Guilty to Charges of Forgery and Obtaining Watch Under False Prentences—Prisoner's Letter to Magistrate Asking for Leniency—Broke Down at Judgment of Court.

On charges of forgery and of obtaining a gold watch from Mr. Chas. McClellan under false pretences, Geo. Shepherd was sentenced to two years in the Kingston penitentiary this morning. Shepherd pleaded guilty and elected summary trial a week ago but was remanded for sentence.

Shepherd forged two cheques on Mr. Wm. Snowden at Pappas', cigar store. He afterwards went to McClelland's jewellry store where he bought the watch, paying six dollars on it and stating that he would give the balance in a week or so as he was working at the Snowden house. He then left the city but a week ago last Saturday he was brought back from Port Hope, where he was taken into custody by Chief Bond, while sitting in an hotel. The watch had been pawned in Napanee, but was recovered by the local police.

'You have pleaded guilty to both charges,' said His Worship. 'Have you anything to say?'

PRISONER'S PLEA

Shepherd never answered but handed the following letter to His Worship:

Your Worship,

I do not feel well enough to say anything in court so I take the liberty of writing a few words in defence of my dishonest acts. I am 34 years of age and have always lived an honest life previous to this. I have always had excellent recommendations from my late employers and have no doubt that even Mr. Snowden himself would stand up and testify regarding my character, while in his employ. Now, sir, as to the cause of my disgrace. For fifteen months out of the last two years, I have been sick in bed, six months in the hospital undergoing a severe operation and eight months in Nicholls hospital and at Cobourg my home. During my last sickness the pain was so severe that my doctor prescribed morphine. I became so addicted to the habit of taking this morphine that if I went without it for many hours, I was practically crazy for the want of it. Then, sir, to make matters worse, I was compelled to leave home in the middle of February, a severe month, sick and with very little money beyond my fare to Peterborough in an endeavor to get work. I failed and after being without a morsel of food for forty-eight hours, and crazy for the want of the drug I did the acts to which I have pleaded guilty. Had I been well and in my proper senses at the time, I could not have done this. Since then I have, I guess, been one of the most miserable of men. God only knows what remorse I have suffered. I have spent two weeks in prison, eating scarcely and have been under the treatment of the doctor while in there. In conclusion I ask Your Worship to kindly take into consideration these facts and deal as leniently as possible with me. I ask you if it is possible to deal with me under the first offenders act. In any event I will undertake to make within a certain time, full recompense to those whom I have wronged. I also give Your Worship a guarantee not to take any more morphine. In fact it is impossible for me to get it without a doctor's prescription and no doctor would give me one now. In future worry, sickness or anything else, will cause me to do wrong. I have had my lesson and a bitter one too. Would the justice of the case be met by my promise to make retribution in a certain time set forth by Your Worship and in the event of not fulfilling my promise to then come before you for sentence. Where I am find employment to inform the police of that place.

Your humble servant,
GEO. SHEPHERD.

THE SENTENCE

"Your letter would be considered, were this your only offence, but you are wanted in Cobourg, Trenton and Gananoque on similar charges," said His Worship. "The offence is a serious one implicating as it does all commercial dealings. You have deliberately tried to use your education to obtain money by fraudulent means. As you say, you are a victim of a morphine habit and not having enough self-will to overcome this habit, it is my intention to put you where you cannot have it. The judgment of the court is that you be sentenced to two years in the Kingston penitentiary.

PRISONER BROKE DOWN

At this, Shepherd never spoke a word but fell to his seat, and burying his face in his hands, wept bitterly.

Shepherd had only resided in this city for a short time. He came to Cobourg from the old country two years ago. He married in that town, but only lived with his wife a short time, she having to work to keep him. He was put out of Cobourg by the authorities and came to this city. He was wanted by the police of Trenton, Cobourg and Gananoque for forgery.

George Street Girls' Guild

Good Meeting Last Evening—Reports From Visitors to Various Institutions

The Girls' Guild of George street church held their regular meeting last evening at the church and there was a large attendance of the members. Reports were given by the young ladies who were appointed for the month to visit the Protestant Home, the Nicholls hospital and the Children's Shelter. A number of useful articles of clothing and a couple of quilts which have all been made by the Girls' Guild at the meetings during the winter were given for enclosure in the bale to be sent to Hazelton, B.C. this week.

It was decided that a concert be given in the Sunday school rooms on Tuesday evening, April 9th, when many interesting features will be presented including a couple of one-act plays, and some good musical numbers.

Oh, but that man must know all about Wall street! What makes you think so? He never speculates—Cleveland Leader.

Busy Morning at Police Court

Three drunks faced His Worship Magistrate Dumble in the police court this morning. John Anderson and John Simpson pleaded guilty to being drunk in a public place yesterday. They were each fined two dollars to be paid forthwith. They had lots of money and readily handed out their fines.

Charles Hailey, of Havelock, went into Fowler's restaurant last evening and ordered ham and eggs. He was pretty drunk and upset his cup of tea and a bottle of pickles. He was fined three dollars, fifty cents of it to go to Mr. Fowler for the damage he had done. He paid Mr. Fowler, but did not have the balance so had to go up on the hill for ten days.

IN THE HOUSE OF COMMONS INTERIM SUPPLIES PASSED

Hindu Immigration Again Discussed in House of Commons.

Companies' Act Amended — W. F. Maclean Makes Plea for Decimal Coinage—English Oats For Seed Purposes—Mr. Henderson Objects to Senators as Government Contractors—Defends System.

Ottawa, March 25.—Good progress was made yesterday with Government business. Two or three Government bills were passed without opposition and an interim supply bill amounting to one-eighth of every item not already passed was put through.

Mr. Foster read a despatch to the effect that 500 Hindus, assembled in Vancouver, B. C., had cabled to John Morley a strong protest against exclusion of their countrymen as British subjects, from Canada. He asked the Prime Minister to say what really was occurring with respect to the Hindus, who are British subjects.

Sir Wilfrid Laurier said the question was easily explained. The regulations of the Department of the Interior provided that all undesirable and mentally incapable immigrants can and ought to be excluded. But it was found that parties coming in, not from country of their origin, could not be sent back there. It was deemed expedient that the Minister should have machinery to deport any undesirables and a regulation was passed that no one should be admitted unless he came from the country of his origin.

R. L. Borden asked if it made any difference how long an immigrant had been in the country from which he came immediately.

Sir Wilfrid Laurier had not looked into that feature and thought the contingency was not likely to arise.

"Is this the situation," asked W. F. Maclean, "that a Hindu must come directly from India?"

"He may come from Hong Kong," replied Sir Wilfrid, "if he has a through ticket from India."

Dr. Sproule quoted a remark of Obed Smith, assistant superintendent of immigration from Europe in London, that all immigrants except the very worst class was accepted. Was he voicing the policy of the Government?

Mr. Oliver assumed that Mr. Smith was misquoted, as the statement did not represent the policy of the Government.

The Finance Minister promised to bring down the report of the civil service commission to-day.

A bill to amend the Companies Act by legalizing the issue of bonds, debentures and securities in foreign currency was put through all the stages.

W. F. Maclean (South York) suggested to the Finance Minister that when the opportunity presented itself he should represent to the Chancellor of the Exchequer that the time had come for Great Britain to legalize the decimal coinage and allow the business public to keep their accounts in the double system. This would effect an enormous saving to the community interested. It might interfere somewhat with the exchange of money, but it would lead to an effort to unify the coinage between Europe and America. If Britain were to legalize dollars and cents there would be a struggle between the two systems, and if the decimal system was the best it would be adopted.

Mr. Fielding promised to keep the suggestion in mind, but probably Mr. Maclean had not taken sufficiently into account the strong conservatism of the British people.

They were not so conservative, replied Mr. Maclean. For instance they had adopted the decimal system in the navy. This was one of those little things that would go to simplify business.

The House went into supply for the purpose of providing sums to meet expenditures beginning April 1 next, the beginning of the next fiscal year. He proposed that one-eighth of each item not already voted should be adopted, and the Opposition consented to the arrangement.

The items already voted total $11,246,000.

These were concurred in, and the committee took up the supplementary estimates for the current year. Mr. Fisher, explaining the increases in the expenditure of the seeds branch of agriculture, said they were due to the issue of a book on farm weeds, and also to the testing of seeds.

Mr. Cockshutt pointed out that clover seed was now selling in Western Ontario at $12 to $15 per bushel, whereas before the seed act went into force the price was $5 to $7 a bushel.

Mr. Fisher, replying to Dr. Sproule said that oats purchased in England for distribution in the Northwest were of fine quality and had been tested in the old country.

During the discussion of the Department of Justice estimates it was found that supplies for penal institutions had been purchased from Senator Campbell's flour mill at Toronto Junction and Senator Edward's company at Ottawa.

Messrs. Blain and Bennett called attention to these items, asking if the Senators were to be allowed to "browse in these fertile fields." Later Mr. Bennett ascertained that D. W. Bole, M.P. for Winnipeg, had been supplying drugs.

Jacques Bureau, Solicitor-General, who directed estimates, could see no wrong in this. The contract was called for by public tender.

Mr. Henderson expressed surprise that in so many cases the lowest tenderer happened to be a company of which a Senator or member of Parliament was a member. The country, he thought, would draw its own conclusions.

Mr. Aylesworth said there was no objection so long as a Senator or member of Parliament was interested as a member of the company.

Mr. Fielding thought Mr. Henderson's suggestion was not fair. Did he believe that Senator Edwards, for the sake of a paltry few hundred dollars, would be a party to any conspiracy to secure a contract for supplies by unfair means?

Mr. Aylesworth declared that in the matter of awarding contracts in his Department politics were not considered.

Deportation of Hindus Creates Dangerous Situation, Says Mr. Morley.

London, March 25.—As a result of the representations regarding Hindu emigration into British Columbia made at the Colonial Office recently by Mackenzie King, Canadian Deputy Minister of Labor, it is probable that a special commissioner will be sent over to Canada with the purpose of arranging the immigration difficulties along the lines of least resistance.

John Morley, Secretary for State for India, has received a telegram from the British Indians residing at Vancouver asking for protection, as British subjects, and he declared in the House of Commons yesterday that the Indian Government and the Colonial Office contemplated sending an envoy to the Canadian Government in the hope of bringing to an end, if possible, "this extremely difficult, intricate and possibly dangerous situation."

Shot While Hunting.

Kingston, March 25.—Yesterday afternoon four boys were in the marsh at the northeast of the city hunting muskrats. One of them named O'Reilly was shot in the back of the neck from by what is regarded as a stray bullet.

The lad fell and was picked up unconscious and taken to the hospital The wound was found so serious that doubts are entertained for his recovery.

KILLED IN COLD BLOOD

Terrible Confession of Murder by a Galician in Winnipeg.

Mysterious Death Now Cleared Up—Revenge Was the Motive—Deceased Had Informed Against Foreigner For Shooting Moose—Tragedy on Lone Trail—Clubbed Man to Death With Rifle.

Winnipeg, March 25.—The mysterious murder of a Galician named Alex. Ozanac on Saturday afternoon last a few miles north of Teulon, Man., has been cleared up by the arrest by Chief Constable Baker of Selkirk of Wasyl Andrejezuk, another Galician, who is now lodged in the provincial jail here, and has confessed that he slew Ozanac in cold blood because the latter had informed on him to the chief game guardian for shooting moose out of season.

Ozanac, who lives five miles north of Teulon, drove into town Saturday afternoon with a load of wood. About the same time the murderer, who lives thirteen miles further north, delivered a load of wood to a Galician family named Wussuk, four miles north of Teulon. Hearing his victim was in town, he waited in a lonely trail till the latter appeared on his ox-sled. An altercation ensued, which ended in Ozanac being clubbed to death with the butt end of a rifle.

The murderer then dragged the body into a bush and returned to the Wussuk House and told Mr. Wussuk it was the last time Ozanac would inform on him. A man named Charles Clifford got the derelict ox team, and later saw the murderer wiping blood traces in the snow, thus leading to his arrest.

ORCHARD TOLD THE TRUTH.

Judge Wood Recommends That Death Sentence Be Remitted.

Boise, Idaho, March 25.—Governor Gooding yesterday received official notice, as is required by law, from Judge Freemont Wood of the sentence of Harry Orchard, the self-confessed murderer of former Governor Steunenberg. Judge Wood, in speaking of the matter, said:

"By the statutes of Idaho the common law is made the rule of decision in all cases not inconsistent with the legislative laws of the United States and of the state.

"At the common law, when the court or magistrate accepted an accomplice as a witness against a co-defendant, the law implied a promise on the part of such court or magistrate to recommend such accomplice to the merciful consideration of the state, provided the accomplice thus accepted as a witness was subsequently convicted of the same offence.

"This right has been declared to be a part of our judicial system by the Supreme Court of several states.

"The right, however, to such recommendation for clemency depends upon the accomplice thus accepted as a witness testifying fully and fairly to the entire transaction involved, and it is this fact that makes it necessary for the trial court to review the evidence of the accomplice before judicially determining that such accomplice is entitled to the recommendations of the court for any degree of executive clemency.

"The accomplice, Orchard, having testified fully and fairly when accepted as a witness, the court recommends the omission of the death penalty."

Will Not Invite Fleet.

London, March 25.—Great Britain has not invited the United States battleship fleet to visit England as it returns home or to make any official calls at British ports on its way, as the British Admiralty understands that the American Government does not desire that the voyage be further delayed.

It is understood also that the United States has expressed the wish that there should be no demonstration in honor of the fleet at the British ports in the Mediterranean.

It is possible, however, that the British Atlantic fleet will be at Gibraltar when the American squadron passes through the Strait, in which event the usual courtesies will be extended.

Set Upon by Thugs.

Peterboro, March 25.—Dr. J. W. Gray, a prominent local physician, was set upon by a gang of thugs while on his way home late Monday night. The doctor, although nearly sixty years of age, closed with his assailants, and accomplished the remarkable feat of taking one of them to the police station, two blocks away.

The other members of the gang tried to free their pal, but the doctor beat them off and handed his man over to the authorities. The doctor received a cut on the head in the mix-up, but was not seriously injured.

Bigamist Gets Year.

Toronto, March 25.—Norman Wilson was yesterday sent down for a year for bigamy. He first married five years ago, but his wife soon left him and he married again under the name of Robinson. Mrs. Wilson No. 2 sat through the trial not more than three feet from Wilson, with their three months old baby in her arms, and never so much as glanced at him throughout the whole proceedings.

Australia Sends Dudley.

Ottawa, March 25.—Governor-General Northcote of Australia cables to Lord Grey stating that Earl Dudley, the new governor of Australia, will represent the Commonwealth at the Quebec tercentenary. Premier Deakin regrets that the session of the Legislature will preclude any Minister attending with Earl Dudley.

Robbers at Wyoming.

Wyoming, Ont., March 25.—Thieves broke into the jewelry store of A. Brittain, here, Monday night, and took quite a quantity of jewelry, etc., from the showcases.

"I was continually bothered with the most distressing backaches, headaches, and bearing-down pains, and I kept growing more and more nervous.

Mrs. Pinkham invites all sick women to write her for advice. She has guided thousands to health. Address, Lynn, Mass.

UNIONISTS VICTORIOUS.

Tariff Reformer Returned by Large Majority for Peckham.

London, March 25.—The most keenly fought bye-election for the present Parliament was necessitated through the death of Charles Goddard Clarke, member for Peckham, a district in London south of the Thames, resulted yesterday in a great victory for the Unionists, whose candidate, S. C. Gooch, was elected by a majority of 2,339.

The contest yesterday centered largely in the Government licensing bill and the conversion of a large Liberal majority into a still greater Conservative majority is a striking demonstration against that measure.

The announcement of the returns in the House of Commons caused a scene of the greatest excitement. There were Unionist shouts demanding that the Government resign.

Peace With Night Riders.

Cincinnati, March 25.—An end to the night riding in Kentucky has been brought about through a formal agreement reached between the American Tobacco Co., and the executive committee of the Society of Equity in a conference at Winchester, Ky., according to apparently authoritative statements made here yesterday by members of the American Society of Equity.

Nearly $14,000,000 and the purchase of the entire crops of 1906 and 1907 on the one side and no planting of a crop for the year 1908, on the other, are points in the agreement.

Hopkinsville, Ky., March 25.—Night riders to the number of from 25 to 30 invaded Golden Pond, Trigg County, Monday midnight, dragged Thomas Weaver, a negro in the employ of the Tobacco Association, from his bed and carrying him to a crossroad, commanded him to run. When he failed to obey the night riders fired at him. Two balls penetrated the body.

Twenty People Injured.

Detroit, March 25.—Over a score of people were injured yesterday afternoon when an interurban car on the Ann Arbor branch of the Detroit United Railway, bound into the city from Jackson, Mich., was derailed by a defective rail near 31st street and plowed across the brick pavement into a store building.

The car was wrecked and the front of the two storey building was demolished. Twenty people were taken to the hospital for treatment and nearly another score received minor injuries, which were dressed at the scene of the accident.

Baby in the Mails.

Denver, Colo., March 25.—Postmaster C. Olerach of Partales, N.M., yesterday reported to E. L. McKee, chief postal inspector of the Rocky Mountain region, the discovery of the body of an infant in the mails. The package was addressed to a man at Boswell, N.M., and bore the return address of a woman of Woodstock, Illinois. Under the outer cover of the package was the following assigned message:

"I did not know what else to do. Burn or do something right away. Do not open."

British Noble Dies.

Cannes, March 25.—Spencer Compton Cavendish, eighth Duke of Devonshire, died here yesterday morning of heart failure.

High tributes were paid to the Duke of Devonshire by the leaders of both parties in the House of Commons and in the House of Lords yesterday. The House of Lords paid the dead statesman the unprecedented compliment of adjourning out of respect to his memory.

Three Italians Acquitted.

Montreal, March 25.—The Italians have drawn first blood in the series of alleged murder cases now being heard before the Court of King's Bench.

The three men accused of murdering one Cassieri on Amherst street were all acquitted yesterday by the jury. The proof went to show that the man had committed suicide.

Messrs. Dick Baker and Jack Thirnbeck Were Honored

Given Presentation and Address by Strathcona Hockey Club—Happy Occasion at Y. M. C. A. Last Night—Services Remembered.

It was a most happy occasion when a large number of the members of the Strathcona Hockey Club gathered at the Y.M.C.A. to honor Messrs. Dick Baker and Jack Thirnbeck. Both were presented with gifts and addresses, the former being presented with $20 in gold, and the latter with a handsome gold-mounted pipe.

The presentation to Mr. Baker, who has proved a most efficient trainer of the club, was made by Mr. Len Dobson, Mr. Fred Craig, the Strathcona secretary, reading the address.

The address was as follows:—

Dear Dick,—Now that the hockey season is at an end, we, the members of the Strathcona Hockey Club, have felt that we could not wind up the affairs of the club without an expression of our appreciation of your services to our club during the year. As a trainer we have found you all that could be desired. You have been most faithful in your attendance at practices and at all times have shown a cheerful zeal and an impartiality in your work that has made you most popular with players and officers of the club alike.

While the finances of the club are not such as to leave us in a position to provide remuneration for your from that source, the members of the club have subscribed toward this token of our esteem and regard to you, which we offer, with the only regret that it could not be larger.

Wishing you every success.

THE STRATHCONA HOCKEY CLUB

Mr. Charles Barber read the address to Mr. Jack Thirnbeck, and Mr. Clarence Wilson made the presentation.

The address is given below:—

Dear Jack,—The members of the Strathcona Hockey Club cannot allow the season to pass away without offering some appreciation of the many favors you have shown us during the past season. You have in a hundred ways shown your interest in our welfare by many acts of kindness, which have not gone unnoticed by our players or our officials, and for which we are most grateful. We ask you to accept this gift, not for its intrinsic value, for that necessarily is small, but as an evidence of our recognition of your many favors toward us. We hope that next winter we may be all together again to once more enjoy such favors.

With best wishes,

THE STRATHCONA HOCKEY CLUB

Both of those whose services were recognized by the club so appropriately, made suitable acknowledgement.

The Quakers Will Not Go to Coast After People's Shield

The Quaker Football team is not going to the coast in an endeavor to capture the People's Shield. At a meeting last night at which about fifteen members of the club were in attendance it was decided that it would be impossible to send a team to Vancouver owing to their being unable to get the financial support necessary to cover the heavy expenses that would be involved in making such a long jaunt.

It is unfortunate that the citizens did not respond to the appeal for funds to enable the Quakers to go to the coast as the locals have a splendid agregation and no doubt would have made a good showing in the competition for the shield.

The Quakers will be represented in the Midland League by a senior and intermediate team. Much enthusiasm was shown at the meeting and the season promises to be the most successful one in the history of the club.

The Harriers' Committee to Look After Sporting Meet

The Y.M.C.A. Harriers are making big preparations for athletics this summer and expect to be particularly active in that line. At a meeting held at the Y.M.C.A. last night a committee to look after the proposed spring meet was appointed, consisting of Messrs. R. M. Glover, E. S. Clarry and C. G. Graham.

It was decided to get the boys desirous of engaging in athletics into shape right away, and those who show good form will be sent to take part in the Olympic trials. The date upon which the spring meet will be held will probably be May 24th. There seems no reason why the meet, if held, should not be a highly successful one.

Mr. Dick Baker, the well-known local trainer and enthusiast, will be trainer for the Harriers.

GOOD REPRESENTATIVES.

Ernie Wilson is getting into shape for the shorter distance runs and Simpson is in active training for the 25 mile Brantford to Hamilton Olympic trail. J. Thorpe, who made such a good showing in the three mile event at the Harriers' meet at the Brock street rink, when he ran unattached, has joined the "Y." and will be identified with Harrier athletics. There are numerous other good men belonging to the club to choose from.

Lakefield, March 23.—Mr. and Mrs. Richard White, of Young's Point, moved into the village last week. Mr. White is occupying the house he purchased some years ago from Mr. Richard Smith.

Many friends will be grieved to learn of the death on Sunday last of Peterborough, of Mrs. Robt. Clifford, late of Lakefield. The deceased lady was greatly respected and liked by all who knew her, and the sympathy of the community has gone out to her family in their great affliction.

Mr. Wm. Graham is on the Petit Jury at the Assizes in Peterborough this week.

Mrs. Bray, who has been visiting her daughter, Mrs. O. A. Langley, left for her home in Oakville on Monday last.

Mr. John Strickland, of Bridgeburg, Ont., was in the village on Sunday last, and left again on Monday for his home.

NORWOOD

(Special to the Review.)

Norwood, March 24.—Farmers in this vicinity are very hopeful of a good showing in fall wheat and clover this spring. On account of the plentiful mantle of snow over the fields all frosts has not been allowed to penetrate the ground nearly so much as usual, and at the end of March most of the fields are covered with the "beautiful," which is a very favorable indication that the coming season will yield a bountiful harvest of hay and fall grain.

Hay, which has been selling here all winter at $20, has been offering at $18 for the past week or so.

Most people in this vicinity have been able by careful feeding, to so save their straw and other coarse fodder to have still sufficient to feed their stock until the grass is fit to turn them on to.

Most people say their cattle are coming out unusually well. While feed was rather scarce, still the quality was first-class and was fed so that each animal would eat its allowance, surfeiting was conspicuous by its absence, and the cattle, while perhaps a little thin, are strong and hearty.

The country roads are in a very poor shape now. Sleighing is poor, while the depth of snow makes in its softened condition hard and dangerous footing for horses.

Mr. Patterson, of South Dummer, is leaving Norwood for the west this week. He has been buying up some fine farm work horses to take with him. He has succeeded in procuring some very fine animals, but the prices were pretty high.

Mr. and Mrs. E. J. Laing visited friends in Havelock on Sunday.

Miss Fraser, of Peterborough, is visiting Mrs. A. B. Greenbank, Peterboro street. Miss Fraser is going out west in the spring, where she intends to learn to be a nurse.

Miss Mabel Foster, of Preston is visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. D. Foster.

The concert which was held at Havelock last Friday night is reported to be in every way a success.

Mr. Gordon Beavis, of Asphodel, left for North Dakota last week, where he intends staying for the summer.

A number of our young folks went to Havelock to the concert on Friday night.

We are glad to hear that Mr. Harold Keefer, who fractured his knee while wrestling at school one day last fall, is improving.

Mr. C. P. Cluff will hold his millinery openings next week.

Mr. J. Weir has purchased the dwelling on Peterboro street formerly owned by Mr. J. Baskin. Mr. R. Scott, who has been living in the house, is moving into the house which Mr. Weir lived in, owned by the Rev. Mr. Peare, formerly of Norwood.

The assessor, Mr. A. Davidson, is around again.

Miss Pearl Borland, of Indian River, spent Sunday in Norwood.

The Sunbeam choir will render several choruses on Easter Sunday night in the Methodist church.

There passed away in Asphodel last Monday a prominent and well known man, in the person of Mr. Wm. Metcalf. Mr. Metcalf has been suffering for some time. He leaves to mourn his loss a wife and several children. The funeral will take place on Thursday afternoon at two o'clock and the remains will be interred in the Norwood cemetery. Mr. Metcalfe was 58 years of age.

Mrs. Metcalfe and children have the sympathy of a large circle of friends friends in their sad bereavement.

The High and Public schools of this town have fire drill occasionally, and the School Board has decided to supply each school with fire escapes and several buckets which are to be kept full of water in case of fire.

THE WATER TROUBLE

To the Editor of the Review.

Sir,—It causes a great deal of loss and annoyance to be suddenly left without water for cooking, washing and a number of other necessary things. It is not so bad when one is notified that the water will be temporally shut off for the purpose of making connections or for other reasons, then enough water can be provided beforehand to tide over the time the water is shut off. To be shut off without any warning on account of a sudden drop in the temperature causing a flow of anchor ice is most dangerous, annoying and wholly unnecessary in these days when means have been found to prevent such a catastrophe. When such enormous interests are at stake from fire and from other causes consequent upon the whole town being without a drop of water, no ordinary expense should be considered in providing means to prevent such a state of affairs. We would not put up with such management from a private company and a municipal owned plant should be managed with the same intelligence. If the Water Commissioners will consult with the proper authorities who have made a study of such conditions they will find that it is not necessary to have the public put up with such annoyances and chances of loss and ruin.

Yours truly,
CITIZEN.

THE DAYLIGHT STORE

We're Noisy About OUR Spring Wearables

WE'VE a right to get noisy about our Spring things. They're all at it, and why shouldn't we shout a little. You can't judge of bargains from the shrieks of the newspaper advertisers. However, stores that have the poorest values to offer usually clamor the loudest.

You shouldn't decide hastily, but take a day or two to look around before you buy; it will pay you to do it.

Greatest Importations of New Dress Fabrics

More of Satisfaction--Less of Price--The Strong Features of Our Spring Dress Goods.

Our Dress Goods Department is our particular care and pride. It s standards of quality are so strict—just "good" won't do—BEST is what's bought and sold there always.

Experience has taught us that our customers prefer Fabrics ranging from 50c to $1.25 per yard in price, and fashion has advised us that Striped Armures, Poplins, Crepe de Chenes Taffeta Cloths, Tweeds and Voiles, will be correct for 1908 wear. The best colors and patterns of these fabrics that the market produces for retailing at these prices are now on display in our Dress Goods Department, and they are better than those usually sold for such prices.

The new and popular (as well as much that is exclusive) is represented in our Spring stocks in a wide range of beautiful colorings and weaves, and nowhere can more excellence and style be had for lesser prices.

When you come to make your selection, you'll see that we haven't at all exaggerated the advantages of our Dress Goods Department.

Situation is Explained by Mr. Culverwell

Situation Regarding Power Explained to the Belleville Council — Company Not to Blame

The following is from the Belleville Ontario (Liberal):—

The following telegram was sent to the City Council last night by J. A. Culverwell, of Port Hope, the gentleman who has eighteen councils endorsing his Healey Falls operations. This is self-explanatory and is in the interests of Belleville.

The report of the Trenton newspapers that Deputy Minister Butler had promised dam No. 2 to Trenton people—as will be seen in the report of the Belleville deputation—has been countermanded by the Hon. Geo. P. Graham, who is the Minister of Railways and Canals:—

Port Hope, March 23rd, 1908.

Clerk and Council, Belleville:

Regarding Globe despatch from Ottawa re Belleville deputation asking for power from dam two, Trent canal near Trenton, eight to ten thousand horse-power is incorrect and nonsensical. The head is twenty-two feet and the officially recorded dry flow gives three thousand three hundred and thirty horse-power, or substracting canal requirements and electrical losses only 2,500 horse-power delivered Belleville. The owners of the whole of one side of that power is myself and associates, as also power of smaller dam No. three,—as confirmed again recently by Court of Appeal judgment.

Belleville's power requirements at present are nearly 8,000 horse-power. Healey Falls is absolutely essential therefore to help Belleville's future.

Intriguing is now going on to get the corporation and Trenton to secure dam two and then turn it over to R. Weddell, T. A. G. Gordon and Trent Power Company, who now own part of dam No 1—and thereby stifle competition in Belleville.

Hope Belleville will continue to stop this disreputable duplicity

J. A. CULVERWELL,
Managing Director of The Northumberland-Durham Power Co., Limited, lessees and owners parts Healey Falls (under Government rate regulations)

Mr Culverwell arrived at 9.30 and addressed the Council. He showed eight registered deeds and plans of two miles of Trent rapids and quoted a recent Court of Appeal judgment and also different settlements made by Government on canal in Peterborough district to endorse his statement.

He also quoted Deputy Minister Butlers' Trent Canal report, which states that he is unable to find any authority by Statute or common law to direct water from a natural channel without compensation to the riparian owners, and he values this at $2 per horse-power per annum. Other reports show canal requires one-sixth of the river flow.

Upon being questioned in Council Mr Culverwell said:—

"The reason power had not been supplied to Belleville was owing to the determined opposition made against him by people in Peterborough, Lakefield and Campbellford, with the aid of the departmental officials in delaying surveys. All surveys on the river are finished, half the contracts are let and yet the survey and work at Healey Falls has been left in abeyance. He wanted to say emphatically it was not the fault of the company nor was it the fault of Hon. Mr. Graham.

Between Jan. 1 and Nov. 1, 1907, the fire loss of the United States was $180,765,300, compared with $224,-469,200 in the same ten months of 1906.

WEDDING BELLS

PATTERSON—MOORE

A quiet but exceedingly pretty wedding was solemnized this afternoon at 2 o'clock when two of Peterborough's most popular young people plighted their troth. It was the marriage of Miss Jean E. Moore, daughter of Mr. O. H. Moore, 142 Hunter St. East, to Mr H. A. Patterson of this city. The ceremony was performed in the beautifully decorated drawing room of the bride's home, by Rev. Robt. A. Fogue pastor of St. Paul's church. Only the immediate friends and relatives of the bride and groom were present.

To the strains of Mendelssohn's wedding march played by Miss Lila Tully the bride, leaning upon the arm of her father, who gave her away, entered the room. She was prettily attired in a gown of white point d'esprit over taffeta. She carried a bouquet of white roses and lillies of the valley. The bride was assisted by her sister, Miss Eva Moore, who wore a dress of pink voile over taffeta. She carried pink roses. The groom was ably supported by Mr. Bruce Hutchison.

After the ceremony and hearty congratulations had been bestowed upon the bride and groom a sumptuous repast was partaken of.

The bride was the recipient of many beautiful presents, testifying to the high esteem in which she is held by a wide circle of friends.

Mr. and Mrs. Patterson left on the 4.48 CPR. train for Toronto and Detroit, followed by the good wishes of a host of friends. Mrs. Patterson travelled in a suit of mantle cloth with hat to match.

Some Interesting Details of Career of late D'Arcy Strickland

His Death is Greatly Regretted at His Native Village—A Useful and Active Life Terminated.

Special to The Review.

Lakefield, March 24.—The sad news was received in the village on Saturday last, of the sudden death from cardiac dropsy, of Inspector D'Arcy E. Strickland, of the Royal North-West Mounted Police. Inspector Strickland was the eldest son of Mr. R. C. Strickland of Lakefield, and at the time of his death was in his fortieth year, having been born on Nov. 26th, 1868. He received his education at the Grove school, and at Trinity College school, Port Hope. From the latter place he proceeded to the Royal Military College at Kingston, and in 1891, received from the Macdonald Government, the position of Inspector in the N.W.M. Police. In 1895 he was sent as second in command of the first contingent of the force to the Yukon, his wife and six months old baby accompanying him, the baby being the first white child that had ever arrived in that territory. In 1896 he returned on the steamer Portland to Victoria, bringing the first news of the wonderful gold discoveries in the Yukon. He was shortly afterwards ordered to take a detachment of police over the White Pass and to establish a station at Lake Tagish, and for the following two years he had very strenuous work in upholding law and order in that district. On his return from this post he was stationed for some time at Regina, and then sent to the Wood Mountains, on the Montana boundary, in order to suppress the horse thieving which was rampant in that section. His last appointment was as commander of the post at Fort Saskatchewan, at which place he died.

The deceased officer at the time of the Boer war offered his services to the Government and was assigned as captain to the 5th Canadian Regiment of Mounted Rifles; a corps raised for duty in South Africa. By the time the regiment reached that country however, the war had ended, and he was thus deprived of the opportunity of seeing active service.

Inspector Strickland was a man known throughout the entire North-West Territory and universally popular. His sterling qualities of head and heart endeared him not only to members of the force, but to everyone who had the good fortune to know him.

The following pithy summing up of his character by one who knew him well embodies in it whole columns of panegyric, and will serve better than anything perhaps, to show in what esteem he was held by his fellowmen;

"D'Arcy Strickland was absolutely square, and a white man, through and through."

Inspector Strickland married in November, 1893, Miss Tannis Dreven daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Drever of Prince Albert, and niece of Bishop Pinkham of Calgary, Alta. His widow, and a son and daughter, thirteen and nine years old respectively, survive him.

The interment took place early this week at Fort Saskatchewan, with full military and Masonic honors.

Men Who Fought for the Empire; Speech of Lieutenant A. J. Brace

Brilliant and Effective Speech by the Son of A. H. Brace at the Canadian Club Banquet at Victoria, B. C.—A Fitting Tribute by the Chairman of the Campaigners' Association.

At the Canadian Club banquet yesterday, to the South African veterans, in moving the vote of thanks to Speaker Eberts for his address, Lieut. A. J. Brace said;

"Mr. Chairman and Gentlemen, I feel that it is too high an honor to have the privilege to move a vote of thanks to the speaker of the day for his magnificent words. I feel that I can but poorly express the sentiments which my comrades individually feel towards those who have made it possible for us to enjoy this banquet today and to listen to the splendid oration of Mr. Speaker.

"If we were able to serve our country in any small way, we did it because we thought it was our duty. We did not expect thanks or appreciation; we ask no reward for simply doing our duty.

"I am glad that there is such a number of those who went to South Africa present on this occasion. When I was asked how many South African veterans there would be in town, I replied, 'about forty, sir,' but when the advertisement was put in the papers 140 turned up (Cheers). There are about 100 present, representing 25 different regiments, not only from Canada but from Australia, New Zealand and the Mother Country. At the head of this table, sir, sit eleven men who were at Paardeburg eight years ago today. (Loud cheers). I am glad that we have with us Lieut. Hodgins to second this motion. I feel that he should have moved the resolution while I seconded it as he fought at Paardeburg on that eventful occasion.

"This gathering has given us the opportunity and we hope to form a Veterans' Association for this city and a committee has been appointed to gather information and to report to a later meeting. The idea is to include all who have fought for king and country, or served in any war.

"While I was not at Paardeburg, this gathering reminds me of another one which took place on one Easter day during that war. Under Lieut. Carruthers, a name well known in the annals of the war, there were forty of us cut off from the main body at the battle of Hart's river. Only six escaped alive and of this little number, two were shot, the other four of us were forced to surrender, were stripped of all we had and tramped the weary miles, barefooted and almost naked, but finally reaching safety. In these days bully beef and hardtack looked pretty good, even though the bully beef, was sometimes horse or mule flesh (Laughter). It tasted almost as good as the dainty fare set before us today.

"But, Sir, I think we should take a moment to think in silence of the brave men who laid down their lives at Paardeburg. These brave men would ask no better death than to die on the battlefield, but we realize what a tremendous sacrifice those at home were making; the fathers and mothers waiting anxiously for news that they dreaded to receive. The soldier at the front does not forget this, but he is ready to go again. (Loud cheering.)

"I would like, sir, to personally thank Mr. Dowler for those lines which he read to us. They strike a responsive chord in every breast.

"I should like also to thank the Canadian Club for their kidness in this matter of the celebration. We heartily appreciate what you have done for us. But we only did our duty and we are ready to do it again.

"The words of Owen Smiley, sir, form a fitting conclusion to these few remarks;

Canadians at Paardeberg taught the whole world at large,
The Empire's latest lesson, when they made that gallant charge;
And wrote in words of blood and fire
that he may read who runs,
That when you insult the mother,
you must answer to her sons.

(Loud Cheers).

Sun's Face is Clear for the First Time in Years

For the first time in years the sun has a clean face today. Whether they've started the house-cleaning season up there or not is not known, but at any rate a telescope turned on the solar body fails to reveal any spots on the orb of life.

Rev. Dr. Marsh of Springville, who has been a close observer of the sun for a number of years, made this interesting statement to the Review today. Dr. Marsh makes a daily observation of the solar body and as a result knows whereof he speaks. He imparted the additional information that there are what are known as the maximum and minimum sun spot periods, eleven years being about the extent of each. During the maximum period there is scarcely a day that some disturbance is not visible on the sun's disc, while during the minimum period there are frequently long periods when the sun's face is perfectly clear, at least it appears so from the earth.

"We are now entering on the minimum sun spot period," said Dr. Marsh, "and this is the first day in years that I have been unable to detect any disturbances on the sun's disc."

Sir, may I take your part for a while? No, sir, you can't; I ain't no human vivisection martyr to the cause of science.—Baltimore American.

IMMIGRATION CAME IN FOR CONSIDERATION AT TORONTO

Debate on Provincial Budget Also Advanced a Peg.

Municipalities and Telephones—Hon. Mr. Hanna Makes Important Announcement Regarding Prison Labor—Salvation Army Grant Criticized—Hot Air on Power Policy—Votes Were Finally Agreed to.

Toronto, March 25.—Hon. Mr. Hanna, the Provincial Secretary, made the important announcement in the Legislature yesterday that the Government proposed at the present session to submit a resolution embracing the principal recommendations of the Prison Labor Commission, both along the lines of Central Prison contracts and the future policy of the Government.

Progress was made in the budget debate in the Legislature and some interesting discussion on immigration problems was brought out by the agricultural estimates.

The telephone problem received the contribution of a Government bill. Hon. Dr. Reaume introduced a bill to amend the act respecting local municipal telephone systems. It provides that where a majority of the subscribers petition for the establishment or extension of a telephone system, the municipality can issue debentures for ten years to cover the cost of the work and levy a special rate to pay the annual instalments of principle and interest. In cases where the system initiated by one municipality extends into another, the special rate shall also be collectable from the subscribers in the second municipality. Any deficiency shall be made up out of the general fund of the municipality and shall constitute a debt due from the subscribers to the initiating municipality. Lands subject to mortgage shall not be charged with any lien or special rate under the act, nor shall the owner thereof be a subscriber to any petition under the act, unless the mortgagee is a party to the petition. A further amendment provides for the advising of municipalities who propose to avail themselves of the provisions of the bill by the Public Works and Agricultural Departments.

Mr. A. Hislop (East Huron) resumed the debate by declaring that the Provincial Treasurer had not lived up to the standards of economy he had set in opposition. As a matter of fact, while the finances were in good shape, they were no better than when the present administration took power. In 1872 under Liberal Government the expenditure was $1.50 per head for the population. In 1904 it was $2.50 per head, an increase of $1 per head in 32 years. Last year the Conservatives had spent at the rate of $3.50 per head. If this ratio were continued the expenditure would soon be $29,000,000.

The full treasury bags, Mr. Hislop maintained, were the result of the wise policies of the past and the sale of the Cobalt and Kerr Lakes. He ridiculed the idea that the Government had kept its promises. In Opposition they had condemned the audit system, but it had been continued; they complained of politics in the license administration but did not take it out of politics; they called grants to colonization roads bribery, and they were granting more than ever this year. "The present Government," declared Mr. Hislop, "shows its good sense in following the footsteps of its predecessor."

Referring to the power policy Mr. Hislop said that after three years of hot air and the expenditure of $70,000 in money nothing had been accomplished.

"There never was a Government with so many broken promises," added Mr. Hislop amid Liberal applause.

"What!" exclaimed Mr. Whitney, while the Government benches laughed.

Mr. Hislop added that at the coming election the Government would be "relegated to oblivion."

Mr. J. S. Duff (West Simcoe) followed. He wondered how Mr. Hislop, who was now a candidate for the Federal House, would in view of his strictures on expenditure, be able to defend the conduct of the Laurier administration in increasing the expenditure from $44,000,000 to $110,000,000. Mr. Duff maintained that the expenditures of the Province were justified. The largest amounts were those paid to schools and back to the people through the municipalities. Proceeding, the member for West Simcoe extolled the administration of the Education Department under Hon. Dr. Pyne. "Greater progress," he said, "has been made during his three years of office than ever before in Ontario's history."

Mr. Duff passed on to the Minister of Lands and Mines, to whom he paid tribute for the honesty of the administration of the rich north lands. The speaker denied that politics had influenced the administration of the license laws, and read testimonies to its success and impartiality from the temperance press. All the laws were now well enforced.

The speaker then referred to the Attorney General, a gentleman who was "not ashamed to be known as a policeman," who had "closed the pool rooms and gambling carnivals," and who had rounded up in the courts of justice the gang of election crooks who operated in London, and were now standing under conviction waiting for sentence.

Mr. C. M. Bowman (North Bruce) moved the adjournment of the debate.

At the night sitting the House went into committee on supply and made progress on the Agricultural estimates.

The item of $10,000 for the Salvation Army for work in Ontario in securing farm laborers and domestic help, afforded Mr. Studholme, the Labor member for East Hamilton, an opportunity to deliver a broadside on the Army methods of immigration.

"To-day," declared the Labor man, "all the cities are crowded with unemployed, some of them mechanics deceived into coming here to get work when there is no work for them. Those Salvation steamers are getting ready to start again; have we any assurance that things will be better this year."

Hon. Mr. Monteith said that last year the Army had located on farms in all 5,450. Some 1,916 were left in Toronto, but subsequently 850 of these were sent out to the farms. This year, the Minister said, the aim was to be quality instead of quantity. For this purpose the general immigration as such had been abandoned by the province, and the colonization work was being developed and extended.

DARING HOLD UP.

Woodstock Veterinary Surgeon Has Thrilling Experience.

Woodstock, March 25.—While John Birk was jogging along the road leading from Tillsonburg to his home at South Middleton, ten miles south of the town, Monday night at 9 o'clock, he was startled by seeing four men jump from the roadside. He was more startled when two of them grabbed his horse by the head and stopped it. The others then grabbed him and pulled him out of the buggy. He struggled, and one of his assailants struck him a heavy blow over the head with a club, dazing him. When they got their victim on the roadside they searched his pockets, got $32, and ran. All this took place in a dark ravine half a mile from Tillsonburg.

Birk is a veterinary surgeon and formerly practised in St. Thomas.

After the robbers ran, Birk managed to get back into the rig, returned to Tillsonburg, and notified the police.

In a short time, four men Charles Sella, Frank Yonkour, T. Anderson and Fred Hamell were arrested and are being held until the case is further investigated.

PRESS GALLERY WINS.

Herr Groeber Apologizes to Reporters and Reichstag Resumes.

Berlin, March 25.—The strike of the Reichstag journalists, which began on Thursday last, was settled last evening.

Under pressure from the various party leaders, Herr Groeber, the centre leader, who called the journalists "swine," because they jeered a statement used by a member to the effect that negroes also had immortal souls, read a statement at the end of the day's sitting, expressing apologies for the language he had used.

During the course of the strike not a line had been published on the proceedings of the Reichstag and as a result of this failure a large number of the members declined to deliver speeches, of which they had given notice, thus greatly impeding the work of the house.

Cigarettes in the Army.

London, March 25.—The growth of cigarette smoking in the British army is beginning to disquiet the higher officers, whose reports indicate that the health of the men is being seriously impaired by indulgence in this practice.

Lieut.-Gen. Grenfell, commander-in-chief of the forces in Ireland, has just issued an order to the troops of his command calling attention to the evils of such excess and appealing for "earnest and early action to combat what is gradually but greatly affecting the efficiency of the army."

Aged Woman's Suicide.

New York, March 25.—Mrs. Sarah C. Cisco, wife of John A. Cisco, a banker, and the mother of John J. Cisco, also a banker, depressed by fear of her husband's death, committed suicide in the bathroom of her home, No. 15 East 40th street, last evening, by inhaling illuminating gas while her husband lay seriously ill with pneumonia in another room on the same floor. Mr. and Mrs. Cisco are both over seventy years old.

Judgment Favors Hindus.

Vancouver, March 25.—Judge Clement yesterday granted habeas corpus for 146 Hindus arriving both by way of Suva and Hong Kong, holding that the order-in-council of Jan. 8 exceeded the powers of the Immigration Act, and was particularly defective because the Governor-General delegated his authority to the Minister of the Interior, which the Governor-General-in-council alone could exercise.

Powder Houses Exploded.

Santiago, Chile, March 25.—The Government powder houses at Batuco, thirty miles north of Santiago, were blown up yesterday. Six tremendous explosions followed each other in quick succession, causing a panic in the city which was shaken to its very foundations. The loss is very heavy. It is not known as yet whether or not there are any casualties.

Carried Haitien Refugees.

St. Thomas, D.W.I., March 25.—The French cruiser D'Estrees arrived here yesterday from Hayti with a number of refugees on board. They include Gen. Antenor Firmin, leader of the recent insurrection.

The party included the officers of the Lindsay Lodge, and who took up the work in a session, during the evening, eliciting very favorable comment on the thoroughness and ability with which the work was formed.

After the lodge closed down refreshments were served in the dining hall and an hour spent in fraternal intercourse, interspersed with addresses and music.

The chair was ably filled by W. Bro. E. E. Lord, of Peterborough Lodge. Addresses in response to the toast of the Visiting Brethren were given by W. Bro. Lorne Campbell, Bro. W. J. Wallace, Rt. W. Contributions to the entertainment in songs and music were given by Bros. Martin, Brumwell and Wilson, of the Lindsay delegation, and by W. Bro. Crane and Bros. McIlroy, J. J. Turner and Bro. J. Burns, of Glasgow, Scotland.

The visitors returned by special train, reaching home about one o'clock.

Pill Pounders Said Farewell

To Mr. Ed. Mann Who Leaves for Nelson B. C. To-morrow

Last evening the pill pounders and a number of their friends gathered at the home of Mr. Edward Mann, Aylmer street, where he was made the recipient of an address and presentation. Mr. Mann leaves tomorrow for Nelson, B.C., where he will in future reside. An appreciative address was read by Mr. Ralph Quinn, and Mr. Mann was presented with a beautiful gold watch fob. He gratefully acknowledged the gift and assured his fellow Pill Pounders that he would always remember the pleasant times spent in their association.

The evening was spent most enjoyably in games and music and dainty refreshments were served.

Recommends This Home Mixture

Noted Authority Gives Simple Remedy for Kidneys and Bladder Trouble

This is a message that will bring happiness again into many families and sunshine into the lives of hundreds of disheartened and discouraged men and women here. It requires just a little inconvenience, for it can't be bought already prepared. It is a simple home receipe now being made known in all the larger cities through the newspapers. It is intended to check the many cases of rheumatism, kidney and bladder trouble which have made so many cripples and invalids and weaklings of some of our brightest and strongest people.

The druggists here have been notified to supply themselves with the ingredients, and the suferer will have no trouble to obtain them. The prescription is as follows; Fluid Extract Dandelion, one-half ounce; Compound Kargon, one ounce, and Compound Syrup of Sarsaparilla ounces. Mix by shaking well in a bottle. The dose is one teaspoonful after each meal and at bedtime.

Recent experiments, even in severe hospital cases, prove this simple mixture the remedy for Rheumatism, because of its positive action upon the eliminative tissues of the kidneys. It compels these most vital organs to filter from the blood and system the waste impurities and uric acid which are the cause of rheumatism. It cleanses the kidneys, strengthens them and removes quickly such symptoms as backache, blood disorders, bladder weakness, frequent urination, painful scalding and discolored urine. It acts as a powerful stimulant to the entire kidney and bladder structure, puts new life into them and invigorates the entire tract. It makes the kidneys clean the blood. The Dandelion will take care of liver trouble and constipation, and is fine for the stomach.

All the ingredients, states a well-known local druggist, are of vegetable extraction, making it a safe and harmless prescription at any time.

Those who suffer and are accustomed to purchase a bottle of patent medicine should not let a little inconvenience interfere with making up this prescription. Whenever this is comes generally known, states a large Eastern publication, it ruins the sale of the patent medicines and so-called rheumatism and kidney cures, which is its best endorsement at this [illegible]

The Review Does Not Hold Itself Responsible for Opinions Expressed by Correspondents

ABOUT THE SUN

To the Editor of the Review.

Sir,—I noticed an item in the Daily Evening Review of Thursday, March 19th, in reference to the Vernal Equinox and the beginning of spring, in which the Rev. Dr. Marsh said the sun was on the line at 9.27 on the evening of March 20th. Now, while the learned Dr. is to be commended for giving the information, and everyone, I am sure, will hail with delight the announcement that the solar orb is returning northward, after being so long "far south the Lift." Still there seems to be a slight difference of opinion as to the exact time of the occurrence. The Toronto astronomers give 7 hours 27 minutes after midnight on March the 20th. In any case, when the 21st is generally mentioned by all writers as the day on which the sun enters Aries and spring begins.

Thanking you, Mr. Editor, I remain,
Yours sincerely,
S. W. LOWRY.

WEDNESDAY, MARCH 25, 1908.

PROVINCIAL FINANCES

The Province of Ontario's debt is not so great as that of the single city of Toronto. Its cash assets are 5 1-4 mils. of dollars, while its total liabilities amount to about 21 mils. of dollars, leaving a balance of debt amounting to 15 mils. of dollars. This debt is real, but most of it was inherited and forms part of the alleged surplus of Ross & Co. However, it would after all amount to a debt of about $2 on the front gate of a farm worth $50,000, so we need not worry. At the same time we must watch that no extravagant ideas take possession of the Government. Mr. Whitney's administration is of course, honest and progressive, but like most progressive bodies, it may make mistakes and eternal vigilance alone, will prevent them. Ten millions of the debt were incurred by bonuses to railways. It seems to us that the day of handing out such gifts ought to be at an end. It is not business and there ought to be a business way of doing it. Col. Matheson is very conservative and is a safe custodian of the people's property. The current yearly balance, unlike that of the permanent funds, is on the right side. The general policy of increasing expenditure to fit the people for the struggle of worldwide competition is a good one—much better than bonusing doubtful and unnecessary railways. That a railway simply because it is a railway, should be entitled to a large sum per mile is improper. Such a justification is not sufficient.

SWEATING

Vancouver, B.C., March 23.—Five hundred Hindus met yesterday, and after many exciting speeches protesting against their exclusion and deportation from Canada and pointing out that this would be a strong weapon in the hands of those preaching sedition in India, sent the following cable to Mr. John Morley, Secretary for India:—"We protest against deportation and exclusion from Canada. As British subjects we claim protection throughout the Empire. If our interests are overlooked by others, those in India must necessarily resent your Government's neglect." The cablegram was signed by Uday URam, who is a nephew of Dr. David Chand, a Hindu of high caste, who who came to British Columbia to spy out the land, but who is now agitating in India.

Here is a direct message of defiance from the meek Hindoo to the Home Government of the British Empire. To realize what the stupid immigration policy of the Laurier Government, if such it can be called, has brought not only Canada, but the empire to, all that is necessary for us to do is to think, even for one moment, of what this country would be socially and industrially if the Orientals had had their way and were now here in millions.

To permit the alert Japs to come in while excluding the Hindoo—British members of the empire is impossible. Anyone alive to the most elementary interests of the empire must see that. Therefore, must we conclude that we have been betrayed. One horn of the dilemma we must give in to. Either Sir Wilfrid's policy is absurd, or it was and is the result of a purpose. What is that purpose? Not the filling of the west with American and British farmers clearly. What then? The profitable building of the G.T.P. Having stemmed the tide of cheap labour, the G.T.P. has not such an alluring look to it, to the London and New York Jew bankers. There is more chance of making money in South African mines with cheap Oriental labour than in Canada without it. A fair investment, that is one fair to everybody, is not what these gentry are looking for. Fortunately they cannot have their way. But that Canada was to be "sweated" by Sir Wilfrid Laurier, and that Canadian labour was to be reduced to the level of the Oriental coolie, who for a moment can deny? Cheap rates in times of need from that part of Canada, where there are too many labourers or workingmen to that part where there are too few, would help the men out tremenduously, but it would not help out the capitalists no further attention is paid to it. Capital can always look after itself. Capitalists are the cleverest men in a community. Labour is not equal to such a competion. What should be competition becomes conflict. We do not believe that laws can correct the trouble. A spirit of fair play and common decency would solve the diffiulty in a day. "Sweet reasonableness" is alike the flower of national as of domestic life.

EDITORIAL NOTES

Sarnia has a union of merchants which engages to buy no tickets during business hours. We have understood that the San Jose scale and the weevil were not in it with the ticket microbe.

The estimated expenditure of the Ontario government for this year is a fraction over seven and a half millions of dollars, equal to $3.41 per head of the population of the province. The estimated expenditure of the Dominion government for the year is about one hundred and ten millions of dollars, equal to about twenty dollars a head of the population of the Dominion.—Sarnia Canadian.

It is nothing to what is coming.

Sir William Van Horne:—The railroads are the leaders among the commercial apostles of temperance. But the same truth applies to every class of business, and is receiving wider acceptance every year. Already the man who befuddles his brain with drink places himself under a heavy handicap, and the time is not far distant when there will be no room left for him in the business and industrial world."—Stirling News.

"It is not without interest to observe that the increase of the budget with regard to schools during the last four years is almost equal to the whole sum which we expend for education in the Province of Quebec. This comparison is not flattering to us but it is useful in inciting our legislature to imitate the generous solicitude which the Ontario government shows with respect to education.—La Patrie.

This eminent French journal is Liberal in politics, and as we see in sentiment. Mr. A. G. McKay, the leader of the opposition has threatened the government for its 'educational extravagance,' but he finds small support here.

Mr. Fielding would never dare deliver his budgets to an election crowd. But he might lay them before a Board of Trade or a Manufacturers' Association. All that would be necessary to prepare them for such bodies would be to omit the very few attempts at partisan appeal which he attaches to them in places with evident relectance. Even when he does talk politics, he talks "editorial" and not "stump bombast." He is never more in this field than the party editor. Eloquence he leaves to his great leader and the sounding phrase he leaves to his chief opponent. He telescopes a bank statement with a few editorials—and lets it go at that. His budgets have been invariably interesting, largely because they have been reports upon a very progressive period in the country's progress. What he would have done with the conditions with which Mr. Foster had to wrestle, is another question. He has been Canada's most favored Finance Minister, but it is, perhaps, as well to remember that Mr. Gladstone made his reputation as a master of budgets when he was called upon to face adverse conditions and to find solutions for involved and heavy problems.—Canadian Courier (Ind.).

Hon. W. S. Fielding's forecast of a deficit for next year of $29,000,000.00 looks very like his epitaph.

An Injunction Against the Town

Mr. J. A. Culverwell Gets After Port Hope Council

Mr. J. A. Culverwell informs us that he has made application for an injunction to restrain the Town Council from entering into a contract for street lighting for five years with the Port Hope Electric Light and Power Co. Mr. Culverwell's ground for action is that it is not in accord with the bylaw re municipal plant, carried last January, and contrary to the wishes of the people. He also threatens to take a couple of members to the police court if the deal is put through.—Port Hope Guide.

FROM HANSARD

IMMIGRATION.

"Mr. Oliver: Yes. I beg to say it has been the effort of this department to secure from the British Islands a fair proportion of their emigrating people. These islands are productive of people and there is necessarily a large movement of people from their shores every year. They go to all parts of the world. From year to year thousands and tens of thousands of them have gone to the neighbouring republic; they have added to the wealth and to the intelligence of the republic to a very great degree. It has been our ambition to secure from these islands a fair share of their emigrating people so that at any rate we might get as many of them to seek homes under their own flag, in what I might call their own country, as seek homes in the country to the south. After years of labor we have, if not actually, approximately succeeded. I say it is an effort which is entitled to the endorsation of this House; yet because there happens at this moment to be a slightly unfortunate condition of affairs, for which we are not responsible, which we could not forsee, and the labor market is slightly overcrowded, my hon. friend, like the politician he is, forth with seizes upon his supposed opportunity, drags in every allusion that he can possibly make to the discredit of the emigrant in order to discredit the government—and his words tomorrow will be spread all over the British Isles and used by our opponents to hinder the immigration of those people to Canada. My friend is welcome to the kudos which he will get from the speech he has made today. I wish his party luck of the assistance that it will be to them, not politically, but in the credit they will receive because one of them having given expression to such sentiments on the floor of this parliament in this Canada of ours.

I wish to inform the House a little with regard to the responsibility for the presence in Canada of some of those who for some reason or another are not at the moment able to find place and employment here. I have said to the House on a former occasion, and I repeat it now, that this department has had only one policy the policy that will induce the coming to Canada of the people who were suited for the conditions in Canada. I do not mean to say that other people are not just as good in their own way, but it is necessary, in order that they should be a success, that they should be suited for the condition which await them and, recognizing that certain conditions exist here, we have addressed them absolutely and solely when they met those conditions. We felt that there was a need of men to occupy our vacant lands; there was need of men to assist in working the lands already occupied. In view of the stupendous railway construction now going on, it was necessary that we should have railway labor, and besides getting railway labor, many a deserving man would be placed in a position to occupy some of our vacant lands and become an independent land owner himself. There is besides a continual demand for domestic servants. We have addressed ourselves solely to the securing of this class of persons. It is in order to induce these classes of employees that we pay a bonus; we only pay it on tickets which are taken by people of those classes.

My hon. friend, has suggested to the House that we are responsible for the presence here as he said, of people who carry knives. Now I defy my hon. friend to show where we have paid a bonus of afforded inducements in any way to people of the class he mentions. We pay bonuses for the purpose of stimulating the energy of the booking and advertising agencies in the old country to get the classes we want. There is nothing to hinder undesirable people from coming here except our immigration laws. Thousands of pounds are subscribed in Great Britain in order to send people out here, and my hon. friend's suggestion is, that we should be quiet here and accept the undesirables people. That is not the policy of the government as set out in our bonus regulations as an offer and inducement for special exertions to bring out the class of people we want. Then our policy, as set out in the terms of our immigration law is to exclude people that we do not want within certain limits, and if they do come into the country to deport them if they are subject to our deportation law. The one policy accompanies the other. It is not possible to carry on an aggressive immigration plan of campaign, without drawing along with it some undesirable immigrants. When we entered upon that particularly aggressive campaign we made provisions for checking the undesirable element, and we are checking them to a considerable extent. We have taken power, and are acting upon it, to check such undesirable elements, and we have the approval of the people of Canada in doing so.

In conclusion, I want to place before the House, some evidence, evidence that my hon. friends opposite will not deny, as to who are responsible for bringing out to this country people on misrepresentation. I will read an advertisement that appeared in the British Emigrant and Colonial News, of the 13th of December, 1907. That was nearly a month after my hon. friend had announced to the world that hereafter he was going to control the immigration policy of Canada.

The advertisement reads:

The future for skilled mechanics lies in Eastern Canada. Manufacturers are crying out for skilled help in all trades. Have vacancies for hundreds of skilled workers in all trades. This week's vacancies are: Fitters, turners, joiners, laborers, tinsmiths, toolmakers, coatmakers, brushmakers, hammersmiths, chairmakers, cotton-weavers, brassworkers, cabinetmakers, paper mill engineers, woodworking machinists. Fresh vacancies from Canada by each mail. Girls! Girls! Girls! Also families. High wages, assisted passages. Experienced and inexperienced machinists for straw hats, caps, whitewear, tailoring. Millhands for knitting, woollen and cotton mills. Chocolate dippers, &c., &c.

Apply with references to Louis Leopold, official labor representative, Canadian Manufacturers' Association 15 Strand, London, WC.

Mr. R. L. Borden, Carleton Ont,—The Minister of the Interior omitted to add the interesting corollary that the gentleman who was secretary of the association carrying on that propaganda has been selected as organizer by hon. friends of the Liberal Association in the city of Toronto.

Mr. Oliver—The present secretary of the Manufacturers' Association is G. M. Murray.

R. L. Borden—I did not know their policy had altered in that regard, has there been any change? It is even more of a quibble than the hon. gentleman has been indulging in all through his speech. It would be impossible for any man to succeed in collecting the same number of quibbles in the same length of time as he has done this afternoon. He tells us that the government is not responsible for the conditions under which immigrants into this country have been coming into many of the large cities of Canada, receiving aid from charitable associations, notably the city of Toronto. It is rather a new doctrine out of the mouth of a cabinet minister that the Liberal party are not responsible for conditions in this country. I have understood from the minister himself and from every cabinet minister, from every member on the other side of the House, who has spoken in the Budget debates during the last eight or ten years, that the financial conditions in Canada are wholly due to this government that is, if we are in prosperous times: but these very same gentlemen who in days gone by, wrote articles to British magazines in order to run down and discredit the financial condition of this country, are the first, when any temporary check occurs in our prosperity, to announce that they are responsible for all prosperity but they are not at all responsible for any adversity. There is about as much sense in that as there is in a great many other statements the Minister of the Interior made this afternoon.

He was good enough to sneer at the tone of my hon. friend from Brantford, Mr. Cockshutt, and referred to his remarks as being more suitable for a prayer meeting than for the House of Commons. Well, if I were my hon friend from Brantford, I would retort that, if all reports are true, a good many remarks are made by the Minister of the Interior that are not very suitable for a prayer meeting. Now, so far as that letter is concerned, which occupied about two-thirds of the sober and statesmanlike speech of the Minister of the Interior, dealing as a cabinet minister with a great question such as this, let me say that the letter was simply an ordinary letter from a constituent of my hon. friend from Brantford which he forwarded to the Minister of the Interior under a letter that has been read in the House, and the Minister of the Interior saw fit, when he knew the member for Brantford was not in the House, to use it as a personal attack upon that hon. gentleman, without having the courtesy to give him a word in advance that he was going to make that attack. Possibly the best excuse that can be made for the minister is that he did not know any better, and with that I leave him.

Now, Mr. Speaker, as to his remarks about originals, and his endeavor to bring up a previous debate in this House as to the production of originals, they constitute about as trivial a performance as I think I ever heard from the mouth of a Cabinet minister. Why, the hon. member for Brantford offered to produce the letter. He offered to read the letter to the House and this hon. Minister of the Interior, who knew the purport of the letter to which I shall refer a little more in detail later on, had not interest enough to later on, had not interest enough in the policy of his own department to say that he wanted the name of the man who wrote that letter. He practically accepted it as the policy of the Minister of the Interior because he said that it did not make the slightest difference either to the House or to the country or to the department whether or not he knew the name of the officer who had written that letter. I will ask the House, I will ask the sober judgment of this House, whether under the circumstances it is not a fair conclusion that he regarded it as at no moment who had written that letter because he accepted that letter as expressing the policy of the department over which he presides. There could be no other reason why he should not be interested in the name of this official. If the letter were according to the policy which his department is carrying out then it would be a matter of no moment to this House or the department as to who wrote that letter. But if, as he afterwards endeavoured to make it appear, that letter does not carry out the true policy of his department, it would have been a matter of the utmost possible importance to him at least and to other members of this House as well to know who was the writer of that letter. Let us see for a moment whether or not the letter bears the construction which he declares it does. The letter simply carries out the policy of his friend's friend, if I may use his own expression, Mr. Lazarus, and of his friend, Mr. Preston, who according to a statement of an officer of this government, has been retained in the service of the government, who is still receiving public money and who was interested in the Canadian Labor Bureau which was bringing men into Canada by a secret propaganda absolutely opposed to the public propaganda which the government were placing before the people. The Minister of the Interior made the most solemn pledges to one of his supporters in this House within my hearing that there would be a thorough and complete investigation into the connection of Mr. Preston with the so-called Labour Bureau, into the connection with the Arundel Printing Company, and into his connection with many other matters which were debated in the House last session. The Minister of the Interior has not, up to the present time, made any investigation worthy of the name in regard to this matter, although we have good reason to believe—as we have good reason to believe the evidence of Mr. Jury—that Mr. Preston was a conspirator with Mr. Leopold to carry on a secret propaganda absolutely opposed to the open policy of the government, and the government, by refusing any investigation into the action of Mr. Preston in that regard, have made themselves co-conspirators with Mr. Preston in carrying out a secret propaganda opposed to their public policy. That is the only legitimate and proper conclusion that can be drawn from the action of the government in retaining both Mr. Preston and Mr. Jury after the revelations of a few years ago. This letter, to which the minister attached some little importance in the end, although in the first instance he was ready to regard it as stating the policy of his department, presents precisely the same case. This letter is not in answer to a letter from my hon. friend from Brantford, but an unsolicited letter from the officers of the department—not marked "confidential"—hundreds of them may have been written by officers of the department to men throughout this this country—written to Mr. Cockshutt under the belief that he was president of the Manufacturers' Association. I shall read the whole of it;—

Interior Department of the Government of Canada.
Immigration branch,
Agent John McLennan,
26 Guild street,
Aberdeen, June 5, 1907.
W. F. Cockshutt, Esq.,
Brantford, Ont., Canada.

Dear Sir,—I see by reports of various newspapers, that numerous members of the Canadian Manufacturers' Association are in need of skilled and unskilled help. As representatives of the government here, we have many inquiries from skilled mechanics in nearly all branches of the trade, desiring information about opportunities for their life in Canada, and having no specific information, we must be governed in our replies by general terms and conditions.

What was the declaration of the policy of the government in regard to immigrants of that class as evidenced in reply to my hon. friend from Nanaimo (Mr. Smith) who brought the matter of this Canadian Labor Bureau to the attention of the House two or three years ago? The reply of the government—I am not quoting exactly; I am quoting from recollection—was that they desired to offer no encouragement to immigration of that kind, and they proposed to confine their efforts to encouraging agricultural labourers, domestic servants, and people of that class. Well, if this gentleman was carrying out the policy of the government, what should he have said in continuing his letter? He should have said, if he was called upon to say anything, that in so far as these people were concerned, that government saw fit to take no part in encouraging immigration of that kind to this country. The Minister of the Interior says in effect that this letter is the policy of the department. It is the secret policy of the department, I suppose. How does it continue;—

I believe that if the secretary of your association would supply the government offices from time to time, of which the enclosed is a list, of the needs of your association, that it will be of great practical assistance in securing some of the needed help, say for instance, in this form, that there are so many carriage blacksmiths, so many boilermakers, lathe men, moulders, carriage builders, and so forth, wanted. If we had such a list (as that in our hands we could give definite assurance to men that they could get work, and then, refer them to headquarters of your association in Toronto, Montreal, or other large centres, for distribution.

Why, the government of Canada, through its immigration offices in London, could refer these men to the Canadian Manufacturers' Association, which is the object of violent denunciation by my hon. friend, the Minister of the Interior, every time he sees fit to rise in this House. This is only the old story over again of the Minister of the Interior desiring to cater to the labour interest of the country who are opposed in that regard to the Canadian Manufacturers' Association. He denounces vigorously the Canadian Manufacturers' Association whenever he rises in this House, and then through his officers in Great Britain, he is co-operating with the Canadian Manufacturers' Association, that same hated and despised association, in bringing skilled mechanics to Canada by a secret propaganda against the open and declared policy of this government. That is the policy as revealed by this letter of which he makes so light. How does the letter continue:

I make this as a suggestion, as we are quite often at a loss what to say, not having any definite information respecting the needs of numerous lines of work for which we have inquiries here.

We, the government of Canada, through our immigration agents in the British Islands, are desirous of obtaining all this information in order that we may carry out this secret propaganda absolutely opposed to our open declaration of policy. That is the meaning of that sentence, if it means anything.

I am directing this communication to you, as I believe you are the president of the association, or was, the last information that I had. I know in any event that you will forward it to the proper authorities in the event that you are not at present the active executive of the association. I will be glad in any event to hear from you, your opinion respecting this suggestion.

Very truly yours,
JOHN McLENNAN,
Canadian Government agent.

Lakefied Goes to East And South Monaghan is Put Back in Own County

The Proposed Redistribution of Counties Has Been Made Public—Lakefield is Satisfied With the Change—Political Complexion of West Peterborough Will Not be Affected.

According to the Redistribution Bill which will be passed at Toronto, Lakefield goes into the east riding and the township of South Monaghan into its own county, Northumberland, for provincial elections. Lakefield has always been in East Peterborough for Dominion elections and the change to the same riding for provincial purposes has been made at the request of the village.

The two changes will make practically no difference in the political complexion of West Peterborough. The moving of Lakefield will be a loss to the Conservative party as the village always, or nearly always, gave a small Conservative majority. On the other hand, South Monaghan is slightly Liberal in its tendencies the Liberal majority there being just about sufficient to counterbalance the Conservative majority at Lakefield.

A Toronto despatch says:

The proposed redistribution was made public this afternoon.

Mr. Whitney first announced a number of additional constituencies which he suggested remain unchanged. They are as follows: Three Bruces, East and West Elgins, Haldimand, East and West Kents, East and West Lambtons, Lincoln, Monck, North and South Perths, East, West and Centre Simcoes, four Torontos, East, West and South Wellington and Welland.

These constituencies, on motion of the Prime Minister and Mr. Sam. Clarke, Northumberland, will remain as at present.

The Brants were subjected to a change, the township of Burford going from South Brant to North Brant.

In Hastings the municipality of Huntington goes from the west riding into the east riding.

In Huron there will be some changes and a re-arrangement of the three constituencies, North, Centre and South.

In Middlesex it is proposed to move the township of Metcalfe and the town of Strathroy from West into North Middlesex and the township of Lobo from North into West Middlesex.

In Northumberland the eastern riding is to remain as at present while the township of South Monaghan is to be included in the western riding.

When Mr. Whitney reached this announcement, Mr. Clarke, of West Northumberland, put in, "And have us risk our lives crossing the lake.'

'You know,' replied the Prime Minister, 'that it is our doctrine to adhere as far as possible to county boundaries. The township belongs to Northumberland and should not be in another county riding. However I am open to suggestions. You have as much right to make them as I.'

In the Peterboroughs, West Peterborough is to lose the township of South Monaghan, which goes into its own county of Northumberland, while the village of Lakefield, —solely at the request of the village' —said Mr. Whitney, goes into East Peterborough.

In York county the municipality of Stouffville, which at present is cut in two, will all go into East York, while the municipality of North Toronto will be taken out of East York and go into West York.

'Cardwell at present is a made-up constituency,' commented Mr. Whitney. It is now proposed to take from it the township of Albion and place it in Peel in which county it is situated. The balance will remain as it is.

'The intention is to put Leeds and Brockville back somewhere near where they were' observed Mr. Whitney. In the meantime both constituencies stand over.

"COMING THRO' THE RYE"

A Great Big Matchless Company Here Friday Night.

When "Coming Thro' the Rye" is presented at the "Grand" next Friday theatre-goers of this city will have an opportunity of witnessing one of the very greatest musical comedy successes that have ever been presented in this country. It will be given here with an unusually large company of comedians, singers and dancers, and with an equipment of scenery and costumes and electrical effects such as is rarely used by travelling companies. "Coming Thro' the Rye" is a musical comedy which is said to keep an audience laughing immoderately from the beginning to the end of the performance and its musical numbers are described as being exceptionally melodious and to contain many numbers which are so catchy that they are quickly caught up and remembered. The great company is headed by George E. Mack, and he is assisted by a large number of fun-makers and vocalists who have achieved renown and the assisting chorus and ballet is said to be the most attractive assemblage, of sweet-faced graceful girls that has ever been brought together in one organization.

Will Not Speak at To-night's Banquet

In last night's paper in announcing the speakers for this evening's Men's banquet at All Saints' church the names of Revs. Dr. E. A. Langfeldt and Canon Davidson were mentioned as being among those who would speak. This statement was a mistake as neither of the above gentlemen will be present. Lenten services are being held in their own churches this evening.

THE NEATEST EYEGLASSES

The advantages of the deep curve (spoon shaped) lenses compared with the flat glasses are very apparent.

The deep curve fits the form of the eye, the lashes sweep in the curve. These lenses set closer to the eye, they look much neater and vision is clearer and wider than with any other form of glasses.

These lenses are ground in large factories employing hundreds of men who are experts and devote their whole life to lens grinding.

We have supplied this style of Glasses in many cities, and to quite a number of our citizens here in Peterborough. These Glasses always please the wearer.

When Sentenced to Prison Shepherd Attempted Suicide

Sensational Scene in Police Court This Morning—Prisoner Ran Large Pin Into His Side Near the Heart—Wept Bitterly Over the Judgment of the Court

A sensational scene took place in Police Court this morning when Geo. Shepherd, who had, but a few minutes previous, been sentenced to two years in the Penitentiary attempted to commit suicide by jabbing a stick-pin about two inches and a half in length into his left side near the heart.

Shepherd collapsed when he heard the decision of the Magistrate and wept bitterly. After recovering somewhat from his grief he raised his head and remained silent. He appeared to be in a very despondent mood and apparently was suffering remorse for his dishonest deeds. Suddenly the attention of the police court reporters who were sitting near, was drawn to the strange action of the prisoner. He pulled open his coat and made two or three thrusts at his side. Soon the blood was oozing from the wound but before he had time to do himself further injury Chief Roszel and the scribes were holding him and took the pin from him. The convicted man was ghastly white and begged of those around him to go away and leave him alone.

Dr McCulloch was immediately summoned and attended the prisoner in his cell. His injuries fortunately were not serious but it evidently was his intention to end his life.

He again wept as he sat in the cell and took his sentence very hard. He had hoped to have been able to start all over and live a better life, but the long term he had been given discouraged him and he wanted to die

Former Peterborough Boy Gets Humane Society's Medal

The following is from the Vancouver World:

The medal of the Royal Humane Society has been awarded to Mr. John Erskine, the young bank clerk, who saved the life of at least one young lady at the city reservoir in Stanley Park last January. Mr. Erskine, who is a clerk in the Canadian Bank of Commerce, jumped into the icy water of the reservoir, to rescue a young lady who had fallen through the ice, the rescuer treading water while he held the young lady's head so that she could breathe, while assistance from other quarters was being rendered. Mr. Erskine has resided in Vancouver two years, having come here from Peterborough, Ont.

Two Operas Creating Furore With New York Audiences

The following has been supplied the Review by Mr. George Francis Beard, the advance agent of that sparkling musical play "Coming Through the Rye," which appears at the Grand on Friday, March 27th. It is a comparative review of the "Waltz Dream," and "The Merry Widow," two of the biggest comic opera successes that ever have been presented to New York audiences.

An extraordinary success was recorded at the Broadway Theatre, New York a short time ago, when the new opera called "The Waltz Dream" was produced for the first time in America. The newspaper critics without a dissenting voice, extol the work in all of its details, and as their judgment had been tumultuously voiced by the vast and cheering audience long before the curtain fell upon the final act, it is a safe forecast that the Broadway will need no change of attraction for the remainder of the season. And it was an extremely difficult result to achieve at this particular time.

For a very obvious reason, "A Waltz Dream' could not possibly escape comparison with the reigning light opera success of the season, "The Merry Widow." The most talked of hit in the latter is the waltz song. When "The Merry Widow" is mentioned the mind instantly adverts to the waltz which is being hummed and whistled all over New York, and the very title of the new work suggests a challenge. Emphasizing this condition is the circumstance that both operas are Viennese. Therefore, comparison was natural. But the "Waltz Dream' has passed the ordeal with flying colors and the interesting race for supremacy in popular favor is on.

Of course, New York is only one spot on the map, and managerial speculation is already being indulged in as to the fate of these productions in other cities. A twenty weeks' big success in New York may be depended upon to get back the customary investment of from forty to sixty thousand dollars necessary to properly present such a work, but the inevitable subsequent tour must be relied upon for profits.

MR. STRATTON HAS NO INTENTIONS

Peterborough, March 24.—Hon. J. R. Stratton today denied the report that he was looking for nomination by East Peterborough Liberals.

"I am not a candidate, am out of politics, and wouldn't take a nomination even if I were honored by having it offered me," he said today.

There are two or three anxious to sit for the legislature, and a spirited contest is likely in the convention.

It is not improbable that the convention will not nominate a candidate for the commons, a number of the delegates preferring to leave that until later on in the year.

Reeve Buck of Asphodel Township is said to be an aspirant. The sitting member is J. Finlay.— Toronto World.

A Meeting of Court Stanley

There was a very large turnout of members at the quarterly meeting of Court Stanley A.O.F., held last night in the S.O.E. Hall. Chief Ranger Bro. T. Hendry was in the chair. One candidate was duly initiated. The Chief Ranger submitted the proposed new code of bylaws to the members. Considerable discussion took place but owing to other important business it was left over to the next regular meeting to be resumed before submitting it to the High Court for approval.

DEPARTING MEMBER IS BANQUETTED

Mr. Arthur J. Gibson Honored by Knights of Pythias

Mr. Arthur J. Gibson, who leaves in a few days for Regina, Sask., was banquetted last night by the members of the local lodge of the Knights of Pythias, of which he is a member. The function took place at Long Bros. & Hooper's Palm Gardens, and the catering was everything that could be desired. The banquet was held after a meeting of the lodge and Dr. S. E. Middleton occupied the position of toast master. Short speeches were made by Messrs. T. Wilson, C. M. Blewett and others. The guest of the evening made an appropriate reply. The speakers expressed regret at Mr. Gibson's departure and wished him every success in the West. Mr. Gibson was an exceedingly popular member of the lodge. He has been a member of the real estate firm of Wilson and Gibson.

HOW YOU GET CONSUMPTION.

Most "lungers" allowed their power of resistance to fall very low. Favorable conditions were provided for the development of the baccilli. Consumption was the result.

But in a healthy body Consumption can't take root. The most potent health-maker is Ferrozone. Take it regularly and you needn't fear tuberculosis.

FERROZONE

Supplies exactly what the man verging on Consumption needs. It forms rich, nutritious blood, strengthens the nerves, puts vim and endurance into every organ of the body.

For the tired, weak—anyone in poor health—Ferrozone is worth its weight in gold. Avoid substitutes!

In the Ontario Legislature; Public Schools of Province

Hon. Dr. Pyne's Strong Measures For Educational Progress.

Extend Government Policy In Regard to Public Schools—Organize Continuation Classes—Grants to Urban Schools — Courses In Agricultural Training — Allan Studholme Denounces Grants to Salvation Army.

Toronto, March 26.—Hon. Dr. Pyne, Minister of Education, presented to the Legislature yesterday a series of advanced and comprehensive educational measures, calculated to further advance the policy of the Provincial Government in the development of the Public Schools. The acts were given a first reading.

The bills amending the educational acts embody an extension of the Government's policy in respect to the public schools. The amendments provide for the re-organization of Continuation Classes. The policy follows the line endorsed at a conference between trustees and inspectors during the 1907 meeting of the Ontario Educational Association. In future there will be Continuation Schools and Fifth Classes, a distinction being drawn between two grades of what were hitherto termed indiscriminately Continuation Classes. The Continuation School (a name applied in England, Germany and elsewhere to work of similar character) will impart instruction in advance of and inclusive of that prescribed for the fifth class of the public school and may employ one, two or three teachers. The Continuation Schools will be, to all intents and purposes, rural High Schools, and, under the new classification, already number over 100. The object of the Government is to develop these schools so that before long there will be one in every township in the province. The other so-called Continuation Classes, exceeding 300 in number, have been really doing fifth class work. These will now be termed fifth classes, and financial inducements to extend and improve their courses will, it is hoped, cause them to multiply rapidly. The design is to secure to the rural parts and to the small urban centres better facilities for secondary education. With the object of supplying teachers, having the special qualification in elementary agriculture and horticulture and in workshop training needed in rural schools and in small industrial centres, courses will be provided at the Ontario Agricultural College, supplementary to the Normal School training. Each course will be one of three months and the traveling expenses and board of the candidates will be paid.

The amendments also give the Minister of Education power to establish model schools, the intention being to assume control and financial support of such model schools as are to be retained, these being situated in such parts of the province as require, for financial reasons, teachers with the new third-class certificates which will take the place of the present district certificates, but of a higher grade. The model school examinations will, therefore, in future be conducted by the Department as are the Normal School examinations and all certificates of qualification will hereafter be issued by the Minister.

Another amendment provides for the payment of the new additional grant to urban schools (to be voted this session) on the basis of the grade of the teacher's certificate and the length of his successful experience. The experience of the teacher will also be a factor in paying the grant to the rural schools.

The budget debate was resumed by Col. Atkinson (North Norfolk), Mr. J. Torrance (North Perth) and Mr. Allan Studholme (East Hamilton). Mr. A. E. Donovan (Brockville) moved the adjournment.

The automobile measures will all be referred to a special committee to be appointed, the Prime Minister stated, to-day.

Allan Studholm occupied two hours less six minutes of the night session of yesterday's Legislature in what was a considerable improvement on his last speech, and which displayed all the picturesqueness of a forlorn hope. For most of the time he was addressing empty seats, as the quorum in the House gathered behind him and left Col. Matheson a solitary occupant of the Treasury benches. He enunciated the Labor platform, and contrasted the conflicting statements of the two parties as to the results achieved by the Government. He hailed the possible accession of A. W. Wright and Kelly Evans to the Independent ranks.

He attacked the legal talent in the Government, of whom he counted four, and thought if they did not get enough now they should be paid larger salaries to devote their time to Government business and not to be attending to private practice, as the Provincial Secretary did. He was going to hold up every man in the Government for what he had done amiss and hoped to meet them on public platforms. He reproached the speakers on the debate.

"Take all the discussions. When you were on the stove, Mr. Kettle, you were blacker than Mr. Pot, who is on the stove to-day." He hoped to see the time when men elected to the House would be just as independent as he was, and would vote for bills on their merits and not according to the party that introduced them.

He had worked for electric power and public ownership and no man in Canada was more anxious for that policy. What was needed was more power to the elbow of the Minister of Power.

He indicted the Salvation Army for bringing mechanics out as farmers and gave instances, and declared that white men would be crowded back to the eastern provinces by Asiatics in British Columbia. The filthy and terrible conditions in Toronto where men and women were herded together, crazy with drink, and shooting each other were a sufficient comment on the immigration policy.

He would rather see one Canadian girl such as he had seen at the Guelph College joined in holy matrimony with a fine young Canadian off the farm than 500 of the stock that were being brought from Europe.

SLANDER IN FUNERAL SERMON.

Allegation of Bereaved Husband Who Has Pastor Arrested.

Reading, Pa., March 26.—The Rev. Marvin H. Stettler, one of the best known Lutheran clergymen in Pennsylvania, was arrested on a charge of slander preferred by Jeremiah Werner, of Mohnsville. This is the sequel of the funeral of Mrs. Werner, his wife, which took place in St. John's Lutheran Church last Sunday.

The Rev. Mr. Stettler preached the funeral sermon, during which he is said to have referred to Mr. Werner as a man with a heart of stone, showing no signs of grief. Mr. Werner alleges that the pastor followed this up with remarks such as these:

"This man knocked his wife down so that she fell to the floor, the week before she was taken ill. He did not furnish her with clothing and shoes fit to go to church. See him as he sits unmoved, with no feeling, in the presence of the body of his helpmate."

Warner is twenty-five years of age and his wife was twenty-three. He said yesterday that he wanted the case given the widest publicity, and he feels that he was unjustly abused in the presence of fully five hundred persons.

Thousands Will Lose Savings.

Paris, March 25.—The examining magistrate ordered the seizure of the $1,800,000 deposited in the Bank of France and other institutions to the credit of the Franco-Spanish Bank, and the Credit Minier, two of Rochette's banks.

Additional criminal complaints were lodged yesterday against Rochette. Reports from the provinces show that thousands of people of limited means will lose their savings.

Rhodes Scholar Drowned.

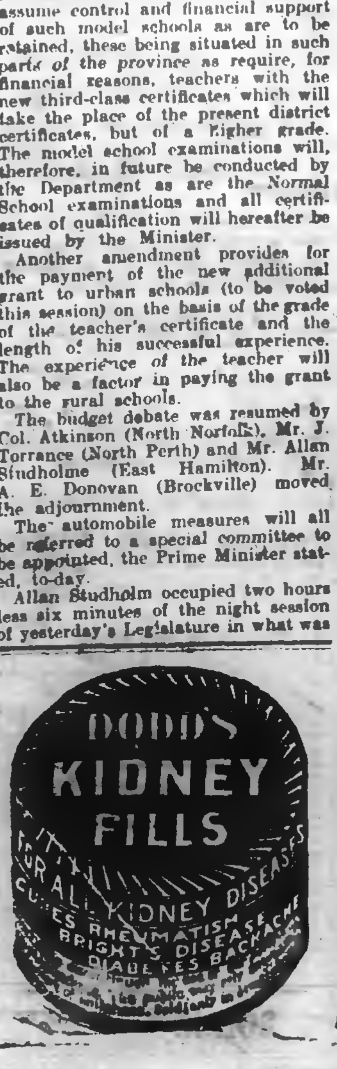
Oxford, Eng., March 25.—Ralph C. Manny, a Rhodes scholar from New Orleans, La., at Oxford, was washed off the rocks and drowned at Port Isaac, Cornwall, yesterday.

Ralph C. Manny secure his appointment to Oxford in 1906. He was a student at Queen's. A peculiar coincidence is the fact that A. K. Tread, the 1904 Rhodes scholar from Louisiana, died in March, 1904, from meningitis.

Many men who are good raw material get over it after a roasting or two.

Some men would rather go to jail than tell the truth, probably because if they told the truth their stay in jail would be longer.

Some city officials say that the ordinary woman's club looks woefully like the big stick to them.



PUBLIC OWNERSHIP EVIL?

Policy of Progress Finds Little Sympathy In Upper Chamber.

Ottawa, March 26.—The Senators discussed public ownership yesterday. In the opinion of Senator Power public ownership was a step towards Socialism, and the avowed object of Socialism were the overthrow of all the religious and domestic relations of government and of property.

The progress of the world has been due to individual effort and Socialism would destroy such effort and bring everything and everyone down to a dead level. Russia furnished an example of what Socialism would lead to. Behind public ownership and operation was the vast shadowy form of Socialism which would follow with all its consequences if public ownership were adopted. Corporate management was better than state management where polities were bound to interfere.

Senator Power quoted authorities to show that Great Britain had furnished many examples of the failure of public operation. He preferred the plan by which the Toronto Street Railway was run, being operated by private parties and paying for the use of the streets. That principle could be applied to other public utilities with some measure of public control of rates.

Senator Belcourt also declaimed against public ownership, declaring that it was responsible for the fall of the Roman Empire.

NOTHING SUSPICIOUS.

Everything Above Board In Land Commissioner's Office.

Ottawa, March 26.—In the public accounts committee Miss Munro, clerk in the Dominion Land Commissioner's office, was examined in regard to the system which was followed in connection with the receipt of tenders for western timber lands.

She had been in the land commissioner's office under Mr. Turriff from 1901 till 1904, and under Mr. Greenaway from 1904 on till the present time. As tenders came in for these timber lands they were immediately placed in a safe and kept there until the time came to open them.

She was always present in the land commissioner's room when Mr. Turriff opened the tenders, and the very same system was followed when Mr. Greenway succeeded Mr. Turriff in the land commissioner's office. She had watched the opening of tenders, but never saw anything in Mr. Turriff's conduct of this business to arouse her suspicion.

J. G. Turriff testified that timber berths invariably went to the highest bidder, that there had never been collusion, nor had tenders ever been changed.

On Suspended Sentence.

Woodstock, March 26.—The Holdsworth case, which was opened two weeks ago, was continued yesterday afternoon in the Police Court before Police Magistrate Ball.

Alfred Holdsworth was found guilty on the two charges against him: shooting his son and attempting suicide. He was ordered to pay the costs, amounting to $104, and was allowed off on suspended sentence.

R. N. Ball prosecuted and W. T. McMullen appeared for the defence.

The testimony of Drs. McLay and Mearns as to Holdsworth's probable sanity at the time of the shooting was strongly in his favor.

A petition signed by about 500 prominent residents of the county, including Warden Fleming, asking for leniency, was handed into the court by the defence.

To Preserve the Bison.

New York, March 26.—Announcement was made by Dr. William T. Hornaday, president of the American Bison Society, of the completion of plans for the preservation of pure blood American bison, upon a projected permanent national bison range, 12,800 acres in extent, on the Flathead Indian Reservation, in northwestern Montana. Dr. Hornaday said he had been authorized by the society of which he is president to give the Federal Government a herd of 20 bison, which, upon the permanent range, are expected to increase in number to 1,000 within the lifetime of men now living.

President Roosevelt and Earl Grey are honorary officers of the American Bison Society.

Judge Harsh and Ignorant.

Washington, March 26.—The subcommittee of the House judiciary committee appointed to investigate charges against Judge L. R. Wilfley of the U. S. court for China at Shanghai, on charges of misconduct in office, preferred by a number of American lawyers residing in Shanghai, in its report submitted to the full committee yesterday, severely censures Judge Wilfley for harshness on the bench and ignorance of the law, but does not recommend impeachment.

Killed by a Bull.

Belleville, March 26.—John Atkinson, a farmer living in Percy Township, about four miles north-east of Warkworth, was killed in his barn by a bull.

He went into the stall where the animal was tied to put a ring in its nose. As he went to snap the ring in the bull's nose it crushed him against the side of the stall with such force that fatal internal injuries were caused, and death soon resulted.

Honored King Edward.

Sare, France, March 26.—Whitelaw Reid, the U.S. ambassador to Great Britain, and many other distinguished persons, yesterday attended the basque fete arranged here in honor of King Edward. His Majesty, who is sojourning at Biarritz, was prevented from coming here, however, on account of the storm which prevailed there.

Drank Poison by Mistake.

Winnipeg, March 26.—Menzer Webb, aged 38, foreman of the C.P.R. switching gang, is dead, and Charles Clark, of the same gang, is dangerously ill, though there are hopes of his recovery, from drinking formalin.

"O! MY POOR HEAD"

Stop Those Headaches.

Headache and neuralgia are pronounced signs of blood poisoning. This poisoning of the blood comes from the waste matter of the body being left in the system, instead of being regularly carried off by the bowels, kidneys and skin.

When the bowels do not move regularly, the refuse is absorbed by the blood. Thus, the blood is loaded with foul poisons which irritate the nerves.

Poor skin action also causes headache and neuralgia. Impurities cannot escape through the skin, so the blood must take them up and deposit them on the nerves.

If the bowels and skin are not ridding the system of waste, the kidneys try to do so and are overworked.

There is just one way to cure headaches and neuralgia—to regulate bowels, kidneys and skin so that all the poisons of the body will be properly carried off.

"Fruit-a-tives" keep blood pure and rich—relieve the stomach and kidneys—regulate the bowels; and invigorate the skin to healthy action. "Fruit-a-tives" are a wonderful discovery, being a combination of fruit juices and tonics. 50c a box—six for $2.50. At all dealers, or from "Fruit-a-tives" Limited, Ottawa.

DEVONSHIRE'S FUNERAL.

Will be Buried at Chatsworth His Magnificent Seat.

London, March 26.—The Duke of Devonshire will be buried at Chatsworth, his magnificent seat.

A motion submitted in the House of Commons last night to extend to reporters accommodation to enable the presence at the funeral of the representatives of the foreign and colonial press was withdrawn after a brief discussion at the request of the Right Hon. Lewis Harcourt, who, in behalf of the Government, expressed sympathy with the motion, but explained that structural difficulties prevented the giving of accommodation even to the large number of British newspaper representatives, who were entitled to prior consideration.

Two Italians Killed.

Kenora, March 26.—Another terrible dynamite accident happened yesterday morning at Macdougall Camp 2, north of Dryden, on the Transcontinental, which instantly killed two Italians, names unknown, and dangerously injured Augustus Machray.

The latter was brought to the hospital and is not expected to recover. They were tamping a charged hole when the explosion occurred.

Cecil Taylor, aged 21, sentenced to three years' imprisonment for stealing $700 from his employer, was brought in from Winnipeg under suspended sentence for forgery. Three years ago he was sentenced at Port Arthur for a similar offence. He was sent out by the London Emigration Society four years ago.

Seized Imported Gowns.

New York, March 25.—Imported costumes valued at between $10,000 and $12,000 were seized by the United States customs inspectors yesterday in the establishments of ten fashionable dressmakers and costumers. The action of the inspectors followed a decision of the U. S. general appraisers yesterday, advancing the rates on the costumes in question.

One of the garments had been sold to the wife of a well-known New York lawyer, who was forced to give up the garment. Another had been sold and was ready for shipping to Philadelphia. Seven other inspectors seized a greater part of the goods concerned.

Joking, He Dropped Dead.

Windsor, March 26.—Francis Maisonville, ex-reeve of Sandwick East, dropped dead yesterday in Walkerville, while joking with some friends.

For seven consecutive years he was member of Sandwich East Council, six of which he served as reeve, in which capacity he also served as county councillor.

He retired from municipal politics at the end of last year. For 30 years he was employed with Hiram Walker & Sons.

His Last Chance Gone.

Albany, N.Y., March 26.—Chester Gillett of Cortland must die in the electric chair at Auburn prison next week for the murder of his sweetheart, Grace Brown of South Osletic, at Big Moose Lake two years ago.

Governor Hughes last night definitely announced that he carefully examined the evidence and found no ground to justify him in interfering.

Narrowly Escaped Drowning.

Tweed, March 26.—Charles Fobear, a son of Louis Fobear of this place, narrowly escaped drowning in Stoco Lake yesterday afternoon. He was skating over the channel and went into an open spot slightly frozen over.

He screamed for help and was heard by a man on shore, who, with others, managed to save him, after he had been in the water 25 minutes.

The Drury Lane Fire.

London, March 26.—The fire which early yesterday morning was reported to have practically destroyed Drury Lane Theatre, one of the most famous playhouses in London, did not do so much damage as was at first supposed.

The caretakers succeeded in lowering the fireproof curtain, saving the auditorium.

Attempt to Wreck a Train.

Perth Amboy, N.J., March 26.—An attempt to wreck the new Pennsylvania Railroad bridge over the Raritan River between this city and South Amboy, was made early yesterday.

A charge of dynamite was exploded near one of the bridge abutments, causing damage of $2,000.

Ralph C Manny, a Rhodes scholar from New Orleans, was drowned at Cornwall yesterday.

House Resumes Debate on the Budget—Alleged Immigration Frauds at Halifax—Mr. Lake Wants to Know Where Surplus Went—Sentiment Strong For Mutual Preferential Tariff With Great Britain.

Ottawa, March 26.—The budget debate was continued yesterday by H. H. Miller, Mr. Lake and M. S. Schell, who occupied nearly the whole afternoon.

Duncan Bole referred to reports of Tuesday's proceedings during which it was stated that the company, of which he was a member, had sold supplies to the Government. He wished to say that he had never asked for Government patronage and no member of his company was permitted to solicit Government business.

R. L. Borden asked if the Minister of Interior had investigated alleged frauds in the Department of Immigration at Halifax.

Mr. Oliver was able to report that the W. Dodds, who had written a letter to an agent in London in connection with frauds, was no other than Dr. Dickey, the dismissed immigration inspector.

Mr. Pugsley was unable to find for Mr. Bennett any record of the construction of a dock on island No. 19, in Stoney Lake. Mr. Bennett said it might assist the Minister to know that the island was owned by J. R. Stratton, a member of the late Ross Government. Another question by Mr. Bennett was answered by Mr. Graham, who said claims by owners of islands in Stoney Lake for damage by flooding were settled. Among the amounts paid was $500 to Mr. Stratton.

Answering Mr. Borden, the Finance Minister gave figures of the cost of the Quebec bridge to the people of Canada as follows: The Government in 1899 appropriated one million dollars as a subsidy. Of this, $374,353 was paid, the remainder released and cancelled by the agreement of 1903. In 1907 the Government advanced two million dollars to the Quebec Bridge Co., and received guaranteed bonds to the amount of $478,700. In 1903 the Government guaranteed the companys' bonds to the amount of $6,678,200. These bonds were not issued to the public but were used by the company as collateral in the raising of loans from banks to the amount, including interest to June 30, 1907, of $5,561,507. The advance by the Government of two million dollars was applied in reduction of this indebtedness.

The Bridge Co. advised that the cost of the bridge, including Chaudiere bridge and the railway approaches to March 1, 1908, was $6,899,033 to which is to be added interest from June 30, 1907, on the advances for which the bonds of the company were pledged.

The cost includes for custom duty, harbor dues and fees $510,288.73. No estimate has been made of the cost of re-construction.

H. H. Miller (South Grey) resumed the debate on the budget. Referring to the announcement of Dr. Thompson, of the Yukon, that he would henceforth support the Conservative party he said, "Conservative party was entitled to him and he congratulated Dr. Thompson on taking a step which he should have taken long ago." Although a Conservative, the member for the Yukon was elected as an Independent, but when votes were taken he was usually away or paired with a Liberal."

Mr. Miller spoke at great length on the construction of the Grand Trunk Pacific, saying it was desirable to furnish competition with existing transportation facilities to the Atlantic, and he declared that criticism of the Ross rifle was "unpatriotic."

Mr. Lake (Qu'Appelle) followed, observing that an ordinary man was mystified by the Finance Minister's explanation of the financial condition of the country. He had told the country that the Government had a surplus of sixteen million dollars, yet when he wished to loan five million to the banks to move the crops, there was no money on hand and it was necessary to break into the national strong box. Where did the surplus go to? The debt had increased, the revenue had decreased, and there was a vast increase in expenditures.

The Opposition did not object to liberal expenditures for the purpose of assisting immigration, but they did object to the class brought in.

Then the Government had refused to grant a full measure of autonomy to the new provinces. He complained that the lands of the Saskatchewan Land Co. were escaping taxes because the issue of patents was being delayed, hence the settlers residing in the vicinity of these lands were compelled to double the taxation. Millions of acres of coal lands were being exploited for the benefit of party friends. The Province of Ontario was receiving more than three million dollars this year out of her natural resources.

Mr. Lake trusted that the Government would undertake building of the Hudson Bay Railway. In five years there had been no progressive legislation for grain growers of the west.

A mutual preferential tariff with Great Britain, in his opinion, would be in the interest of the western farmer and if the Minister of Agriculture would take a trip through the west he would find the sentiment strong for it.

Malcolm Schell (South Oxford) said there was no difference on two sides of the House with regard to a mutual preferential tariff.

He Shaved Sir John.

Kingston, March 26.—James Johnson, a colored barber, aged 75, was found dead in bed yesterday morning. He was around the city Tuesday. Pastimes Won From Merchants

Some Good Scores Made at Bowling Alleys on Tuesday Night

The Merchants and Pastimes had a close fought battle at the Peterborough Bowling Club Tuesday night, the Pastimes finally pulling out a victory by eighteen pins. Boyd was high man with a total of 170 pins, while Frost was second, and the record-holder, Billy Wareham, was next with 164 pins. The latter during the evening put up the most consistent bowling for a series of games yet witnessed on the alleys having an average of 182 for six games. His high game for the night was 218 and there was great excitement during the game, the general impression being that he would excel his performance of the opening night when he put up a score of 231, the highest yet made on the alleys. He started off with four straight strikes and a spare, but had a break on his sixth frame. Three more strikes followed, but he ran into another unfortunate break on the last frame and finished 13 points below the record.

The work of George Cairns was one of the features of the evening. He rolled in all seven games for an average of 162. McIlroy had an average of 171 for a similar number of games while Cair Gutterson, who is exhibiting his old form, averaged 154 for eight games, his high single being 181. On the previous night he went out after Wareham's record and put a 210 score up, a couple of unlucky breaks spoiling his chances.

The score in the Merchants-Pasttime game was as follows:—

Midland Cricket League Proposed

The Suggestion Emanates From Cobourg—A Good Scheme

Cobourg, March 26.—The formation of a cricket league for the Midland district, including as many of the towns and villages as desire to enter, is now proposed. If the project is carried out the many lovers of the good old game in the district will participate in a grand revival of their favorite sport. The places spoken of where clubs might be formed to join the league, including Warkworth, Port Hope, Cobourg, Lindsay, Lakefield, Peterborough, and other desirous of entering. Some of these places have already organized for the season. The league would be arranged similarly to the Midland Baseball and Football leagues, and would have a tendency to promote the game of cricket throughout the district. It is felt that greater interest will be attained in the sport with games played according to schedule.

Bowlers Make High Scores

Box of Cigars for Best Single This Week—Bert Moran May Give Exhibition Here

There was another large turnout of members at the Peterborough Bowling Club yesterday and the alleys were going all day. The scores, however, were hardly as good as on previous days, Wareham again carrying off the honors for high single with a score of 181. Wareham was after a box of cigars which has been donated by the club for the best high single this week. He did not retain the leadership long, however, Tommy Boyd bobbing up serenly this morning with a score of 190.

Many of the members have shown remarkable improvement since the installation of the new alleys and there are probably a dozen bowlers in town who will compare favorably with the best in the Dominion. In order to demonstrate this fact to the bowling fraternity generally, teams will be brought from Toronto at intervals to play exhibition games with the members of the PBC.

A lot has been heard lately regarding the wonderful score made by Bert Moran on the Toronto Bowling Club alleys and this morning Secretary J. B. Hay of the local club wrote Mr. Moran in connection with a proposed visit to Peterborough. He will probably be here some night next week and will give an exhibition against some of the PBC. members. Moran came into prominence by piling up a score of 290, a mark that is very seldom attained on properly constructed alleys, the highest possible score being 300.

W. Brown, an expert Toronto Junction bowler, visited the PBC. alleys yesterday and hooked up with Bill McIlroy. They had several interesting games, the majority going to the Toronto man who was rolling in rare form.

The Hunter Street Oracle and his Nondescripts have accepted the challenge of Regan's Ramblers and the game will take place some day this week on the PBC. alleys. Joe Guerin may be barred for professionalism.

The eternal question: "How is your thumb?"

The price of adhesive plaster took another advance in price yesterday. The supply is very light and the demand excessive.

Jim Reynolds Is Feeling Fit

Jimmy Reynolds, the Port Hope barber-pedestrian, called on The Star this afternoon.

"I intend to begin my Port Hope Toronto and return walk on June 15th," he said, "and I have two bets $25 to $50 and $600 to 300 that I do the distance in 33 hours, 3 hours and 18 minutes better than my best up-to-date. I think I'll win, because a specialist, is looking after my feet and they're in good shape. I'll be 57 years old on June 10th. I weigh 150 pounds, and will take off 10. I have made the small wager with a Hamilton doctor, and the other with a Port Hope syndicate.'

COBOURG SIGNS CRACK BATTERY

And Intends Capturing the Midland League Pennant

It is reported that the management of the Cobourg baseball team have signed a crack battery for the present season and are determined to win the Midland League championship for 1908. Donovan and Ryan of Scranton, Pa., are said to be the men signed and they come with big reputations. Both are said to have played in fast company across the line.

It's up to the other teams in the league to get busy at once if they want to have a look in.

BASEBALL

"Jack" Toft will this season manage the Columbus, Miss., club of the Cotton State League. Toft will also do the back stopping. He will leave for the south at once, probably tonight. Toft was recommended to the club owners by "Mike" Finn, the Little Rock manager, and will receive a handsome salary for his services. Toft intends to do most of the back stopping for his team. It is more than likely several Toronto players will be with Toft.

Timely Suggestions.

To be ready for emergencies it is always well to know some simple things to do before the doctor comes. Much embarrassment may thereby be saved.

First of all, throw all of the old shoes and soiled clothes in the room under the bed. The doctor may be a neat and orderly soul, and such things lying about may jar on his artistic sensibilities.

Close all of the windows in the room. The doctor likes to tell you to open them and give the patient air the first thing when he comes in, so that he may have something to begin charging for right away.

Lock up the patent medicine chest. You will want to have some remedy of which you are certain to give to the patient after the doctor has gone.

She wasn't in the least to blame,
But faultless from the start.

She shed some tears in wan despair
And faded by the hour.
She paler grew and tore her hair

The crushed heart from her breast.
A cat's heart, as the sequel proved,
Restored her peace and rest.

"Why do you say that?"

"The president of our club just hates her."

"For what reason?"

"She's always making a noise like a point of order."

May Annex the Congo.

Brussels, March 26.—Some basis for the belief that the Congo Independent State will this time be actually annexed to Belgium, was found this afternoon in the acceptance by the Chamber of Deputies Commission of 17 of the annexation scheme, including the colonial charter, which provides for a Government of the natives under Belgian rule.

The debate in the Chamber will begin early in April. Supporters of the treaty claim to have a majority of 35.

Bible Printed in Twenty Languages

Sold in Winnipeg for People of All Countries

A Chinese Bible is among the many volumes in stock at the depository of the Manitoba and Saskatchewan Bible Society, Alexander avenue. This translation is always printed in two oblong books of parchment, the covers resembling wrapping paper, covered with the heiroglyphics with which patrons of Chinese laundries are familiar. Sometimes a Christian Chinaman, not content with buying the books for his own use, sends them away as a silent missionary to a friend in China. Black is the standard color of the testaments printed and it is a hard matter to dispose of them when displaying in any different shade. The Slavonic bible is an exception as it is always bound in grey and bears on it the Greek cross.

The Bible is kept in stock in forty languages, being asked for frequently in thirty tongues. The Ruthenian is most in demand, and then follow the Polish and German. The price of a Bible, as sold in the depository—one of 100 such stations in Manitoba and Saskatchewan—ranges from three cents to $12. A colporteur is employed at the Immigration hall and his experiences in disposing of the testaments are sometimes worth recounting because of the humor that lies behind so many incidents of every day to the man blessed with the seeing eye. Sometimes an atheist labors to convert him, turning the tables on his own work.—Winnipeg Free Press.

AMUSEMENTS

THE MAYOR OF TOKIO.

Marcus Orlando Kidder, the eccentric cheerful impressario whose watchword was 'cheer up everybody,' and who cheered everybody up by his droll comedy is the chief funman in "The Mayor of Tokio,' the pleasing opera success from the resourceful pen of Richard Carle. It was a large and well satisfied audience that saw the production of the piece at the Grand last night and liberal applause was given the original Orlando and his good supporting company. John L. Kearney is a smooth and natural comedian and sprang many really clever sayings in a really clever way. His work throughout was finished and he was never in the least tiresome. In fact his every appearance on the stage gave the cue to a laugh storm. He is one of the best comedians that has favored Peterborough and would be given a cordial welcome should he return. Jane Griffith, as Madame Stitch, a comedienne with an equally eccentric part to play did splendid work and was amusing at all times. She and Orlando executed a waltz stunt at the conclusion of her rendition of "I'm Looking for the man that wrote the Merry Widow Waltz.' that was very funny and which was encored a great many times.

The cast was so large that it is a difficult matter to pick the plums, but among the best were Jeanette Mayhew, in the role of Betsy Hincolon, and Peter Gillespie, as Rusty, the song book boy, was bright in the part.

There were others in the show who were well received.

The score of 'The Mayor of Tokio' is tuneful the most captivating numbers being "I like You,' and 'Tokio.'

The songs were rendered by good principals and a sprightly and capable chorus. The effects and accessories of the production were excellent and the dances good. From a musical standpoint the show was effectively directed. The scenery was elaborate and tastefully painted.

The story of the opera is founded on the adventures of an American musical comedy company stranded in Japan.

A Grain Shocker That Will Shock

North Dakota Man Invents Machine of Great Benefit to Farmers

Sarles, N.D., March 26.—William A. Leitch of this place, has invented a grain shocking machine, which, if his claims are correct, will save the farmers immense sums.

The invention consists of a small machine that can be attached to any binder. It takes the bundles as they fall from the binder and carries them in an upright position to a table. This table rotates step by step and builds the shock in much the same manner as it would be built by hand. It makes two complete revolutions and then by an ingenious device is parted in the middle and the shock is dropped to the ground.

Several attempts have been made by other inventors along the same lines, but have been unsuccessful because the shock fell forward with the momentum of the machine. In this machine this is overcome by a simple device. A steel ring is held in position on the outside of the shock and drops with the shock and holds it together until it is deposited on the ground, when it swings back into position again and is ready for the next shock.

The machine has been put under tests and has been very successful both in building and in placing the shock. At one test the machine was driven at a trot and even at that gait it placed the shock in a perfect manner.

The inventor says the cost of the machine will hardly be more than the hiring of help to do the shocking on 300 or 400 acres of grain.

Tax Farmers Who Possess Phonographs

Geo. Ade, the Humorist, is Trying to Secure Legislation of That Kind

George Ade, the writer, has been down in Washington trying to get Congress to pass a law which will put a tax on every man, woman and child in the United States who buys a phonograph record for the benefit of the composer of music. Now, the Supreme Court has just declared that these phonograph records music box sheets and the like are not within the copyright law. Manufacturers in this as well as other countries have always had the right to make these various mechanical records and in fact it has been pretty clearly demonstrated that composers are usually anxious to have them do so in order to boom their sheet music.

Mr. Ade has recently come out in a newspaper interview has been reprinted generally throughout the country in which he says:

"You have no idea of this phonograph business. Out through the corn-belt every family has a graphophone or phonograph. The farmer comes in at night, takes off his boots, hangs his feet on the stove and says; 'Boys, turn her loose.' The boys turn her loose and the durned thing plays the whole evening."

Mr. Ade thinks the farmer shouldn't have the right to do this without paying a tax to the composer. He don't mention the fact that folks who live in the big cities have the opportunity to go to concerts and other forms of entertainment every day and night and from these the composers get nothing. Ade and those who want the law changed propose to tax the farmers, every mothers' son of them, if they want to use the much abused phonograph which brings a little variety entertainment to the home during the long evenings and helps make the dull monotony of the farm life more bearable.

Well, we wonder what the members of Congress are going to do about it? Our guess is that when it comes to a vote the farmer and his phonograph will win out and that out in the farm houses of Dakota and the mining camps of Nevada leagues distant from any spot which an orchestra will ever visit, these modern entertainers will continue to brighten the lives of those not so fortunate as their city cousins. —Exchange.

Miss Davies sang the "Pilot song" and "Tell Me About the Master." At the close, a testimony meeting was held and a great many young men stood up and professed Christ.

The wedding took place in the drawing room beneath a large bell which was very prettily arranged with carnations and sweet peas. The wedding march was played by Mrs. W. A. Greenslade. The bride looked charming in a gown of white silk. She wore the conventional bridal veil and carried white roses. She was assisted by her cousin, Miss Jackson who was beautifully attired in a dress of shot silk. She carried pink roses. Little Miss Phrony Craig, niece of the groom, acted as flower girl and wore white point d'esprit over taffeta. The groom was ably supported by his brother, Mr. Archie Craig.

Canon Tucker's Address on the Laymen's Missionary Movement

Banquet at All Saints' Church Last Evening Attended by About 250 Men—Able and Interesting Address by Toronto Divine—Other Speakers—First Function of its Kind Ever Held by Men's Association.

The layman's missionary movement was the subject of an interesting and forcible address last evening at All Saints' church by Rev. Canon Tucker of Toronto, before abuot two hundred and fifty men of the congregation. The banquet last night marked a new epoch in the history of the church and also in the city. The address will no doubt be productive of much good and as a result new interest will be awakened in the missionary movement. The Toronto divine kept the audience in an interested mood for over an hour and dealt with the missionary movement clearly and impressed upon the gentlemen present, the necessity of business men taking up this all important question as a commercial proposition. He referred to the far reaching effect the movement had upon the laymen of Toronto, and already the results of the recent gathering held in that city are becoming more and more evident each day.

The banquet was held in the school room where two tables the entire length of the room were beautifully laid. They were prettily decorated and the ladies who had charge of the the supper and the arranging of the tables are to be congratulated on the success of this, by no means the least important feature of the affair. At the head table were seated, the chairman of the evening, Mr. J. Graham, president of the Men's Association, on his right, Rev. Canon Tucker and on his left, the rector, Rev. Wm. Major. Others at this table were Messrs. Ald. Buller, J. Harris McClellan, Jas. Edgar, Wm. Brundrette, Mulholland, John Green, Dayman, F. Wise, Metheral and W. G. Howden.

After the many choice viands had been partaken of, Mr. J. Graham, who made a most efficient chairman, called the assembly together and in a few well chosen remarks heartily welcomed those present. The object of the men's association was to interest men in church work. The association was organized last fall with only a membership of eight. At the present time, forty men are identified with the association, and the chairman invited those present who were not already members to become so. He called upon Mr. J. Harris McClellan to say a few words. Commencing, Mr. McClellan congratulated the men's association on the success of their first banquet. He was glad to see so many members and adherents of All Saints' church gathered at such a function. The speaker referred to the rapid advancement made by All Saints' church. Heretofore the ladies had taken the active part in the church work. Now the men were coming to the front. The last ten years belonged to the women but he believed the next ten belonged to the men. Mr. McClellan referred in eulogistic terms to the good work of the rector and of the association. He hoped that in the near future All Saints' congregation would have one of the finest churches in the city in which to worship.

Ald. Buller was called upon to speak and was in a very reminiscent mood. He traced the history of All Saints' church from the time when first it was just a Sunday school and service was held in a little white house on Bethune street, until it is now a prosperous congregation. The only drawback is that the present edifice is altogether too inadequate for the increasingly large congregations that each Sunday attend.

Messrs. Jas. Edgar and W. G. Howden also added a few remarks, urging men not already engaged in any of the church activities, to come forward and do something to further the interests of their church generally, but particularly those of the congregation of All Saints'.

REV. CANON TUCKER.

As the speaker of the evening rose to deliver his address he was warmly applauded and throughout his remarks he was followed by the closest attention. Prefacing his able discourse he jocularly remarked that his usual experience in church meetings was that usually the men occupied the back seats and the women were present in large numbers. However last evening the tables were turned. Men should hold the most prominent parts. The speaker was glad that they were coming to the front. Men is the most important element. He is the aggressor and the reverend gentleman said to his mind, that it was the greatest privilege to be a young man and one of the 20th century. It is something glorious to live in this century. It has been said that the 20th century was for Canada. There is no land that holds out such promise as this fair Dominion. And in this twentieth century there is a world wide mission for Canada, to perform continued the speaker.

There are two examples, either of which a man might follow. One is living to exact from his fellowman all that he can, treating him unfairly and unjustly. The other mode is to live for your fellowman, assisting him in some way that gives him joy. A man does not know what life is until he has done something for some one. The great joy is in uplifting men.

The church is the centre of organized benevolence. The main object of the church is to get the men interested. Doing the right and pleasant thing will accomplish this. The church is a universal institution and the desire to do good must be world wide. Every man is the son of God, placed in the world to carry out a mission.

The church is called to a world wide work. Christ sent His apostles to preach in all parts of the world. St. Paul brought the Gospel to Europe and gradually it came to England. The Spirit of God has led the church down through the ages until the present. The mission societies started one hundred years ago and when the call went worth for men not one responded. The speaker traced the history of the missionary movement. The missionary was the advance agent of the merchant. He lifts the heathen up to civilization and thus commercialism starts. Rev. Canon Tucker referred to the students' and young people's missionary movement both of which were doing good work.

The latest missionary movement was the layman's. Some thought that the parson should do all the work. The laymen are as much in the church as the pastors. In December last in the city of Toronto, the leading business men gathered and pledged themselves to raise half a million of money each year for missionary purposes, and one hundred men offered themselves for the work.

In conclusion the speaker said that many men only lived for pleasure and self and squandered their money. He urged those present to rise and take their share in the great work and join in the church activities.

REV. WM. MAJOR.

The rector, Rev. Wm. Major, at the close of Canon Tucker's address, added a few remarks. He said that it was a grand example Canon Tucker had set before them and he hoped that each one would realize their responsibility and perform the duties assigned to them, not only in their own parish, but in extending the Kingdom of God. The men's association is a felt power in the congregation. All Saints' people all seemed to be deeply interested in the church activities and Mr. Major said that he had no doubts as to the future of All Saints' church.

VOTE OF THANKS.

A hearty vote of thanks was tendered Canon Tucker for his interesting address, Mr. Jas. Edgar making the motion and Mr. J. H. McClellan seconding it. It was unanimously carried.

A most pleasant and profitable evening was brought to a close with the pronouncing of the benediction by Rev. Canon Tucker.

Strange Case of Boy Who Refused to Eat.

Armenians Undertake to Discipline a Fellow-Worker—Police Are Puzzled by Peculiar Circumstances—Lad at St. Catharines Mopes and Will Not Work—Looks Like Case of Insanity—Was Forced to Eat.

St. Catharines, March 26.—A strange case among Armenians employed at the McKinnon Dash Metal Works was reported to Chief Parnell yesterday and has excited considerable comment.

The story is told that a young fellow came from Hamilton some time ago and until recently worked in the factory. On the pretext that he was ill he quit work and is said to have since been living in the common boarding-house at the expense of his fellow countrymen.

Of late he has become sullen, morose and silent, sitting in a corner and refusing to eat or talk. Fellow workmen have been compelled to force him to take meals, and Tuesday night after feeding him they questioned him concerning his actions and health, but getting no answer, decided to tie him to the tracks of the Niagara, St. Catharines & Toronto Railway, and it is claimed by some that such was actually done, though the boy was removed by others who opposed the action and believed the young fellow was really sick.

Sergt. McCarthy investigated affairs at the boarding-house, but was unable to get any intelligent answers from any of the Armenians, and could make but little from the case.

Devoured by Wolves.

Fort Frances, March 26.—American settlers living at Big Fork River, opposite the Canadian boundary, who visited Berwick, Minnesota, last week, report that a 9-year-old boy, who was kept in after school and did not start for home till after dark, was killed and eaten by timber wolves.

His mother, missing him, started out to search with a lantern and was horrified to find torn shreds of clothing and finally the boots with the feet frozen and still in them. The rest of the body had been devoured by the beasts, which have been unusually daring and rapacious this winter, presumably because of the scarcity of deer.

No Envoy Coming.

London, March 26.—The poor acoustic properties of the House of Commons are responsible for the universal misapprehension regarding the statement made Tuesday by John Morley, Secretary of State for India, in the matter of the difficulty regarding Hindu immigration into British Columbia.

The Secretary does not contemplate sending an envoy to Canada, as was mistakenly reported yesterday, but he is busily engaged with Mackenzie King, the envoy deputed to Great Britain by the Dominion Government, in the hope of bringing to an end if possible "this extremely difficult, intricate and possibly dangerous situation."

Succession Duties Cheque.

Brockville, March 26.—A cheque has been forwarded to the Ontario Government by the executors of the late Charles E. Fulford for $13,000 succession duties.

He was a well-known patent medicine founder who died in Australia leaving large interests in Great Britain and Ontario. The succession duties on his English interests alone amounted to $17,000. The father of the deceased is ex-Mayor Fulford of Brockville. The late Senator Fulford was his uncle.

Outlawry In Kentucky.

Owenton, Ky., March 26.—Owenton was visited early yesterday by night-riders who set fire to three large tobacco warehouses, causing a loss of $30,000, partially covered by insurance, and destroying 150,000 pounds of tobacco, in addition to three buildings.

These include the big new "equity" warehouse, owned by a stock company, in which was stored all the tobacco of the American Tobacco Co., and a smaller independent house.

One Year For Shooting.

Guelph, March 26.—Judge Chadwick yesterday sentenced Warden Shand to one year in the Central Prison for drawing a gun on T. Arnott. Arnott and Bailiff Ryan went to Shand's farm, near Mount Forest, about a month ago, to settle an account for rent.

Shand brought a gun and ordered them off the place. The gun was accidentally discharged and the charge entered Arnott's hand.

British Premier Sinking.

London, March 26.—Premier Sir Henry Campbell-Bannerman is steadily growing worse. The public yesterday was given a guarded notification of the real gravity of his malady, which up to the present time has been known only to a few persons.

The bulletin issued this morning says: "The Prime Minister had a good night and a good sleep, but he is weak and his condition gives rise to much anxiety."

Saved by Human Chain.

New York, March 26.—Five members of Jacob Chalkowsly's family were rescued from the roof of their burning home at 135 Bowery, early yesterday, by two policemen, who bridged a six-foot chasm between two buildings with their bodies and swung the Chalkowslys across from the roof of the burning structure to a place of safety.

Coreans In Deadly Earnest.

Los Angeles, March 26.—Following a meeting of the Corean colony here, a purse will be subscribed toward the assassin of D. W. Stevens.

Lieut.-General Grenfell, commander-in-chief of the forces in Ireland, says the efficiency of the army is being seriously reduced by cigarettes

JOHNNY'S CAREER.

The Same That Was Started by the Cornell Widow.

Sheer nonsense rhymes and jokes without apparent reason or object are frequently used to fill the pages of the Cornell Widow. If anything more footless than the "Man of Giegledorf" verse has ever been written, the Widow wishes to state that her bump of credulity was imported from Missouri and must be shown:

> There was a man from Giegledorf
> Who, to save his barber's fees,
> Would wet his hair and let it freeze,
> And when 'twas frozen break it off.

The Widow claims the credit of originating the nonsense rhymes which dealt with the cleverness and precocity of the bright little lad who carelessly slaughtered his mother, father and immediate relatives. These poems, if so they may be called, appeared in the Widow in October and November, 1900. The same year they were collected and published in pamphlet form under the name of "The Johnny Book." Johnny started his career by "an tragedy" as follows:

> Johnny hung his little sister.
> She was dead before they missed her.
> Johnny's alius up t' tricks.
> Ain't he cute?—he's only six.

Next we find that—

> Johnny with his little ax
> Dealt his brother orful wacks.
> He don't care if mamma kicks.
> Ain't he cute?—he's only six.

Later development of the little romp shows that—

> John has gone from bad to worse.
> Now his father's in a hearse.
> Smeared him with a load of bricks.
> Ain't he cute?—he's only six.

And so on until finally—

> Johnny saw a buzzsaw buzz
> Like a bike and thought it wuz.
> Johnny's corpse is full of nicks.
> Ain't he cute?—he's only six.

These verses terminated the Widow's connection with John, but papers all over the country took up his instructive and edifying career and pushed it to a finish. Still another verse which started in the Widow office and traveled all over this country and part of others was the bit of "Eb and Flo" doggerel. In this we discover that—

> Flo was fond of Ebenezer—
> Eb, for short, she called her beau.
> Task of "tides of love!" Great Caesar!
> You should see 'em, Eb and Flo.

By itself this beautiful bit could hardly claim a place in a volume of great American poets, but when it traveled far and wide and received an extra verse at each resting place it became a pursuing nightmare. — From "Humorous College Journalism" in Bohemian Magazine.

Women the Greater Dreamers.

A Vienna doctor has published the following figures:

Thirteen men out of a hundred as against thirty-three women dream during their sleep. The number of men who dream frequently is 27 per cent; that of women is 45 per cent. As a general rule, it may be said that the weaker sex has twice as much tendency to dreaming as the opposite sex. The cerebral phenomenon under consideration is absolutely unknown to 9 per cent, and 14 per cent dream only very rarely.

It seems idle to add that the same doctor noted, what is perfectly well known, that almost all our dreams are suggested more or less directly by the incidents of the material life of every day.—Boston Advertiser.

Thrifty Paganini.

When Paganini was asked many years ago to play at Vauxhall Gardens he inquired how many persons the place would hold.

"That is impossible to say," said the manager. "It is a large, open space."

After some reflection the great violinist inquired, "How many will the large, open space contain when quite full?"

"Perhaps 20,000."

"Ah, 20,000 people! And you ask how much?"

"Four shillings each."

"Four shillings each! Twenty thousand at 4 shillings make 80,000; 80,000 shillings, £4,000. Well, I will play in one concert for £3,000, and you may have the other thousand."—St. Louis Republic.

Poles of the Earth.

The circle of the earth's daily rotation upon its axis being the greatest at the equator, the consequent greater action there of the centrifugal force during the period when the earth was a yielding mass produced a bulging out of the surface in the equatorial region, with a consequent flattening at the poles. Thus we have an oblate spheroid, with the length of the axis of the poles about twenty-six and a half miles less than the equatorial diameter.

A Literal Youth.

"Why, Johnny," said Mrs. Muggins, "what are you doing here at home? Is Willie's party over?"

"Nome," blubbered Johnny, "but the minute I got inside the house Willie's father told me to make myself at home, and I came."—Harper's Weekly.

Helping Her.

"You loved her very much?"

"So much that when her first husband died I married her that I might share her grief and so lessen it."

"And how did it work?"

"Fine! I'm sorrier now for his death than she is."—Houston Post.

Incredible.

SLIPPED ON SIDEWALK.

How Zam-Buk Cured a Bad Knee.

Mrs. S. F. Nicholls, 208 Quesnee St., Montreal, writes: "While returning home from a shopping tour, I slipped on the icy sidewalk and badly sprained my knee. I had to be assisted to the house where I was laid up for two weeks. My knee was very much swollen and painful. I bathed the injured member frequently with liniments I had in the house and they were not much good, so I sent for a box of Zam-Buk, as I had used this previously for cuts and burns and knew its value. For three weeks I used the Zam-Buk as an embrocation and it worked like a charm, taking away all stiffness, swelling and soreness. I am now able to go about all right and have never felt the effects of my accident since."

The Daily Review

THURSDAY, MARCH 26, 1908.

WHAT IS A PHARISEE?

Rev. Dr. Sowerby, of Toronto, is reported to have said that he was above politics and took no interest in the political issues of the day. The reverend gentleman was at the time speaking at a monster meeting in Massey Hall of temperance workers who had assembled to express their opinion upon the recent decision of the courts as to the legality of the license reduction. Dr. Sowerby's every word necessarily bore upon laws and the administration of laws. It displays gross ignorance on the part of any man to attack our laws and their administration and at the same time to say that he takes no interest in them. Of a truth what he really is doing is breeding discord or at least confusion in the affairs of our country and leaving it to other people to settle the difficulty and quiet the trouble which he raises. Such men are Pharisees who thank God that they are not like the rest of us poor mortals who having inherited one of the most glorious institutions of history, the right of assembling in parliament, propose to stand by that privilege. This setting of themselves apart by some people as too good to feed on 'human nature's daily food' is more like impertinence than superiority. Moreover if there were not so many haughty or self-righteous stand-offs politics might be vastly better. Politics is the expression of the life of the state—its energies—its business regulations or laws—its administration of finance, etc. Are these, even not considering their tremendous influence on morality and religion, not worth Dr. Sowerby's condescending notice? Christ Himself did not disdain the state. In this Dr. Sowerby assumes to know better. But then, after all, he does represent a type and this type cannot become extinct any too soon. At least he can refrain from this palpable inconsistency of saying one thing and doing another.

THE OLDEST IMMIGRANT

Who is Canada's oldest immigrant? Until some better claim can be put forward the distinction must be held to belong to Mr. John Pollock, of Argenteuil County, who came to Canada from Coleraine, Ireland, in 1830, when he was four years of age. He is now 82, and has been seventy-eight years in this country.

Mr. Pollock, who has been a farmer, lumberman and miller, is still hale and hearty. He paid a visit to Montreal yesterday, bringing with him a huge pine stave which he uses as a walking stick. Many people were attracted by the stalwart figure of the old-timer, who with his wind-tanned face, heavy shock of hair, and upright bearing, seemed to have suffered nothing from the ravages of time.—The Witness.

Who is Peterborough's oldest immigrant? The Review will be glad to hear from those who came from the "old land" in the days when wood was $2 a cord for the best, and water was got from "the spring." It must seem tame in these new-fangled days to the old-timers. Instead of a walk round a rink their stunts were done on the trail. "The old man" was young then and went to Cobourg or Port Hope as we would go to Montreal. "Times will improve when navigation opens," was a familiar saying. It referred to the navigation of the Otonabee in Capt. May's palace steamer, "The Royal George." Railways had been dreamed about but that was all. However, the toll-gate charges between Peterborough and Port Hope were "fippense" for man and horse both ways, with a halfpenny added for an extra load. When the railways did come Davey Hartley could have easily beaten the "fast express" between here and Cobourg. But after all, those were the days when people literally "shut up shop" and went away to the back lakes and enjoyed themselves. When they came back they opened up again and business went on as usual, "all the latest fashions" having by this time either come in or gone out. There are a vast number of pathetic and amusing tales of "long ago," and we should like to have some of them, but they are hard to get. Reminiscences are, when interesting, very interesting, but the first generation now belongs largely to them that "sleep." Then as now, there were workers and roysterers, all-to-the-goods and no-goods, the public-spirited and the growlers, the people who wished that they were dead and the people who wished that they were dead, etc. But far above the smoke and buse of the market-place and the commonplace rise the spirits of the women "good and true," whose deep abiding religious faith and homely and estimable virtues are perpetuated in those who are now bearing the burden and the heat of the day.

WHAT POWER MEANS

Mr. Andrew Cameron, lately of Hastings, but now of Peterborough, was in town last week working on a power scheme for this district which seems to meet with the approval of a large number of the influential farmers of this district, and which if put through should be a good thing for all concerned. It is nothing less than a combination of the townships in this district to purchase the power rights here and develop them for the use of residents of the different municipalities, for both light and power.

Nothing could be more convenient than this for all concerned and should be heartily sanctioned by those interested.

At present all use kerosene lamps and lanterns on the farm, both in the dwellings and at the barn where the upsetting of a lantern among inflammable matter means not only the loss of a barn, but stock and contents; but with electric lighting if a lamp should burst or be broken there is no possibility of ignition as the light goes out as soon as the air enters the globe. As to convenience instead of losing time and patience after a cold drive, in lighting lanterns, all you will have to do is to turn a switch and your building is lighted and when you are finished turn the switch back and all is done. With regard to power for farm use, nothing could be more convenient. No steaming up or danger from sparks from engines, and the power is as cheap. The wood is fast disappearing and it is only a matter of a few years before power generated in this way will be a necessity and why not start now.

Mr. Cameron has some prominent men interested in the scheme, and no doubt the matter will be brought before the municipal councils, and if it goes through success is assured.

The above clipping from the Hastings Star gives a fair idea of what Mr. Whitney's famous Power Policy really means to the farmers of Ontario. That it should mean much to the cities of this province all could understand and in that way indirectly to the farmers but that it should have a direct bearing on the farmer's life and welfare few were prepared to believe.

At the outset of any undertaking it is hard to get illustrations. The Hastings Star furnishes a number of them at first hand. We might add to these the spread of electric railways which will go far to increase the value both of the farm and its products. The outlook in this respect is of the brightest. It could not have been however, if Mr. Ross's policy of selling power privileges to private persons had been followed. To get a profit from it and full benefit it is necessary that all concerned should get it at first cost. Middlemen rob industry of all its profit.

EDITORIAL NOTES

Has any effort been made by our local authorities to get a hose bridge? We should think it would pay the Street Railway Company to do so.

Mr. Henderson thought it peculiar that in every instance the lowest tenderer should be a member of Parliament or a Senator.—The Globe.

It would strike anybody as peculiar. It is much too peculiar.

Our reporter in his account of the great banquet at All Saints' last evening, makes Rev. Canon Tucker, of Toronto, say that business men should take up the missionary movement as a business proposition. God forbid! It this materialistic country is to be further materialized then will the spiritual or ideal and the material or real coalesce—to the gradual destruction of the former. There are still some things "not of this world." That they shall remain so many will hope.

Italians Coming Back From Italy

"Back to Canada" is now the slogan slogan among the members of Peterborough's Italian colony, who have been spending the winter in Sunny Italy. They are now returning one or two having already reached the city. Others are expected back next week.

Scottish National Exhibition Attracting Much Attention

Edinburgh, March 14, '08

All true Scots are expecting to have the pleasure of welcoming Colonial friends to the Scottish National Exhibition in Edinburgh during May to October of this present year. Quite apart from the substantial reminder of the Colonies by the abundance of their exhibits there is a very general desire to show, in special manner the high regard in which we hold our kinsmen overseas—something that will testify to our appreciation of the prominent part they have played in building up the Empire. Many of our countrymen are anxious to make the meeting with our colonial friends a memorable one. The hope is that we may be able to hold a great day for each Colony, viz., Canada's Day, Australia's Day, New Zealand's Day, South Africa's Day, etc. On these special days events of outstanding importance in the history of each Colony might be fully celebrated and Colonial and Home rejoicings made general.

Scotsmen in the Colonies do not need to be reminded how deep should be their interest in our Scottish National Exhibition. They will do their duty by the mother country as they have done in the past, according to the true colonial instinct common to all colonists. They will support Scotland at a time when she is striving to spread the blessing of international friendship and goodwill. They will rally to her side. They will look upon the hills they love; they will foregather in Auld Reekie; they will go to Saughton Mead and there by the enthusiasm of their support will swell the success of Scotland's National Exhibition. They will witness the great Pageant on June 13th, which will portray the great events in Scottish history from the earliest times. They will help to commemorate their country's hard bought liberty on Scotland's own National Day,—the 24th of June. They will meet wi' brither Scots from every part on these All Scots Days. The will be proud of Scotland and her Exhibition, which will overtop every other event in Scotland during 1908. The flavor of it has gone before, it permeates the homes of Scotland; there is not a Scots child in all our Scottish Schools that will not know the meaning of it. Every Scottish School has been asked to contribute specimens of school-work for competition in the School Industries Section. This is worthy of being noted.

Delightful Play at Ennismore; Was Given on St. Prtrick's Day

The St Patrick's Day concert in Ennismore was a decided success, and the general opinion is, that the young people of the township surpassed all former efforts to amuse the public. The attendance was certainly larger, more orderly and appreciative than in former years. Fully five hundred eager listeners followed closely the stirring Irish drama, "Arrah-Na Pogue" or the "Wicklow Wedding," which has given to the author, Boncicault, such an exalted place in the minds and hearts of the Irish people. This is by far the most correct interpretation of the Irish character, which the author has given us, and with the single exception of Shaun Rhue, which has made the name of Joe Murphy famous as an Irish actor, we know of no other drama which portrays in such varied colors, the strength and weakness of the Irish character. The mixture of mirth and sadness, sunshine and gloom patience under injustice, and the supreme contempt for the informer, spy or coward, which runs all through the play, makes the faithful interpretation of it, all the more difficult.

The following is the cast of characters:

Col. O'Grady—Frank Scollard.

Beamish McCaul—John A. O'Donohue.

Major Coffin—Jas. Mahoney.

The Irish Secretary —P. J. Spollard.

Sergeant—Frank Crough.

Michael Feeny, spy—Jos. Carroll.

Winterbottom, a valet — Austin Doran.

Shaun the Post—Peter Galvin

Diny Farrel, Andy Regan, Lanagan, —Peasants —Joe O'Reilly, Vincent Killen, John O'Connor.

Arrah Na Pogue —Miss Lottie Scollard.

Fanny Powers — Miss Agnes Scollard.

Soldiers —Joe O'Connor, Dan Twomey, Joe English, Frank Maloney.

The following is the programme in full;

1—Orchestra, under J. K. Galvin—The Irish Airs.

2—Song, "Three Leaves of Shamrock," Loretta Kennedy.

3—Song, by C. Telford.

4—Banjo selection by J. K. Galvin.

1st Act of Drama.

1—Orchestra, "English Airs."

2—Song, by Eliza Flood.

3—Song, by Lizzie Sullivan.

2nd Act of Drama.

1—Orchestra, "Scotch Airs."

2—Song by C. Telford.

3—Song by Miss Teresa Guiry.

4—Banjo selection by J. K. Galvin.

3rd Act of Drama.

The play was followed by an able address by Rev. P. J. McGuire on Ireland, which drew forth rounds of applause from the large audience.

After a few remarks by the pastor, Rev. M. F. Fitzpatrick, in which he thanked all those who had assisted in making their St. Patrick's concert such an unqualified success, the evening's entertainment was brought to a close by the actors singing "God Save the King."

The best proof of the success of the play is that requests have come in from all sides, to have it reproduced immediately after Easter, and in all probability these requests will be complied with, if not at Easter, at least in the near future.

A MYSTERY SOLVER

The Imperial Pulp Company, which has 604,000 acres of selected Western timber lands has at last been hunted down. It is the only concern which obtained limits in connection with T. A. Burrows, M.P., brother-in-law of Mr. Sifton, who has 306,000 acres. Sometimes the only competition was between these two. Where there were outside bidders one of the happy pair came out ahead. True, A. W. Fraser and W. H. Molan obtained awards, but they are found to be bidders for the Imperial Company. The Company and Burrows had the same remarkable methods of business. Both spurned the regular form of tender both bid without naming the amount of their offer, both enclosed two or more cheques with each bid. In this way the sum of their cheques was just a little higher than the next independent bid, while single cheques would have captured the limit from some other bidder.

Dead Student Was Native Of Norwood

Sad Death of Young Man Named Carmichall at School of Science

Toronto, March 26.—A school of Practical Science student named Carmichael, died at the General Hospital this morning at half-past nine from morphine poisoning.

Carmichael took about ten grains of the stuff late last night.

Carmichael was 30 years of age. He graduated as an electrical engineer three years ago and went to St. Louis. He returned to Toronto last fall to complete his fourth year.

He was born in Norwood, Ont., and no relatives survive him.

MANY WILD SWANS SLAIN AFTER RUSH OVER FALL

"Bagged" by Dozens—Many Now in the Hands of Local Taxidermist.

Oliver Spanner, taxidermist, 358 Yonge street, had his full staff working overtime yesterday skinning and dissecting swans which came from a flock that drifted over the Canadian Horseshoe Falls last Monday week and were slaughtered on the ice bridge by resident sportsmen. All told, it is estimated that over 200 tumbled over the cataract and were swept helpless by the current against the ice crags. Everybody who could procure guns hastened to the scene, and within half an hour 120 were shot, clubbed or dragged lifeless from the swirling waters.

Eight or ten were captured alive. Harry Williams, manager of the Lafayette Hotel, at the Falls, bagged 67; Frank La Blond, proprietor of the Maid of the Mist, got 37; Thos. Greenwood of the police force, 15; and Martin Davis, who takes tintypes on the ice bridge, 8.

It is suspected that a great many were carried under the ice-floe, by the current. From all accounts, so far as Mr. Spanner's representatives could learn, all were perfectly helpless when the raid began, being dazed from battling with the upper torrent and their subsequent plunge over the cascade.

If the findings of the taxidermist may be taken as a criterion, the flock comprised mostly females, with well-developed ovaries, indicating bountiful deposits of eggs that will go unhatched. Few of them showed any evidence of gun wounds, the majority having been crushed to death by crunching ice cakes or strangled.

The swan is not keen to take to wing, nor to part company with its fellows, consequently they stuck to the water and allowed themselves to drift over the brink; then all efforts toward self-preservation were vain.

Considerable fuss was raised in Game Commissioner Hodge's office at Bufalo by indignant sportsmen and Humane Society enthusiasts, who wanted to have those who participated in the killing prosecuted. But it was found that nothing could be done, as the slaughter had taken place on the Canadian side and in Ontario the open season for geese and swans continues until April 30.

This flock of birds was decidedly out of its course, according to Mr. Spanner. Whistling swans—and these are all whistlers—are seldom found on the Niagara River. They usually migrate north, up the St. Clair. Ducks have come over the falls in large numbers, and never were more than three or four wild swans seen in Niagara vicinity, and it is only of recent years that they have been coming this way at all.

They were all found to be exceedingly fine types of the species—perfectly marked, with the black feet, ebony beak with a spot of yellow, and pure white bodies. Some weighed as high as 19 pounds. They were all very fat and in good condition, though unfortunately for scientific ends, nothing was contained in the stomachs. Mr. Spanner's examinations are conducted more for scientific purposes than anything else, and he was particularly anxious to discover upon what food the species could best subsist. It is known that they live upon water grasses and roots, but if any specially good kind that is native to this latitude could be apprehended it would obviate many difficulties in the keeping of these graceful fowl as park adornments.

It was found, upon measuring, that the birds averaged 50 inches in length, while with many the spreaded wings measured over seven feet.

A peculiarity was noted in the wind-pipe. This tube is almost 2 feet longer than might be suspected. Despite the extreme length of the curved neck, the windpipe traverses the body past the lungs and continues along the back almost to the tail, where it reverts with a sharp kink and parallels itself towards the breast and to the lungs. The whistling, or trumpeting sound is undoubtedly produced in the "kink." The hearts were found to be almost as large as would be carried by a lamb, while the stomach, or gizzard, would not compare with anything larger than would be found in an ordinary hen.

No commercial value is attached to the species.

Two Can Live as Cheaply as One

University Professor Gives New Currency to Old Heresy

New York, March 25 —Declaring that two married persons can live as cheaply as one who is unmarried Dr. G. Stanley Hall, president of Clark university, of Worchester, Mass., in an address delivered at the West Side Young Men's Christian Association, advised men to marry, but told them not to marry too young.

"Twenty-seven or twenty-eight, seems to be the best age,' said Dr. Hall, "although I believe that the happiest marriages are those which are made when the man and the woman are poor and when they have to endure hardships together. When prosperity comes they enjoy it with the added enjoyment of the recollection of past deprivations.

"'I have no hesitancy in declaring for a revival of the old pagan virtue of honor. We should all act as if we had received a precious heritage from our parents, to be by us transmitted to our children. We should sink our own selfish aims in the good of the race.

"'To marry who say they cannot afford to marry. I say the right kind of a girl can so manage her household affairs that she and her husband can live upon the money that was sufficient for him alone.'

Ex-Warden Will be the Opponent of the Present Warden

Liberals of East Peterborough Select Mr. Patrick McNulty to Contest the Riding Against Warden Thompson.

Norwood, March 25th.—One of the largest Liberal political conventions ever held in East Peterborough to nominate a candidate was held in the town hall here this afternoon. Over 160 delegates, representing every part of the riding, were present. Resolutions were adopted of sympathy with Mr. William Anderson, M.P.P., whose long and serious illness led him to announce his retirement, of tribute to Mr. John Finlay, M.P., and of confidence in the Provincial and Dominion leaders.

The convention was called to nominate Local and Federal candidates, but it was decided by vote to concentrate their efforts upon the Provincial contest, and nominate only a local candidate, as the Provincial election would come first. Two names went to the ballot, Mr. C. J. Darling, Reeve of Dummer, and Mr. Patrick McNulty, ex-Warden of the county. Mr. McNulty was successful on the first ballot by 114 to 46, and his nomination was made unanimous with great enthusiasm.

EX-WARDEN McNULTY

Liberal Candidate for Ontario Legislature in East Riding.

The candidate chosen is a very popular man, with much energy and ability, and large municipal experience. He has been Reeve of Ashhodel for seven years and Warden for one term.

To-night Dr. McIntyre, M.P., and Mr. C. N. Smith, M.P.P., addressed a large public meeting in the town hall on political questions.

Fire Has Been Burning In River Bank All Winter

The attention of the Review was called to-day to a rather curious state of affairs in connection with the bank that has been built up along the river front near the carters' stand on Water street. It appears that a fire has been smouldering in a portion of the bank all winter and to-day smoke was issuing from a point not far from the carters' stand. A gentleman who resides in the vicinity states that for several days at a time no smoke could be seen and there would be no indication of the presence of fire. But after a few days of calm the fire would apparently take on a fresh spurt and the smoke issuing forth would indicate its location.

It is feared that the fire may cause damage when the snow is gone and the bank gets dry. As long as there is snow on the ground and there is excessive dampness of the earth there is not much danger.

Drunks and Disorderlies Have Field Day in Police Court

Ten Such Cases Before Magistrate Dumble This Morning—A Record Day—Large Amount of Money Realized From Fines.

There was a long procession of drunk and disorderly fellows in police court this morning and nothing less than $32.75 was realized in fines. Ten young men fell into file, lining up in front of the prisoner's dock and answering to their names as called out by his Worship.

ROW ON AYLMER STREET.

Three young men were charged with creating a disturbance on Aylmer st. on Monday night. Two of them pleaded guilty and the evidence against the other one was taken. Two officials from the Y.W.C.A. stated that between 11 and 12 o'clock the boarders were aroused from sleep by the noise of swearing and someone quarrelling. Several other witnesses gave evidence in this case, all going to show that there had been considerable bad language and disorderly conduct on the street. His Worship imposed a fine of five dollars on each of them to be paid forthwith. Only one had the necessary five spot and the remaining two went down stairs to the cells. They will spend the next fortnight at Castle Nesbitt.

CALLED P. C. MEHARRY A SCOUT.

A well-known young man pleaded not guilty to being drunk and disorderly on Charlotte street on Monday night about midnight. It was proven that he did considerable swearing and raised a disturbance generally. He with two other young men were standing in an alleyway nad when the defendant saw P. C. Meharry coming he remarked to his friends, "Here comes Meharry, the scout," and he had hardly finished when P. C. Meharry took him into custody. He was fined $5.75, which he paid forthwith.

DR. GRAY'S ASSAILANTS.

Monday night certainly proved a record one as far as breaking the law is concerned. All the cases in court to-day were the results of distrubances on that night.

The two men, who, it was said, helped Dr. Gray's assailant, appeared in court this morning. They were charged with being drunk and were fined two dollars each. In explanation of the affair one of them said that Lowery struck the doctor by mistake and it was in trying to settle matters with the doctor the defendants this morning became implicated in the affair. They tried to tell the doctor that it was a mistake, but never for a moment thought of assisting Lowery in the assault upon Dr. Gray.

FINED TWO DOLLARS.

Four more young men wer efined two dollars to be paid in ten days for being drunk and disorderly. They were witnesses of the Dr. Gray assault and apparently were celebrtaing also, as it was stated that considerable rough talk emanated from them.

THE NEATEST EYEGLASSES

The advantages of the deep curve (spoon shaped) lenses compared with the flat glasses are very apparent.

The deep curve fits the form of the eye, the lashes sweep in the curve. These lenses set closer to the eye, they look much neater and vision is clearer and wider than with any other form of glasses.

These lenses are ground in large factories employing hundreds of men who are experts and devote their whole life to lens grinding.

We have supplied this style of Glasses in many cities, and to quite a number of our citizens here in Peterborough. These Glasses always please the wearer.

Death of W. E. Weaver Being Investigated—Coroner's Jury Viewed Body at Belleghem's Undertaking Rooms Last Night—Inquest on April 8th.

Last night an inquest was opened at Belleghem's undertaking rooms on the body of W. E. Weaver, of Chandos township, who was buried at Anson, on the G. T. R. The death occurred a little over a year ago and the circumstances in connection with it are thought to be of a nature to warrant an inquest.

The remains were exhumed and brought to Peterborough, ariving here last night. They were viewed by the Coroner's jury, which was empannelled by Dr Gray and the inquest was adjourned until April 8th.

The stomach of the deceased will be sent to Toronto to be analyzed owing to the uncertainty of the cause of Weaver's death.

Carcass of Horse There Yet; Who is Going to Remove it?

In the columns of the Review was noted a short time ago that P. C. Newhall was called upon to dispatch a horse which was lying alongside the tracks near the C.P.R. freight sheds. The officer shot the horse about two weeks ago.

The carcass has been lying there ever since and it seems desirable that it should be removed. It is stated that the chief of police as well as another prominent city official, visited the place and ordered it to be taken away. The horse was taken from a car by a local horse buyer, and he has refused it is said to remove it.

Didn't Want to Lose Sub-tenant Fined 10c With $8.40 in Costs

Ed. Shepherd was assessed the somewhat unusual fine of 10c. and costs by County Police Magistrate Edmison this morning. He was charged with assaulting James Young and pleaded guilty to the charge. While this fine is extremely small the costs of the case amounted to $8.40.

Young is the tenant of a house in Smith township and sublet a portion of the house to Shepherd. The latter up to March 12th paid the rent agreed upon and then had a dispute with Young and made up his mind to leave. Yesterday he secured a carter, to take his household effects away but Shepherd objected and held an uplifted club over his head and used some language that was by no means complimentary. Young complained to Magistrate Edmison and a warrant was issued for Shepherd who spent last night in the police cells. When he came up for trial this morning Young had had the furniture removed. He said he had no desire to prosecute Shepherd but simply wanted protection when he laid the information.

Floating Object Proved to Be Body of Edward Beaman

Was Noticed at 10 O'clock This Morning by Mr. Dan Holland Bookeeper for McDonald Estate—Brought to Shore by Two Mill Employees—Flocks of Gulls Hovered Over the Body—Reward of $25 for Each of Two Men Who Brought Remains Out of Water—S O. E. Funeral To-morrow.

By the merest accident the body of the C.P.R. pumpman, Edward Beaman of Manvers, was discovered floating in the Little Lake this morning. The late Mr. Beaman came to his death on Monday, December 9th, between five and six o'clock by falling off the C.P.R. bridge, it is presumed, by trying to board a freight to take him to his home in Manvers. He was never seen by anybody after he left the C.P.R. station, to walk to the freight which was standing on the bridge at the time.

A search was immediately instituted and kept up until the river froze over. A watch for the body has been kept since the opening up of the river but not by the men who found the body this morning.

SEEN FIRST BY MR. D. HOLLAND

At about 10 o'clock this morning Mr. Dan Holland of the office staff of the McDonald Estate, noticed some thing floating in the lake near the third pier and about one hundred feet from the Dickson Company's shore. Large flocks of gulls were hovering over the object, and he informed Messrs. T. Fredenberg, 470 Aylmer street, the yard salesman for McDonald's, and Tom Fitzgibbon of Weir street, one of the mill's teamsters.

Knowing of the supposed drowning of Beaman they suspected it might be his body and set out immediately in a punt propelled by a couple of pike poles, to make investigations. When they reached the pier they found their suspicions to be correct.

The body was recognizable, and considering the length of time it had been in the water was in a good state of preservation. However, it was covered with slime and the skin was commencing to peel off. The men towed the body to McDonald's wharf and it was later removed to Belleghem's undertaking rooms.

FUNERAL TO-MORROW.

The funeral will take place tomorrow at Manvers, and will be conducted by the Methodist minister of that place. It will be held under S.O.E. auspices, the deceased having been a member of the local lodge. The pall bearers will be chosen at a meeting at eight o'clock tonight in the S.O.E. Hall, Hunter street.

The late Mr. Beaman is survived by his widow and two children, Mr. Thos. Beaman, a C.P.R. brakesman and a daughter Miss Mary J. Beaman.

REWARD FOR FINDERS.

After much searching had been done for the remains of the late Edward Beaman, Mr. W. M. Taylor and Mr. Thos. Beaman, a son of the deceased, offered a reward of $50 to any person or persons finding the body. The announcement of the reward was made in the local papers. Today $25 each was paid to Messrs. Fredenberg and Fitzgibbon the finders of the body.

Three Youths Charged With Theft Were Allowed to Go

Boys Pleaded Guilty to Stealing from "Rob Roy" and Myrtle—Were Given another Chance—Recompense Made to the Owners of the Boats.

William Fallon, Stanley McCabe and James Reynolds, the three youths who a week ago pleaded guilty to stealing a quantity of brass and other goods from the yachts of Mr. R. M. Roy and Mr. E. S. Clarry, were discharged this morning in the police court. Recompense to the extent of fifty dollars was made to Messrs. Roy and Clarry for the damage wrought by the boys. Mr. Reynolds, father of one of the boys paying the above amount into the court this morning. Mr. R. E. Wood was present for the Crown, and Mr. G. N. Gordon appeared for the prisoners.

Mr. Wood before judgment had been given urged that some punishment should be given that would for all time to come serve as a lesson to them. The theft had also been an act of vandalism. Machinery had been wantonly destroyed. He did not think that they should be allowed to go. He suggested that they should be sent to gaol and be governed by the parole officers. Under the statute, the Crown Attorney thought that his Worship could not allow them to go on suspended sentence.

Mr. Gordon on behalf of his clients, asked for the clemency of the court. There was no excuse for the theft but the boys not thinking, committed the offence. They had admitted everything and if allowed to go they would live better in the future.

His Worship in addressing them, expressed a wish that he would never see them again in police court. He wanted to give them another chance and was going to allow them to go without any further criminal record against them.

TOLD TRUTH AND WENT TO THE PRISON

Strange Experience of Gypsy Woman Who Was Right for Once at Any Rate

London, March 25—Seven months ago a gypsy fortune teller told a maid in the employ of a miller in a small town near Chard, in Somersetshire, that she would some day elope with him. The maid told the miller, the miller told the police, and the gypsy got a month's hard labor at the local lockup. A few days ago the miller and the maid disappeared and investigation proves that the fortune teller's prediction has been verified. Under the circumstances, that month in jail looks like a bit of injustice toward the nomad. Dozens of serving maids in Somersetshire have applied to her for a reading and now every day is her busy day.

The gypsy goes by the rather pretentious name of Britannia Manley and is well known in the neighborhood. If you cross her palm with a sixpence she will read your past, foretell your future, and give a piece of lace to boot. When the fates are to be bought at that small figure, it is not strange that the plausible fortune teller has many customers.

The home of the miller and the maid who have so strikingly vindicated the claims of Britannia Manley to prophetic powers adjoins the mill in the village of Forton. Walter Hellier, the miller, has two little children and his wife being confined in an asylum he kept a maid. The latter was a pretty girl about seventeen years of age, named Florrie Tytherleigh. Seven months ago Britannia came to the door and called to Florrie, who was upstairs tending to her household duties. When the girl came down she induced her to buy some lace and then offered to hold up the mirror of fate for her. The girl refused at first, but, upon the gypsy declaring that she would tell her something nice, assented.

The fortune teller took the girl's hand, and bending her dusky head over it for a few moments, professed to draw aside the veil shrouding the future. Then she told the maid that her employer's wife was never coming home. To this she added the statement that Mr. Hellier was very fond of the maid and that the maid was equally fond of the miller. 'Soon' she said, 'he will ask you to take a very long journey with him, never to return and you will go.'

This piece of information, leaving, as it did, the credulous little girl shaking with nervousness, was too important to be disclosed for the original fee of sixpence and before she departed, Britannia demanded and received an extra fee of a like amount.

Soon after the gypsy had taken her leave, Hellier, who had been absent, returned to the house. Whereupon Florrie, who could not keep a secret, up and told him what the intimate of the fates had told her. He professed to be highly indignant and immediately informed the police. Britannia's sojourn in jail followed. There was considerable local interest in the affair at the time and public opinion sympathised with the miller. The gypsy served her time and went to other parts. She is a wise fortune teller so she has eschewed elopements since then in her forecastings. Now that Hellier and the maid have taken her hint and skipped, the public demand for the same kind of readings may be so great that she will have to supply them.

It is believed that Hellier and Florrie, who took the children along with them in their flight, have gone to Canada. Some creditors of the absent miller are especially anxious for his returrn as it is found that he was heavily in debt.

A Canadian Associated Press cable despatch from London to-day says that the Church Army protests against Mr Bruce Walker's report. This report strongly criticised the immigration work being done by certain charitable organizations in the Old Country, wherein a most undesirable class of immigrants were being sent to Canada under their auspices.

The Emperor William of Germany, accompanied by the Empress, Prince August, one of his sons; Princess Victoria, his daughter, and a numerous suite, arrived in Venice to-day from Berlin. The imperial party was given a warm welcome by King Victor Emmanuel.

The Wm. Hamilton Foundry Was Flooded Owing to Ice Jam

Jammed at Dam and Bridge and Water Got in Through Doors—Dynamite Being Used to Clear Away the Ice—Cellars in Vicinity Flooded—Creek Causes Trouble Again.

The rains of last night and this morning played havoc in several ways. A lot of damage was done by cellars being flooded in different parts of the city and in some cases the water damaged the vegetables and other produce in the cellars. As noted in another column of the Review the infant daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. T. Elnington, King street, had a narrow escape from drowning but this is the only incident of the kind reported in connection with the sudden deluge.

The individual losses if totalled up would probably make a pretty big item of expense. The rain fell in large quantities and it was only the freezing later that saved a flood of greater or less proportions.

THE CREEK AGAIN

As regular as the robins' return is this spring trouble with the creek running from Jackson Park through the city to the river. It was on its bad behavior last night and caused considerable trouble at the foundry of the Wm. Hamilton Company.

FOUNDRY FLOODED

The rain broke up the ice in the creek and it came down in large blocks. It jammed up against the dam at the back of the foundry and against the bridge on the Hamilton Company's property. The whole yard was flooded and the water oozed through the doors of the boiler shop and into the machine shop and boiler room, covering them with water to a depth in different places from six inches to two feet. The damage done cannot yet be estimated but it is not thought that it will be very heavy. All the damage that can be done is to the floor and the machinery which will be rusted some by the water.

On account of the foundry being closed down no one will be thrown out of work by reason of the floors being flooded.

BREAKING UP JAM

Today some of the laborers of the add wm hamilton the company are engaged in breaking up the jam and are using dynamite freely for that purpose. There is a great rush in the creek however, and it is keeping them busy doing so. The ice keeps piling up just about as fast as the blokade can be broken up but when a good clearance is once effected the situation will be relieved.

BRIDGES BEING CLEARED

The GTR have a man stationed at the bridge below th Protestant Home and he keeps shifting the ice to prevent a congestion. Street Commissioner Evans has a gang of men at work dynamiting the ice at the Bethune street bridge nearby.

CELLARS FLOODED

A large number of cellars in the vicinity are badly flooded. The losses in some cases in the matter of potatoes, apples, etc., have been comparatively heavy.

DIVISION COURT TO-DAY

Division court is being held today before his honor Judge Weller. A large number of minor cases were heard. Most of the cases were either settled or adjourned until next months session.

HOW THE PUBLIC FARES

The arrival in the port of New York of 20000 imported empty Camembert cheese boxes, and other boxes bearing the name of well known French cheeses, throws an interesting light on one form of export and import carried on by this country to a degree entirely unsuspected by the patrons of various foods and wines.

The American who was disturbed on landing at Tokio to find himself face to face with a stove manufactured in Peekskill, N.Y. was not in so bad a case as the American in a cheese-producing section of New York State who pays the price for an imported cheese and takes delight in the superiority of his trained taste, and does not know that the cheese he is eating was produced on the outskirts of his own town. A great quantity of American wines, sent over to France, are at once naturalized, change their character and return to this country as choice brands of Burgandy and Bordeaux. production: Foreign carpets, if reports are to be believed, are manufactured on the Hudson, and many varieties of artistic creations, for which heavy prices are paid are reported to have a purely domestic origin.—The Outlook.

The Canadian Civil Service is Far From What it Should be Commission Recommends Many Changes to Parliament.

Nature of Report Such That Minister of Marine Will Take Action Immediately—No General Increase of Salary, But Advances Should Be Made on Merit—Sir Wilfrid Laurier Replies to Hon. Mr. Foster.

Ottawa, March 27.—The long-delayed report of the Civil Service Commission was laid on the table of the House yesterday afternoon by Finance Minister Fielding.

Some of the findings are:

That the act should be simplified, and that the age limit of 35 for entrance is too flexible.

When a clerk ceases to be a private secretary his connection with the Department should cease.

The practice of paying $600 to a member of the service while acting as private secretary should be repealed.

Provision for leave of absence should be stricken from the statute.

Attendance should be regulated by rules.

French provision should be made to govern examination and entrance to the service.

The percentage of those employed in the public service in the lowest ranks are paid less than they would have received had they been employed in ordinary outside occupations, and less than modern conditions demand.

In the matter of pay and promotion every officer in the service should be treated on his merits.

The service should be entirely freed from political favoritism of patronage.

Appointments should be made by merit after competitive examination.

A permanent commission of three should be created to deal with the question of the service to supervise the examinations, etc.

The commissioners are of the opinion that somehow or other, immediately the question of salaries should be dealt with.

They cannot recommend a general increase, but they would suggest the advisability of at least taking votes for granting increases to deserving officials.

The commissioners find that "in the working of the public service there is a constant attempt to evade examinations and that in order to meet pressure brought upon the several Departments by influential politicians to take on assistants, officials who have not passed the examinations are employed temporarily, and are called laborers. Patronage seems to run more or less through every Department of the public services. This patronage evil is the curse of the civil service."

Especially in the outside service "there is a dread of the politician." It is said that in one Department a clerk is employed to do work in the accounts branch which he is utterly unfit to do, in consequence of which the work is steadily going behind and the commissioners have no doubt that the same result obtains in other Departments. In the matter of promotions the same patronage fear is apparent.

In the purchase of supplies in many cases stores were ordered unnecessarily and there is doubt whether good quality was always delivered.

There seems, the commissioners say, to be in the Marine Department, a huge redundancy of work which proceeds in a lumbering, haphazard way, giving rise to constant blundering and confusion. There is no sign visible of a single directing head or an intelligent purpose unless it be that of spending as much money as possible. Zeal for economy and good management or pride in the work is not visible. Perfunctory and mechanical discharge of duties is the rule, with apparently no perception of any need for improvement.

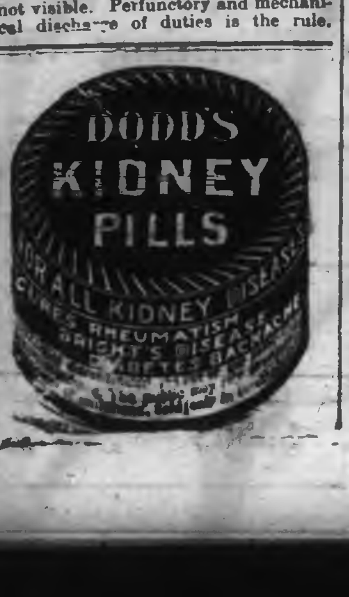
"In connection with this report I desire to make a brief statement," said Hon. Mr. Brodeur. "The general tenor of the report will no doubt be discussed in due course and I have no wish to anticipate such decision, but there is a special feature of the report which relates to officials of the Department of Marine and Fisheries which calls for an immediate statement and immediate action.

"While I am aware that some of the officials have been open to censure for the manner in which they have despatched their business, I have never had any evidence to establish dishonesty on their part. The accusation of the two commissioners, while general and indefinite, is of such a character as to reflect on the integrity of the officials generally. For the protection of the public interest and in fairness to the officials it is necessary that further enquiry should be made into such accusation, and I propose to take without further delay the necessary steps to that end."

Hon. Mr. Foster thought that Hon. Mr. Brodeur should be thankful he had got off so lightly, and that the commission had not gone through his department from top to bottom and covering its working for the last five years. In view of what had transpired the Minister ought to have the fullest investigation by the Royal Commission or committee of independent members of the House.

Dr. Sproule questioned if the intention of the Government was not to issue another commission to whitewash the Minister.

Sir Wilfrid Laurier said Mr. Foster had gone far afield in throwing out general insinuations. Mr. Brodeur had found that the commission had in regard to two transactions made a singular error affecting the honor of the officials of his department. At the same time he had stated that there was enough to warrant further investigation, and he proposed to have it. The commission had made actual statements without naming anybody. They had thrown out suspicions stating that wrong doing had been done, but without naming wrongdoers. Under the circumstances the Minister was quite justified in his course. The Prime Minister was not prepared to say whether the investigation should be by royal commission or committee of the House.



GIRL FATALLY BURNED.

Five-Year-Old Child Playing With Fire In Mother's Absence.

Huntsville, March 27.—Viola Fletcher, the five-year-old daughter of W. J. Fletcher, Ravenscliffe, was terribly burned playing with the fire.

The mother had gone to the barn to milk the cows. She left her two little daughters, Viola, aged five, and Mary, aged three, in the house. But a few minutes after she left the older girl ran screaming to her with her clothing on fire.

The lid of the stove was removed, and it is supposed that the little girl was lighting paper when the accident occurred. She died an hour later.

EMPEROR. INQUISITIVE.

William of Germany Prying Into Love Affairs.

Venice, March 27.—It is reported here that Emperor William of Germany, in conversation with King Victor Emmanuel, asked the Italian ruler whether he was soon to have an American cousin.

This was a reference to the reports that the Duke of Abruzzi is engaged to be married to Miss Katherine Elkins, daughter of Senator Elkins of West Virginia.

The King replied that he could not say, that he must await the arrival of the duke, who is expected in Rome from New York on April 1.

Higher Duty on Tobacco.

Ottawa, March 27.—In the public accounts committee to-day Lewis Wigle advocated a higher duty to shut out United States tobacco. He contended that farmers did not benefit by the present duty, while manufacturers did, and said at present only 4,000,000 pounds could be disposed of, but if the United States tobacco were shut out there would be a market for 14,000,000 pounds. He thought a uniform stamp would help the grower, and also favored Mr. Fielding's proposal to make the excise the same on all tobacco.

GHASTLY DETAILS.

Efforts to Connect Detective McDonnell With Welch Murder.

Detroit, Mich., March 27.—Persistently endeavoring to bring into the trial of Percy Bowin the fact that Chief of Detectives McDonnell had accepted a pawn ticket for a diamond ring belonging to Mrs. Cornelia Welch from the woman's son, William Post, Attorney Edward H. Kennedy injected the first bit of real excitement into the trial yesterday afternoon.

After three days and a half of effort, the jury had been secured shortly before noon. Assistant Prosecutor Grose had rehearsed to the jury the crime in all its ghastly details, and at the afternoon session Post was called as the first witness. He testified that he had talked with Bowin in the county jail and that Bowin had said that he killed Mrs. Welch for money.

Other witnesses who were called yesterday were County Physician William S. Grimes, Coroner's Clerk Clarence Tilton, Patrolmen Devereaux, and Dingeman, and Detectives Ames Kunkle, Elias Baker and Emery Brooks. Their testimony related to the finding of the body of Mrs. Welch and the condition of the room in which it was found. Dr. Grimes said that death was due to hemorrhage of the brain, caused by external injuries, which ruptured the arteries. He created a mild sensation by saying that in his opinion some person had held his left arm around Mrs. Welch's neck and struck her in the face with his right hand.

This is the exact manner in which Bowin is said to have confessed to having killed the old woman, and one of the jurors asked Dr. Grimes if he could be certain about this fact. This testimony was later stricken out, however.

MEN OUT OF WORK.

Unemployed Made a Demonstration Against Premier McBride.

Nanaimo, B.C., March 27.—The unemployed made a demonstration late yesterday at a meeting addressed by Premier McBride.

One hundred men who had refused to sign a declaration that they had no money as imposed by the Government before relief work is given, assembled in front of the hall where McBride was to speak and were harangued by Hawthornthwaite, the Socialist leader.

A resolution was passed calling on the Government to dispense with the signing of the declaration on the ground that it would disfranchise the men on returning to England. The deputation then strove to break into the hall, but were driven back by the police. Later Premier McBride received the men at his hotel.

MURDER AND SUICIDE.

Insane Butcher Took a Shot at His Friend.

Parrsboro', N.S., March 27.—Lewis K. Smith, a prominent young man who conducts a butcher shop was working away as usual yesterday when James Rector, another young man entered the shop and made the remark, "Smith, you are looking well this morning." Smith immediately drew a revolver from his pocket and without speaking a word fired point blank at young Rector. The bullet entered his breast near the right lung. Then, turning the weapon on himself, he fired a shot into his own mouth. Rector was immediately carried to a nearby drug store, but only lived a few minutes. Smith is thought to have been temporarily insane.

Want More Pay.

Kingston, March 27.—John Flett, general organizer for the American Federation of Labor, came here from Hamilton on Tuesday to represent the Lake Seamen's Union as a commissioner to adjust differences with the Dominion Marine Association. The seamen desire increased pay and definite rest periods.

Ottawa, March 27.—The Railway Committee gave further consideration to the bill of the Fort William Terminal Railway and Bridge Company which for two days was successfully opposed by Mr. Conmee, yesterday. The bill will come up again next Tuesday.

LICENSE FEE TOO HIGH

Collingwood's Bylaw Quashed by the Courts.

Two Thousand, Five Hundred Dollars Declared Excessive—Judge Britton Detects Ulterior Motive In Council's Action—Increasing Hotel License Fees at a Figure That Is Prohibitive.

Toronto, March 27.—Collingwood's $2,500 license fee is excessive and therefore illegal and the bylaw is quashed. Justice Britton so delivered judgment late yesterday:

"It was not intended by the Legislature," he says, "that local prohibition should be brought in this way.

"If, for any reason in the bylaw itself, it does not permit the business of tavern-keeping to be carried on in a place not under local prohibition, upon the condition of paying a duty and obeying regulations and acting within restrictions lawfully imposed, then the provincial law under which the municipal bylaw was passed is being evaded, and not properly regarded by the members of the municipal council.

"The minority have their rights, and it as much the duty of the municipal council to protect the rights of the minority as to carry out the wishes of the majority.

"The amount of the duty imposed by the law is of itself the strongest evidence of want of bona fides. The liquor act is now, as consolidated, the result of years of experiment and a careful watching of the trade, and of dealing with offenders of all sorts against the act, and against rules and regulations as to places where liquor is sold.

"The act has fixed $450 for Collingwood, $1,200 for the largest of our cities. If $450 is not enough for Collingwood, prima facies, some amount between $450 and $1,200 would be reasonable; but instead of that, the highest fee for tavern license known in the world, so far as presented to me in the argument, was fixed.

"That is evidence of some ulterior motive than to carry out the Liquor License Act."

FORTUNE FOR A LIFE.

Peter Anderson Saved a Fellow Emigrant and Is Left $375,000.

Chicago, March 27.—A despatch from Tacoma, Wash., says:

To have saved the life of a fellow-emigrant in a wreck in 1873, and 35 years later to have read in a newspaper plastered upon the wall of a homestead shack an advertisement which led to his becoming the recipient of a fortune of $375,000, is the experience of Peter Anderson, a farm hand who resides near White Bluffs, Wash.

Anderson has received a check for $5,000 to enable him to proceed to New York to carry out the final legal formalities necessary in the transfer of the fortune. His friend was Peter Knudsen, who made $1,000,000 in the glove business in New Jersey.

ON CRUISER MINOTAUR.

Prince Will Come to Canada With Sir Francis Hopwood.

London, March 27.—The Prince of Wales will probably sail from Portsmouth for Canada on the new cruiser Minotaur on July 16. The cruiser is due back on Sept. 8. The prince will not go beyond Quebec, and as the Citadel there is small, will probably live aboard the cruiser. Sir Francis Hopwood, Permanent Under-Secretary for the Colonies, will accompany the prince, Lord Elgin being unable to leave the capital in consequence of Parliament being in session.

BURGLARS AT CHATHAM.

Safe Dynamited at the Grand Trunk Freight Sheds.

Chatham, March 27.—The G.T.R. freight offices were broken into by burglars early yesterday, and the large safe was attacked by dynamite. The burglars got in by prying open one of the windows. They placed a charge of dynamite in the lock of the safe, which blew it to pieces. After the lock was broken, however, they could not get the safe open and had to abandon the job.

Button Man Dead.

New York, March 27.—Meyer R. Bimberg, known throughout the country as "Bim the Button Man," died suddenly in the Zebonia apartments.

Mr. Bimberg went to his room and an hour later he was found dead. It is supposed that death was caused by a sudden attack of heart disease. He is survived by a widow, a daughter and six brothers. He was 45 years old.

Kipling Likes Us.

London, March 27.—In the third of his series of articles in the Morning Post, Mr. Rudyard Kipling says the dignity of Canadian cities always impressed him. "Our eldest sister has more beauty and strength inside her first three cities than the rest of us put together." Mr. Kipling criticizes the street cleaning, water supply and traffic regulations.

Swallowed By Mergers.

Montreal, March 27.—The Richelieu and Ontario Navigation Company has sold its Hamilton line to the new shipping merger in Hamilton, composed of Jenckes, Mackie and Hepburn. The price is not given out, but it is understood it is very satisfactory to the R. & O. people.

Jumped From Brooklyn Bridge.

New York, March 27.—A young man, believed to be Edward J. Detmars, the 18-year-old son of a Brooklyn physician, jumped from Brooklyn Bridge yesterday and died a few minutes after he had been taken from the water.

In Legislature at Toronto; The Budget Debate is Ended

Division on MacKay's Amendment 54 to 19.

Premier Whitney Twitted Opposition Leader — Mr. Donovan Spoke on Political Menu Cards—Mr. Lucas Talked Temperance and Doesn't Like the Three-Fifths Clause of Liquor License Act.

Toronto, March 27.—Nineteen to fifty-four. That was the vote last night in the Legislature on the Opposition amendment to the motion to go into supply. The amendment read:

"That this House regrets the yearly increase in the ordinary controllable expenditure of the province during the last four years, noticeably under the heads of civil government, and contingencies; the expenditure under the former, civil government, having risen from $344,006 in 1904 to $538,475 in 1907, and that under the head of contingencies from $78,442 in 1904 to $166,636 in 1907, and also regrets that the Government is open to a charge of carelessness and extravagance in several other items of large expenditures."

It was the first division of the session. Allan Studholme voted with the Opposition, and there were a number of pairs.

A. E. Donovan continued the debate. He contrasted the two Governments by the device of political menu cards. The Ross card showed Minnie M., cream of chicken soup. Organizer Vance chicken mayonnaise with crooked sauce, prime ribs of beef with burnt ballot pudding, Capt. Sullivan Shannon rice pudding, scrape the barnacles off the ship of state coffee. The Whitney card included cheap school book white fish with truthful sauce, road turkey stuffed with political character, secret ballot plum pudding, honest temperance legislation cheese. The honest Government Whitney soup would sustain them in their darkest hour, he declared.

I. B. Lucas dealt with the financial criticism leveled against the Government. The Government was spending millions on education and to banish ignorance. Next in importance he believed was legislation to control the evils of the liquor traffic. He could not believe that in the discussion of such a point as the three-fifths clause the Opposition was uninfluenced by partizan considerations.

While not in favor of the three-fifths clause himself, he was satisfied with the forceful rule for three years past of the Provincial Secretary.

Mr. MacKay's Address.

"Things are not so bad that they might not be worse," was the view about which Mr. MacKay thought both sides of the House were agreed. Following in the footsteps of their predecessors, accounted for any virtues the Government might possess.

He had advocated the postponing payment of taxes until a mine began to pay, but he had gone further and been in favor of graded royalties so that the poor mine would pay less, and the mine producing millions a heavier royalty.

Local option was an abstract question, and might be all right in a rural district, and yet inapplicable on a city like Toronto. Mr. Lucas had objected to the three-fifths clause, yet had twice voted for it. Mr. MacKay thought it unwise to force a vote unless there was an opportunity of carrying it, but the municipalities should not be forced at all or it ceased to be local option. With regard to the three-fifths clause, he believed, as he had always believed, that the majority should rule.

He considered the Minister of Agriculture "the weak sister of the combination," and complained that the department had not been as generously treated as others.

Mr. MacKay repeated his views on law reform and the desirability of doing away with the bill of costs system.

Mr. Whitney spoke of the contortions of the Liberal party under its present leadership. He did not know what Mr. MacKay's conception of leadership was or whether he had any, but the Opposition had a great constitutional position, almost as important as that of the Government.

Instead of acting as a critic of the Government, Mr. MacKay had spent 40 minutes in defending himself. His speech was a campaign one and Mr. Whitney only regretted that it contained four or five statements without one atom of foundation in fact, and these would be circulated in the country and perhaps believed. Mr. MacKay said the Government did not trust the people about Toronto University.

"We do trust the people. And the people trust us," was the Premier's retort. He referred Mr. MacKay to the editor of "The Globe," himself an official of the Government, as to whether the Government had adopted the spoils system.

Mr. MacKay's financial criticism, said the Premier, consisted in declaring that if the Government had not got the subsidy money (pounding on his desk) they wouldn't have it. If they had not got any revenue (pounding on his desk as Mr. MacKay had done) they would not have any.

Ninety-Nine Descendants.

Kingston, March 27.—With ninety-nine descendants, and at 99 years of age, Mrs. Ann McGinnis has passed from earth. She was born in Frontenac County in 1809, and died at Oconto, in Olden Township, in the same county, where she had lived for 51 years. Four children, 37 grandchildren, 54 great-grandchildren, and four great-great-grandchildren survive.

Hearst Has Expectations.

New York, March 27.—William R. Hearst, his lieutenants say, will not be a candidate for president on this Independence League ticket this year, because he expects to be mayor of New York from about July 1 until the close of 1909.

DOWN ON AUTOS.

Prince Edward Island Can Get Along Without Them.

Charlottetown, P.E.I., March 27.—A resolution calling for legislation to prohibit the running of automobiles in this province was unanimously passed in the Legislature.

The resolution was moved by John Agnew, seconded by D. P. Irving, both Liberals. The Premier and the Opposition leader spoke in favor of the measure.

The action of the Legislature is in response to public opinion expressed by resolutions passed at many meetings in different parts of the island. There are nine automobiles owned here.

THAW'S MENTAL CONDITION.

Expert Will Not Report on His Condition Until August.

New York, March 27.—Dr. Robert B. Lamb, superintendent of Matteawan state hospital, will sail for Europe to-morrow and will be absent until July or later. The departure of Dr. Lamb means that he will not make a report on Harry Thaw's mental condition until perhaps July, or later.

Dr. Lamb's departure from the country for a vacation is taken to mean that Thaw will be a patient at Matteawan for at least a month following the doctor's return.

Bank Clearings.

Toronto, March 27.—Clearings of the city banks as passed through the local clearing house during the past week including yesterday totalled $17,418,403. Last week clearings of the Toronto Last week clearings of the Toronto banks totalled $19,066,906, during the corresponding week last year $23,331,018 and $18,578,892 during the similar week of 1906.

Vanderbilt's Divorce.

New York, March 27.—That Alfred Vanderbilt, the richest young man in America, and his beautiful wife, who was Miss Elsie French, have agreed to disagree is no longer doubted by the friends of the young couple. Mr. Vanderbilt himself, questioned by reporters, refused to deny that he and his wife have separated, although he made no admission that papers have been served upon him in a suit for divorce.

John Smith, aged 22, wanted at Caledonia, Ont., on a charge of breaking into the C.P.R. station, was arrested at Stayner.

SPORTING NEWS

Former English Athlete Praises Tommy Longboat

Bobby Winston, a former English athlete, but now resident in New York, and prominently connected with university sports in America, writes to the editor of Sporting Life, England;

Sir,—Tom Longboat, the Canadian Redskin, has stirred up a warm discussion here in the States regarding his amateur standing. No figure in athletic sports the world over has been the subject of so much difference of opinion as Longboat, the long-distance champion of Canada. This man, in a word, is a true second Deerfoot, and, like him a real Canadian Indian.

FASTEST ALIVE.

I believe him the fastest ten to twenty miles runner alive. The cause of all the trouble is that the Canadian runner received permission from the Amateur Athletic Union of Canada to try and beat the record made by Alfred Shrubb, in Boston, Mass., U.S.A., on the same track and under exactly similar conditions, which was ten miles in 51 min. 33 2-5 secs. Longboat's friends declared, startling as the time was, that the Indian could smash it, which he did cleverly.

STIRRED THE A.A.U.

This feat put the American Amateur Athletic Union on their mettle. The track was found way short of ten miles; the Redman had three pacemakers, who belonged to the professional ranks; then, of course, somebody got busy and stirred up the storm which brought about the merry international dispute between the athletic authorities of the United States and Canada. Thus it will not surprise me if Great Britain is drawn into the mess, as the Canadians intend entering their man for the Olympic games in London next July.

With the Indian out of the way the Yankees believe they have a fighting chance.

ONLY ONE DEFEAT.

We all know here that this Redskin has them all skinned alive at any distance over a mile. Few athletes in this world's history have had such a record of continued success as this wonderful runner. The only defeat set against him is the race he lost to George Bonhag at Buffalo last year. It was not Longboat's best distance, and he was defeated by one yard in three miles by America's fastest long-journey man.

A GREAT FEAT.

Longboat's victory and record-smashing heat in Boston A.A. Marathon race last April was without doubt one of the greatest feats of running ever seen on the American continent. In this race the Indian ran 25 miles up hill and down dale on a rough turnpike road, through dust, snow, and slush, in the wonderful time of 2 hours 24 minutes. It would be an everlasting shame to bar this grand runner from the London Olympic games, thus depriving the public of the chance of a lifetime of seeing the greatest runner alive. I can well recollect Deerfoot, and saw him run, and it is going some when I say this Red Indian Longboat is faster than Deerfoot ever was at any distance. I believe he can do twelve miles in one hour in proper hands.

Winston has the situation well under his hat in all except one regard. Tom Longboat was not paced at Boston by professionals. Percy Sellen, W. F. Cumming, and Claude Pearce, his pace-makers, are all Toronto runners and amateurs, they all ran in Canada last season in amateur ranks, and are simon pure and held C.A.A.U.

Some Lively Bowling at Peterboro' Bowling Club

Yesterday's bowling among the members of the P.B.C. was characterized by some of the cleverest work witnessed since the new alleys were opened. A large number of spectators were on hand both afternoon and evening and they had something to cheer for every minute in the day. The most interesting battle of the day was furnished by McIlroy and Boyd, who went over the 200 mark several times during the day. George Cairns and Cyril Giroux also got into the mystic class, while Clair Gutterson, who is bowling more consistently than ever, came within a pin of making that figure.

The younger element were also out in force and all were bowling in fine style.

In the evening Charlie Frost's Colts and McIlroy's Pastimes hooked up, Frost's five winning by a total of 13 pins in two games.

The race for the cigars was a close fought one with McIlroy and Boyd alternating in the lead until the former piled up a score of 216 by magnificent bowling and though Boyd later came within a few pins of equalling the figure he was never quite able to emulate the feat of his adversary.

Boyd went back after it this afternoon and in his first game rolled the remarkable total of 221, five pins better than McIlroy's score of the previous evening and ten pins below the high record for the alleys held by Billy Wareham.

A match game has been arranged for next Tuesday night between Munroe's Colts and the Octagon Club, which numbers among its members a number of splendid trundlers.

The scores last night in the Colt's-Pastimes contest were as follows;

FIRST GAME.

Pastimes—
Frost	156
Giroux	212
Ross	130
Stroud	129
Wareham	194

Sam Berger, San Francisco's new fight impresario, has succeeded in arranging a match for March 31st, when he will bring Abe Attell and Battling Nelson together here in a 15-round argument. The match has just been signed up, calling for the men to meet at 132 pounds at six o'clock. Attell will, of course, weigh considerably less than this, but his speed will count, it is believed, in a 15-round affair.

LICKED BY RIVAL.

Michigander Disguised as an Anarchist Won a Bride.

Windsor, March 27.—Francis Taggart, veterinary surgeon of Waterliet, Mich., was stopped by United States immigration officials while crossing on the C.P.R. train from Windsor to Detroit.

He was disguised and gave the impression that he might be a dangerous anarchist, but this was the story he told:

"A few years ago I had a rival for the girl, who is now my wife. I was living on my father's farm at Wilsonville, near Toronto, at that time, Some time after my marriage I returned to visit my father and my rival, a much bigger fellow than I am, licked me. On another visit he repeated it, so this time I evaded him by this disguise."

The story made a hit with the officers and Taggart was allowed to proceed.

Taboo on Dandelions and Chickens.

Denver, March 27.—The Denver city council is working upon an ordinance providing a fine of $10 for every dandelion allowed to bloom within the city limits. The city council of Florence, Col., has passed an ordinance imposing a similar fine on the owner for each chicken allowed to run at large.

Capital to Be Increased.

Montreal, March 27.—The Ogilvie Milling Co. has called a special meeting for April 6 to get authority to increase its capital, issue new bonds, and declare a bonus dividend on common. The latter is thought to be share for share. The bond issue is said to be three-quarters of a million.

Magistrate Did Not Convict.

Meaford, March 27.—The magistrates could not agree to convict the G.T.R. for running trains on Dec 15 last in order to keep the road from being blocked with snow.

On Charge of Witchcraft.

Windsor, March 27.—Mrs. Carrie Becker has been committed for trial on the charge of witchcraft and sorcery.

The Penalty of Prominence.

Dorothy's father is a militia colonel, and on a recent occasion she saw him, in brave array, at the head of his regiment.

"How do you like your father in his uniform?" the colonel asked his small daughter that night.

"You looked handsomer than anybody else," said Dorothy loyally, "and you held your head up so high! But I think they were mean not to let you have a drum to play on!"—Youth's Companion.

Pleasant "At Home" Held Yesterday

At St. Andrew's Manse—Many Attended

Yesterday afternoon between four and six o'clock a delightful "at home" was held at St. Andrew's Manse, given by Mrs. Rev. J. G. Potter, president of the Woman's Foreign Missionary Society. About one hundred ladies were present and enjoyed a pleasant hour. There was an impromptu programme of music, those contributing being Mrs. McGregor, who sang very sweetly, Miss Mildred and Mr. John Brightman on the mandolin, Miss Waddell of New Zealand, who is the guest of Mrs. Hugh Waddell, giving several well rendered piano solos and Misses L. Sherin and Mary Potter rendering instrumental duets. Dainty refreshments were served by several young ladies.

She was 28 years of age and was born at Indian River. She was the daughter of Mr. Bolin, of Indian River, her maiden name being Margaret Bolin. Five years ago she was married to Steven Grisdale, who, with one child, Ellen Mary, a year old, is left to mourn her loss.

Besides her parents, four sisters and one brother, survive her. The The sisters are Mrs. John Barrie, of Buffalo, N.Y.; Mrs. Slattery, New York; Mrs. Carr, Indian River, and Miss Minnie Grisdale, of Toronto. The brother is Mr. Edward Grisdale, of St. Louis.

The funeral will take place tomorrow morning at nine o'clock from the family residence, 496 Driscoll Terrace, to St. Peter's Cathedral, and thence to the Roman Catholic cemetery.

THE DEATH OF BEAMAN WAS ACCIDENTAL

Coroner Dr. Gray Decides That an Inquest is Not Necessary

No inquest will be held in connection with the death of Edward Beaman whose body was found in the Otonabee river yesterday. Coroner Dr. Gray made a careful investigation into the case and concluded that an inquest was not necessary. It was purely a case of accidental death. There was not the slightest evidence of foul play as Beaman's pocketbook, gold watch and some other articles of value were found in the dead man's clothes when the body was taken from the river.

It is Dr. Gray's opinion that the unfortunate fellow tried to board the van of a freight train when it was standing on the bridge, missed his footing and fell into the river.

The Referee, an English literary and general journal, recently offered a prize of five pounds—about $25 in Canadian money—for the best acrostic on Canada. The result has just been announced. Miss E. BUILDING TRADE IS VERY SLACK

Few Permits Being Issued at the City Hall

If the number of building permits issued at the city hall is any criterion, the building trade is pretty slack in Peterborough this spring. Of course, it is early in the season yet and things may be better in a few weeks but so far there has not been much doing. Only about a dozen permits have been taken out since the first of the year and none of them was for a very large sum. During the past week one permit was taken out and it was for alterations to a store. Last year a great many buildings were b eing started at this time.

First Drill a Week From Tuesday Night

57th Regiment Arranging for Opening of the Season

The first drill of the 57th regiment will be held on Tuesday evening, April 7th. This is in keeping with past years, the first Tuesday in April being the opening of the drill season for many seasons. The captains of companies are making arrangements for commencing drill. It is not expected that there will be any difficulty in securing recruits to fill any vacancies that may occur. In order to keep a high standard in the regiment only first-class men will be accepted. Nothing further has been heard regarding the Quebec trip.

Heavy Rainstorm Last Evening

Accompanied by First Thunder and Lightning This Season

Peterborough was visited by the first thunderstorm o fthe year last evening, which was accompanied by a heavy downpour of rain. It started to rain about nine o'clock and for about half an hour it came down in torrents. There was some lightning and thunder, but it seemed to be some distance away. At half-past ten the rain started to come down heavily again, and accompanied by a fierce wind, it made an extremely disagreeable night. There is a saying that a thunderstorm in spring is a sign of cold weather, and this morning it is considerably colder than yesterday. The rain has made the streets cleaner and taken away a lot of snow.

An Old Timer in Police Court

Wm. Richards, Fined for Creating a Disturbance

Wm. Richards, an old timer, in police court, but who has been away in the shanties for the winter months, was again in the dock this morning. He was charged with creating a disturbance on Charlotte street on Saturday last by being drunk. He pleaded not guilty.

Wm. Dancey went into the box and stated that on Saturday last Richards stood out in front of his place, swearing and yelling. He threatened to knock the door in if it was not opened for him.

"I only wanted to see my daughter to say good-bye to her," said Richards when he heard Mr. Dancey's story. "I'm going away and may never see her again," he added.

Richard's wife, it will be remembered, was sent to the Mercer reformatory last July for a term of one year. Richards intended going to Buffalo, there to wait till next July when his wife will be allowed her freedom.

He was fined two dollars to be paid forthwith but he had not the necessary so he was sent up on the hill for the next ten days.

Numbers were given out during the preceding nights and the lucky ticket holder had to go up on the stage and catch the pig. It occasioned very much merriment to the audience.—Havelock Standard.

Greatest Importations of New Dress Fabrics

More of Satisfaction--Less of Price--The Strong Features of Our Spring Dress Goods.

Our Dress Goods Department is our particular care and pride. It s standards of quality are so strict—just "good" won't do—BEST is what's bought and sold there always.

Experience has taught us that our customers prefer Fabrics ranging from 50c to $1 25 per yard in price, and fashion has advised us that Striped Armures, Poplins, Crepe de Chenes Taffeta Cloths, Tweeds and Voiles, will be correct for 1908 wear. The best colors and patterns of these fabrics that the market produces for retailing at these prices are now on display in our Dress Goods Department, and they are better than those usually sold for such prices.

The new and popular (as well as much that is exclusive) is represented in our Spring stocks in a wide range of beautiful colorings and weaves, and nowhere can more excellence and style be had for lesser prices.

When you come to make your selection, you'll see that we haven't at all exaggerated the advantages of our Dress Goods Department.

And Fled in Haste From the Camp—When Sighted He Took to the Woods

Lindsay, March 26—All the money in existence, it seems, is not in Lindsay.

Last night a workman in Hodgson's camp about five miles this side of Haliburton had about $110 saved up from his wages. A fellow laborer learned of the large sum he had kept, and set out to make the wad his own. He obtained possession of it in some way and immediately left the camp and made tracks for civilization where he could enjoy his spoil.

In the meantime the owner discovered his loss and set about to regain his savings. It was known that the culprit headed down the railroad in the direction of Fenelon Falls and Lindsay so a number took the down train this morning in the hope of overtaking their man. Near Gelert he was sighted, and the pursuers chased him into the woods. When the train pulled out he was still at large though the others were hard on his tracks.

At Fenelon Falls Constable Jones was at the station to capture the man but of course he was not on the train.

An Impressive Address at St. Paul's Church

Rev. Mr. Pogue Listened to by Large Congregation—Final Meeting To-night

There was the largest attendance of the week at the evangelistic service at St. Paul's church last night. Since the opening service on Monday evening the attendance has been increasing nightly and a big crowd is expected for the final meeting this evening. Rev. Mr. Pogue preached from the text, "What shall I do with Jesus, which is called Christ.' The man has not lived since Pilate's time said Mr. Pogue, who has not had to ask himself and to answer this question. It was a question for all the people all the time. Our acceptance or rejection by God depends upon the answer that we give. The speaker urged his hearers to take Christ into their hearts and endeavor to lead a Christian life. The address made a deep impression.

Miss Davies sang 'Jesus is standing in Pilate's hall' and 'Softly and Tenderly Jesus is calling,' very sweetly, adding greatly to the service.

The final meeting will be held this evening.

RE-MARRIAGE OF DIVORCEES

Ottawa, March 27—Senator Cloran has introduced a bill "to restrict the evils of divorce"

It provides that the guilty and offending party to a marriage contract shall have no right to remarry in the Dominion after the obtaining of a bill of divorce from the Parliament of Canada. If such party remains outside the jurisdiction of the Parliament of Canada such remarriage is to be considered for all purposes invalid and illegal and such party who remarries is to be considered a bigamist in Canada.

It is rumored that Mayor Garneau of Quebec, Hugh Graham and Mayor Payette of Montreal, are to be knighted on the occasion of the Quebec tercentenary celebration.

G.T.R. Track Flooded by Spring Rains

Belleville Train Was Two Hours Late This Morning

The spring freshets are causing the railroads some trouble. This morning the train from Belleville was two hours late, not arriving here until half past ten. The delay was caused by the track, four miles west of Campbellford being flooded to a considerable depth. The water was ten inches deep over the rails for two pole lengths. The heavy rain last night swelled the little pools along the track and especially in the low lying parts the water has raised a great deal.

Water Rushed Through Cellars; Creek on its Spring Rampage

Downie Street Creek Overflows its Banks and Floods a Portion of the City--Is the Worst in Years—Some Damage Done and Great Inconvenience Caused.

The Downey street creek was on the rampage yesterday and some damage and great inconvenience were caused citizens residing along a certain portion of the stream. There was scarcely a house in the vicinity of Victoria avenue that did not have enough water in the cellar yesterday afternoon to float a ship.

Early in the day the creek started to overflow its banks and in the afternoon a portion of Downey street was completely flooded and water poured into the cellars and flooded hen houses, stables and other outbuildings. Profiting from their experiences in previous years, the majority of the householders of the vicinity had made preparations for the flood and had removed all perishable goods from the cellar. It was fortunate these precautions were taken or heavy loss would have resulted. In many cases the water poured into a cellar at one window and flowed out at another window in the opposite wall. The flood abated somewhat last night but it will be as bad as ever if the snow thaws rapidly to-day.

ICE JAMS.

There were two bad ice jams on the creek, one at the trestle work near the Protestant Home and the other at the Bethune street Grand Trunk bridge. The Grand Trunk had a force of men at work all night breaking up the ice and keeping the stream clear at these points. If this had not been done the flood would have been much worse.

The residents of the vicinity where the flood is causing all the trouble, state that if the creek was diverted as was proposed some time ago there would be no backing up of the water and the annual spring nuisance would be eliminated. The matter is one that should be given careful consideration by the proper authorities.

A resident of the flooded portion of the city states that the flood is the worst in years.

THE MAKING OF A HOBO AS TOLD BY ONE OF THEM

John J. Diamond, Bowery Tramp, Tells How "Panhandle Petes" Begin Their Careers—Some Gangs He Has Lit Upon in His Trips.

"Can you give me something to eat?"

On a raw, wet night last week, when the March wind had an edge like a saw, a man was addressed in these words at Forty-second street and Sixth avenue. A shivering man in ragged but neat clothes and a week's beard, but with an apparently open face, had asked the question so important to his health and comfort. Later it was learned he was John J. Diamond, a Bowery hobo.

"Why can't you get work?"

"You give me a meal in the restaurant across the street and I'll tell you all about it."

The man took the tramp at his word.

"That was a good meal and I feel better than a three year old," said the pan-handler. "Now for my story. I've had good jobs—some of the best—in New York, Boston, Chicago and on the Flagler Seacoast Railroad in Florida. I don't know what to call it, desire, disease or mania but I have to go on the hobo, and I cannot control it.

"First I get to drinking. I can leave this stuff alone for five or six months at a time but that seems to be my limit.

HARD TIMES FOR HOBOES

"So far as the hoboes are concerned, when so many men are out of work as at the present time it is a tough game. A man in the bread line at Fleischmann's gets there at least an hour ahead of time, and if he is downright starved two or three hours ahead. Without good shoes or underwear, in rain, slush, or cold winds, he is supposed to stand there for a piece of bread and a cup of coffee.

"After he gets it he walks to the Bowery Mission to get another feed at 1 a.m. The next thing is to look the morning papers over for a job. If the job is uptown, by the time he can walk there he finds from twenty-five to fifty men ahead of him. His clothes are against him and it's a safe bet of 10 to 1 he does not land the job. Still he tells his story and gets this answer:

"'We've heard that before. You drink. That is why you are down and out. Nothing doing.'

"After a week or a month of this he won't look for work, and he would not be able to do a day's work if he found it. So he keeps on working the Mission, and in the fine days of spring takes to the road. That's the way a hobo starts.

"On one cold night I arrived at the coal chutes in Ashtabula nearly frozen. About half a mile away was a campfire and I went there to warm up. I had the fire all to myself for about ten minutes when a gun barked and the command 'Throw up your hands,' followed.

"As I obeyed twenty men surrounded me, searched my pockets, asked all sorts of questions and decided I was all right. They made me go with them to Toledo. They broke open a sealed car in a train of meat empties bound west, threw out the ice in each end of the car, dug the axle dope out of a journal box and kept a fire in the car all night.

"The brakeman bothered us only once, but decided to let us alone. In daylight we looked like a lot of niggers from the smoke.

IN WITH A BAD GANG

"On the afternoon of the next day I learned from the wife of a railroad man, who gave me a hand-out, that the gang I was with was known as the 'Lake Shore Push,' that they had just killed a conductor and were being hunted down.

"The conductor was coming over the top of the train and told a man on the bumpers to get off. The train was moving so fast that the man refused and the conductor jammed his fingers with his heel on the iron rung.

"The tramp fell off but as luck would have it, he was not killed. This hobo belonged to the Lake Shore Push, which in revenge killed several railroad men, and you can bet I was glad to beat it from that gang.

"In Pennsylvania I once fell in with the 'Liverpool Push,' which was so mean that they killed a poor miner who tried to put up a fight when they attempted to rob him.

"There are different kinds of tramps as I know them. There is the 'gay cat,' a fellow who follows the crops around—hay, hops, potatoes, grapes and apples. He makes lots of good friends along the road who expect him back next season.

"The 'piker' is a man who will walk from ten to fifteen miles a day. No work for him, as he knows every jail or 'poughie' poor house on the line.

"The 'masher' the fellow who mends umbrellas and boilers, makes a good living, but is always drunk.

"The word 'hobo' comes from Ohio where the farmers call 'Hey, Bo' to the farm help. A tramp who asked for something to eat, had been refused, and was going out the gate when the mistress called him back, shouting 'Hey, Bo.'

"The worst kind of a tramp is the 'Bible stiff,' who will stand for any kind of religion or sect he goes up against. He carries a small Bible and knows every chapter. The 'bocs' have no use for him.

"There is the 'blanket stiff,' of California. He carries his own cooking utensils and blankets. He is like our 'piker' and never works.

"The 'Cockney' is the cleverest, as he is well trained before he comes here.

"In all your missions and bread lines you won't find ten New York born hoboes and Philadelphia, Boston, Cleveland, New Jersey and Chicago have their wood yards, so they make scarce of them.

"Good-night. I enjoyed your feed."

The Stone Fireplace.

By TEMPLE BAILEY.

Copyrighted, 1908, by Homer Sprague.

As far as the eye could see stretched the limitless expanse of snow. Miss Frazier, pacing from window to window of her little cottage, felt imprisoned.

"Oh, pussy cat, pussy cat," she said to the cat curled up on the window seat, "I shall die of loneliness."

The cat gave sleepy attention, and Miss Frazier shook her gently. "Of course you don't care," she said, "but who could have believed that snow and cold weather would have come so early! And all the other cottagers have gone back to town. But I can't. My rent is paid for six months, and I can't afford to lose it."

Once more she began her excited walk across the floor, while the cat went to sleep, and deadly quiet reigned. At last Miss Frazier could stand it no longer. She put on her hat and coat and a pair of rubbers. Pausing on the threshold as she went out, she addressed the cat theatrically.

"Sleep on," she said. "I go to seek my fortune." And she floundered through the snow to the gate.

The road, deep with drifts, offered new discouragements. Miss Frazier's long skirts dragged and grew heavy, and at last she stopped and sobbed aloud, "I can't go on!"

Help came in the person of a little man in high boots, who appeared from the other side of the drift.

"Got stuck, did ye?" he asked cheerfly. "Well, you ought ter stayed at home. 'Tain't weather fer wimmin to be out."

Miss Frazier looked at him haughtily. In her code there was no place for bad grammar, and besides, as a spinster of spirit, his reproof grated on her.

"Women can't stay in and die of loneliness," she told him stiffly.

The little man looked at her with sympathetic gray eyes. "Lonesome, was ye?" he said. "Well, now, that's too bad."

His sympathy warmed the cockles of Miss Frazier's heart. It was so long since any one had cared. The last of her family, she had taught school in a big city until ill health had forced her to resign. Then she had rented the little cottage at the unfashionable resort and had prepared to live there for six months, hoping for the benefits of fresh air and a free life. There had been other cottagers near, but they had their own interests, so that even in the warmer months Miss Frazier had been lonely, and now that snow had come her situation seemed unbearable.

There were tears in her eyes as she stood there, forlorn and cold in the drift, and the little man said again: "Well, now, that's too bad. You'd better git into the house. You'll ketch cold."

"I hate the house," said Miss Frazier fiercely. "There isn't a soul there but the pussy cat."

"I live up at the farm," he informed her. "I'm the new manager, and there ain't nobody there but a lot of men and a colored woman to cook for us. There's a good deal of work, you know."

Miss Frazier didn't know, but she found herself listening eagerly to his talk of Guernsey cattle and of blue ribbon horses, with all the rest of the homely farm details.

The little man helped her up the path and landed her on her own doorstep safely. In spite of the biting air he jerked his cap off as he bade her goodby.

"Come in," she urged. "Oh, please come in. I don't think I can stand it to face the pussy cat all alone."

His kindly blue eyes smiled at her. "I'd like to come," he said. "'Tain't very sociable up at the farm."

The little room was cheerless enough. Miss Frazier's ginger jars and Mexican hats had been artistic summer accessories, but in the gray light of the snowy day they merely served to emphasize the bleakness. In the stone fireplace was a bunch of goldenrod gone to seed. The only warmth came feebly from a rickety stove in the summer kitchen.

"Why ain't you got a fire in the fireplace?" the little man demanded as he surveyed the cavernous structure.

"I haven't any wood," shivered Miss Frazier. "I—I couldn't get any."

Perhaps he read in her hesitation a confession of poverty, but he did not ask any more questions.

"I'll be back in a minute," he said presently and went out, and when he returned he was bending Atlas-like under the weight of a great log that had lain for days by the roadside.

"There," he said as he deposited it in the fireplace, "if you will take out them wild flowers we'll have a fire."

Miss Frazier obeyed meekly.

"How strong you are," she breathed.

"Oh, law, yes," said the little man; "I kin lift most anything."

He made several trips after that, finding enough dry wood in the shed to start the fire, and soon it was roaring gloriously.

The black cat came and curled up on the hearth, looking at the flames with fathomless eyes.

"Oh, it's lovely, lovely!" said Miss Frazier. "It is like something alive."

"I allus did like a fire," said the little man. "I came from down south, and we don't think much of stoves there. Not fer bein' sociable. You've got to see the flames to be real friendly."

"I am going to make you a cup of tea," Miss Frazier said flutteringly, and when it was ready she brought it in on a dainty tray, flanked by half a dozen stale crackers. "I wish I had something nicer to offer," she said, "but it is so hard to get things."

The little man smiled, and as he took in the details of the poor room some knowledge of her plight seemed to come to him, and he found a way to help her.

"I bet you don't know what good things you kin cook over a fireplace," he said eagerly.

"I never heard of such a thing," she said. "What could I cook?"

"Well, Brunswick stew is fine. It's got squirrels and corn and onions and tomatoes. You jus' let me show you"—

"But I can't get those things"— Her face flamed.

"Of course you can't. 'Tain't to be expected that a woman kin kill a squirrel. But I'm goin' huntin' tomorrow, and I'll bring the things"—

He left her later, and when he had gone Miss Frazier stood for a long time looking into the glowing coals. "Oh, pussy cat, pussy cat," she said when at last the two of them were curled up for the night, "he uses dreadful grammar, but he is the kindest man I have ever known."

The little man came the next day and made the stew, and all that afternoon the savory food simmered and bubbled, and the black cat watched it with eager eyes. Miss Frazier in her best blue gown set the table for two, flitting from one room to the other with all the gayety of a young girl.

The little man's table manners proved to be much better than his grammar, and it was at the end of the feast that he told Miss Frazier the story of his life, and as he talked his hostess weighed his dignity, his manliness, against his defects and found grammar losing its relative importance.

He came often after that, and the black cat learned to know his footstep and to meet him at the door and to curl up on his knee as he sat in front of the fireplace while the two good friends basked and chatted in the golden glow.

And then came the beginning of the new quarter and with it Miss Frazier's remittance.

"And next week I must go," she told the little man when he came that evening.

He looked at her calmly.

"You ain't goin'," he said.

Miss Frazier, thrilling at his masterfulness, asked faintly, "Why not?"

"Because I can't git along without you," said he. "I can't, Annabel."

"How did you know my first name?" Miss Frazier demanded.

"I seen it in one of your books," he said, "and it's a mighty pretty name."

Then he reached out and took her hands in his. "You're such a lonely little thing," he said, "and I jes' can't live without you. I think it's settin' around this hearthstone that gave me the feelin' that I wanted to marry you. And you'll never want for nothin', honey, not so long as I kin give it."

With a little impulsive movement, she slipped on her knees beside his chair and hid her face against the roughness of his coat. "I've been so lonely all my life," she sobbed.

"There, there, honey," he whispered, with his kindly hand against her cheek. "You ain't goin' to be lonesome any more." And with that vista of rest and peace and happiness poor, tired Miss Frazier was content.

"Fond"—its Two Meanings.

The older meaning of this word was, as is well known, equivalent to foolish. Now it has the meaning of affectionate. The following instance of the use of the word in both senses on the same page of the same work marks the period of transition, when the old sense still lingered while the new sense was coming into use. In Dr. Watts on "The Improvement of the Mind," first edition, 1751, in chapter 15, section 5, on page 119, I find:

"Some are so fond to know a great deal at once and love to talk of things with freedom and boldness before they truly understand them that they scarcely ever allow themselves attention enough to search the matter through and through."

And lower down on the page, in section 7, is:

"A soul inspired with the fondest love of truth and the warmest aspirations after sincere felicity and celestial beatitude will keep all its powers attentive to the incessant pursuit of them."

Also in Coles' English-Latin Dictionary, fifteenth edition, 1749, both meanings are given as follows: "Fond, indulgens," and lower down, "Fond (foolish), stultus."—London Notes and Queries.

Singular Coincidence.

In 1884, just after Commodore Schley returned from rescuing the survivors of the Greely arctic expedition, the Massachusetts Humane society presented him with a handsome medal for his achievement, and Benjamin W. Crowninfield, one of the Bay State's great orators, was sent to Washington to make the presentation speech. On the way to the capital Mr. Crowninfield fell in with an old and prominent resident of Boston, who took the privilege of asking the orator what his mission in Washington was. In reply the old gentleman was shown the medal and told what was to be done with it.

"Strange coincidence," mused the venerable gentleman from the Hub. "Forty-four years ago, in 1840, I rode over this same line and met General Winfield Scott. I was as inquisitive then as now and asked him where he was going. He said that a son of his friend, Mr. Schley, had been named for him and that he was going to Maryland to see the baby. Nearly half a century is past, and now I find you going to Washington to carry a medal to the man that General Scott visited when the man was an infant."

Humor and Philosophy

THE PATIENT INDIVIDUAL.

The street car conductor has troubles enough
  In running the cars on his line.
At times he must be quite polite to the tough,
  At times show a stiffened up spine.
In dealing with children, with errors, with cranks,
  In handling the rich and the poor,
The grouchy, flirtatious, the jags and the cranks,
  He must be a diplomat sure.

  A bunch of complaints
  From sinners and saints,
From those with a grievance in pickle
  And those who have none
  And kick just for fun,
Are handed to him with each nickel.

A lady gets on to his car with a lot
  Of bundles, and after a space
She finds she has taken a line that will not Go anywhere near to her place.
She instantly frantically tells him to halt
  And says she'll report that fresh "con."
She knows without question it must be his fault,
  For why did he let her get on?

  The deadbeat who tries
  A look of surprise
When asked to come down with his money
  Is one of the things
  That keep down his wings
And make it so hard to be sunny.

Not Their Kind.

"Why not?"

WINDMILL SIGNALING.

May Be Utilized by the Dutch For Military Purposes.

To the casual observer viewing a Dutch landscape there is nothing to arrest the attention in the fact that possibly one or more out of a dozen windmills in sight are to all appearances simply standing idle while the others continue their never ending task.

If one watches the sails of the idle mills closely, it may perhaps be noticed that they move slightly from time to time and then remain for awhile at a different angle. If this is so, the miller is in all probability engaged in holding a conversation with the proprietor of the other mill, which may be miles away—in fact, possibly barely visible on the horizon.

Quite recently the Dutch government carried on a series of experiments in order to ascertain the value of windmill signaling for military purposes and were surprised to find that communication could readily be established with far distant centers and that confidential messages could be sent on from one mill to another and so forwarded throughout the length and breadth of Holland in an incredibly short time by means of secret codes known only to the millers themselves.

These codes have been handed down from generation to generation and jealously guarded from outsiders with all the intense conservatism for which the provincial Dutch are proverbial. Apart, however, from these secret codes, understood only by the millers and local groups of mill owners, there exists a series of windmill signals with which every one of the inhabitants of the country districts is familiar.

At times, for instance, a mill may stop working suddenly and the miller be seen to come out and with the aid of a long pole with an iron hook at the end, like a gigantic boat hook, reach up and drag down the descending sail until the arms assume a certain position. Every one knows immediately that some accident has happened to the wooden machinery of the mill and that the services of the local carpenter are required.—Windsor Magazine.

THE SAP RAN TOO FREELY

An Yankee Farmer With a New Method Was in Trouble

Ospring, Pa., March 26.—Henry Adamson, who owns a sugar grove near here, being of an inventive turn of mind, devised an appliance which was to do away with the old-fashioned method of collecting the sap in buckets. He connected all the tapped trees with a system of small pipes and joined these to a large main leading to the sugar-boiling house.

Then nature got busy. The sap began to run, and soon a small stream of sweet fluid was flowing into the big receiving tank. The next day the flow of sap was so great that the tank was overflowing and Adamson was calling on neighbors for barrels, wash boilers, tubs and any kind of a receptacle that would hold sap. But the cold weather saved further losses.

FOOLED THE GIRLS IN A COLLEGE PLAY

Beautifully Gowned Creature Turns Out to be no Lady—Consternation Ruled for Time

New York, March 26—The Barnard freshmen were the victims of an unkind joke yesterday during the performance of their play at Milbank hall. And the worst of it was that the girls were unconscious of the trick that was being played upon them and were really made to aid the Columbia students in carrying them out.

While the play was opening and every one was busy a beautifully gowned creature and a tall muscular youth presented themselves at the door for admission. They got no further than the door. The young woman in charge there said there was an inviolable rule that no man should witness the play.

The youth protested and pleaded, but in vain. He was told that his companion could enter, but that he must remain outside.

Finally he parted from his companion, who was ushered inside and then turned away. The astonished guardian of the door heard him laugh boisterously and saw him run for the Columbia campus.

No one was able to solve the riddle of the youth's mirth. Inside his companion was seemingly absorbed in the play, but the girls were intently studying the beautiful gown and picture hat with evident admiration and wondering about the identity of the fair stranger.

Last night from their friends in Columbia they learned to their chagrin that the beautifully gowned creature was R. L. Roeder, Columbia '10, that he had sat through the show and had come in practically at their invitation. His companion, who could not restrain his laughter, was M. M. Roy, '09.

Roeder is cast for the part of 'Raffles, the Lady Detective,' in the forthcoming play of the Columbia students at the Waldorf, and had determined to try his gown and female impersonation upon a critical audience. His success was flattering for none of the hundreds of girls guessed for a moment that he was a horrid Columbia student. Last night Roeder's tales of his experience were food for laughter in all the student quarters.

THE EAST RIDING NOMINATION

Ex-Warden McNulty, nominated by the Liberals of East Peterborough at their convention held at Norwood, March 25th, has the reputation of being a man of ability and influence. He will no doubt, make as acceptable a candidate as the Liberals of East Peterborough could find. His record as warden was a good one and we have heard him spoken well of on all sides as a man of upright and independent character. It is gratifying to find men of his stamp coming into the political arena and whilst we can not wish him success in his attempt to deprive Mr. Whitney of a supporter we can assure him that he will have all the consideration from the Conservatives and the Review that a man of his high standing is entitled to. That the people of the East Riding will pass a vote of censure on the Whitney administration we do not believe. This reward of rectitude and honest dealing is not dismissal or defeat. Why, however, did the great Liberal gathering 'leave over,' the nomination of a candidate for the House of Commons? In answer we may say that we learn on reliable authority that it was found impossible to secure a man equal to the occasion and at the same time who would support the Laurier administration. We can easily understand that. Why should it be supported? Is it on account of its new notorious timber policy—its Quebec Bridge blunder—or its huge scheme that will bring ere long, ruin on this once happy country, the G.T.P.? The appalling character of its expenditure would daunt the Liberals of any riding but more particularly as we see those of the West and East Ridings of Peterborough where so many farmers reside and where the contemplated benefit that was to accrue, would have been small, in any case. It is gratifying to find that it is country first and not party, with our political opponents who indeed as in our own case will not stand for the downfall of their country in order that mere political sharpers may triumph. This feeling was bound to react on the Peterboroughs where a candidate suitable to the Liberal party is not available in either riding for the House of Commons. In the legislature West Peterborough will continue to be represented by Mr. Bradburn who has in every way borne out the promise of being a model member.

NEARING A CRISIS

The following clipping from the Monetary Times, gives an impartial and clear idea of the crisis which Canada is now approaching. If we had a buoyant prosperity and a developing trade we might possibly weather the storm but as it is the prognostication by Hon. W. S. Fielding of a tremendous deficit for next year, looks gloomy enough.

Ottawa, March 19, '08

This budget speech was the event of this week in Parliament. Whatever may be thought of Mr. Fielding's ability as a financier, there can be no gainsaying his remarkable gift for making a statement both clear and interesting. His speech easily lends itself to condensation. So far as the general financial review is concerned it may be summed up by saying that the Government will be compelled, at an early day to raise a large amount for building the National Transcontinental Railway. What this ultimate amount may be is uncertain but $42,000,000 will have to be arranged for almost immediately.

It is natural that the Opposition should 'view with alarm' an increase in the debt of $12,000,000 for 1907-8 and a possible increase of $38,000,000 more in 1908-9. Mr. Fielding has pointed out that the revenues for both periods will be more than sufficient for the ordinary expenses of the Government. He has simply come to the point where money must be borrowed from time to time to carry out a national work to which the country is committed.

When the country in 1904 decided to build the Eastern section of the Grand Trunk Pacific, no one supposed but that this money would have to be borrowed. The Government should not have attempted to pay its way, so far as it did, out of the ordinary revenues of the Government. It was anticipated in 1904 that the money could be borrowed for three per cent. and that the interest charge would soon be wiped out by the annual rental to be paid by the railway company. The disappointing features of the enterprise are to be found in the fact that money has appreciated and that the investment will be larger, and the time for construction will be longer than was anticipated.

For when the road, as planned, is completed, much will remain to be done. The St. Lawrence must be bridged at Quebec and lines will have to be built from Moncton to tidewater. Whether these lines shall be considered as extensions of the G.T.P. or the I.C.R., they will call for large initial expenditures by the Government. This interest charge will amount to more and will have to be carried longer than was intended.

The Government, too, will be disappointed in refunding $140,000,000, maturing soon, because interest is higher instead of lower than it was a few years ago. The situation is not alarming, but it justifies the Finance Minister's words of caution. It seems difficult to cut down expenditure, but it is estimated that there may be a shrinkage in the Customs receipts for the next few months at least.

The treasurer of the Province of Ontario remarked some time ago that this province could easily have been placed in the unhappy financial condition which the Dominion finds itself in. But by great care and by providing for even the most unforeseen contingencies the Province has succeeded in keeping its feet. Great projects begun at the wrong time and in the wrong way are sure to prove disastrous. Mr. Borden's warning passed unheeded. Five woollen mills remaining out of 125 is surely a wrecker's record also. But so it [illegible]

NEW ONTARIO

We have decided to present to the readers of the Review a short series of articles on "New Ontario," the great hinterland of this Province. New Ontario represents "a mine of wealth" to the older part of the province and to the province generally. Although this impression might be mistaken for a reference to the mines alone it is hardly necessary to explain that the forests and the great clay belts are at least equally valuable with what is known as the Cobalt district and the great nickel-bearing district of the farther east. Land that can produce crops can produce men. No country that is fit for the production of cereals, vegetables and fruits of the finest kind can be considered as climatically unfit for the habitation of mankind. With the exceptions possibly, of tomatoes the hinterland which we refer to, produces as has been proven experimentally and satisfactorily, all these grains, etc., of the finest grade to be found anywhere, not excepting the most favored regions of the west. The fruit, with the exception of apples, will probably not reach the perfection of that of the Okanagan valley and such favored and exceptional regions of the earth, but it is high-class and in apples there is nothing finer in the world, it is said. Besides these there are other advantages which one acquainted with the tropics and other similar parts of the globe will at once appreciate. We refer first of all to the abundance of pure water in every direction. The longer days in summer give a wealth of sunshine and brightness to this vast region all through that season, while in winter, although the days are correspondingly short they excel those of the lower latitudes in clearness and enjoy ability. Few people grumble about the cold since the heat of summer, especially in southern parts is much more unbearable in comparison. A clear, bracing winter-day, especially in the shelter of the timber belts is more healthful and pleasing than the opposite extreme nearer the equator. The one thing necessary to complete the picture of domestic comfort for the settler and his family is the introduction of schools, post-offices and telephones. Since it is necessary to temper solitude by means of communication and enjoyment, the introduction of the telephone and the post-office will add the finishing touch to the desirability of this magnificent area as a land of promise and performance. Above all things, however, it is necessary that the reign of law should be impartial and supreme. Then will the missionary and the settler be left to the full enjoyment of their development both social and religious. The settler and his welfare should be the first and last consideration.

GERRYMANDER

It is true that it is unreasonable to expect that Liberal journals would severely let alone Mr. Whitney's redistribution measure. Redistribution spells gerrymander to the opposite side always. But let us look for a moment at the extreme unreasonableness of the charge. Could Mr. Whitney hope for or wish for a larger majority than he has at present? Certainly it would not be desirable under any circumstances that his majority should be increased. In fact in so small a house, it is quite enough.

EDITORIAL NOTES

We publish a paragraph from the Globe today headed, "Time to close the gates." At last this insane policy inaugurated continued and approved by the Laurier Administration is criticized by the Liberal organ. The Laurier system of immigration is a crime against Canada.

It seems strange to read in Government journals that Oriental labour is needed for the development of B.C. while white labour is a drug in the market here. What they really mean is that they want to cheapen labour even at the risk of demoralizing Canada.

C. N. Smith, M.P.P. for Sault Ste. Marie, made a sharp attack on the Whitney Government for having dismissed one Tansey, of Blind River, Ont. The following extract from the report of the Inspector, Dr. Bruce Smith (a Liberal appointee) explains the matter:—

"When the lock-up at Blind River was turned over to the municipality Tansey still acted as constable, but not as keeper. His drinking habits led to his final dismissal, and he went to Kenora, where he was arrested in May or June, 1907, for drunkenness, was too ill to be cared for in the gaol and was placed in the Hospital there".

Premier Whitney manifested his occasional tendency toward shortsightedness in virtually demanding the withdrawal of Mr. Hoyle's bill to legalize the automatic shotguns.— The Globe.

We had occasion once before during the last month to express our extreme surprise at the wholly unjustifiable and unsportsmanlike attitude of the Globe on this question. Wherever there is the slightest wish to preserve our game-birds from wanton destruction, these instruments of general slaughter are condemned. The Globe argued that no restrictions should be placed on trade. The same reasoning would apply to stillettoes, steel knuckles, slugs, sandbags and even poison.

For the protection of the province we must always have a fairly numerous and efficient opposition. Mr. Whitney's majority is 40, being double the number in itself of the whole opposition phalanx. The opposition is lamentably weak. There are most desirable openings for some good men of the Liberal persuasion.

The overflow of Conservatives is such as to embarrass the seating of the members. It is absurd to say that Mr. Whitney wants a larger following. The Examiner called loudly in protest against the removal of Lakefield, when as Mr. Whitney announced, its removal was wholly at its own request. Such criticism is unreasonable.

SIFTON AND OUR TRADE

Mr. Clifford Sifton hit upon a solid truth when he stated in Parliament that we are not doing the trade abroad to which we are entitled. That his allegation was well founded Mr. E. D. Smith, the member for Wentworth, immediately proved. It is often said, as a political boast, that we are forging ahead and that our exports are assuming gigantic proportions. Yet it is a fact that our sales outside of the country are not growing so rapidly as those of the United States. Nor have we made during the past ten or twelve years so much progress as has been made by Argentina, Mexico and Japan.

Japan increased her exports between 1895 and 1905 from $142,000,000 to $337,100,000, or by 136 per cent. Mexico increased her exports during the same period from $9,729,000 to $19,459,000, or by 100 per cent. Argentina increased her exports from $120,000,000 to $322,000,000, or by 168 per cent. Canada, on the other hand, increased her exports from $113,000,000 to $200,000,000, or by 79 per cent. In the matter of trade augmentation we have been passed by these other countries, and Argentina has done twice as well as we have. In some branches of business we have actually gone behind in recent years. Mr. Smith cites our experience with butter exported in cold storage. In 1905 we sold abroad $6,914,000 worth; in 1906 $1,681,000 worth, and in 1907 $996,000 worth. These figures indicate that we have not reached that state of trade perfection of which some politicians boast. It is clear that we need in the matters of business a policy of push and progress. — The Mail and Empire.

Young Men Say They Were Duped

Expected to Get Work on Trent Canal But Found They Were Not Wanted

Belleville, March 26.—Last night six parties, all comparatively young men, sought protection at the police station. The men claimed that they were induced to come to this section of the country, being informed that a large number of men were required to work near Trenton on the Trent Valley Canal, but upon arrival there found they were not wanted, as only a few were employed.

MUST DRESS WARMLY

Advice of Noted Authority, Also Simple Home Prescription.

Now is the time when the doctor gets busy, and the patent medicine manufacturers reap the harvest, unless great care is taken to dress warmly and keep the feet dry. This is the advice of an old eminent authority who says that Rheumatism and Kidney trouble weather is here, and also tells what to do in case of an attack.

Get from any good prescription pharmacy one-half ounce Fluid Extract Dandelion, one ounce Compound Kargon, three ounces Compound Syrup Sarsaparilla. Mix by shaking in a bottle and take a teaspoonful after meals and at bed time.

Just try this simple home-made mixture at the first sign of Rheumatism or if your back aches or you feel that the kidneys are not acting just right. This is said to be a splendid kidney regulator, and almost certain remedy for all forms of rheumatism, which is caused by uric acid in the blood, which the kidneys fail to filter out. Any one can easily prepare this at home and at small cost.

TO GET RID OF THE PEDDLERS

High License Fee in Northumberland and Durham Has Driven Them Out

The army of pedlars travelling the roads in the Counties of Northumberland and Durham for the past few years has been suddenly brought to a halt by an unexpected change in the license fee made at the recent session of the County Council of these Counties. Some action of this kind should also be taken by the Council of the County of Peterborough. People out in the country tell us that they have been fairly pestered with pedlars, who, during the past few years, have so increased in numbers that they have become an intolerable nuisance. The time is ripe for the council to put a check on it.—Norwood Register.

STONY LAKE JOTTINGS

Mr. Pugsley was unable to find for Mr. Bennett any record of the construction of a dock on island number 19, in Stony Lake. Mr. Bennett said it might assist the minister to know that the island was owned by J. R. Stratton, a member of the late Ross Government. Another question by Mr. Bennett was answered by Mr. Graham who said claims by owners of islands in Stony Lake for damage by flooding were settled. Among the amounts paid was $5000 to Mr. Stratton.—Toronto World.

Milkers and Springers.

The market was slow and draggy for all milkers and springers that were not of good to choice quality, and even the best do not bring as good prices as some time ago. Choice milkers sold from $40 to $50 each; medium to good, $30 to $37; common cows are almost unsaleable, and some of the dealers are loaded up with cows that they cannot sell at cost. One drover paid $46 for a cow in the country and sold her for $36; another dealer paid $35 and sold her for $25.

Veal Calves.

The market for good veal calves was strong at $6 to $7 per cwt.; common to medium, $2.50 to $5 per cwt.

Sheep and Lambs.

Receipts for the week were light. The market was strong for all of good quality, which are scarce. Lambs of choice quality sold at $7 to $7.50 per cwt.; common and inferior lean and buck lambs, $5 to $6 per cwt.; sheep sold at $4.50 to $5.25 per cwt. Spring lambs are worth $4 to $8 each, and extra heavy lambs, $10 each.

Hogs.

Receipts of hogs have been moderate all week, and prices have again advanced 25c per cwt. Mr. Harris quotes $5.75 for selects, fed and watered at the market, and fat heavy hogs, $5.50 per cwt.

Spring Poetry Department

O winter, season of delight
Whose sway has ruled the land.
Whose sparkling snows, and skies so bright
Were slaves at your command.

Well have you fought, with storm and cloud,
Your empire to maintain.
Alas! your kingly head is bowed,
You shun the end in vain.

When at the zenith of your power,
You little dreamed of this.
Nor thought to reach the evil hour
That checked your royal bliss.

No more upon your fields of ice
The happy skaters glide.
You've yielded to a mightier force
That's spreading far and wide.

Perchance you may again return
Riding upon the blast
Your foe have reason yet to learn
You yield not, till the last.

What is this power that bids you go,
This unrelenting thing!
Its face is bare, its visor low
Hail the new king, it's "Spring."

For a Mean Bit of Thieving Who Can Beat This Case?

Some of the officials around the city hall are of the opinion that everything will have to be spoked down to prevent stealing in some quarters. A theft is reported in connection with the city buildings that would be hard to equal for meanness. The door at the bottom of the stairs leading up to the City Council Chamber, from Simcoe street, has always been closed by means of a rope and weight, a method that is used on many doors where the ordinary latch is not desired. Yesterday some one came along and stole the piece of iron used for a weight. The rope was cut and today the door is standing open with the rope dangling through the pulleys. It is suspected that some junk dealer is the perpetrator of this mean bit of thieving, but there is no definite information on the point. The bit of iron was only worth a few cents, and it is difficult to conceive that any one would steal it.

Infant Crept Into Cellar And Was Nearly Drowned

Narrow Escape of Two and a Half Year Old Daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. T. Elington, of King Street—Cellar Flooded by Last Night's Rain—Mother Effected Rescue.

This morning little Janet Elington, the two-year-and-a-half old child of Mr. and Mrs. R. T. Elington, of King street, had a narrow escape from drowning.

The night's rain melted the snow and ice around Mr. Elington's residence, and as a result the cellar became flooded to a depth of between two and three feet, and the little tot, escaping the notice of her mother, crept down the cellar stairs. The mother heard a splash and a cry, and at first was at a loss to know from where the sound proceeded. There was only one cry.

She suddenly thought of the cellar, and rushed down to find the child in the water. It was sprawling on its face and was entirely covered by water, the floor being in too slippery a condition for it to stand on.

Mrs. Ellington pulled the little one out of the water and managed to revive her after some difficulty. The child's head was badly bruised by falling on the cement floor.

THE ASSESSORS START ON THEIR ROUNDS FOR 1908

The two Macs, Messrs. McGrath and McGregor, have started on their rounds. They started out yesterday assessing the city for 1908 and will work together. They have until next October to complete the job, but it is expected that it will be finished somewhat earlier than last season. In view of the rumpus that arose as a result of last year's assessment, the assessors' task is not an enviable one, but as the two of them are working together an equalized assessment of the whole city is hoped for.

Particularly Pleasing Were Y.W.C.A. Closing Exercises

Large Crowd in Attendance at the Gymnasium Concert at Y.M.C.A. Last Night—Splendid Showing of the Classes—A Long and Varied Programme of great Merit—Those Taking Part.

There was such a large crowd at the closing exercises of the Y.W.C.A. last night that it was the hardest possible matter to find even standing room. The exercises were held at the Y.M.C.A. gymnasium, and the work of those taking part was surprisingly good. The different drills and evolutions were performed with an ease and precision that showed a thorough and painstaking instruction. To the members of the senior, intermediate and junior classes the greatest praise is due, while too much commendation cannot be given Miss Ivy Coventry, the efficient physical directress of the Y.W.C.A., whose ability as an instructor was evidenced by the work of her pupils at the highly successful closing. Words of appreciation were heard on all sides as the classes went through their movements and all the drills and exercises were heartily applauded. Miss M. R. Rannie was a most efficient accompanist, and during the evening was presented with several beautiful bouquets.

The appearance of the gymnasium was brightened by vari-colored pennants being hung around the interior of the gallery railing. The members of the classes were attired in natty gymnasium costumes that were most becoming and neat.

THE PROGRAMME.

The programme commenced well on time and was carried through without a hitch. It was a very excellent one, the different numbers being arranged so as to give a pleasing variety. There were a large number of drills, dances and musical numbers, and it was nearly eleven o'clock when the exercises were brought to a close.

The programme was as follows:—

PART ONE.

Fancing Marching—Senior Class.
Wand Exercises—Intermediate Class.
Flag Drill—Junior Class.
Dumb-bell Drill—Seniors.
Trained Rabbits—Seniors.
Sword Dance—Three Intermediates.
Piano Duet—Misses Gumpricht.
Marching and Wand Exercise—Juniors.

PART TWO.

Dumb-bell Exercises—Intermediates.
Fencing, class work—Misses M. and G. Hall.
Club Drill—Seniors.
Vocal—Selected—Mr. W. Mortimer Johnston.
Recitation—Miss Greta Labar.
Rose-buds—Intermediates.
Dumb-bell Exercises—Juniors.
Highland Fling—Master Ewart O'Shea.
Tambourine Drill—Seniors.

CUTE LITTLE RABBITS.

It is a hard matter to discriminate concerning the merits of the classes. Every appearance of the gymnasts was warmly welcomed and much appreciation was shown their work by the audience. From the first number to the last the programme was well arranged and interesting.

Mention should be made however of the splendid way in which the little rabbits—ten little tots of girls—sang and capered around in providing their part of the entertainment. They presented a very cute appearance in their little pajama-like costumes of white with hoods and long ears to represent little bunnies.

PROGRAMME—PART. I.

The first number on the programme was fancying marching by the members of the senior class. The drill was a pretty one and was neatly executed. This was followed by a cleverly given wand exercises by the intermediates.

The third number was a flag drill by the juniors. The little girls did some very clever movements in this and the effect was made prettier by the use of the Union Jacks they carried. The seniors' dumb-bell drill was given next and the young ladies of the class went through the drill in a manner that bespoke much for their tuition and ability. The trained rabbits came next with their amusing frolics.

SWORD DANCE.

Clad in Highland costume, three members of the intermediate class—Jessie Cressman, Marguerite Sanderson and Phylis Denne, did a sword dance in a very captivating manner. They did the numerous difficult steps of the dance with correctness and grace. A piano duet by the Misses Gumpricht was well received. The last number on the first part of the programme was a wand drill and march by the juniors. The children did the wand exercises well together and the march was well disciplined and sprightly.

PROGRAMME—PART. II.

The second part of the programme was opened by an interesting dumb bell exercises by the intermediates. This was followed by a clever demonstration of fencing class work by Misses Morley and Gwendoline Hall. They executed the thrusts, parries and other movements with much skill. The exhibition was an unusually good one and delighted the audience. The club drill of the evening was put on by the seniors and was splendidly done.

Mr. W. Mortimer Johnston sang "The Sound of the Drum," putting much expression in the stirring number and singing in excellent voice. As a recall he gave "La Donna E. Mobile," from Verdi's Rigellecto. Little Miss Greta Labar's recitation caused great applause and she responded with a funny little piece recited in a taking and original way. The drill of the rose-buds by the intermediates was one of the best numbers of the entertainment. The little girls were gowned in pink and green and presented an attractive appearance. The juniors followed with a dumb bell exercise which was given much applause.

ANOTHER DANCE.

Master Ewart O'Shea infused the real Scottish spirit into the Highland Fling, and was heartily encored. His response to the recall brought expressions of the audience's approval.

A tambourine drill by the seniors concluded a programme of the greatest merit. The class was attired in a very gay and attractive costume and the dance was a decidedly novel one. It was greeted with much applause.

Those taking part were;

SENIORS.

Misses A. Reid, W. Gumpricht, H. Dean, L. Dean, L. Pollock, E. Pollock, L. Smith, B. Taylor, A. Edgar, A. Minns, L. Sanderson, G. Sanderson, M. Hall, G. Hall, E. Milburn, M. Morrison, A. Udel, D. Morley, D. Wood, H. Mendel, S. Hyde, M. Stewart.

INTERMEDIATES.

SWORD DANCERS.

Misses Jessie Cressman, Phylis Denne, Margurite Sanderson.

RABBITS.

New Organ for Knox Church

THE NEATEST EYEGLASSES

The advantages of the deep curve (spoon shaped) lenses compared with the flat glasses are very apparent.

The deep curve fits the form of the eye, the lashes sweep in the curve. These lenses set closer to the eye, they look much neater and vision is clearer and wider than with any other form of glasses.

These lenses are ground in large factories employing hundreds of men who are experts and devote their whole life to lens grinding.

We have supplied this style of Glasses in many cities, and quite a number of our citizens here in Peterborough. These Glasses always please the wearer.

WEDDING BELLS

CRAIG—JACKSON

A very pretty wedding was solemnized on Wednesday evening at 5.30 pm at home of Mr and Mrs A. Dundas, 155 Aylmer st., when her daughter, Miss Birdie Sarah Jackson, was united in marriage to Mr. Roland Jas. Craig, of this city. The ceremony was performed by Rev. E. A. Pearson, pastor of the George street Methodist church, in the presence of about fifty guests. The wedding took place in the drawing room beneath a large bell which was very prettily arranged with carnations and sweet peas. The wedding march was played by Mrs. W. A. Greenslade. The bride, who was given away by her father, looked charming in a gown of white silk. She wore the conventional bridal veil caught with orange blossoms and and carried cream roses. She was assisted by her cousin Lily Jackson, who was beautifully attired in a dress of shot silk. She carried pink roses. Little Miss Phrony Craig, niece of the groom, acted as flower girl, and wore white point d'esprit over taffeta. The groom was ably supported by his brother, Mr. Archie Craig.

After the ceremony and hearty congratulations had been bestowed upon the bride and groom, a sumptuous repast served by Coleman Bros., was partaken of. The bride was the recipient of many beautiful and costly presents, including a handsome clock from the groom's fellow-employes at the C.G.E. works.

Mr. and Mrs. Craig left on the nine o'clock train for a trip to Toronto and Hamilton and on their return will reside at 155 Aylmer street.

The bride's going-away dress was a brown broadcloth skirt with a plaid waist and mink toque trimmed with blue plumes and Persian lamb coat.

The groom's present to the bride was a ring set with pearls, and to her maid a locket suitably engraved and to the charming little flower girl a locket and chain. To the best man he gave a stick pin.

Mr. and Mrs. Dundas presented their daughter with a piano.

The Sensation of the Season; The Royal Commission Reports; Lack of Conscience is Charged

The Denials of the Ministers in Turn Denied—A Signal Triumph for Mr. Borden—Hon. L. P. Brodeur Attempts to Defend Himself—The Frailty of Politicians.

Ottawa, March 26.—The presentation to the House this afternoon of the report of the Civil Service Commission was the primary cause of an unexpected and interesting discussion. Hon. W. S. Fielding brought in the report, and moved that it be received and printed forthwith. Thereupon Hon. H. P. Brodeur, Minister of Marine and Fisheries, arose and in a statement notable for its brevity and consciseness, took exception to some reflections made by the commissioners, more particularly in reference to his department, two cases being specifically mentioned.—The Globe.

The Royal Commission on Civil Service Reform is a body recently appointed by the Laurier Government in response to the determined demands of the Dominion Opposition to report on the condition of the civil service. The names of the Commissioners are

J. W. Courtney, ex-Deputy Ministr of Finance.

Thos. Fyshe, General Manager of the Merchants' Bank and P.T. Bazin, of Quebec.

Amongst their findings are the following items:—

"A huge redundancy of work which proceeds in a lumbering, haphazard way, giving rise to constant blundering and confusion."

"No sign visible, of a single directing head, or an intelligent purpose unless it be that of spending as much money as possible."

"Zeal for economy not visible."

"Lack of organization and method and lack of conscience."

PULL BEATS MERIT.

The commissioners find that "in the working of the public service there is a constant attempt to evade examinations and that in order to meet pressure brought upon the several departments by influential politicians to take on assistants, officials who have not passed the examinations are employed temporarily, and are called labourers. Patronage seems to run more or less through every department of the public service. This patronage evil is the curse of the civil service."

Especially in the outside service "there is a dread of the politician." It is said that in one department a clerk is employed to do work in the accounts branch which he is utterly unfi tto do, in consequence of which the work is steadily going behind and the commissioners have no doubt that the same result obtains in other departments. In the matter of promotions the same patronage fear is apparent.

Your commissioners found in their rounds that a collector of customs, a city postmaster, a post-office inspector, and others were appointed politically. The recent appointment of a postmaster at Kingston was on recommendation of the patronage committee; the last appointment to a postmastership at Montreal, the most important one in the Dominion, was given to an aged member, 67 years old.

Commenting upon these features the commissioners point out that this practice is discouraging to young men who realize that they have no chance of promotion, while promotions themselves have in too many cases been made a matter of politics, people being brought in from the outside and appointed over the heads of men who had given their lifetime to the departments. It is the political element, in fact, which has tended to deteriorate the public service."

MERCHANT PATRONAGE LIST.

"It has been conclusively shown" the report says, "that large amounts of money are paid over each year to merchants whose names are on the patronage list in several localities. Your commissioners, however, consider that while the practise was bad, yet through the great development of the country, the extent was not so great as to become serious until recent years. When one witness stated that his expenditure had increased three-fold, and it is a well-known fact that public expenditure has increased in the last 12 years 150 per cent. or more, in the opinion of the commissioners the time has come when this practice of paying retail prices to a few favored merchants in each locality should be discontinued."

In the purchase of supplies in many cases stores were ordered unnecessarily and there is doubt whether good quality was always delivered.

Seeding is Commenced at Springville

Mr. Albert Bowles Sowed a Field With Clover Seed To-day

Seeding has commenced in Peterboroubg county.

This may look like a despatch from Alberta, or some of the Western provinces, where they are sowing grain and playing hockey at the same time, but it is nothing of the kind. Seeding has actuially commenced here. Mr. Albert Bowles, of Springville, this morning sowed a field with clover seed. The field is on a high piece of land, and practically all the snow is gone from it. Clover is usually sowed early to have the best results. Apparently Mr. Bowles believes that the early bird gets the worm, as far as sowing is concerned.

Prominent G.T.R. Officials Here

Superintendant W. R. Tiffin in the City To-day

Messrs. W. R. Tiffin, superintendent of the Grand Trunk Railway, Mr. J. A. Irwin, trainmaster, and Mr. Ed. Brown, inspector of bridges for the G.T.R., are in the city today. They came in on their own special car attached to the 11.45 train from Allendale. They are spending the afternoon inspecting the local buildings and yards of the company and will leave again for Montreal this evening.

CARPETS CLEANED AND LAID,

Woollen Company in Liquidation

As a result of the recent trade depression, the Montreal Woollen Manufacturing Company went into voluntary liquidation. This company, which is capitalized at $210,000, has offices at Montreal and mills at Beauharnois, Que.

Although the trade debts of the company are comparatively insignificant, they concluded that the latter was the better course. It is, however, expected that after the meeting of creditors, which will be held on the 23rd inst., some compromise will be arranged, which will permit of an organization of the company and a resumption of business. —Trade Review.

High Chief Ranger Writes About Rates of the I.O.F.

Corrects a Wrong Impression That Arose a Result of a Recent Newspaper Article - Old Members Will be Given Every Consideration.

There has been considerable discussion recently as a result of an article published regarding an increase in the rates of the Independent Order of Foresters. Apparently the article was not founded on facts, as the following letter from G. H. Wade, the High Chief Ranger for Eastern Ontario, published in a Cobourg paper, shows. It will be read with interest by the members of the I.O.F. in this city;—

Editor Sentinel-Star;—

Dear Editor,—There appeared in your valuable paper of the 13th inst. an article entitled "I.O.F. Rates to Raise." I do not know from what source you acquired the information the article purports to give to the public, but I presume it was copied from one of the many newspapers in which a similar article was published last week. The article was not authorized by any of the Supreme Executive and I can only concede that it was but the vapid emenations of some newspaper enthusiast.

If a change of rates, or rescaling of the assessment is brought about at the next Supreme Court meeting, no man living knows what will be the naturie of that change.

The Supreme Court, consisting of delegates from the various High Courts, is the Legislative body of the Order, and until that body convenes and approves of any proposed changes, no changes can take place, and the Supreme Court does not meet until next June. How, then, can anyone say what will be done re the rates of the Order.

The Supreme Executive may deem it wise in order to place the I.O.F. in a stronger position, is that were possible; to recommend certain changes in the constitution of the Order for the consideration and approval of the Supreme Court, but they are not likely to publish to the world at large what those changes are, because the Supreme Court may not approve of them. Besides, it would be very indiscreet and impolite to play into the hands of the opponents of the I.O.F.

You may rest assured that any such newspaper article as appeared in a number of newspapers last week, has not the stamp of authority, and may therefore be taken for what it is worth.

The case as reported by the enthusiastic reporter is within the bounds of possibility—but the plan of reshifting the rates is the one most unlikely to be adopted by a Supreme Court—four-fifths of the members of which are paying the old rates, and would be very materially affected by any such plan.

Whatever is done in that line, the interests of the old members will be the first consideration of the Supreme Court. With $12,000 000 of a surplus we can afford to treat our old members liberally, and nothing will be done that will tend to force them out of the Order, and thus lose to themselves and their beneficiaries, that protection which they have so long enjoyed, and which they have confidently looked forward to as a support in their declining years.

I do not wish to be understood as casting any reflection upon any other Fraternal Insurance Society, for God knows they are all doing a grand and noble work for humanity in the protection and insurance they are furnishing. But if the Dominion Parliament thought it necessary, as was contemplated in the proposed Insurance Bill recently before Parliament, for the I.O.F. to make a more certain provision for the future of its members in order to secure the perpetuity of the existence of the institution.

What must be the condition of a number of the Societies whose rates are much less than our old rates, and whose surplus, if they have any at all, is diminutive in comparison to the $12,000 000 of the I.O.F.

G. H. WADE,
High Chief Ranger Eastern Ont.

Ashburnham Youth Fell Into Creek While Playing

The floods that usually occur each spring seem to have a great fascination for the small boy and nearly every year, some little fellow receives an unexpected cold bath and narrowly escapes being drowned.

Yesterday afternoon a number of young lads about the age of ten years, were playing near the creek in East City, just where the G.T.R. siding crosses it. They were playing with the water and evidently enjoyed watching the swiftly rushing stream. One of the little fellows whose home is on Rogers street, slipped and fell headlong into the creek. His young companions speedily rescued him, reaching out a stick and pulling him out. Other than being thoroughly drenched, the youth escaped none the worse for his experience.

LECTURED THE GRAND JURY

Judge at Port Hope Uses Some Plain Language

Port Hope, March 26.—When the Grand Jury, of which Mr. W. J. Westington was foreman, brought in a true bill in the only criminal case, that of the King vs. Arthur Allan, Hon. Mr. Justice McMahon proceeded to read them a lecture. He said that instead of adjourning on Monday they should have considered the only criminal case before them, and not have detained the crown witnesses as they had done, and hindered the business of the Court. Such conduct on their part would lead to their abolition. He would like to see the Grand Jury abolished tomorrow and the Scotch system resorted to. In London, England, ten cases a day were considered, and still the Grand Jury had been all the time with one case. They did not have to try the case. His Lordship also said that in a measure the Grand Jury had outlived its usefulness.

The Grand Jury made their presentment on Wednesday afternoon, and His Lordship in discharging them spoke strongly in favor of the abolition of the Grand Jury and the adoption of the Scotch system where one man performed all their duties. He said that the Grand Juries cost the Province of Ontario from $100,000 to $150,000 a year, and that the people would be better served if the money were expended in roads and bridges. He said the jury was summoned at inconvenient times and often to the detriment of the business of its members.

Refreshments were served and altogether the evening was a delightful one for everyone present.

SPRING BLOOD IS BAD BLOOD

How to Get New Health and Strength in the Spring

The winter months are trying to the health of even the most robust. Confinement indoor in overheated and nearly always badly ventilated rooms—in the home, in the shop and in the school—taxes the vitality of even the strongest. The blood becomes thin and watery, or clogged with impurities, the liver sluggish, the kidneys weakened. Sometimes you get up in the morning just as tired as when you went to bed. Some people have headaches; others are low spirited, some have pimples and skin eruption. These are all spring symptoms that the blood is out of condition. You can't cure these troubles with purgative medicines, which merely gallop through the system leaving you still weaker. What you need to give you strength in spring is a tonic, and the one always reliable tonic and blood builder is Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. These pills not only banish spring ills, but ailments that follow such as anaemia, nervous debility, rheumatism, indigestion and kidney trouble. Every dose of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills makes new, rich, red blood which strengthens every nerve, every organ and every part of the body. This is why Dr. Williams' Pink Pills is the favorite spring medicine with thousands and thousands throughout Canada. Try this medicine this spring and you will have energy and strength to resist the torrid heat of the coming summer. Mrs. Jas Haskel, Port Maitland, N.S., says; 'I was troubled with headaches, had a bad taste in my mouth, my tongue was coated and I was easily tired and suffered from a feeling of depression. I got a supply of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills and it was not long before they began to help me and I was soon feeling as well as ever I had been.' You can get these pills from any medicine dealer or by mail at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50 from the Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

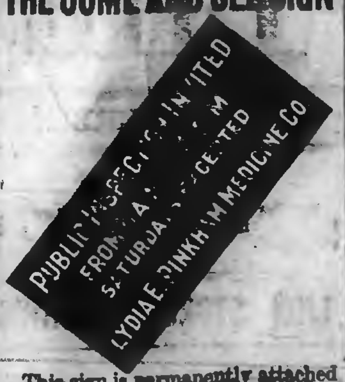
THE COME AND SEE SIGN



PUBLIC INSPECTION INVITED FROM 9 A.M. TO 4 P.M.
SATURDAY EXCEPTED
LYDIA E. PINKHAM MEDICINE CO

This sign is permanently attached to the front of the main building of the Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Company, Lynn, Mass.

What Does This Sign Mean?

It means that public inspection of the Laboratory and methods of doing business is honestly desired. It means that there is nothing about the business which is not "open and above-board."

It means that a permanent invitation is extended to anyone to come and verify any and all statements made in the advertisements of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Is it a purely vegetable compound made from roots and herbs—without drugs?

Come and See.

Do the women of America continually use as much of it as we are told?

Come and See.

Was there ever such a person as Lydia E. Pinkham, and is there any Mrs. Pinkham now to whom sick women are asked to write?

Come and See.

Is the vast private correspondence with sick women conducted by women only, and are the letters kept strictly confidential?

Come and See.

Have they really got letters from over one million, one hundred thousand women correspondents?

Come and See.

Have they proof that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has cured thousands of these women?

Come and See.

This advertisement is only for doubters. The great army of women who know from their own personal experience that no medicine in the world equals Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound for female ills will still go on using and being benefited by it; but the poor doubting, suffering woman must, for her own sake, be taught confidence, for she also might just as well regain her health.

Will Peterborough Haye Roller Rink This Summer?

Company is Endeavoring to Secure Brock St. Rink for That Purpose.

Will Peterborough have a roller skating rink this summer. This is a question that is now being discussed, since the ice skating is over and there is a slight let-up in the line of amusements. Of course the Charlotte street rink is a thing of the past, and it is learned that Henderson and Sheridan willnot open a roller rink in Peterborough again. They have rinks in several other towns and cities, and intend devoting their attention to them.

It is learned, however, that another company is trying to secure the Brock street rink to use it as a roller skating rink during the summer. Negotiations are now under way, and it is likely will be carried to a successful issue. The Brock street rink would make a splendid roller rink and if it is opened as such a big business should be done.

Charged too Much for Use of Steamer

Interesting Case Heard Yesterday in Division Court

At the division court yesterday among the cases heard was one against Mr. C. J. Snyder, charged by a former Idyl Wyld hotel keeper with owing him a certain sum.

When the evidence was adduced in court it seemed that whilst Mr. Snyder may have owed a certain amount, a contra account was rendered for services done by the steamer Sovereign in 1904. Mr. Snyder, it seemed, owed some $19 for a board bill owing to Mr. Hutchison, but the defendant had a contra account

The pith of the argument in this case yesterday was really entered in the sum of $13.50 charged by the steamer Sovereign for bringing eleven American visitors from Harwood to Idyl Wyld on Sunday.

Mr. Riddell, KC. of Millbrook, acted for Mr. Hutchison and claimed that $3 was the amount that should have been charged by the Sovereign. His Honor when the case was argued, said, "Do you think that the captain of a steamer could get up steam, pay his men and go after eleven passengers on a Sunday for $3.' His honor allowed the account against Mr. Snyder, less the amount for the services of the Steamer Sovereign.

Press and Pulpit Subjects of Debate

A meeting of the Young Men's Literary Society of the T.A.S. was held last night when a large number were in attendance. The feature was a debate; "Resolved, that the press is a greater power for doing good than the pulpit."

The affirmative was strongly supported by V. Corkey and E. Hanrahan, while the negative side was supported by J. O'Brien and H. Overend. No decision was given by the judges.

The other numbers on the programme were as follows;

Chorus—Glee Club.
Solo—J. Mercier.
Step dance—D. Quinlan.
Reading—L. Derocher.

Reduced Cost of Light.

Niagara Falls, Ont., March 28.—The report of the auditors of Thorold on the operation of the municipal electric-lighting plant, shows that after paying all expenses and operating twenty-five arc lights there is a cash surplus of $786.06.

After taking over the lighting plant some years ago, the town council reduced the price of light to four cents a week per sixteen candle-power lamp. The town is now completing a new water-works plant to cost $90,000. It will be operated in connection with the lighting plant.

Snatched From the Gallows.

Norfolk, Va., March 28.—With everything in readiness for the execution yesterday of Lee C. Thurman, for the murder here in February, 1906, of Walter P. Bolsen of Michigan, a long distance telephone message from Governor Swanson at 2.46 a.m. announced another respite for the condemned boy.

Prince's Bodyguard.

Quebec, March 28.—It is stated on good authority that the Prince of Wales will be accompanied to Canada by a company of the famous Gordon Highlanders and a troop of the Life Guards, who will act as His Royal Highness' bodyguard during the tercentenary celebration.

Two Killed, Three Injured.

Worcester, Mass., March 28.—Two persons were killed and three fatally injured in a fire at Milford last night.

Aeronaut Badly Injured.

Paris, March 28.—Henry Farman, the English aeronaut, met with an accident at Issy yesterday. He was manoeuvring in his aeroplane, which was traveling at the rate of 60 miles an hour, when the left wing of the machine struck the ground. The machine swerved from its course and Farman was thrown through the air for a distance of 35 feet. He was badly cut about the face, but otherwise his injuries are not serious.

SPORTING NEWS

Will There be a Revival In Cycling This Summer?

Are the days of cycling as a sport and recreation gone forever, or will this season again see a revival of the wheel in popular favor? Will cycle racing get a share of the athletic boom which is sure to overrun the American continent this year? It should do so, for no sprot is more exhilarating to watch than a cycle race. Horseracing, baseball, rowing and various other forms of sports have their devotees, and they do not wither for lack of enthusiasts. But cycle racing seems to be dormant. Why this should be is a problem, for what sport in which men participate does more to set the nerves tingling and the blood rusing through the veins at a furious pace than a well-contested cycle race.

To make a comparison between sports, does not the cycle race compare favorably with the horse race from a spectator's point of view? The excitement, which has its birth in man's sporting instinct, is the same no matter what the contest may be. To illustrate the point, take the live horse versus the steel horse. In horse racing the efforts of the jockey are solely confined to getting the most energy and speed out of his mount. The jockey's most essential talents must be; a firm seat in the saddle; a calculating brain, to judge the pace; the quick eye to gain a coveted position, and firm yet gentle hands to guide his mount. Even then, should the horse be sulky or cross-tempered the jockey does not, despite his talents, get the best work out of his mount. An instance of this once happened to Tod Sloan, who was admittedly a magnificent horseman. Two horses—Sir R. Waldie Griffith's "Veles" and Mr. Hardy's "St. Buerre," were started in a mile handicap race at Manchester, Eng., at about even weights. Sloan had the mount on "Veles" and S. Loates on "St. Buerre." Both got away to an even start when the flag fell, the flag being the method of starting races in those days. Coming into the six furlong straight both horses were running neck and neck, and both jockeys were using whip and spur in their efforts to be first under the wire. Loates on "St. Buerre" evidently won the race by a neck. Had the mounts been reversed, Sloan would have won.

Not unlike the jockey, the athlete astride his steed of steel must use all his talents to get his mount to win. The athlete must be able to judge the pace, and must also have the firm hands to guide his wheel. What is more to the point, however, he must have strength, energy and grit to make the wheel do its best. Therefore, every cycle race rider must be in perfect physical condition to race. Changing the wheel would make no difference to the rider, who was not in shape. Thus the man and horse versus the man and wheel, arguing from a sporting standpoint, is favorable to the cyclist. The cylist must depend solely upon his own physical eforts to win a race, whereas no jockey can make a horse win if the horse is obstinate.

Betting on the result may possibly have had something to do with the decay of the professional racing cyclist, and the amateur rider, too, for that matter. Where betting enters into sport, well, sport immediately transforms itself into a business. Not legitimate business, however, but a business full of chicanery, and the main object of the pirates who are in the business is to "rook" the public.

"Rooking" is a term which means cheating, and the sporting public are usually the victims. "Rooking" is practised in various ways known to the initiated. A boxer may "lay down" after a love tap, apparently knocked out. Well, you can bet dollars to dimes that it's another case of the public being "rooked." A cyclist in a race is touted to be a "dead cert" to win. He loses, so does the betting public. It requires a strong governing body to eliminate the betting evil, and we have that in Canada now, so that ere long cycle racing may resume its place as a leading sport.

Apart from cycle racing, the cycle as a means of pleasure and recreation is unbeatable. What is more delightful and healthy on a bright spring morning than to grab your trusty wheel and take a spin through the suburbs before breakfast. Life feels worth living as you inhale the crisp, fresh atmosphere, and the health and benefits derived from the exercise are manifold.

Tommy Boyd Sets New Mark In Local Bowling Circles

Put on 254 in Single Game Yesterday Afternoon—Has a Total of 664 for Three Games—Bowlers Putting on Great Scores.

Friday was an eventful day at the Peterborough Bowling Club, all records going to smash during the day by reason of the skillful work of Tommy Boyd, who not only put up a score for a single game that has never before been made in Petrborough, but has also established a mark for three consecutive games that should stand for some time to come. It is doubtful, in fact, whether the marks have ever been equalled on standard regulation alleys anywhere in Canada east of Toronto. In his single high game Boyd set up a mark of 254, thus breaking by 23 pins the record established by Billy Wareham on opening night, while for his three high games his total was 644, an average per game of 214 1-2.

In his high game Boyd had his famous hook ball going to perfection and started off with five straight strikes, followed by a spare in the sixth frame. The first break of the game occurred in the seventh frame when he missed a somewhat difficult spare. Four more successive strikes followed, but on his last ball he ran into another split. A large number of members were in attendance when Boyd set up the new mark and the excitement was intense.

McIlroy, Gutterson, Boyd, Cairns and Frank Lawless exhibited splendid form, each going over the 200 mark in one or more of their games. Cairns and Gutterson were perhaps the pick of the players. Cairns averaging 189 for eleven games, while Gutterson's average was just two less for a similar number of games. Gutterson in his first game made 214 and came back with a 206 score later, while Cairns' best was 203.

New members were out in force and marked improvement was shown in the novice scores throughout the day.

STOCK MARKET QUOTATIONS

New York, March 28—Bull tips were out early this morning on the market and it was stated that the same sort of support would be offered as recently in case the bears attempted any aggressive work. On this theory some traders began to buy for turns during the weakness in the first hour, but when they saw the market later they found very little support and during the first half of the last hour the general trend was downward.

About the only support was in Northern Pacific. Pool liquidation was in evidence, and losses ranged from one to two points with Union Pacific under decided pressure from the bear element. The indications point to further weakness Monday, when good turns should be found in buying for a quick turn.

London market for American stocks was steady but dull. Foreign houses had some buying orders here. The bank statement created an unfavorable impression and did not come up to expectations. There was a great big howling crowd around the lone Yukon broker on Broad street this morning, fighting one another to secure one of Tom Lawson's bricks, most of them were accommodated about 6 1-2 and 7. All of the Yukon was not disposed of today and the closing price was about 6 1-2.

Wood Has Been Hard to Get

For City's Poor During Past Winter Says Mr. Finch Miller

There will be a distribution for the poor to-night at six o'clock at the place of business of the city relief officer, Mr. Finch Miller.

Mr. Miller stated this morning that although the weather is milder there is considerable demand on the relief department, wood being asked for from many quarters.

The past winter has been a hard one in which to secure wood for the poor, hardwood being at a premium, according to Mr. Miller. There are no particularly distressing cases at present under the notice of the city relief department.

"THEY'RE OFF"

Read what the Philadelphia North American, of February 27th, says about the New York Broadway Theatre musical extravaganza, "The Vanderbilt Cup."

It is only right, as it is a play that has to do with so speedy a vehicle as the automobile. "The Vanderbilt Cup" at the Grand Opera House, should go at a lively gait.

Plenty of excellent comedy, good singing, dancing and other forms of speciality assist entertainingly in the process.

All these qualities do their full share toward making the piece about as pleasing a musical comedy as has been seen here. While fun is the chief object of the proceedings "The Vanderbilt Cup" also has its exciting movements, one of the best of its situations being the sensational automobile race.

Elsie Janis won one of the greatest hits of her career in this play, but the present star and company give as enjoyable an interpretation In the list of principals are Genevieve Victoria, Edgar Nelson, Estelle Morton, Helen Dubois, Dave Andradd and the skilful automobilist, William Soudier.

Beside the large company and chorus the piece has been provided with scenic and other stage surroundings that make the pleasure of witnessing the performance all the greater.

A Rumor That Was Cause of Much Needless Anxiety

No Truth Whatever in Report That Mr. Andrew Tully of Smith, was Drowned in Creek in That Township—Was Told in Joking Way and Received General Acceptance—Mr. Tully Alive and Well.

It has been persistently rumored that Mr. Andrew F. Tully, of Smith township, met his death by downing in a creek in Smith, that runs near his property. It was stated that his horse fell or walked into the creek and that both he and the horse were drowned. Mr. Tully is a bachelor and lives by himself and when a young lady in the city, who is a niece of his, was seen by the Review this morning, she expressed great surprise at hearing that anything had befallen her uncle, and as it was the first she had heard of the matter, was unable to confirm or deny the rumor.

Further investigation disclosed the fact that there was no foundation whatever for the report. It was started by a local man, who had been out to Smith on the day Mr. Tully was alleged to have been drowned and he mentioned it in a joking way to a friend. The latter told it to somebody else, and it finally became talked of generally around the city. It seems unfortunate that so much needless anxiety should be caused the friends and relatives of Mr. Tully.

The Review is pleased to learn that statements of the drowning is not true.

The New Wing to St. Joseph's Hospital Nearly Completed

Is Most Modern and Complete With Every Accessory and Convenience—Description of the Building—Mr. J. E. Belcher C. E. the Architect.

The new wing to the St. Joseph's Hospital is nearing completition and will be ready for occupancy in the course of a few days. It is 85 feet by 40 feet and most modern and complete in every detail.

The building is four storeys high, the corridors of the old building connecting with each floor in the new. There is an elevator from the basement to the top storey and it is sufficiently large to take a cot from one floor to another.

BASEMENT FLOOR.

The basement floor is occupied by the steam heating apparatus, and caretaker's quarters, with cells for those who require them, a storeroom and large hall and elevator with the machinery room therefor.

GROUND FLOOR.

The ground floor is solely used for surgical operation purposes, the floors being of marble, the walls tiled for six feet in height and above that to the ceiling are enamelled with Keene's cement and polished.

The rooms on this floor consist of an operating room, an anaesthetic room, a sterilizing room, a doctors' and nurses' washing room, and necessarily space for the elevator.

In the arrangement of this floor the greatest consideration has been given to the surgical profession and it has all the latest surgical improvements in appliances and arrangements.

Bishop O'Connor who has warmly entered into the consideration of the requirements of this speciality, has lost sight of no particular in obtaining the most perfect system of surgical equipment up to the present time.

FIRST FLOOR.

The first floor is altogether set apart as wards for private patients with the necessary favorities, bath rooms, etc., and spacious halls with access from the corridors in the old building and the new elevator.

SECOND FLOOR.

This floor is set apart wholly for the nurses and on this floor there are some five or six rooms with the necessary accessories of bathrooms, etc., for them with corridor and elevator access.

The entire building is surmounted with a roof in alignment with the main structure and indeed has the appearance of being erected at the same time as the former, all being successfully construceted from the designs of Mr. J. E. Belcher, C.E., the diocesan architect, the work being carried out by Mr. Jas. Bogue, contractor for the building, F. & J. MacPherson for the heating, fittings, plumbing, electric wiring and all flooring and wall tiling. The Ottis Fenson Company, of Toronto, installed the elevator.

Comedy on Market Square With a Rooster as the Star

A while Plymouth Rock rooster was the cause of much merriment on the market this morning as the big clown rooster in the circus is. The impatient bird was brought to the city by John Tighe, of the Fourth Line of Smith, to be sold on the market.

Mr. Tighe thought he had the rooster safely boxed up, but about 10.30 o'clock it broke gaol, and jumping out ran away at a merry clip. A large crowd, including its owner, set out after the fugitive. Mr. Tighe reached down and grabbed the rooster by tail. A bulldog, who had become enlivened by the proceedings, ran up and tightly snapped Mr. Tighe on the hand, and in the excitement the bird got away, Mr. Tighe holding its tail feathers in hi shand. At length it was captured by a small boy, and again placed in captivity.

About 11 o'clock the persistent fowl again broke away, and this time a boy took it into custody on Hunter street and brought it to the owner. The bird's adventures caused much merriment among the spectators.

Overflowing Creeks Caused Considerable Damage To-day

The creeks in the western portion of the city are on the ramapage again today and an increasingly large amount of damage is being done. The Downey street creek is flooding everything in its vicinity. People's private lots have been turned into lakes. The water is running over the road and the residents' cellars are filled up.

In the neighborhood of the Wm. Hamilton Company's foundry the citizens have suffered considerable damage. Many have had their furnaces put in a state almost beyond repair, and cans of fruit are flotaing around. Large timbers floating down the creek supposed to have been swept away from the foundry, were picked up by the shunting engine. Men have been kept busy keeping the way clear so as to prevent a jam.

L. P. Brodeur Asked to Resign Result of Commission's Report

There is a rumor in well-informed political circles this afternoon, which receives added strength from the gossip current concerning this morning's Liberal caucus, to the affect that Hon. L. P. Brodeur will before long tender his resignation as Minister of Marine and Fisheries.

The Government will probably appoint a Royal Commission to investigate the charges made against the department by the Civil Service Commission and such commission will commence its enquiries as soon as possible.—Ottawa Free Press (Lib.)

The regular monthly meeting of the W.C.T.U. was held at the Y.M.C.A. yesterday afternoon The president, Mrs. Lewis, presided and there was a large attendance of the members. A splendid paper on "Systematic and Proportionate Giving," was read by Mrs A. R. Campbell and an interesting and profitable discussion followed. The ladies had an unexpected pleasure in a visit from Rev. Mr. Monk, the Society's representative among the lumbermen. Mr. Monk is in the city on a visit to his son and daughter and gave a short address at the meeting. It is learned that Mr. Monk will give an address at an opening meeting to be held in Peterborough in the near future, when he will tell of his work among the lumbermen.

Three new members were received into the local branch yesterday.

THE DAYLIGHT STORE

We're Noisy About OUR Spring Wearables

WE'VE a right to get noisy about our Spring things. They're all at it, and why shouldn't we shout a little. You can't judge of bargains from the shrieks of the newspaper advertisers. However, stores that have the poorest values to offer usually clamor the loudest.

You shouldn't decide hastily, but take a day or two to look around before you buy; it will pay you to do it.

Take a Look at Our

$12.00 and $15.00 Suits | $10.00 and $12.00 Topcoats | Our $2.50 & $3.50 Trousers

Our EASTER FURNISHINGS are all in and placed in stock.

Take a look at what we are showing and you will at once notice the elegance of our wearables.

Greatest Importations of New Dress Fabrics

More of Satisfaction--Less of Price--The Strong Features of Our Spring Dress Goods.

Our Dress Goods Department is our particular care and pride. It s standards of quality are so strict—just "good" won't do—BEST is what's bought and sold there always.

Experience has taught us that our customers prefer Fabrics ranging from 50c to $1 25 per yard in price, and fashion has advised us that Striped Armures, Poplins, Crepe de Chenes Taffeta Cloths, Tweeds and Voiles, will be correct for 1908 wear. The best colors and patterns of these fabrics that the market produces for retailing at these prices are now on display in our Dress Goods Department, and they are better than those usually sold for such prices.

The new and popular (as well as much that is exclusive) is represented in our Spring stocks in a wide range of beautiful colorings and weaves, and nowhere can more excellence and style be had for lesser prices.

When you come to make your selection, you'll see that we haven't at all exaggerated the advantages of our Dress Goods Department.

Admission of Primary Pupils

To the City Public Schools—Regulations of the Board

Inspector Mowat has the following to say in reference to the admission of primary pupils to the Public schools;

According to the regulations of the Board of Education, children who have not previously attended a Public school, are admitted to the primary division only during the first two weeks in January, April and September.

As parents prefer to have their children begin school after the Easter holidays, and as these fall in the middle of April this year, the Board has decided to extend the time of admission to the end of the week following the Easter vacation.

Parents, if they so desire, may send their children on April 1st, but as the Easter vacation will interfere with the work in the course of about a week thereafter and, as the teachers will have to take up the work from the beginning after the Easter holidays, it would seem to be just as well for the little ones if they were all started together immediately after the Easter vacation when they will be admitted as May pupils.

"Queen Esther" to be Presented in Peterboro'

Will be Given at Conservatory of Music Towards End of April

Bradbury's beautiful dramatic cantata, "Queen Esther,' will be presented in Peterborough towards the end of April, under the direction of Mr. Gliddon, of the Conservatory of Music. Rehearsals are now being held and the event promises to be a great success. The cantata will be presented by a chorus of 75 and an orchestra of over twenty. The members of the cast are being chosen with great care and a finished production of the cantata will be given. "Queen Esther' contains splendid solo and chorus work and will be presented in Peterborough at the Conservatory of Music. The particulars will be given at a later date.

READING CIRCLE

The Reading Circle of the Women's Art Association will meet at the Y.W.C.A, on Monday evening at 7.30 o'clock. The subject will be "Veronesi,' and all members are requested to be present.

Clause to Elect Aldermen for Two Years Meets Approval

Peterborough Bill Comes Before Private Bills Committee at Toronto—Local Manufacturer Opposes Assistance to Wm. Hamilton Co.

A Toronto despatch says:—A large deputation from Peterborough, headed by Mr. T. E. Bradburn, M.P.P., Mr. R. R. Hall, M.P., and Mayor Rush, appeared before the Private Bills Committee this morning asking among other things that authority be given the city to loan $30,000 to the William Hamilton Company, which had been forced into liquidation through the failure of the Ontario Bank. The assistance is for the expressed purpose of enabling the concern to continue in business.

Mr. G. Walter Greene opposed the proposition. He is a Peterborough manufacturer, and his contention was that "every tub should sit on its own bottom."

"Let them carry on business as I carry on mine; I haven't asked for any favors," declared Mr. Greene. "Don't allow these people to crush the life out of me. I insist" upon them leaving me alone. Give me fair play."

Mr. F. D. Kerr appeared for Mr. Green and opposed the clause strongly. He pointed out that to grant assistance to the other company would be unfair to Mr. Green and other manufacturers in a similar line of business.

The Bill, which authorizes assistance to a number of other local concerns, was reported by the committee. A clause allowing the Council to be composed of Aldermen elected for a term of two years, one half to retire each year, was also approved, subject to a vote of the electors.

Young Man Was Disorderly In Front of Lady's House

Appeared in Police Court This Morning—Fined Five Dollars or Fifteen Days in Gaol—Other Cases.

For annoying a lady residing on George street, by walking up and down in front of her house and looking in a window, a young man was fined five dollars in the police court this morning. He pleaded not guilty to the charge of being drunk and disorderly. The young lady in giving her evidence, stated on Thursday night she was sitting at the window upstairs with her brother-in-law. She coughed and the young man evidently thought that she did so to attract his attention. He passed up and down several times and refused to go away. He came and looked through the glass in the front door, and for fear he would come in, the witness turned out the light and ran downstairs and locked the door. He used obscene language and altogether his conduct was quite unseemly.

His Worship stated that his conduct had been most offensive. He referred to a similar case in England where one time a gentleman was given judgment for £1000 in a suit against another man for merely looking through his window. His Worship imposed a fine of five dollars to be paid forthwith or fifteen days in gaol.

Another young man implicated in the above affair was fined two dollars for being drunk and disorderly.

SUED FOR WAGES.

A. Tewsley sought the assistance of the police court this morning to recover nineteen dollars from a local company, for wages due him for work he had done. Mr. E. L. Goodwill appeared for the company, and consented to judgment. His Worship ordered that the amount be paid with the additional costs of $2.60, in eight days.

Removed Some of the Stop Logs Water High in the Otonabee

Seven or eight stop logs were taken out of the dam at the lock yesterday to let the water down in preparation for the spring freshet. At present the water is very high in the river but nothing more than an ordinary freshet is expected.

Although there has been an abundance of snow and ice this winter it has been melted to quite an extent by the recent thaws. The ground in many places has been softened so the water is able to soak into it.

The ice in the lake is not broken up yet very largely but no trouble is anticipated in this respect as the ice is melting away evenly. There is about a foot of water over the wharf at the end of the streetcar line.

Butter 35 cents at To-day's Market

Small Attendance—Bad Roads Prevent Many From Coming to the City

Butter, thirty-five cents a pound, was the somewhat startling price asked for this almost indispensable food, at today's market. The attendance was very small, there not being more than twenty vendors upstairs. The almost impassable condition of the country roads prevented many from coming to the city. Eggs were sold very reasonably; 15c to 18c, being the prevailing figures.

The enormous advance in the price of Ceylon Tea has made it necessary for the "Salada" Tea Company to adopt one of two courses. Lower the quality or advance the price. It was felt that the latter course would prove the most satisfactory, consequently, the Company adopted it. Mr. H. J. Booth in the City

May Present Another Opera in Peterboro' in the Near Future

Mr. H. J. Booth, who presented "Zephra" in Peterborough a year ago, is in the city today, and is being warmly greeted by many friends. Mr. Booth came here from Kingston, where a new version of "Zephra" will be produced at an early date. Mr. Booth has been in the Limestone city for some time, making the necessary arrangements. He has conducted operas in many cities since leaving Peterborough and has met with the greatest success. There is a possibility that Mr. Booth will present another opera in Peterborough in the near future if suitable arrangements can be made.

AMUSEMENTS

It was an excellent company that presented "Coming Thro' the Rye," at the Grand last night, and the audience enjoyed the show immensely. This was shown by the very hearty manner in which the musical numbers and dances were received, many of the songs being repeatedly encored. The score which is by A. Baldwin Sloane, contains several catchy numbers and these were given in good style by the soloists and chorus. The singing was good and the work of the chorus was considerably above the average, the dances and various evolutions being executed in a graceful and sprightly manner. The singing, generally, was pleasing. On the whole the show provided most acceptable entertainment.

Geo. E. Mack who played the principal comedy part—Nott the Tailor—was amusing and his song, "Clancy," was one of the features of the show. He was capably supported by the five members of the male chorus. Miss Lora Lieb was very captivating as Loretta the cloak model, and Mae Phelps in the role of Mrs. Cobb the capitalist, was very funny. The principal male members of the cast were Osborne Clemson as Van Dyck Brown, the artist; Sydney Broughton as Macon Spayce, the press agent, Paul G. Decker as Lord Battersby, the Englishman and Carl Hoffman as William Cactus Claude the Cowboy. All appeared to much advantage. A real live broncho was ridden on the stage by Bessie Claude, the Cowboy girl, Miss Grace Turner taking the part of the maiden of the plains. She sang "My Broncho Boy," as she was seated on the horse, and was encored several times.

Among the principal song hits were: "I Know a Girl Like You," "What will Your Answer Be," "It Must Be Love," "Any Time, Any Place, Any Way," The Military Man," "Moolbarri," and "I'm Afraid to Come Home in the Dark."

Peterborough Would Have to be Considered

If Canada Sends a Bowling Team to the Olympiad—Matter is Being Considered

A suggestion was made from Toronto recently to the Olympic Committee that a team of Canadian bowlers be sent to the Olympiad, and today Secretary J. B. Hay, of the P. B.C., wrote to the leagues in Toronto reminding them that Peterborough would have to be considered if a team is sent across the seas. The idea originated in the United States and has been taken up enthusiastically by the bowling fraternity. There are several members of the P.B.C. who will hold up their end with any bowlers in Canada, and they will have to be reckoned with if a team is sent. It is not yet known how the Olympic Board will take the suggestion as no reply has been received from Ottawa. No provision was made for bowling in the original programme drawn up by the British Committee and it is an open question whether they will adopt the suggestion to add the great indoor pastime to the list of sports at the Olympiad. In the meantime the P.B.C. will watch developments and in the remote possibility of trials being held and a team sent Peterborough's claims will be urged in the right quarters.

Buzzing Sound at Restaurant

The Busy Bee Was Once More Work Last Night—Stung Again

After the production of "Coming Thro' the Rye" last night, a couple of local young men made the acquaintance of two of the chorus ladies with the play and took them to a well-known George street restaurant. Here the four had a delightful supper, the friends of the young men taking a large number of dainties and side dishes on the bill of fare, and running up a rather large account.

After the supper was settled for the young men wished to escort their lady friends to their hotel, but the latter couldn't see it that way and proceeded there unaccompanied.

Largely Attended Meeting Was Held

Peterboro' Lodge I.O.O.F. Conferrek Degrees — Many Delegates Present

Over two hundred Oddfellows attended the meeting of Peterborough Lodge No. 111, on Thursday evening. About forty delegates were present from Lakefield, Norwood, Havelock and Pontypool. The first, second and third degrees were conferred upon fifteen of the delegates. After the business of the evening, a supper was partaken of by those present, but as a number of the delegates had to leave on the midnight train, speeches had to be dispensed with.

MEN WATCHED THE CREEK ALL NIGHT

Wash-out on G.T.R. Was Feared —Employees Kept Busy

In some section of the G.T.R. the water has flooded the tracks and it is necessary for the company to keep men at places where there is the most danger of there being a washout. A gang of men were kept at what is known as the sink hole, about two and a half miles from the city. The ice was blasted and the men were kept busy all through the night in keeping the sluice way cleared in order to prevent the track being buried in water and probably washed away.

At Bethune street at the trestle work near the Protestant Home, another gang was employed to watch the creek and to prevent a flood. However, the trains were all on time this morning and the spring freshets caused no trouble today.

"FRUIT-A-TIVES" SAVED HIS LIFE

Mr. Dingwall was Superintendent of St. Andrews Sunday School in Williamstown for nine years and License Commissioner for Glengarry — and Tax Collector for Charlottenburg—for fourteen years continuously. Read how strongly Mr. Dingwall comes out in favor of "Fruit-a-tives."

Williamstown, Ont., April 5th., 1907.

I have much pleasure in testifying to the almost marvellous benefit I have derived from taking "Fruit-a-tives." I was a life long sufferer from Chronic Constipation and the only medicine I ever secured to do me any real good was "Fruit-a-tives." This medicine cured me when everything else failed. Also, last spring, I had a severe attack of bladder trouble with kidney trouble, and "Fruit-a-tives" cured these complaints for me, when the physician attending me had practically given me up. I am now over eighty years of age and I can strongly recommend "Fruit-a-tives" for Chronic Constipation and bladder and kidney trouble. This medicine is mild like fruit, is easy to take, but most effective in action. 147

The Boosters of the Junior Department of the Y.M.C.A., held their weekly social last night and it was attended by twelve. An enjoyable time was spent with games, after which a bounteous repast was partaken of. The Boosters are working hard for new members of the "Y" and pushing their work in every department.

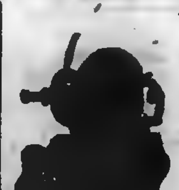
THE NEATEST EYE GLASSES



The advantages of the deep curve (spoon shaped) lenses compared with the flat glasses are very apparent.

The deep curve fits the form of the eye, the lashes sweep in the curve. These lenses set closer to the eye, they look much neater and vision is clearer and wider than with any other form of glasses.

These lenses are ground in large factories employing hundreds of men who are experts and devote their whole life to lens grinding.

We have supplied this style of Glasses in many cities, and to quite a number of our citizens here in Peterborough. These Glasses always please the wearer.

THE CITY'S BILL

Paternalism in either municipal or individual business affairs, is, broadly speaking, incorrect both in principle and practice. Nor is it strictly speaking just, nor has it ever been so, that one company or one man should be given a preference. But it is not on this ground that we propose to consider this bill. As a city we have a right to look after the city's interests and it is on that ground that we think the bill should be dealt with.

In the cases of the Auburn Mills and the Peter Hamilton Company the proposed action of the Council or of the city is simply a compromise, of a character advantageous to the city. To furnish Mr. Kendey with water, sewers, sidewalks, fire protection, etc., would cost a large sum. His fixed assessment is to be $40,000.00, a fair amount especially when we consider that it does not carry exemption from school rates, etc, and that he has hitherto had nothing for the tax paid by him. Then the Peter Hamilton Co. has no competitors in the city, but has itself to compete with companies in other places rejoicing in especial advantages with respect to assessments, rates &c. Obviously, it is a matter of discretion on the city's part to see that other municipalities shall not by reason of their own greed, secure an undue advantage over one of our oldest established and most helpful industries. The amount fixed for assessment is $30,000 00. As to the Wm. Hamilton Co., business, we can only say that it would have been more advisable to give them similar concessions but since they require $30,000 00 as a loan, a different question arises. Shall the city, amply secured, step aside to help them out for its own very distinct advantage? We think it decidedly a good thing for the city if we can secure such a boon on such easy terms. Other companies of a rival character no doubt will receive equal or corresponding advantages and if so no harm can be done and great good will result. It will be some months yet before the question will be submitted to the people and the people will therefore have ample time to consider the question in all its bearings.

SCHOOL SAVINGS BANKS

La Patrie quotes with evident approval the success of the savings bank system introduced a few years ago into public schools in Toronto. In fact so impressed is it with the desirability of introducing the same system into Quebec that it does not hesitate to recommend it strongly. When the plan was first broached in Toronto it was thought far-fetched, though it had proved a success in the U.S. In Toronto it has literally worked wonders. One boy bought a piece of land, another started his father in business again, a third paid for his sister's tuition at college, etc. A girl bought her trousseau. All these things mean the development of thrift and common sense at an early age. Usually children waste as speedily as possible whatever money is given them. Of course, it is not wise to develope stinginess or materialism, but there is not much danger of that at so early an age. That the scheme is both feasible and desirable the experiences of the city of Toronto alone would prove, as pointed out by La Patrie. What is good for Toronto and the Province of Quebec ought to be good for Peterborough and the Province of Ontario.

"LACK OF CONSCIENCE"

The Royal Commission on Civil Service Reform appointed at the demand of Mr. Borden by the Laurier government has furnished probably the most sensational finding in the history of civil government in Canada. Mistakes in all business that falls to the lot of men there will always be, more or less, but that "lack of conscience" should in so many words be directly embodied in a charge made not by the Opposition it must be remembered, but by the royal commissioners, themselves against our civil representatives, is as astounding as it is altogether damning. What would we say if the affairs of our city or of this country had been found to be in the thoroughly vicious condition exposed in the report. "Lack of conscience" as defined means a thoroughly wicked and conscienceless treatment of the whole civil service of Canada, as it is to that service in its entirety that the now immortal phrase has been so mercilessly applied. What finding may we well ask would that commission have made had it had within its purview the conduct of those who supplied or rather pretended to have supplied to the Arctic and other government boats quantities of clothing, food and luxuries such as would have stocked a fleet, but of which as a matter of fact but little trace can be found? What would be the verdict of such a commission regarding the St. Joseph dock, the Collingwood mystery, in which a superintendent of works entered his wife's maiden name in the list of employees and beneficiaries in order that he might swindle this country, and without punishment? But it is for the whole government personnel, system and political atmosphere included, that, as it will be found, the fatal phrase is intended. "Lack of conscience" runs through the whole fabric of this administration in all its doings and dealings from Halifax to Hong-Kong. When Mr. Brodeur rose in his own defence he attacked the commissioners for having exceeded their instructions in that they had been employed to suggest improvements whereas they had lingered to criticise. They had, he contended, altogether gone beyond their brief and and were worthy of censure. Here we have the spectacle of a minister actually laying it down that wrong is wrong only when it is found out. This we presume, is what is meant also, by "lack of conscience." Instead of pleading "guilty" and seeking to extenuate his offence by contrition and immediate resignation Mr Brodeur boldly asserts his belief in the principle that wrongdoing and impropriety are not at all times fit subjects for investigation. What more need we say? What more is necessary to confirm the worst suspicions of an already aroused electorate and we suspect that if the commissioners had given a hint of what they had intended to do their instructions would have been considerably curtailed. As it is they have increased public confidence in investigation by commission.

WHAT GOOD TO THE FARMER?

The Grand Trunk Pacific, otherwise known as the National Transcontinental Railway will not do the farmers of Ontario, after it is built, one particle of good. The opening up of the west was of no real pecuniary benefit to the Ontario farmer. On sentimental grounds and on national grounds it was almost obligatory that Canada from Winnipeg to the sea should be developed. We had to build the C.P.R. The share of the enormous expenditure on G.T.P., falling to Ontario will never be repaid. What we may appear to gain in one way we lose in another. To the Ontario farmer the investment is positively ruinous. The G.T.P. will cost the farmers of Ontario, in addition to their share in its construction not less than $500,000,000.00 in the next twenty years. Manitoba spelt ruin to Ontario for many years. Manitoba wheat and emigration thither lost not less than $200,000,000.00 to this Province. It is therefore within the mark to say that five hundred millions will represent the loss by the G.T.P.

The farmers of Ontario therefore may look forward to a period of depression. Farms are already diminishing in value. Sometimes it is hard to trace the trail of loss and failure. Strange to say the consequences were not suspected in the case of Manitoba till long after it had been opened up. The development of that noble province was brought about by the sacrifice of Ontario. There was a necessity for the C. P. R., however. That had to be built if we were to become a nation.

There is something extraordinary in all this when we consider it. It is incomprehensible too, now, as it was when first being urged upon the people that such haste should have been shown in so important a matter as the letting of a contract for such a stupendous undertaking. "Cox can't wait." This was the cry. It was quite true that such a statement was made in the House of Commons by a member of the Ottawa Government as a justification for going into this tremendous scheme without further consideration. But as we have shown the direct expense is a trifle in comparison with the indirect expense, to Ontario. Of this the farmers will pay much the largest share in cash. Of their loss in the value of their farms our former estimate will give perhaps but a small idea. Mr. Borden's project was of an entirely different character.

EDITORIAL NOTES

An old man remarked recently, on reading Hon. G. W. Ross' defence of his electric policy, "Begob! He's lost his teeth and has to chew with his gums now. It looks like it anyhow."

The annual seed planting of the C. P.R. will be held this year on a larger scale than ever. It pays, doubtless, to do this. To the weary passenger the sight of flower-embowered stations, is at once refreshing and delightful. It is a custom that should be more generally practised, throughout Canada in other branches of industry.

TEMPERANCE IN QUEBEC

Not much is heard in Ontario of the temperance movement in Quebec, and the average newspaper reader in Ontario, has an idea that there is little temperance sentiment in that province. It is somewhat surprising to learn that practical curtailment of the liquor traffic has made much greater advance in Quebec, than in Ontario. Quebec has nine hundred and sixty-seven municipalities out of which seven hundred are "dry." In Quebec, during the last twelve months' licenses have been excluded from one hundred townships and villages. It is said that this has been accomplished by joint action of the Dominion Temperance Alliance, the Women's Christian Temperance Union, the Franciscan Fathers and the Anti-Alcoholic League. It may be assumed, however, that the chief credit belongs to the Roman Catholic clergy, who quietly but none the less determinedly and effectively have labored for years to lessen the opportunities for drinking, and to discourage the excessive use of liquor among their people.

$100 REWARD $100

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials.

AN INEXCUSABLE DECEIT

In his budget speech Finance Minister Fielding makes an official statement with reference to the cost to the country of the Grand Trunk Pacific. He says the following outlays have been made so far:

1904	$ 6,249
1905	778,491
1906	1,841,269
1907	5,537,867
Total	$8,163,876

During the year which closes with this month, the expenditure upon the road will be $17,748,000. In the year that is about to open the outlay provided for is $30,000,000.

The sums mentioned by Mr. Fielding as spent and to be spent upon the road are these:—

From 1904 to 1907	$ 8,163,000
1907-8	17,648,000
1908-9	30,000,000
Total to March, 1909	$55,811,000

When this expenditure shall have been made we shall not be far advanced with the undertaking, for at the rate that is being paid for the work, the $55,811,000 will merely furnish thousand miles of roadbed. The rails for that section, the sidings and the stations, and the remainder of the line, some 900 miles will yet have to be provided for. Now, we are spending upon the preliminary sections of this railway, and up to the end of March next year, $55,811,000. This fact is a notable commentary upon Sir Wilfrid Laurier's announcement to the people of Canada touching the cost of the scheme when he was pushing it through Parliament. "The sum total of the money to be spent by the Government for the construction of that line of railway from Moncton to the Pacific coast," said Sir Wilfrid, will be in the neighborhood of $12,000,000 or $13,000,000, and not a cent more." "Now, sir," asked the right hon. gentleman, "what is $13,000,000 in the year 1903? It is about the surplus of our revenue over expenditure. The surplus for this year will pay for the construction of the road." This gentleman assured Parliament that $12,000,000 was to be the cost, and up to the end of March we shall have expended no less than $55,811,000, and then the work will have merely commenced. So positively did Sir Wilfrid Laurier assert that but $13,000,000 was to be the cost of the undertaking to the country that the story was repeated in the Government press throughout Canada and from the platform. In his splendid speech in Parliament the other day, Mr. W. F. Cockshutt pointed out that the estimate of cost was a prime feature of the campaign literature of the Ministerial party in 1904. Said the official pamphlet issued under the authority of the Ministers:

"Just now they (the Opposition) are indulging not only in fanciful criticisms, but positive misrepresentations and falsifications. The feature of the bargain in regard to which most of this is done, is the financial arrangement. It is an actual fact, an indisputable fact that $13,000,000 will cover every cent of the country's expenditure in connection with the railway, and that if $8,853,502 cash was invested to-day with an insurance or an investment company it would have grown enough by the time the railway is completed to actually pay all the expenditure that the country will have to make."

The writer of this story gets the figure down from $13,000,000 to $8,853,502—no cents—and thus out-Lauriers Laurier.

There can be no doubt that many people accepted Sir Wilfrid Laurier's statement at its face value. Who would have suspected that a Premier a Privy Council, and a G.C.M.G. would lend himself to a story that was so worded as to leave a false impression upon the minds of his fellow-citizens? Yet, as the figures now coming to light indicate, the estimate presented to the country was bogus and fraudulent. The scheme was to cost $13,000,000, and "not a cent more," said Sir Wilfrid, and up to the end of this month we shall have spent upon it $[illegible],000,000, while by March 31st next year, the outlay will amount to $55,811,000. Before the project is out of hand it will have cost the country ten times what Sir Wilfrid alleged the price was to be, and the right hon. gentleman, when he gave his deceptive figure, was not unaware of that fact.

MR. ROSS AND E. D. CO.

Hon G. W. Ross now frankly admits that his own and preceding Liberal governments did as Mr. Whitney claims, make agreements with the companies to which they granted power rights at Niagara that the province would not enter into competition in developing electricity. In his second reply to Premier Whitney, Mr. Ross states the position as follows;

"My answer to all this is simply that different Liberal governments from Sir Oliver Mowat's time to my time, did make agreements, three in all, providing that as a government we would not enter into competition with the corporations which we ourselves created. On no other conditions could we provide for the development of electric energy at all."

That admission makes the Globe's argument that the Whitney government should have bought out the Pellatt-Nicholls Electrical Development Co look pretty foolish.—Exchange

THIS MAN IS A MARTYR TO PRINCIPLE

English Tobacconist Has Been Arrested Once a Week for Past Six Months

London, March 27.—Mr. Jacob Popp, of High Wycombe, is a modern "village Hampden." For six years years past he has regularly, once a week, received a police summons for swelling tobacco and confectionery on Sunday. For two and a half years he was regularly mulcted in a weekly fine amounting to 15 shillings, but during the last three and a half years the amount has been reduced to 7 shillings and sixpence. In this way Mr Popp has been fined £156. He calculates that he has kept three policemen in clothes every year.

This is an altruistic way of regarding the matter.

Mr Popp has done much better for himself; in fact, he takes in every Sunday between £20 and £30 over the counter. But let Mr. Popp tell his story in his own words. He has done this in verse as follows;

They dragged him up before the bench
Of justices in line,
Who straightly scowled at him and said
We must inflict a fine
He paid. And every Sunday
Finds him serving in his shop,
And every Monday morning
There's a summons for J. Popp.

He also tells his story in prose "Six years ago," he says, "I came to High Wycombe, and acquired a business at this little shop. After a time I began to open on Sundays and did a good trade. Then one Sunday, afternoon the chief constable came in and said unless I closed up I would be summoned. I declined to close; with the result that a summons were issued against me on the Monday. It was taken out under the statute of Charles the Second, and charged that I on a certain daye, being the Lord's day, commonly called Sunday, did, at Chepping Wycombe, in the borough aforesaid, unlawfully do and exercise certain worldly labor business and work in the ordinary calling of a tobacconist and confectioner, the same not being a work of necessity or charity.

"I paid 15c—including costs—and since then regularly every Monday I get my summons. There are two alternatives to paying the fine, viz, two hours in the stocks or seven days imprisonment in jail. I wanted to be placed in the stocks, but they have been removed, and I could not get the magistrate to replace them, or cause others to be specially constructed for my benefit. If they would make the imprisonment two days instead of seven, I would go to jail. But I cannot spare a week from business and close the shop.

"It is not likely that I shall close the shop when I take between £20 and £30 every Sunday.

"Just recently I sent the magistrates' clerk a cheque for a quarter's fine in advance, but he returned it. Having once begun to prosecute, I suppose the police do not like to withdraw, and the summonsing will go on for years probably.

It is difficult to understand the why and the wherefore for the readjustment of the tariff of fines by which Mr. Popp benefitted. It may be that the local bench felt that Mr. Popp, as an old customer, was entitled to special treatment at their hands; it may be that they feared the loss of a regular source of revenue by making the burden too onerous; or again they may have considered that a 7s 6d fine only made the law half as ridiculous as a 15s one. Mr. Popp has paid 325 fines for doing something which other tobacconists are allowed to do without let or hindrance.

Mr. Popp is a martyr, and he is glad of it, as his "persecutions" have given him cheap and extensive advertising. He has issued a series of picture postcards, illustrating his experiences. and has sold one edition of 12,000 of these. He has a fine sense of humor, which is to be accounted for perhaps by the fact that he is not an Englishman, but a native of Findland.

STURDY FARMERS KEEP OFF ALL CATARRHAL ILLS BY TAKING PE-RU-NA.

Pe-ru-na, a Most Reliable Remedy For All Climatic Ailments.

MR. GEO. H. THOMPSON.

At Work on the Farm and Feeling Well All the Time.

Geo. H. Thompson, Craft, Miss., writes:

"I have been cured of catarrh by your medicines, Peruna and Manalin. I had been affected with catarrh of the stomach about all my life, and was taken bad every Spring and Summer.

"I used several kinds of patent medicines, but they did me no good. I then took a treatment under an M. D., which did me but little good. By this time I had come to where I could eat nothing but a little soup. I had severe pains, had lost in weight and could not do anything. I began taking your medicines, Peruna and Manalin. I then weighed 128 pounds, but after taking several bottles of Peruna and one bottle of Manalin, I weighed 168 pounds.

"I am now at work on the farm and feel well all of the time. I eat all I want to and my friends say that I look better than ever before. I will ever praise Peruna for its healing power."

Pe-ru-na is a Systemic Remedy.

If Peruna proves efficient for catarrh in one place, it will be equally potent in any other place, because it is a systemic remedy.

The people generally are very much misinformed as to the nature of catarrh.

Catarrh is usually believed to be confined to the head, nose and throat. Lately we sometimes hear of catarrh of the stomach and catarrh of the bowels. Seldom, if ever, do we hear of catarrh of any other organs.

It is not because these organs are not subject to catarrh, nor that catarrh of these organs is not a very common disease, but simply because it is not generally known that affections of these organs may be due to catarrh.

MR. W. J. TEMPLE.

Climatic Ailments Overcome By Pe-ru-na.

Mr. W. J. Temple, R. F. D. 8, Delaware, Ohio, writes:

"I am a farmer and so necessarily must be exposed to all kinds of weather. About three years ago last winter, I was taken sick with bowel and stomach trouble.

"One doctor called it ulceration of the bowels, another called it colitis. Another doctor helped me temporarily.

"Then a druggist recommended Peruna and I followed his advice. I took altogether five bottles and I consider myself a well man.

"Before using Peruna, it was utterly impossible for me to do a day's work, but now I can do farm work without the least trouble or fatigue. I consider Peruna the best medicine and tonic on the market.

"I had not eaten a meal for five years without distress until I took Peruna. I have recommended it to several friends with good results."

MR. GUSTAV SCHMIDT.

Chronic Catarrh of Head and Throat Lasted Thirty Years.

A Letter Praising Pe-ru-na.

Mr. Gustav Schmidt, Spring Valley, Ill., writes:

"I had catarrh of the head and throat for over thirty years. It became worse every year. About three months ago I commenced to take Peruna and Manalin, and now I am entirely cured of that troublesome sickness. Your medicine is surely a blessing to mankind. You can truly say that you have not lived in vain, Doctor, and I thank you for the good you have done me. May you enjoy a long life to help suffering humanity."

DR. HARTMAN, THE FARMER.

Dr. S. B. Hartman, the inventor and original manufacturer of Peruna, is one of the best farmers in the Middle West.

His farm comprises several thousand acres of the best land in the State of Ohio, located near the City of Columbus.

As an importer of French Percheron and German Coach horses, the Doctor has not an equal in this country.

The fowl-raising department is a marvel of ingenuity and perfection; but, perhaps the dairy department is where the Doctor shows his greatest sense of order and sanitary science.

His milk cows, of the purest Jersey stock, have all been subjected to the tuberculin tests, and he gives to the City of Columbus a pure milk, certified by the Board of Health.

The milk stables, the milk men and the whole process of milking are absolutely faultless and clean.

The Doctor himself, past 70 years of age, is the managing head of the farm.

He himself supervises the working details of every department.

He is a model of strength and vitality, and since Peruna is the only remedy he ever makes personal use of, his physical condition is a testimonial to the efficacy of Peruna of greater value than could be framed in words.

Dr. Hartman is one of the few doctors who take their own medicine and his splendid physique and strength in his old age are an eloquent argument for Peruna very difficult to gainsay.

Dr. Hartman, being a farmer himself, knows what the farmer needs and in speaking of Peruna to the farmer he speaks to his own kind of people.

Pe-ru-na For Bowel Trouble.

Mr. Stanly Bell, Ashley, Ohio, writes: "I was afflicted with rheumatism so badly that it was painful for me to move. I took two or three bottles of Peruna when I began to feel better. It also gave me relief from bowel trouble."

MR. J. B. ALEXANDER.

A Necessity in the Home.

J. B. Alexander, publisher of the "Fruit and Floral Guide, a Magazine of Horticulture," published in Hartford City, Ind., says of Peruna:

"I was afflicted with catarrh of the throat and head for over ten years. I was treated by many physicians, but grew worse until I was seldom able to go out in cold weather.

"About one year ago I was advised to try Peruna, which I did, and I am now entirely well of the catarrh.

"Peruna is a necessity in our home. With the first symptoms of a cold we use it, and are never afflicted with catarrh.

"I advise all who are afflicted with catarrh to try Peruna. There is certainly nothing equal to it as a catarrh medicine."

71 Years Old and Able to Work.

Mr. John G. Hirdler, Garfield, Kas., writes:

"I was injured by a fall on the railroad and my entire nervous system was impaired by the same. The help of a physician was useless.

"I then tried Peruna and after using it for three months was entirely well. I am 71 years old and my work on the railroad is hard and tedious, but I can work like a young man in all kinds of weather, heat, cold, rain, snow or storm alike."

MR. HENRY SCHROEDER

Pe-ru-na, a Household Remedy.

Mr. Henry Schroeder, Estey, Mich., writes:

"I suffered for almost ten years with catarrh of the stomach and all doctoring was of no avail. I took nine bottles of Peruna and two of Manalin and am now entirely cured.

"I recommend the medicine to all who are afflicted with this disease. It is my household friend."

One of Dr. Hartman's Grateful Correspondents.

Mr. W. R. Callahan, proprietor of Big Hill Farm, and prominent fruit grower and stock raiser, Glenvar, Va., writes:

"I write to express my kindness toward you and your good medicine, Peruna.

"I had a very bad spell of sickness and could not eat anything at all. My head, stomach, in fact, my whole body ached, and it looked as though nothing would do me any good. I had almost given up.

"I decided to try a bottle of your Peruna and before I had taken half the bottle my appetite came to me and my head became all right. In fact, I was all right all over. Peruna cured me."

While Peruna is not confined to any one class of people, yet it is probably true that the farming class more than any other, rely upon Peruna for the prevention and cure of all climatic diseases.

46th Regiment Will Participate In the Celebration at Quebec

Lieutenant Colonel H. A. Ward's five year term in command of the 46th regiment expired this month. The Minister of Militia has extended his term for one year. This will give great satisfaction to the regiment for Col. Ward is most popular and has rendered most valuable service to the regiment, which is now in a high state of efficiency.

It has been definitely decided that the 46th regiment shall take part in the Quebec Tercentenary celebrations this summer. The regiment will attend half strength. The Port Hope companies and two companies from the northern part of the district will represent the regiment. They will camp on the north or Quebec side of the river, on the plains of Abraham. Over 20,000 troops will be in camp at the time. The Quebec camp will take the place of the usual annual drill this year.

Lt. Col. Young, D.A.A.G., of No. 3 district made a special inspection of the arms and other effects of the regiment this week. He found everything in a complete and satisfactory condition.—Port Hope Guide.

Why the Letters in the Directory Were Changed

In the new directory just issued by the Bell Telephone Company, it will be noticed that the letters A and B are no longer used to designate telephones where it was necessary to have a letter after the numeral. The letters L and K are used instead. There has been considerable discussion why the change was made and the Review has ascertained that A and B sounded so much like the figures "eight" and "three" respectively that the operators at the central office frequently made mistakes as a result of the similarity. By using L and K this difficulty will be got over. These letters do not sound like any figure or combination of figures. The change has been hailed with delight by the young ladies at "Central."

Another Queer Thing Dug Up; Watchman Warder's Comment On Article in the Examiner

The following is from the Lindsay Watchman-Warder;—

The Examiner is always finding queer things, such as telegraphs that talk by telepathy at Keene and Grit politicians that it believes are honest. The LATEST discovery of Examiner is as old as the Examiner itself, but perhaps the joke may have been forgotten by some of our older readers, so it is reproduced about as follows;—

The domestic dog displays his wisdom in many ways, but that belonging to a north end gentleman surpasses them all, and is, moreover, a handy dog. It proved to the father in a conclusive manner that his daughter had been holding hands with her gentleman friend. It was getting around to ten o'clock, and the father was telling the young man how well he had trained his dog, and went upstairs with him to give him a great exhibition of what "Old Faithful" could do.

The father sat on the bed, called the and pointed to his foot. The dog gave a little bark of understanding, ran downstairs and returned with one of the father's boots. The animal brought up the newspaper, hat, pipe and gloves to the amusement of the young man. The latter wanted the father to have the dog try and bring up his gloves and the governor agreed.

The dog sniffed at the young man's hand and the father spoke to it to go downstairs. It obeyed, but did not return at once. The two men were surprised to hear the daughter call to the father to come down stairs. They both went down and found the dog jumping around the girl. It would sniff at her right hand and then bark and act as if it were on the right scent.

The daughter and her beau interchanged glances, but it was some time before the father got wise and the young man suddenly remembered that he had to catch the next car.

The Khan Paints a Word Picture of "Sugarin' Off"

The spikes have been driven in the little sugar bush—you can see part of it just behind the Wigwam and a cloud of smoke by day and a pillar of fire by night mark the spot where we take turns boiling the sap.

One of these days we will sugar off and the young folks from far and near will come. We will all bring fresh eggs and we will boil or roast them over the coals and we will eat the meat out of them and then will will the empty shells with thick syrup and set them in the snow to harden into sugar for Easter presents.

There's an Easter present that is the real thing! It is a real egg shell and it is full of real sugar.

The function will be the last of the winter gaieties and it is ever the most natural. It is a link with the wondrous cedar logs sit the girls in their choicest shawls and toques and there in the light of the brandish flames the mysterious trees all about and a purple sky above one could almost imagine a camp of hunting Hurons or a band or scalp-seeking Mohawks on the warpath.

There is a woodsey smell in the air a subtle something whispering in the depths an air of expectancy which fascinates the soul and appeals to the primal man in all of us.

What a glorious life these savages led! The heart of a great forest is warm and still and the deeper the snow the warmer it is. Miles and miles of hemlock and pine and cedar and underbrush effectually bar the blizzard. There is plenty of wood there are lots of skins and blankets, food could be had for the seeking it—what a lovely time they must have had to be sure! In spite of the fact that they lived so much in the open air, they were so very healthy and strong that you'd think they would have lived forever. But the palefaces brought the diseases of the effete, civilization to the camps of the redskins and sad havoc they wrought. Smallpox, measles, and even chickenpox and mumps killed them off like flies. One white man could drink a whole tribe blind drunk. A white man could outrun them, outfight them and would stand hunger, thirst and hardship longer.

I have a theory as to that and it is—salt. Indians used salt sparingly; indeed, tribes there were who used it not at all. How they swallowed fresh fish or fresh meat without salt was always a puzzle to me. Try eating fresh meats for a week without salt and you will have to give it up. You couldn't swallow it; it wouldn't go down your throat. The salt eaters, wherever they may be are the dominant race. They are the only people who can fight smallpox and plague and who make a stand against drugs and liquor. And they are the only people who don't know when they are liked.

A barrel of salt will go further than a barrel of powder in the struggle for supremacy. Salt has done more for our empire than lyddite or giant powder.

If you go to the Olympic games in England next summer you will find that all the great athletes are salt eaters.—The Khan.

Joan of Ark Will Soon Be Canonized at Rome

Rome, March 26.—The vast Hall of Beatifications over the porch of the Church of Saint Peter and communicating directly with the Papal apartments has been decorated and made ready for several ceremonies of great splendor which are to take place this year honor of the fiftieth anniversary of the ordination of Pope Pius X.

A huge throne has been erected and sitting facilities provided for the cardinals. Two tribunes have been built that will accommodate the members of the diplomatic corps accredited to the Holy See and the Pope's relations. It is from this hall that the election of anew Pope is proclaimed after the conclave has decided.

In this beautiful hall there will be this year some big functions. One will be the canonisation of Joan of Arc, the Maid of Orleans. After discussion pending nearly fifty years, Pius X. has decided the ceremony shall be performed in his jubilee year and preparations are being made in France to attend it. It is believed more than five thousand French Catholics will come here for the occasion and that nearly all the bishops of France will be present and surround the Papal throne.

WILL MAKE SPEECH.

The Pope wil make a speech detailing not only his admiration for the French heroine, but also his love for France, which caused him to add a newa saint to the country's calendar.

The beatification of the Venerable Mother Barat, foundress of the Order of the Sacred Heart, is to take place May 2nd, and for the occasion many members of that order will come from all over the world, especially from the United States where the order has astrong footing. Special privileges will be granted at the Vatican to the members of the order who attend, as the order has borne all the expenses connected with the beatification and celebration.

Another beatification which will probably take place this year is that of Father Endes, the founder of the order called the "Endites." This is under he consideration of the Congregation of Rites, which assembled the other day and pronounced itself favorably on it.

There will be many more such celebrations at the Vatican this year which will end only when the Pope has said his jubilee mass in St. Peter's in September.

Both the immediate predecessors of the present Pope had jubilee years. Pius IX. celebrated the fiftieth anniversary of his episcopal consecration and he received thousands of presents. They came from all over the world, and a great number of them were of cash, which was set aside for a rainy day. The money amounted to more than $1,00 000.

MANY RICH GIFTS.

Then came the jubilee of Leo XIII, and for the occasion special halls had to be found to exhibit to the public the gifts received. Some of these were of great value, consisting of gorgeous church vestments and sacred vessels of silver and gold. A large sum of money also was received, but the exact amount was never known.

This year the jubilee ceremonies will not be so elaborate as those under the preceding pontificates because Pius X. shrinks from publicity.

Already the Pope has received a French, a German and a Piedmontese pilgrimage and the receptions will continue until September.

Producer Gas Will Never be Competitor of Niagara Power

Report of Hydro-Electric Commission Makes This Clear—Experiments Have Shown Producer Gas to be largely a Failure.

A Toronto despatch says;

The report of the hydro-electric power commission on producer gas engines as a competitor against steam and Niagara power was laid on the table of the legislature this afternoon by Hon. Adam Beck. The report points out that producer gas engines will never come into serious competition with Niagara power at anything like the rates quoted in the report of the commission, issued some time ago.

The report states that users of small amounts of power will be best served by electric power, where it can be obtained at a price not exceeding by more than 15 to 25 per cent. the power developed by gas, gasoline or oil engines. If electric power is not obtainable, their wants will be best served by means of small gas, gasoline or oil engines. Users of large amounts of power where the load fluctuates, will be justified in paying for electric power 30 per cent. more than the cost per brake horse-power if obtained from some gas producer engines. If electric power cannot be obtained, steam power will be found more serviceable. Power users who require steam for heating purposes will only be justified in paying for electric power per electric horse power a price equivalent to 60 to 85 per cent. of the cost of steam power per brake horse power. If it cannot be obtained for this, they will be served by a steam engine.

Where the cost of producer gas power does not work out 25 per cent. below the cost of hydro-electric power per horse power, it will be advisable to use hydro-electric power. A producer gas plant is advised for those only using fairly steady loads, in fairly large quantities of power. In the future the increasing price of coal in Ontario will probably allow producer gas plants to compete successfully with steam plants even in cases where exhaust steam could have been used for heating and manufacturing purposes.

This increase in the price of coal will extend over the areas where the hydro-electric power can be profitably distributed, and the producer gas plant will occupy an intermediary position in the superceding of steam by hydro-electric power. Natural gas, in some sections of Ontario, may enable for a time the production of power cheaper than from any other source, but the lack of permanency in the natural gas supply will not justify the sinking of heavy capital in such a plant

The value of water powers of the Province of Ontario as a whole depends on their conservation and development along lines of the hydro-velopment along lines which will require the selling price of the hydro-electric power to be based on the cost of its development and transmission, and not on the cost of generating power by some other agency to compete with it.

The report gives instances of commercial concerns in all parts of the country where experiments have been made with gas producer plants, and these have proved very great failures and in many instances extremely costly.

John Bull is Not Such a Bad Fellow After All's Said and Done

A Careful Summing Up of the Immigration Question—How the United States is Built Up.

The controversy relating to the desirability of Englishmen as settlers for Canada has brought 'An Englishman' to the defence of his countrymen in the following letter addressed to the Editor of the Star which the writer heads 'Uncle Sam Bull.'

UNCLE SAM BULL

'For he himself has said it,
And it's greatly to his credit,
That he is an Englishman.'

Those who read the daily papers will have noted that Englishmen are said to be the least welcome immigrants in Canada. This must come as a surprise to everyone, for it has always been an article of our national faith to believe that John Bull comes second to none, whether European, American or Asiatic. Is there any real ground for this faith that we have in ourselves? While travelling recently in the United States I came across which is probably the best evidence existing iof an Englishman's capacity to take the lead of all other people.

An American asked me what I thought of his country and I said it was a very fine country.

'And what do you think of the American people,' he asked.

I said they were very fine people, too

'You have nothing to equal them in England,' he said.

'But where did you get them,' I inquired.

He could not answer offhand, so we went into the question and here is what we found;

In the United States every man has equal chances, with every one else. At the last census it was found that there were nearly 37 millions of inhabitants who were born in foreign countries or born in America of foreign parents. Of these only 2,989,762 were of purely English blood; 10,-1601,825 were German; Of English Scottish and Irish combined there were 112,896,000; but of Germans, Norwegians, Swedes, Italians, etc. there were 23,763,000. Now it is quite obvious that among America's leading men, Germans and others ought to make a good showing in a country of equal chances. There are a lot of old English descendants there, but at present more than half the population must be of continental blood. If Englishmen hold the vast majority of the leading positions it must be because they are the best men. The result of our investigation so surprised my American friend, that he drank to the health of John Bull right away.

There have been 29 men in the highest office in the land—the Presidency—since America gained her independence in 1789. These included 14 of English ancestry; 13 of Scotch Welsh and Irish; 2 of Dutch ancestry not a solitary German, Frenchman, Swede, Italian or anything else.

Now take the 26 vice-Presidents; 17 were of English blood; 5 were of Scottish, Welsh, and Irish blood; 2 were of Dutch blood.

Remembering that anyone, provided he has the ability and was born in America may be the President or Vice President, this is a marvellous tribute to British capacity.

Of course, the United States has men corresponding to our Ministers of the Crown—War Secretary, Army Secretary, Navy Secretary, Postmaster-General, etc. Let us lump them all together. There have been 291 of them in all during the past century and a quarter. Of these, 268 were English, Scottish, Welsh and Irish. 9 were French; 5 were German, 3 were Dutch; 6 we could not allot to any particular nation.

Now, here is a more surprising fact still. The United States representatives in foreign countries would be chosen, one would think, from all nationalities among her citizens; but, of course, the President chooses above all the ablest men. Now, of all the United States' Ministers to England, Russia, France, Germany, Italy, Austria, and Spain, 238 have been English, Irish, Scottish or Welsh; 23 Germans, French, Dutch etc. Thus both the home and the foreign policy of the United States are determined by Englishmen. Could we ask a better proof that John Bull's faith in himself is well founded?

We have more proof. In the American Parliament there are 90 Senators and 386 Representatives, corresponding to our Lords and Commons. Of these Senators, 85 have English, Irish, Scottish aor Welsh names; 5 have French, Dutch or other names; Of their representatives 331 have English, Irish, Scottish and Welsh names, 19 have German names; 37 have French, Dutch, German and other names

Each State has a Parliament of its own—the State Legislature. We cannot go through the whole fifty-one State Legislatures, but we take that of the State of New York as an example. In the Assembly of 150, there are 124 members with English, Scottish, etc., names, and only 26 representing all other countries. And of the 'Governors' of the State since the revolution no less than 36 have been of English blood, to only 3 of all other countries.

The United States is certainly ruled by Englishmen. And why? Because it finds Englishmen to be the best rulers.

But they are also apparently the best judges, lawyers, army officials, best judges, lawyers, army officers and navy officers. There have been sixty-two judges in the highest position since 1987, judges of the Supreme Court. Of these, no fewer than 58 were unmistakably English, Scottish, Welsh or Irish and only 4 French, Germans, etc. Here are the names of the present chief justice and his associates —all British it will be see; Chief Justce Fulleir, Judges Day, White, Holmes, Brewer, Peckham, Harlan, Moody and McKenna.

There are also 30 circuit judges and 25 of them are undisputably British. There are 90 district judges, and 78 are English, Scottish, etc., and the list of United States marshalls and attorneys tells the same tale, John Bull runs the American legal business from top to bottom.

Lastly, take the Army and Navy. In the Army, anyhow, the continental emigrants have even a better chance than the Englishman. But what, do we find? The highest army officer is Lieut.-General McArthur. Next below him are seven major-generals, named Wade, Wood, Ainsworth, Weston, Grant, Greely and Lee. Then come 27 Brigadier-generals of whom all but three are English, Scottish, Welsh or Irish. These are followed by 1110 colonels and 92 of them are English etc.; 127 lieutenant-colonels of whom 110 are English in name; and 360 majors, of whom only 45 have continental names, the remaining 315 being British. The same is found in the Navy—British always on top. The supreme officer is Admiral Dewey. The next in rank are Rear Admirals Evans, Sands, Sigsbee, Goodrich, Davis, Craig, Thomas, nSow, Mead, Brownson, Stockton, nSow, Mead, Brownson, Stockton, Walker, Dayton, Sperry, Burwell, Berry, Swinburne, Hemphill, Emery, Very, Lyon and Reiter.

This is something for John Bull to be proud of. But also of the seventy captains, 655 are British and of the 107 commanders, 91 are of our own blood.

'Well,' said my American acquaintance, "I guess John Bull must do things pretty well at home, anyhow.'

'Make no mistake about it,' I said, "at home and abroad — wherever John Bull goes, he is the leader of white men.'

'Sort of defies competition,' he said. "Well, yes, there's more in John Bull than I thought.'

Dear Editor—I will be under a great obligation to you if you will kindly publish the true facts.

I remain,

Yours sincerely,
AN ENGLISHMAN

Frank Oliver, 364 Notre Dame, West Montreal.

BEAUTIFYING THE CITY

In regard to the beautification of Peterborough for the summer there arises the annual question of vacant lots, which soon become unsightly, overgrown with weeds, and detract from all schemes for the enchantment of the outlook of the streets and boulevards This year something should be done to overcome these drawbacks which are in modern cities signs of the past. The matter is one of difficult, but the Review invites suggestions from its readers as to schemes to beautify even the vacant lot.

One suggestion made already is that the poor of the city be allowed to make use of the grounds not now used as gardens, on condition that they would be kept tidy. It would possibly not be difficult to obtain permission for this and vacant lot gardens would look better than unsightly weeds and ragged grasses Then it might be possible to fringe the vegetable growth with some sort of flowering plants and thus set off the neater effects of the lot Prosperous looking gardens would enhance the value of vacant lots so far as appearance goes and the idea of aiding the poor in this way seems a good

Meantime the Review awaits suggestions this year for the making of a city beautiful or on cleaning up campaigns It will be remembered that a despatch recently published in these columns from Spokane gave the plan of campaign for a cleaning up day in that city. One day was set aside by the mayor as a holiday when everyone set to work to remove unsightly fences, rubbish and eyesores, to clean up gardens and do everything that would add to the cleanliness of the city and a more prosperous outlook all round. Would such idea be feasible in Peterborough.

The Peterborough Horticultural Society are doing a large share in assisting those with gardens to make a fine showing

It is felt by the Review that the experiences and suggestions of all are worthy of publication in the growth of a patriotic beautifying campaign. Therefore space will be given as far as possible to the ideas of all Practical experience in planting, horticultural suggestions, notes of other cities and general impressions will be welcomed The small garden and lot should not be overlooked as there lies much in the near row of lesser plots flowers, lawns or gardens

REMINISCENCES OF THE BACKWOODS

By. F. M. Dela Fosse, Lakefield, in the "Busy Man's Magazine"

It is to be regretted that no novelist or descriptive writer has as yet treated in a really intelligible manner the life of that sturdy specimen of manhood, the Canadian backwoodsman. From the days of Marryat and of Mrs. Moodie, down to the present, tales purporting to be descriptive of life in the backwoods have indeed emanated from the press, but they have dealt to a large extent with the doings of isolated families, and little is to be gleaned from their pages of the trend of existence in the forest homes of the Dominion.

Although the settler, to those who know him best, is a being somewhat below the heroic level where certain hysterical rhapsodists have tried to place him, be is, in the main, a fair representative of what is physically, if not morally excellent in man. His character partakes of the nature of his surroundings. He is often rough of speech and uncouth in his manner and bearing, and can, on occasion run amuck of the Ten Commandments with as great skill and address as any of his more civilized brethren of the towns and cities; but his kindness and hospitality are proverbial, and in his daily battle for a livelihood he stands forth, the very incarnation of the twin virtues, Perseverance and Pluck. I know him well, for force of circumstances more than inclination caused me, at the outset of my career to pass many years in the northern woods where actual experience taught me something of the vicissitudes and trials of a settler's life. Fresh from England, and with insular ideas and prejudices deeply rooted within me, the new life was a revelation. The section of land allotted to me was in a free grant district. It was situated forty-five miles from the terminus of a railway, and could only be reached on foot or by ox-waggon over the most villainous road in existence. Many of my neighbors, new arrivals like myself, were in a state of the deepest poverty, and subsisted as best they could on a fare in which bread very often did not form one of the component features. Turnips and tea were the daily sustenance of more than one family, and in order to procure even these necessaries, the poor souls were obliged to tramp seven miles through the woods and carry them in on their backs. Often this task was allotted to the lady of the establishment, the husband being too busily employed in clearing the land to spare time for the errand. Women, also, and young girls chopped in the woods alongside their husbands and fathers, and helped together with the smaller children in the heavy labor of logging in the burnt fallows. But in every way possible, the settlers formed a community of interest, working shoulder to shoulder in the erection of their humble shanties and in getting small acreages ready for crop. In certain cases, two or three families shared one domicile and the filth and degradation engendered by such close association, almost passed belief. One shack, at a liberal measurement, not more than six feet by twelve in size, held a family of seven. Their only furniture was a stove and the culinary outfit was limited to a frying pan, a pail with a hole in it and two or three cracked cups and saucers. The domestic arrangements of this imagination.

ILLNESS ALMOST UNKNOWN.

Doctors very rarely penetrated to our section. Illness was uncommon and even when the need arose for the services of a practitioner there were individuals in plenty living amongst us ready and eager to fill the gap. There is nothing that appeals so much to the taste of your true backwoodsman as prescribing for another's ailments or participating with him in his woe. Some of these forest galens have been known to apply hoof ointment to a cancer, and to practice dentistry by the simple but effective use of a hammer and a three-inch nail. Men acted as obstetrical experts to their wives, and here and there a woman was to be found who dabbled in occult science and exorcised "the evil eye." Their diagnoses and prescriptions were of a nature to make an undertaker smile.

Many of them were hopelessly ignorant. Sprung from God knows where, many of them went to God only knows where, but here and there amongst them there certainly shone forth spirits of a superior type—men and women of education and refinement—for whom it was only a question of time ere the wretchedness of poverty should be transformed into the brightness of a prosperous and happy farm life. They were flowers of fragrance in a wilderness of weeds. That there were criminals and fugitives from justice living amongst us was early made evident. One quiet, unobtrusive gentleman in particular, whose amiable disposition had made him a favorite in the section, caused quite a sensation by suddenly disappearing. But it was nothing to the excitement caused by the subsequent discovery that he had been spirited across the border on the charge of murdering a fellow-workman, found guilty and executed.

Sunday services used to be held in different shanties which were generally well attended, and a certain wild-eyed being of heterodox ideas used to preach in the open air, and baptize his victims in the river, leaving them to dry themselves as best they could by a brisk walk through the woods. Amongst his flock was a shrivelled up old hag who pretended to a knowledge of witchcraft and for a small consideration offered to remove the baleful influence of the "evil eye." The "evil eye" in one particular section was supposed to be operated by a certain Mrs. Patrick O'Brannigan, a detestable creature, who could have held her own in cursing and blasphemy with any blackguard in Christendom. If lovers proved faithless, butter refused to churn, children died, or husbands levanted, Mrs. O'Brannigan was supposed to be at the bottom of the trouble, and the old beldame already mentioned was the one to whom sufferers turned for succor in their different afflictions. Her mode of procedure was a simple but horrible one. It consisted in the tying of knots in a rope and in the muttering of mysterious incantations during the process. Every knot tied was supposed to cause a spasm of pain in the offender's diaphragm, and poor disreputable Mrs. O'Brannigan would have had a hard time of it, indeed, had there been any virtue in the charm. There is much pathos, much humor in the settler's existence. How can it be otherwise when he leads a life of such unimaginable incident? One has but to travel along any of the northern roads to note in many a clearing a little grass grown plot surrounded by a picket fence. These mounds contain the tragedies of the backwoods. Heartbroken mothers of a bygone day, little infants, and suicides who found the strain too great for their strength and perished in their despair, lie under those desolate hillocks. But under these storm-worn crusts of earth lie also the remains of many a noble and heroic man, many a patient and long-suffering mother, who fought the battle of like prayerfully and well and sank peacefully to their slumbers after the successful struggle. Unmarked by monument or inscription these graves stand on the bleak hillsides bearing eloquent testimony to the storm and stress of forest life.

HUMOR AT A FUNERAL.

Occasionally the pathos and humor get so intermingled that it would be hard to distinguish which of the two preponderates. It was my fate once to be a participant in a funeral in which, although I could not see where the humor came in, others held a different view altogether. A young fellow who had been married only a short time had died of consumption. It was in the early spring, the lakes and rivers had only been free of ice a few days and the lowlying lands lying between the cemetery and the late habitation of the departed, were deeply flooded. In one particular place the lake had overflowed its banks to such an extent that there were six to eight feet of water covering the road. Feeling that the mourners knew nothing of the real state of affairs, I rowed across the lake and poled my boat through the bushes to the flooded portion of the road to await the funeral cortege. Long before it came in sight the rough lumber wagon bearing the remains could be heard bumping over the rocks as the horses were driven slowly down the steep declivities. At last it came in sight with three or four mourners holding on to the coffin in order to prevent it jumping out on the road. When the party arrived where I was stationed, consternation sat on every face. At least one hundred yards of flood lay between them and the dry land on the opposite side. The horses could not possibly attempt to ford it; the only thing to be done was to transfer the shell to the boat and haveit for the shell to the boat and have it ferrried across. The boat was a small one and after some hesitation the party asked me to ferry the remains across. It was one of the hardest tasks I ever encountered. In some places the road had to be abandoned for a course through the bushes fringing it, owing to the presence of little raised ridges which caused the craft to stand in mid-stream. Submerged stumps and fallen timber obstructed my progress, but by constant use of an axe and by dint of alternate poling and pulling at the bushes, I managed at last to strike the opposite bank Now came the great difficulty. It had taken four men to lift the shell into the boat and only one man was available to help me get it on shore.

Placing the boat alongside the bank we got each at one end, and with one foot on shore and the other in the boat, lifted the shell. Just as we did so the boat shot away from the bank. There was no way out of it. It was a case of throwing the coffin into the water or going in ourselves, and we naturally chose the latter alternative. In we went, up to our necks, much to the joy of certain small urchins and men who had arrived on the hillside just in time to see the mishap, but to the dire indignation of the mourners who looked upon this misadventure as a gross indignity to the dead. The man who had helped me scrambled out as quickly as he could and the first words he uttered as soon as he had recovered from the shock of the cold water, were not words of Scripture.

Shivering, as though seized with sudden agues, I too, got out and looked ruefully at the boat now some twenty feet away from the roadway, 'How are we going to get it back?' I inquired. 'Blamed if I know and blamed if I care,' said this man.

BEVERLY OF GRAUSTARK

By GEORGE BARR M'CUTCHEON, Author of "Graustark." Copyright 1904, by Dodd, Mead and Company.

"Prince Gabriel, his half brother, is the son of Prince Louis III. by his first wife, who was a Polish countess. After her death, when Gabriel was two years old, the prince married Lady Ida. Dantan is their son. He has a sister, Candace, who is but nineteen years of age."

"I am ashamed to confess that you know so much more about my neighbors than I," she said.

"I lived in Dawsbergen for a little while and was ever interested in the doings of royalty. That is a poor man's privilege, you know."

"Prince Gabriel must be a terrible man," cried Beverly, her heart swelling with tender thoughts of the exiled Dantan and his little sister.

"You have cause to know," said he shortly, and she was perplexed until she recalled the stories of Gabriel's misdemeanors at the court of Edelweiss.

"Is Prince Dantan as handsome as they say he is?" she asked.

"It is entirely a matter of opinion," he replied. "I for one do not consider him at all prepossessing."

The day went on, fatiguing, distressing in its length and its happenings. Progress was necessarily slow, the perils of the road increasing as the little cavalcade wound deeper and deeper into the wilderness. There were times when the coach fairly crawled along the edge of a precipice, a proceeding so hazardous that Beverly shuddered as if in a chill. Aunt Fanny slept serenely most of the time, and Baldos took to dreaming with his eyes wide open. Contrary to her expectations, the Axphainians did not appear, and if there were robbers in the hills they thought better than to attack the valorous looking party. It dawned upon her finally that the Axphainians were guarding the upper route and not the one over which she was traveling. Yetive doubtless was approaching Ganlook over the northern pass, provided the enemy had not been encountered before Labbot was reached. Beverly soon found herself fearing for the safety of the princess, a fear which at last became almost unendurable.

Near nightfall they came upon three Graustark shepherds and learned that Ganlook could not be reached before the next afternoon. The tired, hungry travelers spent the night in a snug little valley through which a rivulet bounded onward to the river below. The supper was a scant one, the foragers having poor luck in the hunt for food. Daybreak saw them on their way once more. Hunger and dread had worn down Beverly's supply of good spirits; she was having difficulty in keeping the haggard, distressed look from her face. Her tender, hopeful eyes were not so bold or so merry as on the day before; cheerfulness cost her an effort, but she managed to keep it fairly alive. Her escort, wretched and half starved, never forgot the deference due to their charge, but strode steadily on with the doggedness of martyrs. At times she was impelled to disclose her true identity, but discretion told her that deception was her best safeguard.

Late in the afternoon of the second day the front axle of the coach snapped in two, and a tedious delay of two hours ensued. Baldos was strangely silent and subdued. It was not until the misfortune came that Beverly observed the flushed condition of his face. Involuntarily and with the compassion of a true woman, she touched his hand and brow. They were burning hot. The wounded man was in a high fever. He laughed at her fears and scoffed at the prospect of blood poisoning and the hundred other possibilities that suggested themselves to her anxious brain.

"We are close to Ganlook," he said, with the setting of the sun. "Soon you may be relieved of your tiresome, cheerless company, your highness."

"You are going to a physician," she said resolutely, alive and active once more, now that the worst part of the journey was coming to an end. "Tell that man to drive in a gallop all the rest of the way."

CHAPTER VIII.

By this time they were passing the queer little huts that marked the outskirts of a habitable community. These were the homes of shepherds, hunters and others whose vocations related especially to the mountains. Farther on there were signs of farming interests; the homes became more numerous and more pretentious in appearance. The rock lined gorge broadened into a fertile valley; the road was smooth and level, a condition which afforded relief to the travelers. Ravone had once more dressed the wounds inflicted by the lion, but he was unable to provide anything to subdue the fever. Baldos was undeniably ill. Beverly, between her exclamations of joy and relief at being in sight of Ganlook, was profuse in her expressions of concern for the hero of the Hawk and Raven. The feverish gleam in his dark eyes and the pain that marked his face touched her deeply. Suffering softened his lean, sun browned features, obliterating the mocking lines that had impressed her so unfavorably at the outset. She was saying to herself that he was handsome after a most unusual cast; it was an unforgettable face.

"Your highness," he said earnestly, after she had looked long and anxiously at his half closed eyes, "we are within an hour of Ganlook. It will be dark before we reach the gates, I know, but you have nothing to fear during the rest of the trip. Franz shall drive you to the sentry post and turn over the horses to your own men. My friends and I must leave you at the end of the mountain road. We are"—

"Ridiculous!" she cried. "I'll not permit it! You must go to a hospital."

"If I enter the Ganlook gates it will be the same as entering the gates of death," he protested.

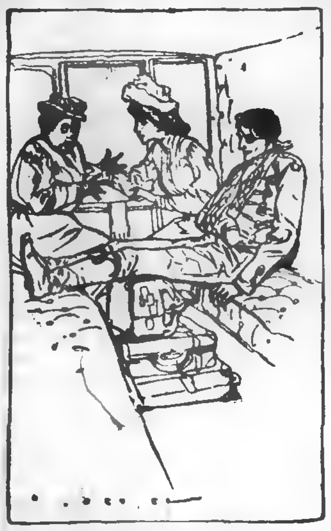
"Nonsense! You have a fever or you wouldn't talk like that. I can promise you absolute security."

"You do not understand, your highness."

"Nevertheless, you are going to a hospital," she firmly said. "You would die out here in the wilds, so what are the odds either way? Aunt Fanny, will you be careful? Don't you know that the least movement of those bags hurts him?"

"Please do not mind me, your highness. I am doing very well," he said, smiling.

The coach brought up in front of a roadside inn. While some of the men were watering the horses others gathered about its open window. A conversation in a tongue utterly incomprehensible to Beverly took place between Baldos and his followers. The latter seemed to be disturbed about something, and there was no mistaking the solicitous air with which they regarded their leader. The pseudo princess was patient as long as possible and then broke into the discussion.



"Aunt Fanny, will you be careful?"

"What do they want?" she demanded in English.

"They are asking for instructions," he answered.

"Instruct them to do as I bid," she said. "Tell them to hurry along and get you a doctor; that's all."

Evidently his friends were of the same opinion, for after a long harangue in which he was obdurate to the last they left the carriage, and he sank back with a groan of dejection.

"What is it?" she anxiously demanded.

"They also insist that I shall go to a surgeon," he said hopelessly. His eyes were moist, and he could not meet her gaze. She was full of exultation. "They have advised me to put myself under your protection, shameless as that may seem to a man. You and you alone have the power to protect me if I pass beyond the walls of Ganlook."

"I?" she cried, all a-flutter.

"I could not thrust my head into the jaws of death unless the princess of Graustark were there to stay their fury. Your royal hand alone can turn aside the inevitable. Alas, I am helpless and know not what to do!"

Beverly Calhoun sat very straight and silent beside the misguided Baldos. After all, it was not within her power to protect him. She was not the princess, and she had absolutely no influence in Ganlook. The authorities there could not be deceived as had been these ignorant men of the hills. If she led him into the city it was decidedly probable that she might be taking him to his death. She could only petition, not command. Once at Yetive's side she was confident she could save the man who had done so much for her, but Ganlook was many miles from Edelweiss, and there was no assurance that intervention could be obtained in time. On the other hand, if he went back to the hills he was likely to die of the poisonous fever. Beverly was in a most unhappy state of mind. If she confessed to him that she was not the princess he would refuse to enter the gates of Ganlook, and be perfectly justified in doing so.

"But if I should fail?" she asked at last, a shiver rushing over her and leaving her cold with dread.

"You are the only hope, your highness. You had better say farewell to Baldos and let him again seek the friendly valley," said he wearily. "We can go no farther. The soldiers must be near, your highness. It means capture if we go on. I cannot expose my friends to the dangers. Let me be put down here and do you drive on to safety. I shall fare much better than you think, for I am young and strong and"—

"No! I'll risk it!" she cried. "You must go into the city. Tell them so, and say that I will protect you with my own life and honor."

Fever made him submissive. Her eyes gave him confidence. Her voice soothed his fears, if he possessed them. Leaning from the window he called his men together. Beverly looked on in wonder as these strange men bade farewell to their leader. Many of them were weeping, and most of them kissed his hand. There were broken sentences, tear choked promises, anxious inquiries, and the parting was over.

"Where are they going?" Beverly whispered as they moved away in the dusk.

"Back into the mountains to starve, poor fellows. God be kind to them, God be good to them," he half sobbed, his chin dropping to his breast. He was trembling like a leaf.

"Starve?" she whispered. "Have they no money?"

"We are penniless," came in muffled tones from the stricken leader.

Beverly leaned from the window and called to the departing ones. Ravone and one other reluctantly approached. Without a word she opened a small traveling bag and drew forth a heavy purse. This she pressed into the hand of the student. It was filled with Graustark gavvos, for which she had exchanged American gold in Russia.

"God be with you!" she fervently cried. He kissed her hand, and the two stood aside to let the coach roll on into the dusky shadows that separated them from the gates of Ganlook, old Franz still driving, the only one of the company left to serve his leader to the very end.

"Well, we have left them," muttered Baldos as though to himself. "I may never see them again—never see them again. And how true they have been!"

"I shall send for them the moment I get to Ganlook, and I'll promise pardons for them all!" she cried rashly in her compassion.

"No," he exclaimed fiercely; "you are not to disturb them. Better that they should starve."

Beverly was sufficiently subdued. As they drew nearer the city gates her heart began to fail her. This man's life was in her weak, incapable hands, and the time was nearing when she must stand between him and disaster.

"Where are these vaunted soldiers of yours?" he suddenly asked, infinite irony in his voice.

"My soldiers?" she said faintly.

"Isn't it rather unusual that in time of trouble and uncertainty we should be able to approach within a mile of one of your most important cities without even so much as seeing a soldier of Graustark?"

She felt that he was scoffing, but it mattered little to her.

"It is a bit odd, isn't it?" she agreed.

"Worse than that, your highness."

"I shall speak to Dangloss about it," she said serenely, and he looked up in new surprise. Truly she was an extraordinary princess.

Fully three-quarters of an hour passed before the coach was checked. Beverly, looking from the windows, had seen the lighted windows of cottages growing closer and closer together. The barking of roadside dogs was the only sound that could be heard above the rattle of the wheels. It was too dark inside the coach to see the face of the man beside her, but something told her that he was staring intently into the night, alert and anxious. The responsibility of her position swooped down upon her like an avalanche as she thought of what the next few minutes were to bring forth. It was the sudden stopping of the coach and the sharp commands from the outside that told her probation was at an end. She could no longer speculate; it was high time to act.

"The outpost," came from Baldos, in strained tones.

"Perhaps they won't know us—you, I mean," she whispered.

"Baron Dangloss knows everybody," he replied bitterly.

"What a horrid old busybody he"—she started to say, but thought better of it.

A couple of lanterns flashed at the window, almost blinding her. Aunt Fanny groaned audibly, but the figure of Baldos seemed to stiffen with defiance. Uniformed men peered into the interoir with more rudeness and curiosity than seemed respectful to a princess, to say the least. They saw a pretty, pleading face, with wide gray eyes and parted lips, but they did not bow in humble submission, as Baldos had expected. One of the men, evidently in command, addressed Beverly in rough but polite tones. It was a question that he asked, she knew, but she could not answer him, for she could not understand him.

"What do you want?" she put in English, with a creditable display of dignity.

"He does not speak English, your highness," volunteered Baldos, in a voice so well disguised that it startled her. The officer was staring blankly at her.

"Every officer in my army should and must learn to speak English," she said, at her wits' end. "I decline to be questioned by the fellow. Will you talk to him in my stead?"

"I, your highness?" he cried in dismay.

"Yes. Tell him who we are and ask where the hospital is," she murmured, sinking back with the air of a queen, but with the inward feeling that all was lost.

"But I don't speak your language well," he protested.

"You speak it beautifully," she said. Baldos leaned forward painfully and spoke to the officer in the Graustark tongue.

"Don't you know your princess?" he demanded a trifle harshly. The man's eyes flew wide open in an instant and his jaw dropped.

"The—the princess?" he gasped.

"Don't stare like that, sir. Direct us to the main gate at once, or you will have cause to regret your slowness."

"But the princess was—is coming by the northern pass," mumbled the man. "The guard has gone out to meet her and"— Baldos cut him off shortly with the information that the princess, as he could see, had come by the lower pass and that she was eager to reach a resting place at once. The convincing tone of the speaker and the regal indifference of the lady had full effect upon the officer, who had never seen her highness. He fell back with a deep obeisance and gave a few bewildered commands to his men. The coach moved off, attended by a party of foot soldiers, and Beverly breathed her first sigh of relief.

"You did it beautifully," she whispered to Baldos, and he was considerably puzzled by the ardor of her praise. "Where are we going now?" she asked.

"Into the city, your highness," he answered. It was beginning to dawn upon him that she was amazingly ignorant and inconsequential for one who enjoyed the right to command these common soldiers. Her old trepidation returned with this brief answer. Something told her that he was beginning to mistrust her at last. After all, it meant everything to him and so little to her.

When the coach halted before the city gates she was in a dire state of unhappiness. In the darkness she could feel the reproachful eyes of old Aunt Fanny searching for her abandoned conscience.

"Ask if Baron Dangloss is in Ganlook, and, if he is, command them to take me to him immediately," she whispered to Baldos, a sudden inspiration seizing her. She would lay the whole matter before the great chief of police and trust to fortune. Her hand fell impulsively upon his and, to her amazement, it was as cold as ice. "What is the matter?" she cried in alarm.

"You trusted me in the wilds, your highness," he said tensely; "I am trusting you now." Before she could reply the officer in charge of the Ganlook gates appeared at the coach window. There were lights on all sides. Her heart sank like lead. It would be a miracle if she passed the gates unrecognized.

"I must see Baron Dangloss at once," she cried in English, utterly disdaining her instructions to Baldos.

"The baron is engaged at present and can see no one," responded the good looking young officer in broken English.

"Where is he?" she demanded nervously.

"He is at the house of Colonel Goaz, the commandant. What is your business with him?"

"It is with him, and not with you, sir," she said, imperious once more. "Conduct me to him immediately."

"You cannot enter the gates unless you"—

"Insolence!" exclaimed Baldos. "Is this the way, sir, in which you address the princess? Make way for her."

"The princess!" gasped the officer. Then a peculiar smile overspread his face. He had served three years in the castle guard at Edelweiss! There was a long pause, fraught with disaster for Beverly. "Yes, perhaps it is just as well that we conduct her to Baron Dangloss," he said at last. The deep meaning in his voice appealed only to the unhappy girl. "There shall be no further delay, your highness!" he added mockingly. A moment later the gates swung open and they passed through. Beverly alone knew that they were going to Baron Dangloss under heavy guard, virtually as prisoners. The man knew her to be an impostor and was doing only his duty.

There were smiles of derision on the faces of the soldiers when Beverly swept proudly between the files and up the steps leading to the commandant's door, but there were no audible remarks. Baldos followed, walking painfully, but defiantly, and Aunt Fanny came last, with the hand bag. The guards grinned broadly as the corpulent negress waddled up the steps. The young officer and two men entered the door with the wayfarers, who were ordered to halt in the hallway.

"Will your highness come with me?" said the officer, returning to the hall after a short absence. There was unmistakable derision in his voice and palpable insolence in his manner. Beverly flushed angrily. "Baron Dangloss is very curious to see you," he added, with a smile. Nevertheless he shrank a bit beneath the cold gleam in the eyes of the impostor.

"You will remain here," she said, turning to Baldos and the negress. "And you will have nothing whatever to say to this very important young man." The "important young man" actually chuckled.

"Follow me, your most royal highness," he said, preceding her through the door that opened into the office of the commandant. Baldos glared after them in angry amazement.

"Young man, some day—and soon—you will be a much wiser soldier—and in the ranks," said Beverly hotly. The smile instantly receded from the insolent fellow's face, for there was a world of prophecy in the way she said [illegible] mehow he was in a much more respectful humor when he returned to the hall and stood in the presence of the tall, flushed stranger with the ragged uniform.

A short, fierce little man in the picturesque uniform of a Graustark officer arose as Beverly entered the office. His short beard bristled as though it were concealing a smile, but his manner was polite, even deferential. She advanced fearlessly toward him, a wayward smile struggling into her face.

"I dare say you know I am not the princess," she said composedly. Every vestige of fear was gone now that she had reached the line of battle. The doughty baron looked somewhat surprised at this frank way of opening an interview.

"I am quite well aware of it," he said politely.

"They say you know every one, Baron Dangloss," she boldly said. "Pray, who am I?"

The powerful official looked at the smiling face for a moment, his bushy eyebrows contracting ever so slightly. There was a shameless streak of dust across her cheek, but there was also a dimple there that appealed to the grim old man. His eyes twinkled as he replied, with fine obsequiousness:

"You are Miss Beverly Calhoun of Washington."

CHAPTER IX.

BEVERLY'S eyes showed her astonishment. Baron Dangloss courteously placed a chair for her and asked her to be seated.

"We were expecting you, Miss Calhoun," he explained. "Her royal highness left St. Petersburg but a few hours after your departure, having unfortunately missed you."

"You don't mean to say that the princess tried to find me in St. Petersburg?" cried Beverly in wonder and delight.

"That was one of the purposes of her visit," said he brusquely.

"Oh, how jolly!" cried she, her gray eyes sparkling. The grim old captain was startled for the smallest fraction of a minute, but at once fell to admiring the fresh, eager face of the visitor.

"The public at large is under the impression that she visited the czar on matters of importance," he said, with a condescending smile.

"And it really was of no importance at all, that's what you mean?" She smiled back securely.

"Your message informing her highness of your presence in St. Petersburg had no sooner arrived than she set forth to meet you in that city, much against the advice of her counselors. I will admit that she had other business there, but it could have waited. You see, Miss Calhoun, it was a great risk at this particular time. Misfortune means disaster now. But Providence was her friend. She arrived safely in Ganlook not an hour since."

"Really? Oh, Baron Dangloss, where is she?" excitedly cried the American girl.

"For the night she is stopping with the Countess Rallowitz. A force of men, but not those whom you met at the gates, has just been dispatched at her command to search for you in the lower pass. You took the most dangerous road, Miss Calhoun, and I am amazed that you came through in safety."

"The Russians chose the lower pass, I know not why. Of course, I was quite ignorant. However, we met neither brigands nor soldiers. Axphain[illegible] Graustark. I encountered nothing more alarming than a mountain lion. And that, Baron Dangloss, recalls me to the sense of a duty I have been neglecting. A poor wanderer in the hills defended me against the beast and was badly wounded. He must be taken to a hospital at once, sir, where he may have the proper care."

"You are Miss Beverly Calhoun of Washington."

Whereupon, at his request, she hurriedly related the story of that trying journey through the mountains, not forgetting to paint the courage of Baldos in most glowing colors. The chief was deeply interested in the story of the goat hunter and his party. There was an odd gleam of satisfaction in his eyes, but she did not observe it.

"You will see that he has immediate attention, won't you?" she implored in the end.

"He shall have our deepest consideration," promised he.

"You know I am rather interested because I shot him, just as if it were not enough that his legs were being torn by the brute at the time. He ought not to walk, Baron Dangloss.

BEVERLEY OF GRAUSTARK

If you don't mind, I'd suggest an ambulance," she hurried on glibly. He could not conceal the smile that her eagerness inspired. "Really, he is in a serious condition. I think he needs some quinine and whisky, too, and"—

"He shall have the best of care," interrupted the captain. "Leave him to me, Miss Calhoun."

"Now, let me tell you something," said she, after due reflection. "You must not pay any attention to what he says. He is liable to be delirious and talk in a terrible sort of way. You know, delirious people never talk rationally." She was loyally trying to protect Baldos, the hunted, against any incriminating statements he might make.

"Quite right, Miss Calhoun," said the baron very gravely.

"And now, I'd like to go to the princess," said Beverly, absolutely sure of herself. "You know we are great friends, she and I."

"I have sent a messenger to announce your arrival. She will expect you." Beverly looked about the room in perplexity.

"But there has been no messenger here," she said.

"He left here some minutes before you came. I knew who it was that came knocking at our gates, even though she traveled as Princess Yetive of Graustark."

"And, oh, that reminds me, Baron Dangloss, Baldos still believes me to be the princess. Is it necessary to—to tell him the truth about me? Just at present, I mean? I'm sure he'll rest much easier if he doesn't know differently."

"So far as I am concerned, Miss Calhoun, he shall always regard you as a queen," said Dangloss gallantly.

"Thank you. It's very nice of you to"—

A man in uniform entered after knocking at the door of the room. He saluted his superior and uttered a few words in his own language.

"Her royal highness is awaiting you at the home of the countess, Miss Calhoun. A detail of men will escort you and your servant to her place."

"Now, please, Baron Dangloss," pleaded Beverly at the door, "be nice to him. You know it hurts him to walk. Can't you have him carried in?"

"If he will consent," said he quietly. Beverly hurried into the outer room after giving the baron a smile he never forgot. Baldos looked up eagerly, anxiously.

"It's all right," she said in low tones, pausing for a moment beside his chair. "Don't get up! Goodby. I'll come to see you tomorrow. Don't be in the least disturbed. Baron Dangloss has his instructions." Impulsively giving him her hand, which he respectfully raised to his lips, she followed Aunt Fanny and was gone.

Almost immediately Baldos was requested to present himself before Baron Dangloss in the adjoining room. Refusing to be carried in, he resolutely strode through the door and stood before the grim old captain of police, an easy, confident smile on his face. The black patch once more covered his eye with defiant assertiveness.

"They tell me you are Baldos, a goat hunter," said Baron Dangloss, eying him keenly.

"Yes."

"And you were hurt in defending one who is of much consequence in Graustark. Sit down, my good fellow." Baldos' eye gleamed coldly for an instant; then he sank into a chair. "While admitting that you have done Graustark a great service, I am obliged to tell you that I at least know you to be other than what you say. You are not a goat hunter, and Baldos is not your name. Am I not right?"

"You have had instructions from your sovereign, Baron Dangloss. Did they include a command to cross question me?" asked Baldos haughtily. Dangloss hesitated for a full minute.

"They did not. I take the liberty of inquiring on my own responsibility."

"Very well, sir. Until you have a right to question me, I am Baldos and a goat hunter. I think I am here to receive surgical treatment."

"You decline to tell me anything concerning yourself?"

"Only that I am injured and need relief."

"Perhaps I know more about you than you suspect, sir."

"I am not in the least interested, Baron Dangloss, in what you know. The princess brought me into Ganlook, and I have her promise of help and protection while here. That is all I have to say, except that I have implicit faith in her word."

Dangloss sat watching him in silence for some time. No one but himself knew what was going on in that shrewd, speculative mind. At length he arose and approached the proud fellow in rags.

"You have earned every consideration at our hands. My men will take you to the hospital, and you shall have the best of care. You have served our princess well. Tomorrow you may feel inclined to talk more freely with me, for I am your friend, Baldos."

"I am grateful for that, Baron Dangloss," said the other simply. Then he was led away, and a comfortable cot in the Ganlook hospital soon held his long, feverish frame, while capable hands took care of his wounds. He did not know it, but two fully armed soldiers maintained a careful guard outside his door under instructions from the head of the police. Moreover, a picked detail of men sallied forth into the lower pass in search of the goat hunter's followers.

In the meantime Beverly was conducted to the home of the Countess Rallowitz. Her meeting with the princess was most affectionate. There were tears, laughter and kisses. The whole atmosphere of the place suggested romance to the eager American girl. Downstairs were the royal guards. In the halls were attendants. All about were maidservants and obsequious lackeys, crowding the home of the kindly countess. At last, comfortable and free from the dust of travel, the two friends sat down to a dainty meal.

"Oh, I am so delighted," murmured Beverly for the hundredth time.

"I'm appalled when I think of the dangers you incurred in coming to me. No one but a very foolish American girl could have undertaken such a trip as this. Dear me, Beverly, I should have died if anything dreadful had happened to you. Why did you do it?" questioned the princess. And then they laughed joyously.

"And you went all the way to St. Petersburg to meet me, you dear, dear Yetive!" cried Beverly so warmly that the attentive servant forgot his mask of reverence.

"Wasn't it ridiculous of me? I know Gren would have forbidden it if he had been in Edelweiss when I started. And, more shame to me, the poor fellow is doubtless at the conference with Dawsbergen, utterly ignorant of my escapade. You should have heard the ministry—er—ah"— And the princess paused for an English word.

"Kick?" Beverly supplied.

"Yes. They objected violently. And, do you know, I was finally compelled to issue a private edict to restrain them from sending an appeal to Grenfall away off there on the frontier. Whether or no, my uncle insisted that he should be brought home, a three days' journey, in order that he might keep me from going to St. Petersburg. Of course they could not disobey my edict, and so poor Gren is none the wiser, unless he has returned from the conference. If he has, I am sure he is on the way to Ganlook at this very minute."

"What a whimsical ruler you are!" cried Beverly. "Upsetting everything sensible just to rush off hundreds of miles to meet me! And Axphain is trying to capture you too! Goodness, you must love me!"

"Oh, but I did have a trifling affair of state to lay before the czar, my dear! Tomorrow we shall be safe and sound in the castle, and it will all be very much worth while. You see, Beverly, dear, even princesses enjoy a diversion now and then. One wouldn't think anything of this adventure in the United States; it is the environment that makes it noticeable. Besides, you traveled as a princess. How did you like it?"

And then the conversation related particularly to the advantages of royalty as viewed from one side and the disadvantages as regarded from another. For a long time Beverly had been wondering how she should proceed in the effort to secure absolute clemency for Baldos. As yet she had said nothing to Yetive of her promise to him, made while she was a princess.

"At any rate, I'm sure the goat hunters would not have been so faithful and true if they had not believed me to be a princess," said Beverly, paving the way. "You haven't a man in your kingdom who could be more chivalrous than Baldos."

"If he is that kind of a man, he would treat any woman as gently."

"You should have heard him call me 'your highness,'" cried Beverly. "He will loathe me if he ever learns that I deceived him."

"Oh, I think he deceived himself," spoke Yetive easily. "Besides, you look as much like a princess as I."

"There is something I want to speak very seriously about to you, Yetive," said Beverly, making ready for the cast. "You see, he did not want to enter Ganlook with me, but I insisted. He had been so brave and gallant, and he was suffering so intensely. It would have been criminal in me to leave him out there in the wilderness, wouldn't it?"

"It would have been heartless."

"So I just made him come along. That was right, wasn't it? That's what you would have done, no matter who he was or what his objections might have been. Well, you see, it's this way, Yetive: He is some sort of a fugitive—not a criminal, you know, but just some one they are hunting for, I don't know why. He wouldn't tell me. That was perfectly right if he felt that way, wasn't it?"

"And he had fought a lion in your defense," supplemented Yetive, with a schoolgirl's ardor.

"And I had shot him in the arm, too," added Beverly. "So of course I just had to be reasonable. In order to induce him to come with me to a hospital I was obliged to guarantee perfect safety to him. His men went back to the hills, all except old Franz, the driver. Now, the trouble is this, Yetive: I am not the princess, and I cannot redeem a single promise I made to him. He is helpless, and if anything goes wrong with him he will hate me forever."

"No; [illegible] will hate me, for I am the princess, and he is none the wiser."

"But he will be told that his princess was Beverly Calhoun, a supposedly nice American girl. Don't you see how awkward it will be for me? Now, Yetive, darling, what I wish you to do is to write a note, order or edict or whatever it is to Baron Dangloss, commanding him to treat Baldos as a patient and not as a prisoner, and that when he is fully recovered he is to have the privilege of leaving Ganlook without reservation."

"But he may be a desperate offender against the state, Beverly," plaintively protested Yetive. "If we only knew what he is charged with."

"I'm afraid it's something dreadfully serious," admitted Beverly gloomily. "He doesn't look like the sort of man who would engage in a petty undertaking. I'll tell you his story, just as he told it to me," and she repeated the meager confessions of Baldos.

"I see no reason why we should hesitate," said the princess. "By his own statement he is not a desperate criminal. You did quite right in promising him protection, dear, and I shall sustain you. Do you want to play the princess to Baldos a little longer?"

"I should love it," cried Beverly, her eyes sparkling.

"Then I shall write the order to Dangloss at once. Oh, dear, I have forgotten, I have no official seal here."

"Couldn't you seal it with your ring?" suggested Beverly. "Oh, I have it! Send for Baron Dangloss and have him witness your signature. He can't get away from that, you see, and after we reach Edelweiss you can fix up a regular edict, seal and all," cried the resourceful American girl.

Ink and paper were sent for, and the two conspirators lent their wisdom to the task of preparing an order for the salvation of Baldos, the fugitive. The order read:

> To Baron Justo Dangloss, Commanding the Civic and Military Police of Graustark:
>
> You are hereby informed that Baldos, the man who entered the city with Miss Calhoun, is not to be regarded as a prisoner now or hereafter. He is to be given capable medical and surgical attention until fully recovered, when he is to be allowed to go his way in peace unquestioned.
>
> Also he is to be provided with suitable wearing apparel and made comfortable in every way.
>
> Also the members of his party, now in the hills (whose names are unknown to me), are to be accorded every protection. Franz, the driver, is to have his freedom if he desires it.
>
> And from this edict there is no recourse until its abatement by royal decree.
>
> YETIVE.

"There," said the princess, affixing her signature. "I think that will be sufficient." Then she rang for a servant. "Send to Baron Dangloss, and ask him to come here at once."

Fifteen minutes later the chief of police stood in the presence of the eager young interpreters of justice.

"I want you to witness my signature, Baron Dangloss," said the princess after the greetings.

"Gladly," said the officer.

"Well, here is where I signed," said Yetive, handing him the paper. "I don't have to write my name over again, do I?"

"Not at all," said the baron gallantly. And he boldly signed his name as a witness.

"They wouldn't do that in the United States," murmured Beverly, who knew something about red tape at Washington.

"It is a command to you, baron," said Yetive, handing him the document with a rare smile. He read it through slowly. Then he bit his lip and coughed. "What is the matter, baron?" asked Yetive, still smiling.

"A transitory emotion, your highness, that is all," said he, but his hand trembled as he folded the paper.

CHAPTER X.

BRIGHT and early the next morning the party was ready for the last of the journey to Edelweiss. Less than twenty miles separated Ganlook from the capital, and the road was in excellent condition. Beverly Calhoun, tired and contented, had slept soundly until aroused by the princess herself. Their rooms adjoined each other, and when Yetive, shortly after daybreak, stole into the American girl's chamber Beverly was sleeping so sweetly that the intruder would have retreated had it not been for the boisterous shouts of stable boys in the courtyard below the windows. She hurried to a window and looked out upon the gray cloaked morning. Postillions and stable boys were congregated near the gates, tormenting a ragged old man who stood with his back against one of the huge posts. In some curiosity, she called Beverly from her slumbers, urging the sleepy one to hasten to the window.

"Is this one of your friends from the wilderness?" she asked.

"It's Franz!" cried Beverly, rubbing her pretty eyes. Then she became thoroughly awake. "What are they doing to him? Who are those ruffians?" she demanded indignantly.

"They are my servants and"—

"Shame on them! The wretches! What has old Franz done that they should— Call to them; tell 'em you'll cut their heads off if they don't stop. He's a dear old fellow in spite of his rags, and he"—

The window sash flew open, and the tormentors in the court below were astonished by the sound of a woman's voice coming, as it were, from the clouds. A dozen pairs of eyes were turned upward; the commotion ended suddenly. In the window above stood two graceful, white robed figures. The sun, still far below the ridge of mountains, had not yet robbed the morning of the gray, dewy shadows that belong to 5 o'clock.

"What are you doing to that poor old man?" cried Yetive, and it was the first time any of them had seen anger in the princess' face. They slunk back in dismay. "Let him alone! You, Gartz, see that he has food and drink, and without delay. Report to me later on, sir, and explain, if you can, why you have conducted yourselves in so unbecoming a manner." Then the window was closed, and the princess found herself in the warm arms of her friend.

"I couldn't understand a word you said, Yetive, but I knew you were giving it to them hot and heavy. Did you see how nicely old Franz bowed to you? Goodness, his head almost touched the ground!"

"He was bowing to you, Beverly. You forgot that you are the princess to him."

"Isn't that funny? I had quite forgotten it. The poor old goose!"

Later, when the coaches and escort were drawn up in front of the Rallowitz palace ready for the start, the princess called the chief postilion, Gartz, to the step of her coach.

"What was the meaning of the disturbance I witnessed this morning?" she demanded.

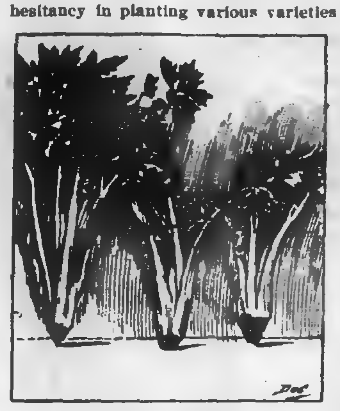
Farm, Field and Garden

UPLANDS CELERY.

A Marsh Crop Successfully Raised on Dry Soil.

Celery we all know is a plant that likes humus laden moist land; hence people who have not tried calmly state as a fact the cheerful fiction that celery cannot be raised on a market garden soil much above the water level. Having raised the sweetest and crispest celery in our back yard (which has been tilled for a century or so as a vegetable garden), we had no hesitancy in planting various varieties at No. 1 experiment station of the Long Island railroad, having been assured it would not even grow, but we took second prize at the county fair with this celery.



SPECIMEN PLANTS.

No. 1 station, according to the United States geological survey, is 112 feet above the sea level; therefore it required very little nerve to plant a small patch of celery at station No. 2. Although the soil is somewhat lighter, the altitude is only sixty-four feet above sea level. Humus is absolutely and entirely lacking, caused mainly by the annual "forest fires," due to cheerful neglect of precaution by neighbors burning brush to the north of us, in that section of the island at present given over mainly to cord wood industry. A shallow ditch was dug, humus was furnished by barnyard manure, celery plants set out, and occasionally or, to be more exact, semioccasionally the irrigation sprayers were turned on the celery plants, and, as is the ambition of all plant life, they grew, and station No. 2 turned out celery that holds its own in competition with that grown anywhere, writes H. B. Fullerton in American Cultivator. We shall continue to grow celery at stations Nos. 1 and 2, as it eats well, sells well and makes an excellent variety.

New Tobacco Varieties.

It is an established fact that there are great areas in the United States not now growing tobacco which have the soil, climatic and other conditions suited for growing valuable tobaccos and which for the welfare of American agriculture should supply the demand of the manufacturers. One of the most important phases of the development of these undeveloped sections is the production of varieties of tobacco adapted to their soil and climatic conditions.

The change of seed from one tobacco growing region to different soil and climatic conditions, particularly from the south to the north, is likely to result in the breaking up of the type of the variety and the appearance of plants with characteristics very different from the established type. These new types of plants can be propagated by using self fertilized seed, and uniform varieties of tobacco can be secured by continued selection of the best individual plants for seed production. The use of Florida grown and imported Sumatra seed for growing in the Connecticut valley during the past few years is a good illustration of the effect of a change of seed. The plants grown from this foreign grown seed were extremely variable, individual plants of new and unknown types of tobacco appearing in the fields. The seeds of desirable individual plants of these types were saved under bag, free from cross fertilization, and several valuable new varieties have been secured adapted to the conditions in the Connecticut valley and uniformly coming true to type year after year.—A. D. Shamel.

Damage by Field Mice.

Blackberries, raspberries, grapes, currants, gooseberries and strawberries are often badly damaged by field mice, and when the animals are abundant whole plantations are ruined. Strawberries are especially liable to injury because of winter mulching and also because the plants themselves furnish excellent food and shelter for the animals.

Fallen leaves in autumn and snow in winter drift and collect along rows of blackberry, raspberry, gooseberry and currant bushes and furnish cover for mice, which work along the rows and girdle the green stems, and when dead canes are left uncut and weeds are permitted to grow up among them the resulting tangle adds much to the liability of attack. Winter mulching of small fruits also increases the danger, and if practiced the utmost care should be taken to clean surrounding areas.—David E. Lantz.

Manure For Asparagus Beds.

A heavy application of barnyard manure any time during the winter will be an advantage to asparagus beds after the old stalks and other trash have been well cleaned off.

PLANT FOODS.

Farmer's Opportunity to Save on the Fertilizer Bill.

By R. J. DAVIDSON, Virginia experiment station.

The elements necessary to the growth of plants may be divided into the following groups:

First.—Those that are furnished in abundance from air and water.

Second.—Those which are furnished in abundance from the soil.

Third.—Those which are not usually furnished in abundance in an available form from air, water or soil, as nitrogen, phosphorus and potassium.

Nitrogen is found in large quantities, chiefly in the uncombined or free state. It constitutes about four-fifths of our atmosphere. In this form it is only available to leguminous plants, such as peas, beans, clover, alfalfa, etc., through the influence of micro-organisms found in soils and living in nodules on the roots of plants of this family. In the case of all other plants the nitrogen is taken in only in combination with other elements. Combined with hydrogen it forms ammonia, which may be taken up in small quantities. With oxygen it forms nitric acid, and this combined with some elements in the soil forms nitrates. These are readily taken up by plants and form the principal source of the plant's nitrogen.

Expensive to Purchase.

Nitrogen is the most expensive element the farmer has to purchase. It costs at least three times as much as the phosphorus or potassium. It is also the element most likely to be deficient in the soil, as it is readily converted into soluble nitrates and in addition to being used up by plants is sometimes leached out of the soil. There is a large quantity of free nitrogen in the air. By growing leguminous crops we can obtain a portion of this nitrogen and store it up in the soil in fixed and available forms in the roots and stubble or in the whole crop turned under. We can thus repair in large measure the loss to the soil of this element without any cost and in addition obtain an excellent food for stock in the form of clover hay, alfalfa hay, etc. It will thus be seen how important it is for the farmer to grow one of more of these nitrogen gathering crops on his land as often as his system of rotation will permit and thus save purchasing this most expensive element of plant food. It is poor economy to buy what we can have for the taking, especially when the taking costs nothing.

SEEDLESS TOMATOES.

A Medium Small Variety With Flesh of Particularly Fine Flavor.

The production of any vegetable novelty always arouses interest among seed growers and gardeners. More or less of this work has been done by the experiment stations. For a number of years breeding experiments with vegetables have been carried on by Professor Halsted and his associates at the New Jersey experiment stations. Among the distinct and valuable productions secured in this work is a nearly seedless tomato. As is well known, each fruit of the ordinary tomato contains hundreds of seeds, while the form which Professor Halsted has developed seldom contains more than fifty seeds, and frequently there are not more than five or six and often none.

This variety has become pretty well established now and has been called Giant because of the very large size that the plant attains. It originated five or six years ago as a result of a cross of Golden Sunrise upon Dwarf Champion.

The flower clusters are small; flowers cup shaped, light lemon yellow, and the fruits few, medium small, light yellow and nearly seedless.

The flesh is particularly fine flavored. The plants flowered up to the killing frosts.

The type appears to be well fixed. Attempts to cross other sorts upon it have uniformly failed. Seedless fruits have also been produced by Professor Halsted on several varieties and crosses of tomatoes, due probably primarily to nonpollination with other conditions favorable to the stimulation of fruit production.

These crosses were quite uniformly dwarfed in size, many in a cluster being not larger than peas, but solid fleshed and often of good quality. In one instance the fruit had the flavor of the strawberry. Currant crossed upon Stone produced such fruit; likewise Crimson Cushion upon Sumatra. When Crimson Cushion was crossed upon Giant and Magnus many seedless fruits were produced, some of which were large enough for table use.

The work with seedless tomatoes is being continued and promises to result in the establishment of varieties with far less seeds than the sorts commonly grown.

Rotting of Potatoes.

The rotting of potatoes in storage is often a source of serious loss. The infection of the potatoes with the fungus occurs chiefly if not entirely in the field before digging. The infection is usually the result of diseased vines. The disease is transmitted in the majority of cases not directly through the vine, but indirectly through the soil. Potatoes may be infected directly in the field from spores introduced in the manure or from rotten potatoes spread upon or left in the land the preceding year.—C. D. Woods.

wrathfully. "I would not go into that water again, not if there were twenty coffins.' No help was to be got from my friend, so, plunging into the icy water again, I swam to the boat and towed it ashore. The hillside watchers had now arrived on the scene, and with very little trouble we unloaded the craft. Four separate trips had still to be made to fetch the mourners across, and when this task had been successfully accomplished, there was still a walk of half a mile to the little wayside cemetery, partly along the road and partly through the forest, sometimes through wet snow that took us to our knees, and at others over fallen pines and brushwood that lay thick in our pathway. But we got to the cemetery at last, and after the impressive funeral ceremony had been concluded, left our late companion to his long repose.—The Busy Man's Magazine.

Soldiers Will Gather at Quebec for the Celebration

Twenty Thousand Men Will Visit Quebec For Celebrations.

Troops Will Be Massed at Citadel Instead of In the Annual Camps—Mr. Foster Criticizes Government—Says Parliament Is Becoming a Farce—Immigration Vote—Plea For Doukhobors.

Ottawa, March 28.—Sir Frederick Borden made an important statement in the House yesterday with regard to the participation of militia in the tercentenary celebration at Quebec in July next. He said it was proposed that about 50 per cent. of the militia, or about 20,000 men, should go to Quebec.

As far as the western battalions were concerned, it would, of course, not be expedient to transport half the strength of the battalions east, but Ontario, Quebec and Maritime regiments would be represented by 50 per cent. There would be no recruits and with regard to the rural battalions, the tercentenary exercises would constitute their annual drill.

The vote of $300,000 for the tercentenary would not be used for the militia display at Quebec.

Dr. Reid asked why the cost of militia had doubled in ten years. The Minister replied that the Halifax and Esquimalt forts had been taken over, the pay of the men had been increased, and there was a larger force. The cost per man at the annual camp was $25.

The House then went into committee of supply. In the Militia Department Mr. Foster thought an item of $225,000 for last year's annual drill required explanation. Sir Frederick Borden explained that $65,000 was for railway accounts for carrying the troops. A large amount was for the pay of Toronto and Montreal corps.

"Any kicking?" asked Mr. Foster.

"No," replied the Minister. The city regiments funded the money and did not mind waiting. Then $91,000 was overdrawn from the general appropriation and this had to be provided for. Parliament, observed Mr. Foster, was getting to be a farce when this thing could be done.

A further vote of $125,000 for general immigration expenses was next discussed. George Taylor read letters from the farmers in Yorkton district contradicting statements of the Minister of the Interior and Dr. Cash. The Doukhobors led moral lives and were desirable settlers. Dr. Cash declared the Douks were a clean living people, and Mr. McCraney of Saskatchewan concurred in this opinion.

Mr. Oliver said none of the money of this vote would be devoted to the importation of immigrants. Mr. Taylor and Dr. Reid complained that correspondence asked for had been brought down incomplete. Mr. Taylor's complaint had to do with a breakwater, which slid into the water, and, being rebuilt, was blown away. The report did not deal with these occurrences. Could it be that the Minister expunged the papers?

Mr. Pugsley spurned the idea, which was unworthy of Mr. Taylor, and promised to oblige the hon. gentleman if the papers could be found.

Could it be possible, asked Samuel Barker, that when the breakwater was carried away, no enquiry was instituted?

R. L. Borden asked when the report of the commission on British Columbia fisheries would be brought down. He had information that it was made in November and was now in the Marine Department archives. The report was being printed and would be available soon, said Mr. Brodeur.

Mr. Borden also enquired concerning the new wing of the central block. Would the Minister confer with the Opposition as to the disposal of rooms?

Mr. Pugsley said he would be pleased to do so.

Then Mr. Foster asseverated that the disposal of rooms should be with Mr. Speaker. He wondered whether a large number of the rooms were to be sumptuously furnished and placed at the disposal of members of the House.

Sir Wilfrid Laurier said what his Minister of Public Works [illegible]d to say. Certainly, this was [illegible] for Mr. Speaker, with the conc[illegible] of the House, to deal with.

The remaining supplementaries for the current year were passed last night.

A DESPERATE AFFRAY.

U.S. Congressman Shoots Two on a Washington Street Car.

Washington, March 28.—In a desperate affray on a Pennsylvania avenue car last night a negro and a white man were shot by Congressman T. J. Heflin of Alabama. Thomas Lumby, the negro, was shot in the head and is in a critical condition, and Thomas McCreary, a New York horse trainer, is suffering from a wound in the leg. The shooting of McCreary was accidental. Mr. Heflin was arrested and taken to a police station, where the charge of assault to kill was placed against him. Later he was released on $5,000 bail.

Had Miraculous Escape.

Halifax, March 28.—Caught in a blinding snowstorm and confused by a change in the wind, forty sealers at Magdalen Islands had a miraculous escape from death yesterday, after being completely lost in the midst of one of the worst blizzards that have swept the Gulf of St. Lawrence in many years.

While four boats were at work on the herds of seals on the ice floes off the islands, a snowstorm suddenly came up with hardly any warning, and the wind shifting, the men soon were completely lost. Hope for their safety had been almost abandoned, when they landed on Brion Island this morning, completely exhausted by their terrible experience.

Arthur Bourgeois and his son became lost in the fields in the blizzard, and died from exhaustion.

Over Million Misappropriated.

Pittsburg, Pa., March 28.—A third charge against Henry Rieber, paying teller, and John Young, auditor of the Farmer's Deposit National Bank, was made shortly after noon yesterday by Bank Examiner W. L. Folds. The former employes, who are in jail, are charged with misappropriating funds of the bank, amounting to $1,105,000.

According to a persistent rumor information against many business men in this and other cities are to be made within a short time.

Moira River Causes Trouble.

Belleville, March 28.—Owing to the breaking up of the ice in the River Moira the water has risen considerably, and there is a flood of serious proportions at present.

The ice from up the river came down yesterday afternoon, and the water rose so high that many Front street cellars were flooded and furnaces put out.

Died of Exhaustion.

Vancouver, March 28.—Thomas J. Crowley, foreman at the Britannia Mine, was thrown into the water by the capsizing of a canoe Thursday night. A companion swam ashore and obtained help. Several men [illegible] Crowley, who was hanging [illegible] canoe, but he died of exhaust[illegible]

A School Book Commission.

Charlottetown, P.E.I., March 28.—The Provincial Government will shortly appoint a commission to deal with the whole question of education, including the matter of text-books and the best means of obtaining the same.

This was announced yesterday, when an amendment was proposed in the Legislature by the Premier to a resolution of the leader of the Opposition asking the House to appoint a committee to deal with the text-book question only. The matter was warmly debated, it being represented that excessive prices of text-books and frequent changes impose a great burden upon the people.

They Must Come Direct.

Ottawa, March 28.—An order-in-council was passed yesterday providing that all immigrants should come direct. The former order, which was declared illegal by the courts, delegated this power to the Minister of the Interior, instead of ordering it to be done.

The new order has been declared to be within the powers of the Government by the Department of Justice. The objection taken before was that the Governor-in-council could not delegate the work to the Minister. An act will be passed also, but a new order serves the purpose for the present.

Injured In Sham Battle.

Vancouver, March 28.—In the sham battle last evening at the military tournament of the Sixth Regiment, seven men were injured, one named Henry Alder seriously, by tops of blank cartridges. Ammunition had been supplied in the regular way, but it was not of the type generally used for blank firing. It was old mark IV. ammunition, with dum-dum bullets removed, but the brass caps which held the missile in almost every case flew off, making combat too real to be comfortable.

Wreck on the Erie Railroad.

Rochester, March 28.—Two men were killed, one fatally injured and four sightly injured in the wreck of Erie train No. 13, known as the Wells Fargo Express, at Belvidere, near Hornell, yesterday morning.

A mistake in orders let the express meet an eastbound freight on a down grade. The wreck is three miles from a telegraph station, and few details can be learned.

H. Magee, brakeman, was fatally injured.

Used Gasoline In Fire.

Oskaloosa, Iowa, March 28.—Mistaking a cup of gasoline for water and pouring it over her apron to extinguish flames that had caught in the garment, Mrs. George Yanning of Millersburg was burned to death on Thursday night.

Members of the family succeeded in smothering the fire with rags and carpet, but not until the woman had been fatally burned.

SUFFERED FROM QUAKE

Chilapa, Mexico, Entirely Wrecked and City in Flames.

Reports Are Meagre—Loss of Life Not Stated—Many Doubtless Killed—Had 1,500 Inhabitants—Survivors In State of Terror—Fire Completed Destruction—Shock Felt For Five Hundred Miles.

Mexico City, March 28.—Chilapa, a town of 15,000 inhabitants, in the State of Guerrero, has been shaken by an earthquake and burned.

The shocks, two in number, occurred early Thursday evening, and were followed by fires, which originated in a dozen places among the tumbling buildings, joining in a conflagration that swept the town. Only meagre facts of the disaster are known here, and what has been learned has dribbled in from a half-dozen sources more or less authentic.

The loss of life, if any, as well as the monetary extent of the property damage, is problematical, and continued efforts to gauge the catastrophe had been futile last night. Telegraph communication with Chilapa was severed, and the town is two days by horseback from the nearest railway station.

Couriers have been despatched to Chilapa from Chilpancingo, some forty-five miles distant, and it is presumed that messengers for relief were sent from the burned city early yesterday, and possibly immediately following the earthquake. The reports that have reached here agree that the town was destroyed by the shocks and fire and that the people fled the place terror-stricken.

Investigation shows that four persons were injured during the earthquake, one probably fatally. The shock was felt for 500 miles from north to south, expending itself at Guanajuanto on the north, and Rincon on the south. Calle San Francisco, the main thoroughfare of Mexico City, was cracked in places for many blocks.

It is feared that the shocks will be repeated, and few are sleeping soundly. It has been many years since such successive shocks of any severity have been felt here. All of the injured were Mexican workmen.

Washington, March 28.—Two great earthquake shocks were recorded at the weather bureau Thursday evening. Four excellent records of each shock were obtained, in which all the details of the phenomena are shown with great distinctness. The first shock was much greater than the second, and began at 6.09.22 p.m. The second began at 10.54.22 p.m.

The distance in the first case would be approximately 2,400 miles, about the distance of Mexico City from Washington.

Governor Damianflores, the chief executive of the State of Guerrero, who is at present in Mexico City, had at nine o'clock, just received the first official advices. While a number of the buildings of the town were leveled to the ground, no lives were lost.

Thirty-four shocks have been recorded during the past 24 hours by the seismograph at the national observatory at Tabuyuca. Most of these shocks, however, were imperceptible except to the delicate needle of the instrument.

Fifty Thousand Missing.

Worcester, Mass., March 28.—Benjamin Priest, a confidential agent for Molte Bros., of Milbury, manufacturers of woolen goods, was brought here yesterday from Providence, where he was arrested to answer a charge of larceny from his employers.

Samuel Priest, an uncle, and Chona Schoechet, father-in-law of the prisoner, who came to Worcester on the train with Priest and the officers, ostensibly to furnish bail for the prisoner, were also arrested upon their arrival here. They face the same charge as Benjamin Priest.

The amount of money missing is $50,000.

Show Friendly Spirit.

Montreal, March 28.—A Presbyterian church, partly built by Roman Catholic subscriptions, is a unique demonstration of the kindly feelings existing between the two creeds.

The church is a new one at Laprairie, built to replace a smaller church that was pulled down, and it is now the only Protestant church in the district.

It is proposed to hold a day school in the church building, and when the Roman Catholic residents in the village heard that the new church was to be built, they asked to be permitted to contribute.

Passed French Treaty.

Ottawa, March 28.—The French treaty was given its third reading in the Senate yesterday afternoon.

The Senate divorce committee recommended yesterday that a decree of divorce be granted Mary Alexander of Toronto from Edward E. Alexander. Ada R. S. Paulding of Toronto was granted a divorce from Frederick William Paulding.

Hired Man Disappeared.

Orangeville, March 28.—W. Rawn, a Caledon farmer, went off to a wedding in Ballycroy and when he returned he found that a room in which he kept clothing and valuables had been broken into. A number of things had disappeared, and also the hired man, a youth of 18, Reid Parker, who came from Bruce Mines.

Would Help Irish Schools.

London, March 28.—During the Irish administration debate in the Commons, Verney, M.P., referred to the system of consolidation of schools in Canada, whereby children are reaping all the advantages of large schools with less labor and diminution or expense, and hoped to see the principle applied in Ireland.

Canadian Pacific earnings for the third week of March decreased $142,-000.

RUSSIA'S DEFENCE.

Douma Will Approve of Plans Presented by Count Witte.

St. Petersburg, March 28.—At a secret sitting of the Council of the Empire yesterday Count Witte presented a report concerning the naval grants and the Amur Railroad project.

Count Witte, contrary to the opinion of the Premier, M. Stolypin, is convinced that the refusal of the Douma to grant credit will not diminish the prestige of Russia, which must carry out a defensive policy in the Baltic and Black Seas which are not sufficiently protected by the existing forces, especially the fortifications, and also in regard to the far eastern possessions, the defence of which have been considerably weakened since the war. They do not deserve disproportionate sacrifices, but just what is necessary to rapidly perfect the defence of Vladivostock.

Concerning the Amur Railroad, Count Witte demonstrated that the communications between Siberia and Vladivostock have deteriorated since the war. He advises the construction economically of the necessary strategic works.

It is certain, in the opinion of Count Witte, that the plans will be approved by the Douma and the [illegible] of the Empire.

YOUTHFUL BRIDGE JUMPER.

Despondent In Love Affairs Leaps From Brooklyn Bridge.

New York, March 28.—Another was added Thursday to the long list of Brooklyn Bridge jumpers — and was the youngest who has taken the leap. He was Edward J. Ditmars, the 17-year-old son of Dr. Jas. G. Ditmars, a physician in Brooklyn, and a man of prominence in the neighborhood.

Young Ditmars was evidently discouraged over his failure to obtain permanent employment. He had lately held several positions temporarily and had also been a student of telegraphy. At the time of his suicide, however, he was not engaged otherwise than as chauffeur for his father.

The young man, although unemployed, had been paying attention to a Miss Lillian Walber, who formerly lived at No. 331 Thirteenth street, Brooklyn, and their friends understood they were engaged to be married. This and the knowledge that he could not support a wife had made young Ditmars despondent.

SUSPECTS FOUL PLAY.

Mother of Dead Grocery Man Has Body Disinterred.

Montreal, March 28.—Thomas Martin Brennan, who kept a grocery store at the corner of Waverly and St. Bernard streets, St. Louis de Mile End, was found lying dead in the rear of his store on Monday morning, March 16. It was thought at the time to be a case of death from natural causes and the body was interred.

The mother of the deceased, however, was not satisfied that her son died from natural causes, being of the opinion that he had met with foul play. Sensational statements were made by her and yesterday the Attorney-General ordered the body exhumed.

It was removed from the cemetery and taken to the morgue, where Dr. D. D. McTaggart and Dr. C. A. Dugas, Government medical examiners, will make an autopsy to ascertain the cause of death. The inquest will be held this morning.

Brampton Is Flooded.

Brampton, March 28.—The Etobicoke overflowed yesterday, caused no doubt by a jam somewhere. The water was running five feet deep in places on the main street, several stores were flooded and stocks damaged.

Horses had to be removed from their stables for fear of drowning.

Several residences were flooded, necessitating removal of furniture.

This morning the entire area of "flats" resembles a lumber yard in disorder, the lumber belonging to C. G. Irvine, lumber merchant.

The factory of the Canada Shoe Co. was closed yesterday on account of the boiler rooms being flooded.

The flood was the worst since 1878.

Farmer Arrested.

Orangeville, March 28.—Thomas Ferguson, a farmer of Amaranth Township, was arrested at Shelburne for theft.

Ferguson had given a mortgage for $1,500 on his chattels to Mrs. Vance, wife of George M. Vance of Shelburne. It is alleged that he then sold some of his cattle without Mrs. Vance's knowledge.

Before Judge McCarthy yesterday Ferguson pleaded not guilty and was remanded till May 1, being released on $2,000 bail.

Coffin For His Leg.

Kingston, March 28.—Some of the visitors to the General Hospital yesterday observed a pine box about three feet long, five inches wide and ten inches deep.

An enquiry elicited the information that a man had entered the institution to have his leg amputated, and in anticipation brought the box for the severed member. His intention then is to have it sent to the home for burial in a grave designed for the rest of his body.

Two Miners Entombed.

Atlin, B.C., March 28.—A fatal mining accident occurred at Spruce Creek on Wednesday evening, resulting in the death of W. Alliott and A. St. G. Bowley, miners. They were entombed by a cave-in. A miner named Anderson made his escape and gave the alarm. A large force of rescuers immediately set to work in the hope of getting the imprisoned men out, but were not successful.

Found Safe Cracker Dead.

Gentry, Ark., March 28.—In a futile attempt to blow open the safe of the Farmer's Bank at Springton, near here, early yesterday, the head of one of the robbers was blown from his shoulders by a premature explosion of dynamite.

The body of the dead robber was found in the bank near the safe.

SESSION OF THE ONTARIO LEGISLATURE NEAR AN END

Government Orders to Take Precedence at Every Sitting.

Division Courts Act to Be Amended—Court and Legal Fees Will Be Materially Reduced — Twelve Million Dollars Expended on T. & N. O. Railway — Details Given In the Provincial House.

Toronto, March 28.—Wearied with the long sitting of the previous day and a busy morning of committees yesterday's Legislature proceedings were prefunctory in character and little was accomplished outside of routine.

In response to a series of questions by Mr. McDougal (Ottawa), Hon. Col. Matheson laid on the table a return giving the following information regarding the finances of the T. & N. O. Railway:

Expenditures on capital account: To Dec. 31, 1907, $11,677,783.95; additional to date $500,000; total $12,177,783.95.

Revenue during 1907: Freight and passengers $779,237.32; from all other sources $125,184.01.

Disbursements 1907: Operating expenses $645,412.29; on capital account $2,617,484.70.

Other information given was that the commission has no bonded indebtedness, the commission having no authority to issue bonds. The commission is not indebted to any bank. Interest on bonds paid by the Government amounted to $339,744.34, including sinking fund payment, of which $235,090.69 was received on account of net earnings.

The first official indication that the end of the session is in sight was the resolution of the Prime Minister that on and after Monday next Government orders be given precedence.

Two Government measures were introduced. One by the Attorney-General, Hon. Mr. Foy, will amend the Division Courts Act by materially reducing the court and legal fees for claims under $25, an important piece of legislation for the poor man. Another by the Minister of Agriculture, Hon. Mr. Monteith, extends the time for stationery engineers to qualify under the act for six months from July 1 next to Jan. 1, 1909. The Minister explained that it was estimated that there were some 8,000 of these engineers in the province, but so far only 3,000 names had reached the Department.

Mr. J. Torrance (North Perth) introduced a bill, approved by the standing orders committee, to validate a bylaw of the village of Milverton confirming municipal assistance to the industry of Grosch & Co.

FIGHT FOR BOWIN'S LIFE.

Defence Accuse Another Man of Murdering Mrs. Welch.

Detroit, March 28.—That Dan Scott, and not Percy Bowin, killed Mrs. Cornelia Welch will probably be Bowin's defence in the murder trial now in progress. So much was intimated by Attorney Edward H. Kennedy Thursday. While William H. Grossfield, who conducted a second-hand store next to the place occupied by Mrs. Welch, was testifying, Mr. Kennedy questioned him as to whether he had ever witnessed any encounters between Scott and Mrs. Welch. Scott was Mrs. Welch's alleged lover.

After Assistant Prosecutor Grose had objected, Judge Phelan sent the jury from the room and asked Mr. Kennedy what bearing the questions had on the case.

"I intend to prove that Bowin did not kill Mrs. Welch," was the reply. Whereupon Mr. Grose withdrew his objections and Grossfield said that he had seen Scott and Mrs. Welch throwing coal at each other.

Frank Heggner, who drove an express wagon for Scott, and who roomed at Mrs. Welch's place at the time of the murder, was on the stand when court adjourned. He said that he last saw Mrs. Welch at 11 o'clock on the night when she is supposed to have been murdered, but disclosed nothing that would shed any particular light on the tragedy. Several other witnesses were called, including Mrs. Kittie Fisher, housekeeper for Grossfield, but beyond fixing the probable time of the murder their testimony was not important.

Suffocating crowds continue to pack the courtroom, and Bowin still maintains his imperturbable composure.

"Sure, I am satisfied with the way things are going," he said after court adjourned Thursday night. "You haven't seen them put anything on me yet, have you? They won't either. About this confession you will see that it's a mighty complicated thing when they get to it, and I am sure that this jury is not going to convict an innocent fellow just on the strength of that. I don't know who did it, although I have my suspicions, but I am sure that I am going to get out of it all right."

INDIAN IMMIGRATION.

Special Warning Has Been Given About Conditions In Canada.

London, March 28.—(C.A.P.)—In the Commons Mr. Morley stated the Indian Government specially warned intending Hindu immigrants of conditions in Canada. The whole question was receiving attention.

Durban, March 28.—The coming session of the Government will introduce a bill to control Indian immigration and fix a date whereafter the introduction of Indians will be illegal.

The London Morning Post says the Indian Government should be instructed to prevent emigration to countries where it creates disorder. The Standard, referring to an account of the introduction of reindeer in Newfoundland by Dr. Grenfell, says it is by such men as Grenfell and his friends and by such deeds that the true prosperity of peoples is established.

Burglars at Thorold.

St. Catharines, March 28.—The busy burglar has evidently centered his attentions on Thorold. Last night the grocery store of Mrs. W. A. Hutt on Front street was broken into and a large quantity of merchandise carted away.

Objects to the Bill.

Vancouver, March 28.—Attorney-General Bowser has wired a protest to Ottawa against the passage of Mr. Aylesworth's bill providing for a new election list in British Columbia and Manitoba.

Mr. Bowser declares the present provincial list is the best possible and objects to the new bill, especialy on the ground that no court of revision is provided.

Seeks Runaway Girl.

Montreal, March 28.—In search of his daughter, who eloped with a penniless poet, Prince Zartoryski, a Polish nobleman, arrived in Montreal yesterday morning. He is on his way to the Canadian west, where he thinks the missing couple are making a home for themselves.

Japan Will Investigate.

Honolulu, March 28.—Secretary Ichikawa of the Japanese consulate, who speaks the Korean language, has been ordered by Viscount Hayashi, to proceed to San Francisco immediately to investigate the killing of Durham W. Stevens.

Murder In Chinese Quarter.

New York, March 28.—A street murder, which is believed to have been an outgrowth of the recent trials of a number of Chinamen for murder in Boston and Philadelphia, threw the local Chinese quarter into intense excitement for a time yesterday afternoon.

The victim was Ing Mow, who, in the troublous times of two years ago, was known as a lieutenant of Mock Duck, leader of one of the rival tongs, and who, since the retirement of Mock Duck, has been looked upon by many Chinese as the real leader of this faction.

No squatters' rights will be recognized by the Temiskaming and Northern Ontario railway.

Marriage of Col. Greenwood

The Capetown "Argus" of February 19th, has the following account of the marriage of Lieut.-Col. L. S. Greenwood to Miss Dorothy May, of Boston;

A quiet but pretty wedding took place yesterday afternoon at St. George's Cathedral, the contracting parties being Lieut.-Colonel H. S. Greenwood, V.D., who commands the C.S.A.R. Corps, and Miss Dorothy May, niece of Mr. Wallace Pierce, of Boston, Mass. The Dean of Cape Town officiated, and the cathedral was decorated with palms and white lilies. In true American fashion the bride was attended as matron-of honor by Mrs. Ross Skinner, wife of the general manager of the Durban Roodepoort Gold Mine. Major S. M. Fairweather, D.S.O., acted as best men. Mr. O. Clunie Macpherson gave the bride away.

After the musical service the wedding party repaired to the Mount Nelson Hotel, where an extremely pleasant reception was held.

The bride looked handsome in a white Liberty satin bridal robe. It was fashioned in Directoire style, and the upper portion of the corsage being embroidered in Roman pearl embroidery and adorned with beautiful old lace, which was once worn by her grandmother. She wore a wreath of orange blossom and a lace veil and carried a beautiful shower bouquet. A sapphire and diamond brooch, the gift of the bridegroom, was also worn.

Mrs. Ross Skinner presented a very stylish appearance in brown figured silk with an embroidered pale blue and fine cream lace vest and lace under-sleeves. Her becoming Parisian chaqeau of brown silk was decorated with brown and blue silk roses and she carried a blue lily bouquet. Sir Daniel and Lady Gooch were present, and Lady Gooch was elegantly attired in white French muslin and a brown straw hat plumed with ostrich feathers. Amongst those also present were Mrs. and Miss Beachy Head, Mr. andf Mrs. Marshall, Mr. and Mrs. Macpherson, and Miss Paton.

After spending a couple of weeks on a motoring tour in the Peninsula Colonel and Mrs. Greenwood return to Johannesburg, where in future they will reside.

The Bible an Inspired Work

Rev. Mr. Steuernagel Gave Address on This Subject

Rev. A. E. Steurnagel, pastor of Bethany Tabernacle, addressed a large gathering of men in the YMCA, taking as his subject 'Why we believe the Bible is the inspired Word of God.'

The speaker mentioned some very strong reasons why we believe the Bible and in closing gave an earnest invitation to those not believing the Bible as God's Word, and therefore their salvation to accept its teaching and become Christ's followers.

Mrs. Steurnagel sang both before and after the address in a very pleasing manner.

The Assassin Was Foiled; Bombs Fly in New York

Bomb Intended For New York Police Explodes Prematurely.

Gathering of Unemployed Suddenly Turned Into Anarchist Demonstration—Scene In Union Square on Saturday—Crowd Showed Inclination to Riot—Reilly's Squad Called Out—Two Men Killed.

New York, March 30.—A red flag fluttered in Union Square Saturday; a bomb fell; two men lay dying in the people's playground, and New York awoke to the fact that it harbored those prepared to give their lives in armed resistance to constituted authority.

The bomb was intended for the police, who, with rough firmness, had broken up a meeting of 10,000 unemployed. It exploded prematurely in the hands of the assassin, horribly wounding him, killing his companion, injuring slightly four policemen, and throwing to the ground a score of those who were massed in the vicinity.

Saturday night Union Square Park, where the public demonstration had been made, was roped off from pedestrians; a hundred police patrolled the boundary streets, and at the station-houses 1,500 reserves, armed with revolvers and night sticks, awaited in readiness to throw themselves into any scene of rioting. No further disorder, however, developed.

Bomb-throwing in the foreign settlements of the east side is a rather common occurrence, but for the first time Saturday saw an engine of destruction openly and deliberately directed against a squad of police officers. It was meant for Capt. Reilly's squad of twenty men, and a longer or slower burning fuse would have perfected an instrument of death for probably every man of the squad.

A labor, or, more exactly, a laborless, meeting, without police sanction, had been advertised to be held at the park. In the thousands that gathered were many of a riotous disposition, a large number wore red hats, and here and there a red flag was displayed.

Suddenly an order to clear the park was given, and the 150 police, half of them mounted, charged the jeering, hooting crowds, driving them back to the streets of the square circling the park. In the wide streets the crowds, fast assuming the nature of a mob, fell into an indifferent formation and marched about the square.

Having cleared the park of all but a few apparently harmless men, who occupied benches, the police contented themselves with keeping the paraders moving. Encouraged, the procession grew; shouts of derision and oaths directed to the police filled the air, and then, as though by prearrangement, the stains of "The Marseillaise" rose from 10,000 throats. The police, hastily reinforced, held themselves in restraint.

Capt. Reilly's squad, which had been stationed at the east side of the square, started at a double quick pace, two abreast, across the park. As they neared the fountain that marks the centre of the recreation grounds, a slightly-built man darted out from the shadow cast by the heroic statue of George Washington and ran toward the officers, whose backs were now turned to their pursuers. A large man kept at the other's heels. Within twenty paces of the moving squad the two men halted, and the smaller raised a hand, in which was clasped a smoking bomb. As he drew back his arm to throw the weapon it exploded.

The shock, that shook the skyscrapers of the square, threw a score of people to the ground. The assassin and his companion fell, the latter dead, with his breast torn out. The bomb-thrower still lived, but his right hand had been shot off, both of his eyes were gouged out and his skull and shoulder were fractured.

The four policemen who brought up the rear were injured, but not seriously, one of them being hit in the foot by a piece of the bomb. A panic followed the explosion, and the thousands that surrounded the park crushed together, as perhaps half of the number rushed towards the scene of the killing while as many more turned in flight from the square. Many were injured as the mounted police surrounded the injured and again drove back the mob. A half-dozen arrests were made offhand of those nearest the bomb-throwing, but no particular importance is attached to the arrests.

Little is known of the bomb-thrower, beyond what he has told himself. Rendered unconscious at first he later regained his senses at an hospital, and under prolonged questioning declared that he had been commissioned to kill the police. They had beat him, he said. At first he had insisted that he acted alone, and later, when he said that his act was inspired, he refused to reveal the identity of his companion. His first statement was:

"I am Selig Silverstein, 21 years of age, and I live at 21 Van Brunt street, Brooklyn. I was entirely alone in this thing; no other person was in league with me. I made the bomb from directions I got from the encyclopaedia. I was ten feet from the police, and I wanted to throw it at them. I was mad; a cop had hit me. The bomb went off in my hand."

Later he added: "I was told to do this. I bought the nitro-glycerine for the bomb at a drug store at Clark street and Broadway, Brooklyn. I made the bomb myself from a piece of gas pipe. I have a wife and two children in Russia. I have been in the United States two years. My nearest relative is named Cohen, and lives at 21 Park street, Brooklyn. I worked for a tailor named Goldstein, on Eldridge street, near Broome street, Manhattan."

He refused to incriminate others, and nothing further had been learned from him when he was placed under an anaesthetic preparatory to an operation.

There is little chance that he will long survive.

Silverstein was still alive at Bellevue Hospital last night. Though the explosion tore off his right hand temporarily blinded him and caused frightful bodily injuries, he may survive. As yet he cannot see, but the sight of one eye may be restored.

Seven men arrested after the bomb explosion were arraigned in court yesterday. Of the number six called themselves Russians. One of them is an American. The foreigners were held in $3,000 bail each, for further examination, while the American was held without bail. They are charged with taking part in a riot.

The police examined a half-dozen persons, including S. Yanofsky, editor of The Erie Arbioter Stimme. All declared they had advocated peace in the adjustment of industrial disputes. It was also announced that the police were looking for Alexander Berkman and Alexander Havel, who is connected with the publication Mother Earth. Several other men are also sought, and it was given out that two detectives had been sent up-state instructed to make certain arrests.

The general committee of the local Socialist party met yesterday and set forth their side of the story. They claimed that the meeting was made up of law-abiding persons, and accuse the police of inciting the people to riot. Many statements were issued by individuals, all deploring the act of violence and all taking the police to account.

Police Didn't Club.

Inspector Schmitberger, who had charge of the handling of the crowds in Union Square before and after the bomb explosion, said last night:

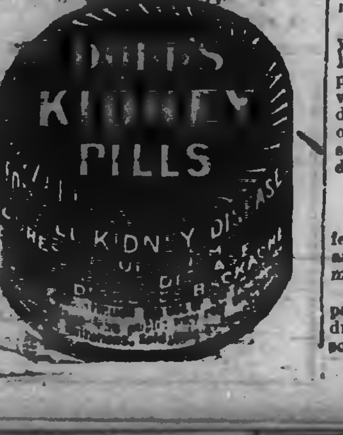
"I gave no clubbing orders to any of my men, and I am positive none of the mounted men drew their clubs while scattering the crowd. That is a story made out of wholesale. While I believe something ought to be done, and that quickly, to curb the anarchistic tendencies of some of these people, I do not and never did advocate the whole clubbing of innocent bystanders to effect the dispersal of crowds that collect."

Outrage Shocks Washington.

Washington, March 30.—Official Washington was shocked over the Union Square riots in New York, and the affair is expected to accelerate a movement having its origin with this Government for the holding of an international conference with the object of suppressing anarchists.

The authorities here have been very much concerned of late over outrages in different parts of the country tending to show that the followers of the red flag in the United States are growing numerically stronger and bolder. The officials here are aware that despite the drastic immigration laws aimed at the criminal classes of Europe anarchists find it an easy matter to get into the United States.

Third Assistant Lawshe announced yesterday that he was having translations made of a number of papers published in foreign languages with a view to ascertaining whether they are disseminating matter antagonistic to organized Government. If they are so offending they will promptly be denied the use of the mails.



Found Infant's Body.

London, March 30.—The body of a female infant was found last night in an outhouse at the rear of a Richmond street house.

Mrs. Patrick McCue slipped on the pavement in front of St. Peter's Cathedral yesterday morning and sustained a broken shoulder.

SAYS HE WAS KIDNAPPED.

French-Canadian Accuses the Police of Two Countries.

Minneapolis, March 30.—Charging that the Minneapolis police refused to interfere two weeks ago when he was being kidnapped by a Canadian officer, Adelard E. Lafond of Manchester, N.H., called Saturday on the police while on his way to Washington to appear personally before the State Department. Lafond declares that though an American citizen, he was thrown into jail, indicted on a fake charge, carried across the Canadian border with the assistance of American police and there held until he appealed to the United States consul and through him to the State Department. Then he was set free.

Lafond is a French-Canadian by birth. He came to the United States in 1890, was naturalized in 1905, and founded La Tribune of Woonsocket, R.I. While in Ottawa, Ill., after working at the insurance business in Canada, he was arrested, he says, on telegraphic information, purporting to come from Winnipeg, charging that he had misused funds of the Travelers' Life Insurance Co.

En route to Winnipeg, he says he was placed in jail in Minneapolis. He says he stated his case to the Minneapolis police, and protested against being shackled, but his appeal was unheeded.

TOOK HUSH MONEY.

Division Court Bailiff at North Bay Is Convicted.

North Bay, March 30.—In the Police court Saturday, W. A. Brown, Division Court bailiff, was convicted of obtaining money from the keeper of an alleged dive on the town outskirts, ostensibly for protection from police interference. Peter Champayne swore that he gave Brown $50 and produced a receipt for the amount. Maurice Ryan was charged as an accomplice.

Brown returned the money and sentence was suspended, pending future good behavior. The charge against Ryan was dismissed.

A number of disorderly houses just outside the town were closed recently by provincial detectives, the keepers and inmates being fined and imprisoned, but they have since renewed operations under different management. Efforts by the local police have been handicapped by information of intended raids leaking out. Some time ago The Tribune published information that hush money was being paid, but no serious attempt was made to investigate the story at the time. Brown's capacity as bailiff has enable him to wear a provincial officer's badge.

DYNAMITER CAPTURED.

Italian Responsible For Nelson Outrage Brought Back.

Spokane, Wash., March 30.—Frank Ciddio, an Italian who dynamited a boarding house at Nelson, B.C., causing the death of his sweetheart and injuring ten persons, four months ago, passed through Spokane Saturday on the way to the scene of his crime, from Salt Lake, Utah, where he was arrested the middle of February.

The first information the Canadian authorities had of the whereabouts of Ciddio was furnished by Alex Macdonald, formerly of Toronto, now a detective on the Spokane force, who will receive part of the $1,000 reward offered for the capture. Acting on the clue Chief Constable Devitt traveled thousands of miles and after many exciting experiences finally captured his man five weeks ago in Salt Lake.

The Italian fought extradition vigorously, and it was only after he had exhausted every expedient that he gave up the fight.

Another Conspiracy In Hayti.

Port au Prince, March 30.—A fresh conspiracy against the Government has been discovered in this city.

The leader of the plot, Gen. Larraque, former secretary of cavalry, who was arrested on March 14 on suspicion of conspiring against the President, and released with four others on March 24, took refuge yesterday afternoon in the French legation with two other officers.

The police have been scouring the city all day and have set a careful watch on all the legations in order to intercept other conspirators. The palace guards have been redoubled and 2,000 rifles and a large quantity of ammunition, purchased from Germany, were landed yesterday and taken to the palace.

Recent despatches from Washington, and the sending of two additional warships to Hayti, following a conference of officials of the State and Navy Departments, indicated that disquieting news had reached the American Government from that country. The United States cruiser Des Moines and the gunboats Marietta and Paducah are now at Port au Prince.

Prima Donna In Trouble.

New York, March 30.—Justice O'Gorman in the Supreme Court Saturday granted an attachment on the property of Mme. Luisa Tetrazzini, the prima donna of the Manhattan Opera House, in behalf of Isidore Lerner, an impresario, who charges breach of contract. Lerner alleges that in January, 1904, in the City of Mexico, he made a contract with Mme. Tetrazzini to sing for him wherever he deemed best in a period of six months in the United States and Canada. Lerner declares that he has been injured to the extent of $39,000 by the alleged breach of contract.

A Murder Mystery.

Arlington, Mass., March 30.—The body of a woman, identified as Annie Mullins of South Boston, who was employed as a domestic in a Cambridge family, with her throat cut deeply and showing many indications of murder, was found in a pit in the cemetery by two boys on Saturday. The condition of the body seemed to indicate that the woman had been dead for several hours.

The body indicated that the woman was about 25 years of age, and of slight build.

It is said that a bill is to be brought before the Ontario Legislature to permit members to ride free on electric railways.

PERCY BOWIN'S TRIAL

Woodville Boy Charged With Murder of Detroit Woman.

Women Tell of Young Man's Movements Prior to the Crime — Girl Gives Revolting Evidence — Gave Bowin Money—Express Man Who Delivered Dead Woman's Diamonds to the Police.

Detroit, March 30.—Myrtle Millen, one of the young women who figured so prominently in the movements of Percy Bowin in the days just previous to the murder of Mrs. Cornelia Welch, was the star witness for the prosecution at Saturday's session of the Bowin trial.

The Millen girl testified that she became acquainted with Bowin last fall, at No. 69 Beaubien street, where both were boarding. Some time in September the Millen girl became an inmate of Mrs. Welch's place. She had been bere about a week, she said, when young Bowin came to see her. She testified that she gave him money on different occasions, Bowin telling her he wanted the money to pay room rent and get something to eat. Portions of the girl's testimony were of an unprintable nature.

Miss Florence Gibbons, now living at home in Walkerville, Ont., testified that Bowin called at a Randolph street resort one night and asked for Myrtle Millen. Bowin then said he was going to Chicago with a girl named Marie. Further testimony concerning Bowin's last visit to this place and his leave-taking of the young woman was given by Georgie Riley, keeper of the resort, who said Bowin told her he was about to leave town with Marie Hall, to whom he referred as a "lady friend with a lot of money."

To lay the foundation for the introduction in evidence of the diamond ear-rings, stolen from Mrs. Welch while she lay helpless on the floor of her bedroom, and sold by Bowin in Buffalo for $95, the prosecution put on George Reno, a driver for the American Express Co., who told of delivering a sealed package, which, the prosecution will show, contained the diamonds, to police headquarters on Jan. 30. The package had been sent from Buffalo and was consigned to Superintendent of Police Downey.

The court room was crowded with women, crowds of this sex besieging the doors long before the hour for the commencement of the trial.

DYNAMITE UNDER BED.

Attempt to Assassinate Gen. Wells—Victim's Narrow Escape.

Telluride, Colo., March 30.—Eluding the night guard stationed at the Smuggler Union Mine at Pandora, two miles south of Telluride, and the searchlight which is constantly thrown about the premises during the night from the high tower of the mill, as precautionary measure, an unknown person gained access to the residence of Gen. Bulkeley Wells, general manager of the Smuggler Union Mining Co., Friday night, and planted dynamite under his bed.

The dynamite was exploded by igniting a fuse on the outside of the building about two o'clock Saturday morning, when the intended victim was asleep. He was hurled against the ceiling and alighted under a mass of debris, but escaped with a few scratches and bruises and impaired hearing.

In the same building where the attempt to kill Gen. Wells was made, Arthur L. Collins, predecessor of Gen. Wells, as general manager, was assassinated six years ago while playing a game of cards with a number of friends at night. The man who killed Collins fired a heavy load of buckshot through the window into his back. Steve Adams, Harry Orchard's alleged accomplice in the murder of ex-Governor Steunenberg of Idaho, now in jail in Telluride, will soon be placed on trial on the charge of murdering Collins.

Wells is chiefly responsible for Adams being brought back to Colorado on this charge.

India Ready For Revolt?

New York, March 30.—Prof. S. C. K. Rutman, who is a native Hindu, and president of Central College at Colombo, Ceylon, in an address Saturday on "Politimal Awakening of India," asserted the Indian Empire was ready for revolt against the oppression and mis-rule of Great Britain.

Leaders of the national feeling in India were trying to keep the people from resorting to force, he said, by appealing to them on intellectual, educational and political lines, as the remedy of conditions.

Duke of Devonshire Buried.

London, March 30.—The body of the Duke of Devonshire, who died at Cannes, March 24, was laid at rest Saturday afternoon beside the body of his father, in the little church at Edensor, near Chatsworth.

The funeral service was attended by representatives of King Edward and Queen Alexandra, Emperor William and the Prince and Princess of Wales, while a host of members of the House of Commons, members of the House of Peers, several Cabinet Ministers also were present.

Lord Northcote, Governor-General of Australia, has subscribed $250 to the fund.

Ship Blown Up; 13 Drowned.

Rescuers Meet Death While Trying to Help Their Comrades

Fire Follows Explosion in Coal Mine at Hanna

Caused by Gases and Coal Dust—Scores of Miners Killed—Harrowing Scenes at Mouth of Pit—Second Explosion Cuts Off Volunteers—Victims All Below Tenth Level—Telegraphed For Assistance.

Cheyenne, Wyo., March 30—Between 65 and 70, it developed yesterday, lost their lives in explosions late Saturday night in coal mine No. 1 of the Union Pacific Coal Co. at Hanna. The explosions were caused by gases and coal dust, and each was followed by fire.

The first explosion occurred at three o'clock in the afternoon, killing 18 miners, including a superintendent and three bosses.

The second explosion occurred at 10.30, snuffing out the lives of from 40 to 50 rescuers, including State Mine Inspector D. M. Elie. The names of the men killed in the explosion are shown on the company's books, but those of the rescuers are not known, as no record was kept of those who volunteered for this dangerous work.

The wildest excitement prevailed yesterday in Hanna, and at the mine, where hundreds of persons are congregated, including widows, children and other relatives of the victims. Men and women are running about wringing their hands and crying, while many little children, separated from their mothers, are sobbing with fear.

When the second explosion occurred additional appeals were telegraphed to all surrounding towns for assistance. One train is rushing west from Omaha, carrying officers of the Union Pacific Railroad and of the Union Pacific Coal Co.

Fire started in the colliery last Sunday. Since that time attempts at regular intervals were made to extinguish the blaze. Saturday it was deemed unsafe to send the miners down into the workings, and they were told not to report for duty. Superintendent Briggs, with the best and most experienced hands in the camp, went into the mine to fight the fire, but at two o'clock the flames were beyond their control.

At three o'clock the fire reached the gas and a terrific explosion followed. In a few minutes many men volunteered to enter the mine to rescue any possible survivors. The fire hindered the rescuers, but they made some progress. After a long struggle the volunteers got well into the mine.

Those on the surface had begun to expect results from the intrepid daring of the rescuers, but at 10.30 o'clock the camp was startled by a second explosion that partly shut off the shaft of the mine, and most likely killed the volunteers. The victims are all below the tenth level, and it is probable the flames have consumed the bodies.

TRUE TO HIS AFFECTION.

Aged Operator Suicides When Young Girl Jilts Him.

Vancouver, March 30.—Romantic indeed is the story of the death of William Heins, a Yukon telegraph operator, whose body was found at Burns' Lake, several weeks ago.

Months ago Heins became infatuated in Vancouver with a girl of the under world, Flora Franklin. She is very young, and professing affection for Heins, who was 50, he sent her to Winnipeg to be educated, but recently she went to Los Angeles, where she is now in a convent. Before leaving Vancouver, he declared he would end his life if the girl went back on him.

He took a large quantity of morphine into the northern wilds, and circumstances point to suicide. His will was made several days before his death, and a note added the day before, instructing that his money, willed her, be forwarded to her. He left her $2,000 in cash and property in the east.

Quebec Elections in May.

Montreal, March 30.—Both Government and Opposition members state that when they left Quebec on Saturday the impression prevailed there that a dissolution was near at hand, and that the general election for the Legislature may be expected about the fifteenth of May.

These reports of a dissolution have also revived a good many rumors, one being that H. Bourassa, ex-M.P. for Labelle, will oppose Premier Gouin in St. James. It is thought, however, that Mr. Bourassa will contest one of the rural constituencies near the city of Montreal.

Killed by Lightning.

Howell, Mich., March 30.—Mrs. Peter North and Miss Carrie Ellis were killed by lightning during a storm Saturday night in a farmhouse 12 miles from here. The lightning entered along on unused telephone wires. Several others in the house were not injured.

An unknown man was also killed by the bolt of lightning while walking along the railroad track near here.

Premier's Condition.

London, March 30.—The condition of Sir Henry Campbell-Bannerman, the Premier, showed little change yesterday from that of Saturday.

According to the attending physician he had a fair night and a quiet day.

Will Investigate Deaths.

Winnipeg, March 30.—The Dominion Government will be called upon to investigate the terrible death rate among railway construction workers on the Grand Trunk Pacific between Kenora and Thunder Bay.

Gas Exploded.

South Deerfield, Mass., March 30.—A gas tank on Depot street exploded Saturday night, killing two men and injuring two others, one probably fatally. They had been looking for cause of escaping gas.

Another Entry for the Big Walking Contest Next Month

Mr. Chas. Rae, 138 Rubidge-St., Has Decided to Enter the Race—Recently Walked 44 Miles in 8 Hours.

The entries for the big walking tournament to be held in Brock St. rink commencing April 20th, are fast coming in, and from present indications, the event will be a closely contested one. The latest entry is Mr. Chas. Rae, of 138 Rubidge street.

While Mr. Rae has never competed in such a race before he has done considerable long distance walking and is a pedestrian of some ability. For the past two winters he has been engaged in lumber camps and on numerous occasions he has had to walk many miles in order to reach the nearest village. A few weeks ago Mr. Rae made forty-four miles in eight hours. He was coming home to Peterborough. He went on foot from Wiggs' camp to Apsley, a distance of eight miles and from Apsley to Wakon's camp which is another eight miles. He then returned to Apsley in an endeavor to catch the stage for Lakefield but was too late and missed it. He again started out for Burleigh, walking every step of the way, a distance of twenty miles. Altogether he had walked forty-four miles in eight hours. At Burleigh he telephoned to Peterborough for a horse and cutter and drove home the balance of the way.

Mr. Rae will start this week to train and expects to be in splendid condition by the 20th of next month.

HARRY BURRIDGE SIGNED BY YOUNGSTOWN, O., MANAGEMENT

Catcher for Last Year's Peterborough Midland League Team, Moves up Into Faster Company—Jack Connors Also Signed—Both Should Make Good.

Harry Burridge, who did the receiving for the Peterborough team in the Midland Baseball League last season, has been signed by the Youngstown team of the Pennsylvania and Ohio League and will report on Saturday, April 11th. He works behind the home plate for the Youngstown team and will make good without any doubt. He will receive $100 for the first month and $150 per month for the rest of the season if his services are satisfactory.

The Pennsylvania League is one of the fastest minor organizations across the line. It is composed of about a dozen teams and each team is playing practically every day.

Harry Burridge is a Toronto boy who came to Peterborough eighteen months ago and was one of the mainstays of the local team last summer. He was, perhaps the best all-round man in the league. He was easily the best catcher and hammered the sphere for a 400 touch. He also has a greased, lightning gait on the bases and is in the game with ginger all the time. Harry's many friends in Peterborough, Toronto and throughout the Midland League district will be glad to hear that he is on the highroad to big league company and will wish him every success. He will spend a few days in Toronto before proceeding to Youngstown.

Jack Connors, of Peterborough, has also been signed by the Youngstown management and will play in the outfield. Jack is a good sticker, fast and sure fielder and a lively traveller on the base line. He should hold his place without difficulty. He will report at Youngstown at the same time as Harry Burridge.

Connors was doing splendid work with the Peterborough team last summer until he met with an accident about the middle of the season.

Local Man Hears of Friend's Great Success in Walking Contest Held at New Jersey

Mr. Herbert Birchall, formerly of Tunstall, England, and now pianist at the "Crystal," has received a Staffordshire paper with a marked article concerning the success of Jack Alcock, a friend of his. Mr. Birchall lived only about a hundred yards from Alcock in Tunstall. By the time made it will be seen that Alcock is an exceptionally fast pedestrian. The article is as follows;

"Local enthusiasts will hear with pleasure of the success of Jack Alcock, a Tunstall man, who has carried off the championship in the three hours' walking race at New Jersey. Opposed to him was Edward Weler, the New Jersey State champion walker, who, however, had to succumb to the Englishman. Alcock won by three laps, covering 22 miles and 16 laps in three hours. The winner had been training hard during the past two weeks, and was in the best condition of his life. Compared with his opponents he was quite fresh at the finish, and it was considered by the 1,500 or 2,000 spectators who assembled each evening that he had won a great triumph with something to spare."

If, as Lamb says, a poor relation is a haunting conscience, a rich relation should be a quickened conscience.

Distance heightens respect and also enhances the perspective.

Probably there is such a thing as being too rich, but personally—again we are from Missouri.

A coward might be a bully, but he never gets the chance if he is a complete coward.

You never saw a man draw dividends on having gone to school with a millionaire.

The one thing about self respect that makes it so uncomfortable is its habit of fluctuating.

A man laughs at his own joke merely to prove that he appreciates a good thing when he hears it.

If we each loved the other, there would still be some one to bring suit for alienation of affection.

Everybody is dead against the machine except those for whom it is reaping profits.

The Humbler Walks.

We cannot all attain the heights
  Where fame serenely sits
With icicles around its eyes
  And snowballs in its mitts.
But we can seek the modest seats
  Where lowly people dwell,
For if we cannot climb aloft
  We can fall down a well.

Not every one the gracious gifts
  Of greatness may attain,
For when they start out for success
  They catch another train.
Their aim is for the palace car
  And for the through express,
But when they board the local freight
  They get another guess.

And does it matter very much
  As far as we can see?
A hundred thousand years from now,
  Pray, who will wiser be?
Or are we any happier
  If we can win applause
And get so mighty and so strong
  We play tag with the laws?

There isn't, we are often told
  By those who have been there,
Much satisfaction to the soul
  Up in the highest chair.
It's better, then, to jog along
  Without a sigh or sob,
To stay down in the ranks and find
  Contentment with the mob.

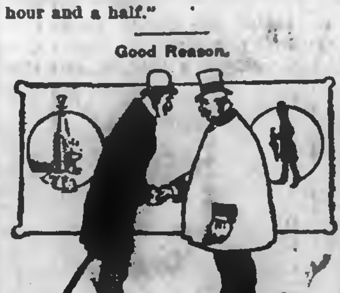
Cautious.

"Can you give me a minute of your time?"

"Certainly, if you can furnish me with reliable proof that you know the difference between a minute and an hour and a half."

Good Reason.



"But why did you backslide?"

"Because of the preacher."

"How was that?"

"He painted the pleasures of the world so beautifully that it made me homesick."

He Knew.

"I know," said Johnny.

SHOWS KINDLY FEELING

Montreal, March 28.—A Presbyterian church, partly built by Roman Catholic subscriptions, is a unique demonstration of the kindly feelings existing between the two creeds. The church is a new one at La Prairie, built to replace a smaller church that was pulled down, and it is now the only Protestant church in the district. It is proposed to hold day school in the church building, and when the Roman Catholic residents in the village heard that the new church was to be built they asked to be permitted to contribute.

Salvation Army Band Will Take a Tour This Summer

Provincial Officers Would Like to Send the Band on a Two Week's Trip, But it is Not Yet Known if the Proposition is Feasible.

So successful was the week's tour of the Peterborough Salvtaion Army band last summer that another one will be taken this season. This much has been decided upon, although the details have of course not yet been arranged. It is learned that the provincial officers of the Army would like to send the local band on a more extensive tour than last year, the itinerary to include Montreal and several important eastern towns. It is not yet known whether this will be feasible as it would necessitate the band being on the road for two weeks and it is doubtful if the members can get away for that length of time.

However, it has been decided to take a one week's tour embracing several towns in this section of the province. The tour of the band last year was a great success. The places visited included Port Hope, Cobourg, Picton and Bowmanville, and at every place visited the band was greeted by large audiences. The proceeds were divided equally between the corps of each town visited and the band. The band made about $100 on the tour and the corps of each town was materially assisted by the visit of the Peterborough organization. The band is in splendid condition and will likely be further strengthened this spring. Some new instruments will be added to the equipment in the near future.

Ben Howard's Death Was Accidental the Finding At the Inquest To-day

No Testimony of Startling Nature Brought Out—It Was Not Shown Whether Deceased Had Been Drinking or Not—Evidence of His Companion Culverson—Jury Reached [illegible]dict Quickly.

The inquest into the death of Ben Howard which was adjourned from Comstock's undertaking rooms on March 23rd, was resumed in the County council chambers at 10 o'clock this morning before Coroner Dr. Gray. From the evidence very little concerning the deceased was adduced and it was not even found out whether he was drunk or sober on the day of his death. In fact no testimony was offered to show that he had been drinking either. There was obviously only one verdict for the jury to reach and after a short deliberation they found it as follows;

"That the late Ben Howard came to his death accidentally by being killed by a train on the Grand Trunk Railway on the 21st of March."

POST MORTEM EXAMINATION

The first witness was Dr. Cameron the surgeon who, with Dr. Young, performed the post mortem examination on Howard's body. He read the report of the examination which showed that there had been a compound fracture of the right leg, a fracture of the right arm and the body was very badly bruised. The vault of the skull protruded through the scalp and there was a large wound in front of and below the left ear which was partly torn from the scalp. There was a wound at the root of the nose and at the outer angle of the right eye. There were concussions under the chin and below the right ear. The neck was broken and the brain matter protruded. Dr. Young corroborated the report.

MAN WHO WENT AFTER BODY.

Jos. Naylor, section foreman on the GTR was the man with three other men who went on a hand car to find the body when he was informed of the fatality. He found the body about two and three-quarter miles east of the GTR station. He left a man there by the name of Reynolds to keep guard over the body and flag any train that might be coming. He notified the station agent, Mr. Sandy and he in turn told the Coroner who gave instructions to bring the body to the station. This was done.

Edward Greer knew the late Ben Howard. He did not see him in town on the day of his death or that night either.

"Did you state to anyone that this matter should be followed up?" said Mr. Wood.

"If I did I don't remember," was the reply.

HOWARD RODE ON HIS SLEIGH

Michael Crowley said he was an Otonabee farmer and was in town on the 21st, the day of Howard's death. The first he saw of deceased was on his sleigh at Downer's Corners. He asked Howard where he was going. He said to Hiawatha. He went into the store at Downer's Corners and when he came out Howard was gone. A man by the name of George Harris was with witness and advised Howard not to go down the track. Witness could not say whether Howard was drunk or not.. Harris had been staying with witness ever since he (Harris) had returned from the shanties. He had not come to the inquest.

DIDN'T SEE HOWARD DRINKING

Herbert Kylie said he lived at Hiawatha and was in the city on the 21st. He knew the late Ben Howard. Saw him first in a local hotel about one o'clock. Howard was looking for a man by the name of Dan Hay. Deceased was not drinking at the hotel as far as the witness was aware. He only saw Howard once that day. Howard was with another Indian but the witness could not remember his name. It might be Culverson.

Coroner Gray—Was he under the influence of liquor then.

Witness—Not that I know of. I was only speaking to him for a couple of minutes.

EVIDENCE OF HOWARD'S CHUM

Peter Culverson said he lived at Deseronto. He was in Peterborough a week ago Saturday. Was with Ben Howard. Met him on the main street between 12 and 2 o'clock. Howard went across the river to feed his team at the hotel there on the south side of the street. Didn't have any liquor there. Left the hotel with him and came to another hotel on this side of the river looking for a man from whom he wanted to buy grain. Left him with another man and he and a man named Lott went to the GTR station. Witness left town on the 2 o'clock train. Deceased had no drinks with witness and witness did not know whether Howard had been drinking or not. Neither one of them had a flask.

"That's all the evidence we have been able to collect" said Mr. Wood.

"Where is that other witness, Lott," said Coroner Gray, 'Call him.'

Lott, who is of Indian extraction and lives in Peterborough, said he saw Howard on the day of his death but could tell nothing concerning him. Howard was sober when witness saw him.

Coroner Gray said, 'As far as I can see, it's a mystery how the man came to be killed. There is no evidence that he had been drinking. If he was sober he never went there alone.'

The jury then deliberated and returned the above stated verdict.

The jury was composed of the following; James Hendry, T. Hendry, P. O'Keefe, T C Holden, foreman; R. Pullyblank, Thos. Hooper, Edward Lee Welch, Edward Jewett, John Blackford, George Frost, Walter Kidd W. L. Taylor and Roy. Deyell.

Indian Said to Have Gone Through Ice

Death of George Taylor Reported From Chemong—Report Cannot be Confirmed

It is rumored in the city today that George Taylor, a Chemong Indian, and one of the best known paddlers and guides on Chemong lake, was drowned in Chemong lake this morning about eight o'clock, while attempting to cross the ice with his team and sleigh. It is also stated that his team was drowned but it is impossible to state whether there is any foundation to the rumor or not.

Mr. Dan Whetung, Jr., driver of the Chemong stage, and another resident of Chemong, expressed all ignorance of the occurrence, when seen regarding it today, and the Review communicated with Bridgenorth today but nothing concerning the alleged fatality up to the time of going to press had been heard in that village.

Esteemed Lady Passes Away

Sudden Death of Mrs. D. H. Moore Yesterday—Funeral To-morrow

With shocking suddenness came the death of Mrs. D. H. Moore, which occurred yesterday afternoon at her late residence, 207 Brock street, shortly after five o'clock. The late Mrs. Moore had not been feeling well for some weeks but on Saturday she appeared to be in particularly good health and went about her home superintending the household duties. However on Sunday morning she became quite ill and gradually grew worse until the end came. The deceased's daughter, Miss Lillian, had been visiting in Ottawa and on Saturday her mother wired her that she might stay a few days longer. Yesterday morning when her mother became seriously ill, Miss Moore was telephoned and through the kindness of her friend in Ottawa a special train was procured and she arrived here just an hour before her mother passed away. The late Mrs. Moore was surrounded by her husband and son and daughter in her last moments upon earth.

The deceased lady was 53 years of age and was born in the township of Smith, she being a daughter of the late Wm. McKee of that township. Thirty-three years ago she was married to her now surviving husband and with the exception of three years she lived all her married life in this city. She was widely known and highly esteemed for her many sterling qualities. She was an earnest and consistent member of St. Paul's church.

Besides her husband one son Ernest V. Moore, and one daughter M. Lillian Moore of this city are left to mourn her loss. Four brothers and one sister also survive her. The brothers are Samuel of London, John of St. Thomas, Wm. and Edwin of Molesworth, and the sister is Mrs. Harry Bradburn of this city.

The funeral will take place tomorrow afternoon at 2.30 o'clock from the family residence, 207 Brock St., to the Little Lake cemetery.

Overhanging Sign Question to Front Again

Matter is Being Discussed in Police Circles

It was learned that there is more trouble in the air regarding overhead signs. About a year ago there was a lively time regarding the matter, but the trouble blew over and nothing has been heard about it since. To-day, however, the Bell Telephone Co have had a large electric sign placed in front of their office on Hunter street and it is understood the police have been asked to look into the question and prevent the erection of any more overhanging signs.

The whole question of overhanging signs is likely to come to the fore again.

His condition was thought to be so serious that he was sent to the Ross Hospital last evening, but died shortly after reaching that institution without regaining consciousness.

A SURGICAL OPERATION

If there is any one thing that a woman dreads more than another it is a surgical operation.

We can state without fear of a contradiction that there are hundreds, yes, thousands, of operations performed upon women in our hospitals which are entirely unnecessary and many have been avoided by

LYDIA E. PINKHAM'S VEGETABLE COMPOUND

For proof of this statement read the following letter.

Mrs. Letitia Blair, Cannifton, Ont., writes to Mrs. Pinkham:

"I was sick for five years. One doctor told me it was ulceration, and another told me it was a fibroid tumor, and advised an operation. No one knows what I suffered, and the bearing down pains were terrible.

"I wrote to my sister about it, and she advised me to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

"It has cured me of all my troubles, and I did not have to have the operation after all. The Compound also helped me to pass safely through Change of Life."

FACTS FOR SICK WOMEN.

For thirty years Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, made from roots and herbs, has been the standard remedy for female ills, and has positively cured thousands of women who have been troubled with displacements, inflammation, ulceration, fibroid tumors, irregularities, periodic pains and backache.

Mrs. Pinkham invites all sick women to write her for advice. She has guided thousands to health. Address, Lynn, Mass.

STOCK MARKET QUOTATIONS

Special to The Review

New York, March 30.—After a rather soft opening the market grew strong under lead of Northern Pacific, which was bid up quite sharply. As was the case before, however, the market did not follow in the lead of this stock but on the other hand seemed to be under pressure of some liquidation.

Around noontime the bears attacked the list on the theory that nothing would come of the meeting of the Erie directors this afternoon to consider the company's financial condition. The floor element was generally operating on the bear side, and when it began to cover late in the afternoon the market rallied easily.

Manipulation is still apparent to a certain extent, but those who favor higher prices do not seem to be willing to spend the money necessary to bring about such a development. Buy only on breaks and for the time being accept fair profits. The closing was quiet.

Le Barge Pleaded Not Guilty To Biting Castle's Lip in Row

Much Evidence Taken for Both Parties—His Worship Reserved Judgment Until To-morrow Morning—Le Barge Denies the Charge.

Frederick LeBarge was charged with assaulting Harry Castle on the second of March, by bitting him and inflicting grievious bodily harm. Mr. F. D. Kerr appeared for LeBarge. He elected to be tried summarily and pleaded not guilty. Several witnesses were heard for both parties, after which his Worship reserved judgment until to-morrow morning.

Harry Castle, the complainant, was the first witness. He knew the prisoner. He remembered Monday, March 2nd. That afternoon he came out about three o'clock. He met LeBarge at the New Oxford hotel and he bought him a drink. They then came up to the American hotel, where they had another drink. The defendant brought up a conversatin about the witnesses' sister-in-law, in which he criticized her rather severely. Castle told LeBarge that he was crazy and at that the defendant knocked him down. LeBarge was put out of the hotel and Castle also went out and went over to the Royal hotel. Here he met LeBarge again and in another fracas witness received a number of injuries. His lip was bitten by LeBarge and his eye blackened.

Dr. Morgan attended him and he was in Nicholls Hospital three days.

Dr. Morgan sworn, stated that he was called to the Police Station to attend the last witness. He was pretty well covered with blood. His lip was considerably swollen and was cut open. The doctor said that he ordered that he be taken to the hospital. At the hospital he was given chloroform and his lip stitched as was also a cut in the side of his face. His left eye was also badly injured.

John Harris stated that he met Castle at the New Oxford on the Monday afternoon. He went with him to the American house. He saw LeBarge hit Castle. At the Royal hotel witness only saw LeBarge strike Castle in the face. There was quite a lively scuffle and LeBarge fell to the floor. He didn't see any biting.

Andy Blodgett was with Castle and LeBarge at the New Oxford. At the American house Castle and LeBarge had a rather heated conversation, which finally resulted in LeBarge striking Castle. When the witness got to the Royal hotel the trouble was over and Castle was sitting with blood streaming from his face.

THE DEFENCE

Mr. Edward Pilling was called for the defence. He stated that Castle was drunk at the City hotel and wanted to fight. Castle struck the witness in the eye.

Mr. Stephen Holland, proprietor of the Royal hotel, was called. He did not see the fight commence. He saw them clinching, but he positively asserted that LeBarge did not bite Castle.

Mr. Dan Sullivan witnessed the row at the Royal hotel, but apparently had forgotten this morning what had happened.

Daniel Kennedy was called, but did not know much about the affair.

James Kelly was also called, but knew little about the row.

LeBarge went into the box. He said that there had been ill-feeling between Castle and him since last summer. At Long's hotel, the defendant admitted hitting Castle. Castle came to the Royal hotel looking for the witness. They met at the bar. LeBarge couldn't remember which one struck first. He denied bitting him or kicking him. He admitted having struck him with his fist several times.

HIGH SCORES PLENTIFUL AT PETERBORO' BOWLING CLUB

The largest attendance of members of any day since the opening ten days ago, visited the Peterborough Bowling Club on Saturday. All the regulars were trundling in magnificent form and 200 scores came with almost monotonous regularity. Gutterson, Boyd, Cairns, Hemstead, Giroux, Connors, Frost, Lawless and others exceeding or nearly equalling the figure mentioned. They were all after Tommy Boyd's record of 254, but no one came within hailing distance of it, not even Boyd himself, and it looks as if the record will stand for some days to come.

The new bowlers are coming along nicely and the membership is constantly growing.

The feature tonight will be a match game between two five men teams picked up from among the telephone staff who are installing the new exchange. They are all enthusiastic trundlers and among them are numbered some of the most expert members of the P.B.C.

On Tuesday night Munroe's Colts and the Octagon Club have a big match game, five men aside, while later in the week, probably Friday night Chris Graham's Phenoms and Regan's team will battle for the mastery in a game that should be replete with excitement and interesting features. Regan will have Tommy Boyd on his team while Chris Graham has several dark horses that he is keeping under cover until the fateful day.

A reply was received from Bart Moran this morning saying that he was unable to name a day just yet for his visit to Peterborough, but he expects to come before the week is over. The evening he arrives he will be matched against members of the P.B.C. in exhibition games single handed, so that as many as possible of the more expert individuals will be enabled to try their skill against the diminutive Torontonian, who recently succeeded in piling up the largest score ever made in Canada.

The Perfect Dress.

"There is in the world one matter of taste," says Sir Frederick Treves, "upon which unanimity of opinion can never be obtained, and that is on the subject of woman's dress.

"It may as well be stated, therefore, without the least hope of carrying conviction, that the dress of the Burmese women is as nearly perfect as any female costume can be.

"It's chief claim to perfection is that it is exquisitely, divinely simple. It consists of a white linen jacket of the plainest possible type, without collars, ties or cuffs, and a skirt of unstudied silk wrapped closely round the body down to the feet. This robe is marred neither by flounce nor frill, and, so far as the uninitiated can tell, it has escaped even the touch of the needle or thread.

"Sandals to the feet and gold bangles to the wrist complete the costume. Whatever may be the artistic value of this attire, it can at least claim to be perfect from the standpoint of health.

"The Burmese woman 'does' her hair with equal simplicity in a neat coil, which displays the outline of the head with perfection, and no hair arrangement of the ancient Greeks could be more 'classical.' A fresh flower, or possibly a comb, is the sole ornament.

"There is no attempt to contort the human hair into puffs or rolls, or to make it a grotesque, meaningless structure, held up by pins and cords, and undermined by frowsy pads."

Indian Prince Weds.

An interesting ceremony has taken place at Kapurthala, where the maharajah, Sir Jagatjit Singh Bahadur, has married Senorita Delgrado, of Malaga.

The wedding was celebrated in accordance with the orthodox Sikh ritual.

The bride wore a magnificent dress, richly ornamented with jewels. The scene was one of remarkable splendor.

The maharajah of Kapurthala, who is one of the handsomest, as well as one of the richest, Indian princes, rules a Punjaub principality which is one of the smallest principal native states in India.

The maharajah's grandfather was one of the Sikh chiefs who remained loyal during the mutiny. The present maharajah owns about $4,000,000 worth of jewels, and has built a new winter palace at Kapurthala at a cost of $1,000,000. He is fond of French cooking, motoring and polo, and has written a book on his travels.

SEA LION JUGGLER.

Animal Performs Feats With Almost Human Intelligence.

A clumsy, shiny-skinned sea lion, from whose bright eyes gleams an intelligence which is almost human, and who betrays a sagacity which is scarcely credible, is overshadowing all the human "stars" in the program at the Alhambra Theatre. Toby is his name, and the juggling acts he achieves with a precision and a lack of prompting, which appear almost incredible, would tax the ingenuity of some of the most expert of the human performers who are now appearing upon the music hall stage.

Toby's master takes up a big india-rubber ball. He tosses it in the air. Toby catches it adroitly upon his queer nose, balances it for a second, and neatly throws it back. Then they play a game of ball from one to the other—and when the sequence is broken, it is not Toby who is at fault. A long pole is produced. Upon the top, balanced crosswise, is a small fish. Toby extends his head carefully. The bottom of the pole is placed upon his nose. In an instant he has it balanced perfectly. Waddling queerly across the stage, he sways instinctively to prevent the pole falling; and then, with the finesse of a finished artist, tosses the stick aside and catches the falling fish in his mouth.

With a tennis ball Toby does an extraordinary feat. Bouncing it up and down upon his nose, without the suggestion of a mistake, he suddenly brings it to a rest, and balances it motionless, with neck outstretched. But it is Toby's final trick which "brings down the house." Upon a long pole a dangerously shaky pile of cigar boxes is built up. Upon the topmost a ball rests. Balancing this formidable erection upon his nose, Toby slowly crosses the stage, mounts laboriously upon a platform, and then, flinging everything else aside, arrests the fall of the ball and triumphantly balances it upon his nose.

Toby has a smaller associate, who never forgets to beat gravely upon a board with his "flapper" when his talented companion does something notably clever. This performer also sings a "song," emitting sepulchral barks and sighs as his trainer waves a baton. These two and a couple of smaller sea lions form themselves presently into a band. One plays a cornet, another taps a triangle, a third beats a drum with tremendous energy, and Toby makes more noise than any of the others with a pair of cymbals, and appears to enjoy himself thoroughly, too.

WANT TO TILL KING'S PARK.

Idle Men March to Windsor Castle From Manchester.

A band of unemployed men who recently marched from Manchester to London are now encamped on the outskirts of Windsor with the novel design of pegging out claims in the great park of the royal castle. With a crude realization of Henry George's land theories, the leader, Stewart Grey, claims the solution of the unemployed problem will be found in an opportunity to work on what he calls the King's idle land.

Gray, who is a picturesque example of the later day blanketer, professes to be a loyal subject of King Edward notwithstanding, and has addressed to the King a petition dated on the highway in which he says: "On behalf of the deputation of unemployed who have marched to London as representatives of 25,000 starving or charity fed persons in Manchester to make application to view the lands of Windsor Castle, our object is to see if by bringing the said lands into cultivation self-supporting employment can be provided for a portion of that large section of the community which to-day is not required in the commercial system.

"Should the land prove capable of thus providing useful employment, we respectfully hope Your Majesty will show an example by granting the use for an experiment of about fifty acres. On that we hope to be able to show the nation that men can build their own homes and grow their own dinner."

At first Gray had the idea of squatting in the park without asking "by your leave," but changed his mind when a friendly barrister pointed out that under the old statutes men who interfered with royal parks were liable to sentence to death or the loss of the right hand.

Gray takes himself so seriously that when last heard from he was announcing that if the King's answer to the petition is unfavorable he would take position on a handcart which his followers have with them, the handcart would be draped in mourning, and there he would stay and starve to death if need be. "I shall not touch food until the people's just demands are granted," he said. "If necessary I shall die for the cause. My men will push the cart along the roads and if I die they have promised to take my body home to Scotland for burial."

CIRCUS RIDER BOER SPY.

Woman Sold English Military Secrets to the Enemy.

Lily Whiterose, a circus rider charged with drunkenness at Bradford recently, told the bench an extraordinary life story.

She was the daughter of an army officer, she said. She ran away from home while in her 'teens and joined Buffalo Bill's show in Massachusetts. She became a crack shot and an expert rider under Col. Cody's tuition.

Later she married an Austrian army officer. She followed him to South Africa and managed during the war to secure some secret information respecting the movements of the British army.

She went to the Boer general De Wet, sold him the information, and was engaged as a despatch runner.

She wore military attire and passed as a man.

Remorse for her treachery overcame her and she deserted the Boers and joined the British army at Modder River, disguised as a trooper.

She went through several battles, she said, and earned special distinction by carrying a wounded soldier part of the way across the river on her horse.

Afterward she became ill with enteric fever and in the hospital her sex was discovered. She then became a nurse, and later, she concluded, she returned home to resume her professional career.

Gives Up Sport For Politics.

Lord Dalmeny, Earl Rosebery's son and heir, has had to make the choice between his lone sport and his political ambitions. He is member of Parliament for Midlothian. He also is captain of the Surrey County Cricket Club.

In the latter role he performed last summer certain feats of batting which redounded to his great honor with the cricket-loving English public, but his Scotch constituents did not look upon their member's cricket with the same admiration. They considered that the time Dalmeny spent on the cricket field might better have been devoted to furthering their interests in and out of St. Stephens.

The Scotsmen, it will be remembered, are golfers and not cricketers. Consequently it was intimated to Dalmeny that the Midlothian electors might throw him over unless he gave less time and attention to cricket and more to his arduous duties as their representative in Parliament.

Dalmeny, after much consideration, concluded his political future was more important than cricket, and consequently resigned the captaincy of the Surrey team.

Genius on the Street.

Frank Walters, 16 years old, who has been making his living by playing the violin in the streets of Bristol, is declared to be a musical genius, and he is to have the opportunity of developing his talents.

The boy has been playing for three years, and the only lessons he received consisted of a course of tuition extending over three months. He has practiced assiduously, however, and his playing is said by musicians to be wonderful.

A woman who assisted financially in the training of Miss Marie Hall was attracted recently by his playing, and, after questioning him, she offered to assist him to obtain a musical education. She had interested others, and it has been arranged that Walters shall appear soon at a charity concert in Bristol.

Walter is a native of Stroud, Gloucestershire, and with his father and mother he tours the streets of the large cities for about nine months every year, going as far north as Manchester and Liverpool.

Twenty Thousand Ponies Are Doomed to Death in Nevada

Upwards of 20,000 wild horses are doomed to be slaughtered, it is estimated, on account of the government's recent order to the Nevada rangers that all the equines running loose shall be slaughtered.

The government took this drastic action in an effort to stop the ravages which the animals commit among the forests, but among Western horsemen it is believed that the killing off of the animals is not the best way out of the difficulty.

Major Burke, the circusman, who is taken as an authority on many matters pertaining to the West, is one of those who hold to this opinin.

"There is no doubt that these wild animals do great damage to the forests, and they are a menace to tame horses," says the major, "but I think there are many animals among them which might be tamed and put to good use in breeding.

"The best horse I ever saw in my life was a wild stallion. He roamed at the head of a wild herd out in Oklahoma in the early '80s. We used to chase that stallion in relays, following him about the plains for days. He seemed never to tire, and he had speed that no horse I have ever seen could equal.

"A couple of years before the opening of Oklahoma territory some cowboys got together and determined to catch that stallion. They chased him in relays for two days, and then he was as fresh as he was when they started after him. After the first few hours the mares and colts were all exhausted, with the exception of one little bay devil, a yearling. This colt ran with the white horse, and the remarkable thing was thta he kept pace with him.

"One of the cowboys on a fresh pony got the old horse off his beaten path by a clever move, and turned his head toward a ranch which was wired in. The horse plunged against one of the barbs and cut his throat and he fell, bleeding to death, but game to the last.

"That cowboy made a fortune out of the bay colt. When the territory was opened by the government two years ago, and there was such a rush of sooners for desired land, one piece of property in a valley about 75 miles from the start was particularly coveted. That bay pony had a race with about 100 other horses for the land, but he won out easily.

"That's the kind of horses that can be got from some of those 15,000 or 20,000 ponies that are to be shot out in Nevada. I'll venture to say that half of those doomed little fellows would make better saddle horses than 50 per cent. of the stiff kneed plugs that you see galloping about the parks. They are tougher and they are gentler, and when it comes to faithfulness a native born horse is not in it with them.

"If the government would appropriate money to breed from the best of these wild ponies our better breed of horse would be improved in a few years. Those ponies that are to be killed are as fast as our thoroughbreds for a short distance, and a heap faster for a long run; they are as strong as mules and as tough as leather. It seems to me that is what our native horses need, and by crossing them with these ponies we can get it."

NEW YORK STOCK MARKET

New York, March 30—The stock market has now had a substantial market has now had a very substantial rise, and the inducements to take porfits by those who bought at panic prices have been irresistable. It is evident that the advance cannot be carried much further unless a fresh buying element is discovered. The leading operators have all the stocks they want, and, since they were the chief buyers at the lower level, it is reasonable to infer that they are now diminishing their holdings. Under the influence of easy money and the tendency to recover from panic conditions, the market may possibly be carried to a higher level, but it is quite certain that the greater the advance the more free will profit-taking become. One encouraging feature was the reopening of a big financial institution which was obliged to suspend during the panic. Trade in the West is picking up slightly; railroads earnings are not showing such extreme losses as was the case in January and February, and the curtailment enforced in many industries is preventing any great surplus of merchandise. Money market conditions are satisfactory and the surplus reserve last week stood at $37,000,000. The Government is now withdrawing its deposits from the banks quite freely, but this should not cause any disturbance. The easier tendency in money is worldwide; which is fortunate, as otherwise we might have to face large gold exports during the coming spring. April settlements will be looked forward to with some concern, but less so this year than previously. A good many maturities, however, will have to be taken care of at that time, yet under improved monetary conditions all business concerns showing a clean bill of health will have little difficulty in securing needed accommodations. The conservative action of the banks during the last three months has had much to do with strengthening the situation; and it is gratifying too situation; and it is gratifying to note that business failures, heavy as they have been, are less than at one time feared. Tendencies toward recovery are still at work. The readjustment process is incomplete, consequently some industries are much more depressed than others. Nevertheless, it is reasonable to hope that the extreme depression following the panic will disappear sooner than expected. We are promised an early spring and as there has been an abundance of moisture during the past month, conditions are favorable for a good planting season. Our agricultural classes felt the panic but slightly, and in all probability, will have another profitable season because of the relative scarcity of agricultural products. Of the things which grow from Mother Earth, there is scarcely an important surplus to be found anywhere.

Operations in the stock market should be conducted with much conservatism. The conditions to which we have referred, it is ture, are generally favorable, but they have frequently been fully discounted. We advise caution on the buying side, after the recent considerable advance andt he taking of some profits gradually hereafter. Any unfavorable developments would probably be followed by free realizations and sharp declines.

HONORING CANADA

The lady Mayoress, of Leeds, Eng., is a Canadian, formerly Miss McLaren, of St. Catharines, now Mrs. W. L. Hepton, and recently in the Leeds town hall at a vice reception, the decorations were given a Canadian aspect out of compliment to the first citizen's wife. The orchestra was hidden in what was supposed to be a Canadian pine forest, white draperies were used to simulate snow and the Canadian flag was draped beside the Union Jack.

The weather is so warm in Alberta that G. Corbett, Agricola, reports to the Wingham Advocate: "We have to feed the hens cracked ice to keep them from laying hard-boiled eggs these warm spring days."

REVIVAL IN TEMPERANCE

St. Peter's T.A.S. is beginning a renewal of its exertions to obtain an increased membership. Its motto is, broadly speaking, "Persuasion not compulsion." It leaves to the will and conscience of the individual man the final decision as to his own fate.

None the less does it endeavor to present to its clientele the very great desirability of joining its ranks. Total abstinence, is the aim immediate and ultimate of the society's members. Being alarmed by the sudden and general increase in drunkenness the society has determined to redouble its exertions. That it has done an enormous amount of good it is almost unnecessary to say. No movement looking to the gradual and effective development of the trend of men's social customs and inclinations has ever done greater or more beneficent work, in Peterborough at least. Visitors will interview all members of the Catholic community with an especial view of getting them to join one or other branch of this admirable institution. The movement will be kept up until the entire field is covered thoroughly.

In Quebec, Catholics and Protestants are joining heartily in the temperance cause. That it will be a general success depends upon strong and united effort, there and elsewhere.

SIR WILFRID LAURIER

It is no part of the duty, or the pleasure of any Canadian to find fault in a representative official simply because there is some minor fault to find. But it becomes none the less a duty to the state to remark when this occasion arises upon the shortcomings and failures of one upon whom the state so largely depends as this premier. The latest manifestation of failing capacity in the Canadian premier is, it is generally admitted, his failure to form and keep in hand a cabinet of capable and desirable men. This excuse is made that they are not there, that he has chosen the best of those returned, &c., We beg leave to doubt this statement. Surely half a dozen men at least honest, if not capable could be found to fill cabinet positions so that when a royal commission brings in a report it may criticise the efficiency but not the honesty of the officials reported on. A brief review of the history of federal politics for the last four years, including as it does the GTP., the immigration scandal, the timber steal, the 'vicious life' era, the lowering of interest to post office depositors, the rise in rate paid for government loans from capitalists, the fall of the Quebec bridge without insurance or security provided, the lack of employment for workingmen, the failure to finance, the withdrawal of money with the consequent hard times—all these and many others make up a list of failures and delinquencies which place Sir Wilfrid far below Cartier and Chapleau on the roll of French-Canadian celebrities. That he is failing in health we are prepared to believe rather than that we should be compelled to ascribe his political breakdown to other causes.

PUBLIC MEETINGS

Public meetings for the discussion of public affairs, especially of a municipal character, are invaluable. They clear up the ideas of those who hold ill-defined opinions not knowing just what to think, and they furnish ideas to those who have had no opportunity to read up the matters in question. They give also, and through the newspapers, the opinions of the community as represented by its leading men and in every way provide material to discuss and an opportunity to discuss it. The other alternative is meeting in caucus. Now, caucuses are the parents of lies and all other forms of crookedness whatsoever. There is no body to the opinion there presented, and no care as to the weight of opinion expressed. They are primarily for the purpose of deciding on how to do what has previously been decided on as the "what-to-do," on some other and presumably more public occasion. The custom of meeting in public is also time-honored and general. It has been of distinct service in the past and we hope will be made use of in the future. The Mayor and Council of Peterborough for 1908 have won the golden opinions of the public. Straight, businesslike, prompt and practical, they are equal to the task they have undertaken. No doubt they will hold one or more public meetings for the discussion of the city's bill. A general understanding will mean more general interest in it and will mean probably more general endorsation at the polls.

DEEDS NOT WORDS

It is customary to say that talk is cheap. Ontario has not found it so. A late provincial secretary was touted as a wonderful departmental officer and administrator. The following clipping from the Sarnia Canadian shows just how much or rather how little truth there was in such a boast.

"When the Whitney government went into office, it found the asylums and other public buildings in extreme disrepair, some of them uninhabitable. The parsimony which had reduced them to that condition ceased when the Ross government went out. Our public buildings are no longer a discredit to the province, but it has cost a good deal to put them in good order. The provincial railway also was found to be poorly built, and besides the outlay on new constructions, much money had to be spent on the old part of the line to put it in a condition economically to handle the traffic. Agriculture has been fostered and assisted and large additional grants have been made for education. The benefits of this enlightened policy are not immediately realisable in dollars and cents, but the time is not far distant when the liberality of the government's provisions for education will be generally acknowledged as one of the great forwarding influences of the province.

Two items of Hon. Col Matheson's budget statement to the house were especially interesting. He announced that the provincial mining operations on the Gillies limit were beginning to yield a return, the first shipment of silver ore having been made and that one hundred thousand dollars was expected to be realized from the Gillies limit mine this season. He was also able to state that the business methods introduced by the provincial secretary in dealing with the asylums, had been of great benefit, the revenue from the public institutions having increased since the Whitney government came into power by $87,000 of which $57,000 was the result of more systematic collections, many patients having been formerly maintained in the public institutions at the expense of the province who were able to pay for their own maintenance, and who were now required to do so."

A DIVISION OF OPINION

Why was Otonabee flouted at the late so-called Liberal convention at Norwood? This large and influential township although its representatives to the number of thirty wanted nominations for the Dominion House to be proceeded with, was ignored or rather turned down. The reasons given are not satisfactory. The truth is that some of the prospective nominees had the fear of death upon them. Doubtless it was justified. Then a vice-president of a township not more than a thousand miles away from Douro, went into a sub-division and appointed three out of the four required, from that sub-division, and took the other one from a sub-division near at hand. This uncalled-for proceeding has produced painful feelings and the result will be a severe reprimand on the part of those ignored for private purposes, for those offending. Confusion worse confounded describes the condition of the Liberal organization in the East Riding. The party itself is sound and true and will not allow itself to be made the catspaw of designing politicians.

EDITORIAL NOTES

A Liberal paper came out with a brilliant statement the other day to the effect that our credit was good and our prospects bright, because we had borrowed ninety-two millions of dollars in six months. Some people have curious ideas of prosperity.

Prime Minister Whitney is suffering through the load of an unwieldy majority. The only real obstruction in the session comes from his many followers who insist on making their campaign speeches for practice before going into their constituencies.—The Globe.

Who would care to run any risk of changing it?

We would suggest as suitable names for some of the 114 new towns that are to be "laid out" along the G.T.P. the following:—Emerson, Hyman, Brodeur, Arctic, Coolie, Unemployed, Pork and Beans, Cartwright, Bogus Loyalty, and Hindoo. It will be a fitting list with which to chronicle in history the Farmer's Burden, otherwise known as the Grand Trunk Elephant.

If the conditions are anything like those described by the commissioners, the Liberal party, as a whole, will insist that there shall be a thorough cleaning out of the officials responsible, no matter how high placed they may be.—Ottawa Free Press, (Liberal.)

The demands for reports and investigations by the Opposition was called obstruction by Sir Wilfrid and and the Globe, if we remember aright! What is it now?

Montreal, March 28.—The tide of immigration is setting in strongly towards Canada.

The Empress of Ireland is due at Halifax this evening with 1,500 passengers, mostly immigrants.

The Lake Manitoba sailed from Liverpool on the 25th with a list of 1,159.

The Montreal left Antwerp on the 20th with 1,762, and the Allan line is due shortly with 1,300 passengers.

It will be like the Irishman and the wildcat before long if this keeps up. It will be not how can we get 'em, but how can we keep 'em out.

On the other hand, enterprises rashly conceived, imprudently managed, and depending on visionary hopes of an uncertain demand, though possibly they have enjoyed a semblance of prosperity in the halcyon years, have, during the test year, been forced into liquidation, amalgamation, and all sorts of expedients in order to keep eyes, nose and ears above the water-level. On the whole, it is well that such periods come occasionally to try out financial concerns and starve sickly plants out of the field of legitimate business. It is a hard lesson for the victims, but the laws of supply and demand, and the survival of the fittest, are inexorable, and rapid extinction is better than lingering death.—Farmer's Advocate.

This "makes a noise" like the G.T.P.

"Various reasons are assigned for the attempt to escape provincial jurisdiction, but the real reason is the belief that at Ottawa these attempts will not be so keenly scrutinized as in the Provincial Capital. — Toronto Star (Liberal.)

It would be difficult to find a more severe indictment in fewer words than these. The Toronto Star is an influential journal of thoroughly recognized Liberal proclivities and is as much an accredited organ of the Liberal party as is the Globe. It is fair withal and like most things, Canadian that have passed the greedy age of youth, it is sane and healthy. "Spread a feast before them and they would forget their mother," no longer applies to us. Perhaps the day will come when men will consider it an insult to be offered a penny or a penny-bun in the name of kindness or finance.

C. P. R. ENTERPRISE

The annual distribution of seeds from the floral department of the Canadian Pacific is now taking place, and as the result of the efforts of Mr. N. S. Dunlop, the C.P.R. floral enthusiast, during the coming summer there will be a streak of flowers and shrubs across the whole continent from St. John to Vancouver Island, which will tend in no small degree to give travellers an idea of the beauty of the country. From a small beginning this floral scheme of the big railway has become almost a national institution, and the interest in it is growing very fast amongst the employees of the C.P.R., especially those in small stations, where they have time to go in for gardening, and where there is frequently keen competition as to who can grow the finest display around the station and office buildings. This year Mr. Dunlop has received hundreds of applications for packages of seed. Each package contains twenty-nine varieties as follows:—Alyssum, sweet; antirrhinum, giant flowering; aster, early flowering Comet; aster, Semple's; balsam, rose-flowered; candytuft, mixed colors; carnation, Marguerite; centaurea, Imperialis; climbers, dianthus, Mourning Cloak; everlasting flowers, godetia, mixed; gaillardia, Aristata; Kochia or Summer Cypress; mignonette, 1900; nasturtium, California Giant, dwarf; pnasy, Giant Trimardeau; petunia, large flowering single; phlox Drummondi; poppies (Burbank's Silver Lining and Maid of the Mist); scabiosa, salpiglossis; stocks, Dwarf German Ten Weeks; sunflower, Chrysanthemum Flowered; sweet-peas, Spencer's Hybrid Mixture; verbena, giant flowering; and zinnias, mammoth mixed.

The scheme is evidently becoming a greater success every year. "During the past few months," said Mr. Dunlop, "I have had hundreds of letters from railway agents, section men and others who received these packages of seeds, telling of the great pleasure they derived from them. The work has proved a blessing to thousands of employees of the Company, in the lonely districts of the West, where both they and their families have taken great interest in beautifying the stations with their garden work. This year we expect to have more railway gardens than ever before, and the result cannot but be both beneficial to the Road and its employees, as well as a source of pleasure to travellers along the line."

CHIEF ROSZEL WON'T DO IT

"Vanderbilt Cup" Management Can't Run Auto on Local Sts. at High Rate of Speed

Chief Roszel has declined to comply with a request made by the management of "The Vanderbilt Cup." They have asked to be allowed to run an automobile in an exhibition sprint at 90 miles an hour on one of Peterborough's streets next Wednesday the day the opera is given here.

"I have the law to go by," said the Chief to a Review reporter, "and to allow such a thing as "The Vanderbilt Cup" Company wants, would be to endorse the violation of the law."

Doors Now All Open Outward

In compliance with the regulation of the Board of Education, the doors of all the city schools have been rearranged to open outward. Carpenters have been kept busy during the past few days working at the Collegiate Institute. The doors at the main entrances have all been fixed and now in the event of a fire they can be easily swung open. Fire drills are also being held weekly at the schools and the pupils have all been out of the buildings in remarkably quick time.

PRESCRIPTION FILLED OFTEN

Many Persons Here Benefitted by Home Prescription and Druggists are Kept Busy

That the readers of this paper appreciate advice when given in good faith is plainly demonstrated by the fact that one well-known local pharmacy filled the 'vegetable prescription many times within the past two weeks. Most of these people naturally bought the ingredients only and mixed them at home. The announcement of this simple, harmless mixture has certainly accomplished much in reducing the great many cases of kidney complaint and rheumatism here, relieving pain and misery, especially among the older population who are always suffering more or less with bladder and urinary troubles, backache and particularly rheumatism.

Another well-known druggist asks us to continue the announcement of the prescription. It is doing so much real good here, he continues, that it can not be repeated too often, and further states many cases of remarkable cures wrought.

The following is the prescription of simple ingredients, making a harmless, inexpensive compound which any person can prepare by shaking well in a bottle: Fluid Extract Dandelion one-half ounce; Compound Kargon, one ounce; Compound Syrup Sarsaparilla, three ounces. Any first-class drug store will sell this small amount of each ingredient and the dose for adults is one teaspoonful to be taken after each meal and again at bedtime. There is enough here to last for one week, if taken, according to directions. Good results will be apparent form the first few doses.

The Chicago Railway Company has ordered nearly $1,000,000 worth of new car equipment from the Edison General Electric.

AN ELEPHANT EXPERT

This is a story of an elephant sale in India. A large herd of the animals was placed on exhibition and a number of prospective purchasers were critically examining the ponderous beasts.

The dealer noticed one man who seemed particularly impressed with a certain elephant, and also noted that the elephant under examination was one which had been doctored especially for the sale. The dealer went to the man and called him aside.

"I see that you know a great deal about elephants," he said. "Of course you noticed that the animal you examined had been doctored. Don't give me away and if I sell the brute I'll give you ten per cent. of the sale price."

The man nodded his head. Some hours later the dealer went to the man and handed him a considerable sum of money.

"I sold that elephant," he explained. "By the way, how did you come to know so much about elephants?"

"I don't know anything about them," replied the man. "In fact that was the first time I ever saw an elephant. When you called me I was trying to figure out which end its tail was on."

McFadden, contractor of this city, has received an invitation requesting the presence of himself and Mrs. McFadden at a social evening to be held under the auspices of the Master Builders' Association of Barnsly, England. The invitation came from Mr. Jas. Clarke who is now a contractor at Barnsly but who learned his trade in Peterborough with Mr. McFadden. Mr. Clarke enclosed two complimentary tickets. Mr. McFadden's only regret is that he cannot accept the invitation.

CONVICTION IS JUST.

Governor Hughes Declines to Reprieve Chester Gillette at Auburn.

Albany, March 30.—Governor Hughes last night announced that he had denied the application for reprieve for Chester Gillette, and no act of the governor that can now be foreseen, will interfere with Gillette's execution at Auburn prison, for the murder of his sweetheart, Grace, or Billy Brown of South Otselic, Chenango, at Big Moose Lake, in the Adirondacks, on July 11, 1906.

The mother of the condemned youth herself appealed to the governor.

The governor dismisses the theory based on the alleged new evidence presented by John H. Dugan of Albany, who appeared for the Gillette family before the governor, as "wholly untenable" and declares that "if reason is to be our guide, and all the established facts are taken into consideration, there is no escape from the conclusion that a brutal murder was committed and that the conviction was just."

Chinese Boy Expelled.

Victoria, March 30.—Chan Wenn King, a Chinese boy, has been expelled from the public school here for indecent conduct while attending the Hock Bay school.

Action at the school board meeting followed complaints from a parent that his six-year-old daughter had brought home a scribbler with highly indecent drawings by the boy.

The matter will probably be brought up at a meeting of the Asiatic Exclusion League.

The expulsion is made permanent.

Amend Coasting Laws.

Vancouver, March 30.—The Board of Trade special meeting Saturday night endorsed the petition of the British Columbia lumbermen asking the Dominion Government to discontinue enforcement of the regulations which now compel owners of timber licenses to cut the specified amount of timber yearly.

It also passed a resolution asking the Government to amend the Canadian coasting laws, placing them on the same basis as United States.

ORIENTALS ARE EXPERTS IN LAQUER WORK

How the Varnish is Made and How the Ornamentation is Done

In this dry climate, away from the sea, there are more difficulties in managing lacquer in its progressive stages than in Japan, writes Eliza R. Scidmore from Pekin, China; but, in his stone floored, thick walled and heavy roofed bit of a house the Tartar chief workman, who alone in Pekin seems to know the secret of carving red lacquer, manages to maintain an even temperature and to get moisture into the air by constant sprinkling. The sap of the lacquer tree, the fine varnish, whose drying in consecutive layers constitutes lacquer, comes to him from Yunnan and Kweichow provinces. Powdered Cinnabar gives him the red color and a mixture of a "blue and yellow powder that comes from Canton," gives him the green colors. These mixed lacquers, in thick, sticky liquids like honey or molasses, are kept in covered crocks or bowls, and the workmen apply them with thin blades or brushes that distribute thinnest, even washes the precious paint over the wooden foundation of the object that is being coated. The surface of a wooden box is coated over with dark green lacquer and put away to dry in a dark cupboard, whose sides are constantly sprinkled with water. After drying for a day in the moist air, another coat is applied, and it is again put in the damp cupboard to dry. This continues until the object has been coated fifty times with dark green lacquer. The general outline of the design which is to be raised in relief above the green ground is drawn on, and the ground work is then carried over with fine wave, diaper, and geometrical designs. The successive coats of red are applied and dried, and gradually little islands of red appear above the green level. Eighty coats of red lacquer are applied and dried, and then the outlines of the flowers, the symbolic objects, the figures, landscapes, or natural objects are sketched on, and the workmen begin carving out the relief ornament of the two color piece of lacquer. Their tools, chisels and pointed knife blades are like the wood engraver's tools, but the Chinese sans gene and indifference to elegancies or proprieties are evidenced by the way in which the little cutting blades are merely tied in between two slips of bamboo and wound round with a dirty rag. There is nothing of the Japanese simplicity and exquisite neatness of implements and surroundings that mark the workroom of a lacquer artist in the other empire. Slowly and patiently these young Chinese workmen chip away into the quarter inch of red substance which is only about as hard as cheese. As the thin little chisel, with a blade less than an eighth of an inch wide, cuts under and lifts up a chip of red lacquer, and repeats that all around a peony flower, until it lies in relief upon green leaves that rest upon a finely carved geometrical ground, one has to greatly admire the skill, the sure touch, and the directing eye that can work out all the modelling of the flower petals from the few hair strokes sketched on the surface. Lacquer work is seen in its perfection only in China and Japan. It is used for every purpose, useful and ornate. So far have the Japanese carried their love for the beautiful enduring varnish that even in some of the new Pacific steamships which are to ply between Yokohama and San Francisco the woodwork of the first-class cabins, the smoking saloons, and the music rooms is incrusted in lacquer, brilliantly decorated in gold and crimson, and frequently carved in the highest style of the oriental art.

"Vag." Dismissed in Court To-day

James Barber was charged with being a vagrant in Police Court this morning. He was acting rather suspicious last night and was locked up. He pleaded not guilty in court today stating that he had come here to take a position with his brothers, but as yet had been unable to find them. He was allowed to go and promised to go to work at once.

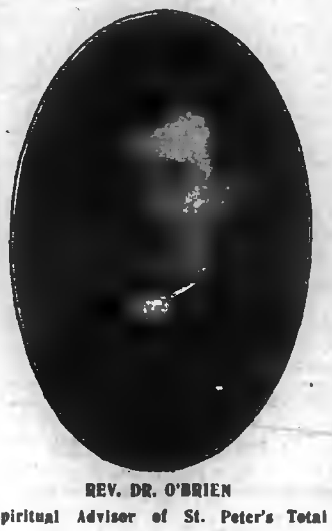
Total Abstinence Society to Commence an Active Campaign

Every Catholic Home in the City Will be Visited With the Object of Raising the Membership to One Thousand—Splendid Results are Promised.

A membership of one thousand is the ambition of the officers of St. Peter's Total Abstinence Society.

A vigorous campaign with this end in view starts tonight and promises to be highly successful. The arrangements for the movement have been under way for some time and now everything is in shape for active work. Every Catholic in the city will be visited and the male members of each household urged to become total abstainers and members of the society. The case will be presented to them in a fair manner and it will be left to their judgment to decide. One hundred members of the society have been selected to make the visitation and as already stated, they will start work tonight. The society has about four hundred members at the present time and while one thousand members is the object aimed at in this special movement, the great ambition of the society is to have every male Catholic in the parish a member, and to have no Catholic connected with the liquor business in any way.



REV. DR. O'BRIEN

Spiritual Adviser of St. Peter's Total Abstinence Society.

This present movement is occasioned by Canadian statistics showing an increase in drunkenness in the Dominion and an increase in the sale of spirituous liquors. Three classes of men are wanted to join St. Peter's Total Abstinence Society, as follows:

1—The man who is addicted to the use of liquor, that he may be made temperate.

2—The moderate drinker, that the bad example that he sets may be eliminated.

3—The total abstainer, who is not a member of the society, that the organization may be made stronger and thus able to do more effective work.

Rev. Dr. O'Brien, the spiritual advisor of the society is the main force behind the movement which is intended especially to promote the temperance cause among the Catholics, of the city and to benefit the whole community generally.

The members of the society are entering into the movement with energy. Yesterday's meeting was one of the largest in its history. Forty-three new members took the pledge and great enthusiasm prevailed.

If enough men to raise the membership to one thousand do not join as a result of the first house to house visitation a second one will be inaugurated as soon as the first is completed.

Installed W.M. of Masonic Lodge in London, England

Rev. P. Clementi-Smith, M A., C.C., is Honored—Lodge Banquet Was Held.

A recent issue of the Freemason's Chronicle, of London, Eng., contains an account of a meeting of Guardian Lodge, No. 2625, in which details are given of the installation as W.M., of Rev. P. Clementi-Smith, M.A., C.C., a former curate of St. John's church, here, and well known in Peterborough.

Part of the report is as follows;

"Bro. Chisnall, I.P.M., proposed the next toast, one which he was sure would be received most heartily, not only by the brethren of the lodge, but by the visitors alike, it being that of the Worshipful Master. He felt very nervous, and wished the proposition of the toast had fallen into more capable hands; but what he lacked in ability would be more than made up for by the enthusiasm of its reception. It was a great privilege to be I.P.M. of a lodge, and a great honor to propose the toast of the W.M. Their Master was a great acquisition to the Guardian Lodge, as he was a founder, and had been Chaplain ever since its Consecration; and he hoped all the brethren had benefitted by his chaplaincy. He had added a high tone to the lodge. As a citizen of London the world knew him, as he was a member of the Court of Common Council, a member of the Board of Guardians, and a member and past master of the premier guild of the whole world—the Mercers Company. It was in his capacity as Worshipful Master of their Lodge, however, that they wished particularly to honor him that night.

Bro. Clementi-Smith, in reply, said he must rebuke the Immediate Past Master for the far too flattering terms in which he had proposed the toast. The dignity of the position he held he fully realised, and he also knew his weaknesses. He should be very glad to again fill the post of Chaplain of the Lodge, and it was a great satisfaction to him to have been a Founder. He mentioned he was the only parson in the Court of Common Council.

Ferrozone Adds Vigor and Strength to the System, Purifies and Enriches the Blood, Vitalizes the Nerves and Assures Permanent Good Health.

Let your fight for health begin now, before you feel any warning of physical collapse.

Your whole system needs a thorough cleansing. Likewise, the blood should be purified, made rich and nutritious.

FERROZONE
A Good Appetizer.
MR. AUBREY B. TEMPLEMAN, of Mechias, writes: "I have found the greatest satisfaction in using Ferrozone, and consider it is the best tonic made. I was all run down a few months ago, and in a very miserable state of health. I took a few boxes of Ferrozone, and was surprised at the result. Ferrozone drove away that dull, heavy feeling, and put my system in splendid order. I am never nervous or sleepless, and have a hearty appetite. This is all due to Ferrozone, which I recommend in the strongest way possible."

FERROZONE

The Premier is Anxious To Retain the Old System

Laurier Declines Proposal For Creating Commission.

Mr. Foster's Suggestion to Take Work From Departments — All Supplies Should Be Obtained by Tender—Canada Lags Behind, He Says—Sir Wilfrid Laurier Replies—Praises Ontario's System.

Ottawa, March 31.—That the Government will not depart from the old system of purchasing supplies was made evident yesterday by the Prime Minister, who declined to adopt Mr. Foster's suggestion to take the work out of the hands of the Department and appoint a permanent commission. He agreed fully with Mr. Foster's remarks, that all supplies ought to be purchased by tender, but he insisted that the responsibility of the Ministers ought to be maintained.

Mr. Foster's resolution reads: "That all supplies for the Department should be procured on the basis of public tender and contract, under the direction of a competent purchasing commission, and with regard, primarily, to quality and price."

The subject had been dealt with by the civil service commission, said Mr. Foster, and that body had recommended that the idea be adopted, observing that there was a "pretty centrifugal tendency," that was, to fly off from the main or central idea. He proceeded to show that for forty years the burden of taxation on the people amounted to about $217,000,000 dollars. He laid down these two general principles;

(1) Public money should go only to necessary objects, and then in the order of requirement.

(2) It should go directly to the object for which the money is voted.

With these principles laid down, he pursued, we should have modern business methods. He proposed to deal with the question in a non-partisan way. Hardly any had had sufficient regard to the progress of the country in the past fifteen or twenty years, and that being the case they were liable to wake up any day to find that the old methods would not do. Only the incapable or unwilling man would say that it would not do to apply new methods to changing conditions. He had no sympathy with the idea that nothing but lavish expenditures would suffice to keep up the dignity of their office. With regard to the system of buying supplies there was no uniformity. The old-fashioned system of buying by contract was falling into swift desuetude. He believed the Minister of Militia and Defence adhered to the old system; the same applied to the penitentiaries branch, but in other Departments they had fallen away.

Circulars were sent to party friends, calling for tenders. Then there was the vicious principle of purchase through the middleman. The latter made his profit as high as 180 per cent. This was a most vicious, wasteful and indefensible method.

Next was the patronage list, the officers being instructed to buy from certain individuals, while another method was to entrust officials with the duty of purchasing supplies wherever they pleased. He found that different Departments paid different prices for the same article. "Couldn't that happen under tender?" asked Hon. Wm. Paterson.

"Yes," replied Mr. Foster, "you can find a way to beat any method, but it wouldn't be hard to beat such methods as these."

There was not the thoroughness of inspection as to quality that there ought to be, urged Mr. Foster. The same with regard to quantity.

Mr. Foster proceeded to show the difference in cost of provisioning soldiers and sailors. At the Royal Military College the average cost per man was 50 cents a day; Halifax garrison, 21 1-2 cents; Quebec garrison, 21 9-10 cents; while on some of the Government steamers the average was sometimes 400 per cent. greater. That arose from lack of supervision and extravagance of purchase. The remedy was the appointment of a purchasing commission. It should be absolutely independent and free of patronage. It should be appointed for life and be removable for cause. All its purchases should be under audit. The expenditures since Confederation had run up to 1,897 millions, and he suggested that at least $5,000,000 a year was needed for the purchase of supplies. If 20 per cent. of this amount were wasted, that would be a million dollars every year. Such a system as he suggested would be one of the best influences in public life in this country. Canada was lagging behind in this matter. The old motto, "To the victors belong the spoils," was taken down by President Cleveland, and had not waved on a flag-pole in the United States since. Ninety per cent. of the public offices in the United States were filled on competition and merit.

Sir Wilfrid Laurier complimented Mr. Foster on the manner in which he had presented the resolution. No objection could be taken to the spirit of the resolution. But was this the rule that was observed by business men? He thought it would be impossible to bind the Government to any rule. In the Mounted Police Department about 75 per cent. of the supplies were purchased by contract. The crucial point was the suggestion for the appointment of a purchasing commission. There was no better system than that in existence in Ontario which fixed responsibility on the Ministers for the administration of all Departments, and he did not agree with the suggestion to take that responsibility away by appointment of an independent commission.

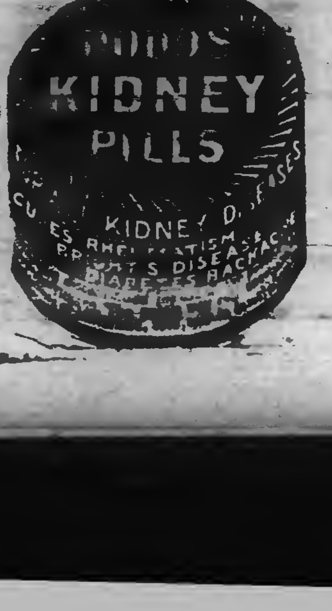
Sir Wilfrid accepted the first part of the resolution. As to the latter part, he invited Mr. Foster to reconsider.

R. L. Borden reminded Sir Wilfrid Laurier that he appointed a commission which was expending $30,000,000 at the present time on the construction of a National Transcontinental Railway. This did not coincide with his declaration that Mr. Foster's proposal was inconsistent with the principle of responsible Government. Such a purchasing commission could be appointed at the pleasure of the Government. Sir Wilfrid had said the present system was a good one. To this Mr. Borden would not take exception, but the practice was bad, and it was to change the practice that Mr. Foster had outlined his proposals. A purchasing commission would be a safeguard against the employment of middlemen.

Mr. Fielding emphasized Sir Wilfrid's observation that business men did not follow the tender system; what they did was to establish a connection with reputable firms. He did not think the Canadian Pacific Railway called for tenders for supplies, and, with regard to the purchase of supplies for the Halifax garrison by the British Government, this work was delegated by a responsible officer. Mr. Fielding was free to admit that in some respects the work of purchasing supplies by the Departments were not well done. Mr. Fielding moved to strike out the clause favoring the appointment of a commission and adding the following:

"So far as practicable, especially when large quantities of goods are required, with regard, primarily, to quality and price, and that all purchases be made under the authority and direction of the Minister responsible to this Government."

"That means," commented R. L. Borden, "that the rights of Merwin shall be preserved."



Tragedy In Cleveland Suburb.

Cleveland, O., March 31—The bodies of a man and a woman, the former believed to be that of Carl Bernthaler, a music teacher, and the latter that of Miss Lena Zeichmann, a public school teacher, were found in a field near Euclid Heights, a suburb, yesterday. Both had been shot through the heart.

The dead woman was about 28 years of age. The man was about 55 years old.

Fell In Front of a Train.

Vankleek Hill, March 31.—Donald B. McCuaig, an agent, whose home is in Glenrobertson, was killed by a G.T.R. train about ten miles from here, yesterday morning.

He had stopped on a culvert till the train passed, but he apparently lost his balance and fell in front of the train.

Staked Life For Freedom.

Enid, Okla., March 31.—Charles Bunton was shot and killed here yesterday by Sheriff Campbell of Garfield County.

Bunton was under arrest charged with forging a check on the Garfield County Bank and while being taken to jail attempted to escape.

Becoming Citizens.

Langham, Sask., March 31.—Doukhobors are taking out naturalization papers and making homestead entries in the latest development following the schism which has definitely separated the great bulk of those people from their more bigoted and less tractible fellows.

Fred Bryant, of Stratford, who admitted firing the S.A. barracks, was sentenced to one year in the Central.

PAID DEATH PENALTY

Chester Gillette Goes to the Chair in Auburn Prison.

Murder of Grace Brown Avenged by Electric Shock—Convict Confesses to Clergymen—Spiritual Advisers Say No Mistake Was Made In Executing Him—Leaves Message For Young Men.

Auburn, N.Y., March 31.—Unmoved and without showing the faintest sign of emotion of any kind, Chester Gillette was put to death in Auburn Prison yesterday morning. The electrocution was the most successful that ever took place in the local prison. But one contact was all that was required to carry the mandate of the law into effect, and when that was over the murder of Grace, or "Billy" Brown had been avenged and the slayer had paid the penalty, giving a life for a life.

Gillette made a confession to his spiritual adviser. This much is contained in a statement that the clergyman gave out after the electrocution. This reads as follows:

"Because our relationship with Chester Gillette was privileged, we do not deem it wise to make a detailed statement, and simply wish to say that no legal mistake was made in his electrocution.

(Signed) "Henry MacIlravy,
"Cordello Herrick."

Although the statement as to the confession was not in detail and come to the world through the signed statement of the minister, Gillette had a word to say to the young men of the world. This was a communication that was handed to Warden Benham Sunday night at ten o'clock and that was given out yesterday morning. It is as follows:

"In the shadow of the valley of death it is my desire to do everything that would remove any doubt as to my having found Jesus Christ, the personal Saviour and unfailing Friend. My one regret at this time is that I have not given Him the pre-eminence in my life while I had the opportunity to work for Him.

"If I could only say some one thing that would draw young men to Him, I would deem it the greatest privilege ever granted me. But all I can say now is, I know in whom I have believed and am persuaded that He is able to keep that which I have committed unto Him against that day.

"If the young men of this country could only know the joy and pleasure of a Christian life, I know they would do all in their power to become earnest, active Christians and would strive to live as Christ would have them live.

"There is not one thing I have left undone which will bar me from facing my God, knowing that my sins are forgiven, for I have been free and frank in my talks with my spiritual advisers, and God knows where I stand.

"My task is done, the victory won.
(Signed) "Chester Gillette."

ASLEEP FOR CENTURIES.

Volcano Has Awakened—People Flee For Their Lives.

San Francisco, March 31.—The steamer Panama yesterday brought news of a volcano in Guatemala, so long extinct that its name has been forgotten, having recently broken out. Its long sleep terminated three weeks ago with such terrifying mutterings and spouting of lava and smoke that the people living at Sanfillipe, at the base of the mountain, are fleeing for their lives.

Opposite the new volcano is Santa Maria, a volcano which, during the last 200 years, has wiped out town after town. The inhabitants of the district fear a repetition of the Santa Maria catastrophe, and are therefore deserting the mountain-side. Already the country for miles is covered some inches deep with dust and ashes from the active mountain.

Liquor Locked In Trunk.

Brantford, March 31.—High County Constable Kerr made a raid on the house of W. H. Loft on the Indian reserve, searching the premises for liquor.

All went well until the officer endeavored to open a trunk, which was locked. Then the owner fought desperately, the result being his arrest. The officer claims he found a jug of whisky in the trunk.

Coroner Not Satisfied.

Montreal, March 31.—The coroner's jury yesterday morning acquitted Joe. Laflamme, bartender, who in a scuffle on a street car early Sunday morning, ran the point of his umbrella into the eye of Fred Kaiser, who died from the wound.

The coroner said the verdict was a miscarriage of justice, and he ordered Laflamme to appear before the magistrate.

Maniac Cuts His Throat.

Roland, Man., March 31.—A. E. Pike, English, and living here about a year, who lately developed incipient insanity, was taken into custody on Sunday and left with a constable in a private room. While the latter was reading, the maniac seized a razor and slit his throat. He was taken to Carman Hospital, but will probably die.

Grand River Overflows.

Brantford, March 31.—The water of the tailrace of the Grand River overflowed on Sunday, with the result that part of Eagle Place, known as the flats, was flooded.

In one instance the lifeboat of the fire department had to be called out to rescue the inmates of a house.

More Chinese Arrive.

Vancouver, March 31.—No Hindus arrived on the Empress yesterday morning, but 450 Chinese were on board, 105 of whom will pay a head tax of $500 each. The remaining Chinamen are returning a second time.

Rights of the Province Given Consideration in Legislature

Premier Whitney to Resist Encroachments by Federal Govt.

Submits Strong Resolution Against O. & M. Power Co. Incorporation—Ontario Views Bill With Alarm—Will Defend Province Against Unwarranted Interference — Cost of Polling Booths.

Toronto, March 31.—The battle of Provincial Rights is to be carried by the Ontario Government to the Imperial Government in an effort to defend the province against unwarranted and illegal interference and encroachment by the Federal authorities.

The important announcement was made in the Legislature yesterday by the Prime Minister, Hon. J. P. Whitney, who presented to the House, amid applause, a resolution authorizing the proposed action.

Mr. Whitney drew attention to a bill "to incorporate the Ontario and Michigan Power Co.," which had been introduced in the Senate. "I propose," he said, "to ask the House to agree to a resolution in this great and important matter. I do not do this in the extreme sense, for I am satisfied that the Dominion Government is not responsible for the introduction in the Senate of this bill. But the time has come when this province must set its face sternly against Federal aggression and encroachments upon its rights. (Applause.) I do not propose to submit the resolution until to-morrow, but will now read it in order that the House may have opportunity to consider it."

Mr. Whitney then read the following resolution:

"That this House views with alarm the repeated encroachments of the Parliament of Canada on the rights of the province and its efforts to withdraw from provincial jurisdiction and control works of a purely provincial character, and earnestly protests against such action, which this House believes to be contrary, if not to the letter, to the spirit of the British North America Act and to the intention of the framers.

"That in the opinion of this House the proposed legislation would be an unwarranted and illegal interference with the territorial sovereignty of the province and with its exclusive legislative authority under the British North America Act, and this House earnestly and firmly protests against the proposed bill being given the form of law.

"And this House hereby declares its readiness and determination to support with all the means, constitutional and material, which it can command, the Government of Ontario in taking such measures and proceedings as may be deemed requisite to assert, maintain and defend the legislative and territorial sovereignty of the province against all aggression and encroachment by the Federal Government and Parliament, and, if necessary, in appealing to the Imperial Parliament for such amendments to the British North America Act as will safeguard the sovereignty of the province therefrom."

Hon. Mr. MacKay said he had not had opportunity to study the bill. Would it not be well to leave the resolution till a later day?

"The bill comes up at Ottawa on Wednesday," explained Mr. Whitney. "I shall confer with my hon. friend before to-morrow."

The Prime Minister then read an editorial from The Globe, in which the measure was characterized as "an objectionable bill."

Hon. Mr. Whitney made the announcement that in future the cost of all polling booths for provincial elections will be defrayed by the Government, instead of by the municipalities as at present. The change will be incorporated in the Government bill respecting elections which Hon. Mr. Foy has in charge.

To Mr. J. J. Preston (Durham) belongs the credit for this change, which means an estimated saving to the municipalities of $18,000. He directed the Prime Minister's attention to the history of the movement and the position taken upon it by the party now in power, urging action, with a result that the matter was brought promptly before the Legislature. Mr. Preston pointed out that for many years after Confederation the province paid the rent of polling places for provincial elections. Premier Hardy passed an act, making the municipalities pay not only for polling places for municipal, but also for provincial elections, the Conservative Opposition of the time protesting. In now relieving the municipalities of what Mr. Preston regarded as an unfair burden estimated at $18,000, the present Government is undertaking to fulfill another of its Opposition pledges.

Marked advances in both the urban and rural public schools were foreshadowed by Hon. Dr. Pyne, Minister of Education, in moving the second reading of his educational bills.

It was, he said, a project of Government policy to further extend the work and scope of the public schools in the rural districts by the development of Fifth and Continuation Classes with a view to Township High Schools and changes in the curricula providing for elementary horticultural and agricultural classes; in the urban centres by the introduction of the drawing and reading of plans, etc.

Hon. Mr. MacKay asked if provision was made for the inspection of these advanced classes.

The Minister said it would come under the work of the inspector of Continuation Classes. As it grew the inspection staff might have to be supplemented. He added that the changes contemplated in the Departmental act were to enable the retention of certain model schools where they were necessary.

The following Government bills were advanced a stage on the road to legislation: Respecting Local Municipal Telephone Systems, to amend the act respecting Stationary Engineers, and respecting the Division Courts.

Fred Simpson to Meet George Adams in a Five Mile Race

The Toronto Star says:

It is up to Jack Tait now. Tom Flanagan who is looking after the big C.A.A.U. indoor meet, April 9, 10, 11, today interviewed Tom Coley over the wire, and received his consent to a five-mile match race with Jack Tait, the West End crack, for opening night at the big meet. Tait has been looking for a crack at Coley long enough, and I do not anticipate that he will dodge the issue," said Mr. Flanagan today. "He wanted a crack at Longboat. Here is a chance for him to tackle the man a whole lot of people think can trip the Indian to death under ten miles. Tait is a good one, but Coley is in grand shape, and will make him step all the way. I have also matched George Adams, the Hamilton crack ten-miler, who recently joined the I.C.A.C., and Fred Simpson, the Peterborough Indian, at five miles, for the second night. With Mike Creed and Bob Slatup and George Barber in the jumps. Con. Walsh and William Holmes in the weights, Bobby Kerr and Freddie McGrath in the sprints, and Longboat, Tait, Coley, Goldsboro, Sellen, and other cracks out, there will be something doing every minute.

Strathconas Are Guests of City League for the Second Time

Successful Banquet Marked the Close of City Hockey League Season in Peterborough—Bright Speeches Made—Straths Receive Cup a Second Time.

For the second time, and consecutively too, the Strathconas have won the championship of the City Hockey League and for the second time in the history of the club the players and officers of the winning team have been tendered a complimentary banquet by the league. The event took place last night at Hooper's grill room and was the greatest that has been. One year ago the champion Straths were the guests of the league at a banquet held at McCallum's. That function was pronounced on all sides a great success, but it wasn't in it with the gathering last night. The menu was the best that Mine Host Welch could turn out and that is saying a great deal. The tables were artistically decorated with red and white, the Strathcona colors, and on the centre of the head table the Examiner trophy, emblematic of the championship of the City League, rested and on each of the two other tables hockey sticks tied with red and white ribbon made a fitting centre piece. The Strathcona men were all seated at one table and the representatives of the other city league teams occupied the seats at the other. There was a large attendance and Mr. F. E. Clarke, the genial president of the league, occupied the position of toast master.

While the first part of the banquet was in progress, music was provided by the Mandolin Club, adding greatly to the pleasure of the guests.

After the last course had been removed and cigars lighted, Mr. F. A. Clarke requested the guests to drink to the health of the greatest living monarch, King Edward the Seventh.

This toast was honored by the singing of the National Anthem.

THE STRATHCONAS.

The 'Strathconas' were the next on the toast list, and the Hon. J. R. Stratton rose, and in a few words formally presented the Examiner Cup to the Strathconas who have won the trophy for the second time. In his presentation address Mr. Stratton said: Mr. chairman and gentlemen I take great pleasure in presenting to the Strathconas the Examiner trophy, emblematic of the city league championship. I think you will all agree with me when I say that they rightly deserve the honor of being city champions, as they were undeniably the best club in the league. Strathconas have now won the cup twice, and a third time would give them possession of the trophy for keeps and for the sake of competition I sincerely hope that next year some other club, Bridgenorth, for instance will be returned the winner. It is not for the value of the trophy so much but for the sake of furthering the sporting interest that you are playing for, and I heartily wish the Strathconas and the city league every success for the future, and now, gentlemen, drink to the health of the Strathconas, for they are jolly good fellows.

Mr. Metheral received the cup for the Strathconas amid great applause.

In response to this toast, W. J. Metheral, manager of the Strathconas team, and in a few words thanked the officers and executive of the P.C.H.L. on behalf of his club for the royal way in which the league had been way in which the league had treated them. The success of the league, Mr. Metheral said was due to Mr. Stratton's good sportsmanship in donating the trophy for competition among the clubs.

The Strathconas had worked hard and had worthy opponents in the other teams in the league. There had been several hard fought games and every team had made a showing to be proud of.

SISTER CLUBS.

The toast to the 'Sister Clubs' was proposed by Mr. Clarke and responded to by Mr. Rose, of the High Life Club; Mr. Quinn, of Lakefield; Mr. Kelly of Bridgenorth, and Mr. Doherty of Norwood.

The toast to 'Kindred Sports' was proposed by Mr. Chris. Graham and responded to by Mr. Wasson and Mr. McWilliams. Mr. C. G. Graham proposed the health of the Hon. J. R. Stratton. After his health had been drunk Mr. Stratton fittingly replied.

Mr. George Lynch proposed the health of Mr. Clarke, the president of the league, who, in replying, said that the league had been a great success both financially and from an athletic standpoint.

The toast to the 'Ladies' proposed by Mr. James Lewis, was responded to by Mr. Fred Craig.

During the evening a number of vocal solos were rendered by Messrs. Jas. Browne, M. Johnston and W. McIlroy and Mr. George Lynch told a number of funny stories, while the Mandolin Club provided the instrumental part of the entertainment.

The evening closed with the singing of the National Anthem.

The musical programme was of a high order of merit and the different artists were received with much enthusiasm.

ABOUT THE STRATHCONAS

Clarence R. Wilson (goal). This is his third season in City League hockey. He has figured on two championship Strathcona teams in the city league. He is one of the ablest goal tenders in the league.

Leo Derocher played goal in one city league game. He has also been on two championship teams, being on the line-up of the T.A.B. seven in 1905, when they won out from the Farriers for the city league championship.

W. E. Meagher the aggressive point player of the Straths, is the oldest player of the team, and has figured on three championship aggregations in four years. In 1905 he was with the T.A.B. when they won the championship in 1906, he was with the High Lifes, runners up, Charlotte beating them out, and in 1907-08 he has been with the champion Straths. He is the most effective point player in the league.

B. C. Dusty is the clever cover-point of the team, and one of the strongest players in the league. He has been identified with two championship teams in three years. He was with the Charlotte street champions in 1906, and on the same team last year when they were runners-up to the Straths, the latter defeating them in the final game. Dusty is one of the most promising young players in the city.

C. J. Ray, the crack rover of the team surprised everyone by the phenomenal form he showed last winter. His rushes are most elusive and in style he closely resembles Harold Armstrong. This is his second year with the city league and the Strathconas is the first championship seven he has played with. He apparently has a brilliant hockey future before him.

H. J. Long, centre forward, is one of the best goal getters in the league. This is his first season on a championship team, but he has played with runners up for three years—the Farriers in '05, the High Lifes in '06, and Charlotte street in '07.

P. A. Weatherstone, the left wing is one of the best checks in the league, and plays a hard aggressive game. He is a tireless and game player. "Pete" has been connected with the Straths for the past three seasons, and has been on the lineup of both championship teams.

M. L. Dobson the speedy centre man has unfortunately been unable to play several games owing to injuries received during the season. He is one of the likliest players of the Strathconas. This is his second season in the city league, and his first on a championship team.

H. G. McMillan, on right wing, proved a valuable man in the position, being one of the swiftest shots and fastest skaters in the league. He has never been with any other team except the Straths, and has been on the lineup of both championship teams.

T. J. Dunnigan also was with the Straths this season, participating in their game with the High Lifes.

Mr. Dick Baker has been a most energetic and efficient trainer, and the success of the team is in a large measure due to his splendid efforts on their behalf. He is very popular with the boys and is an excellent man for the position.

Mr. W. J. Metheral, the manager of the Strathconas, although young in years, is old in athletic experience. Much of the success of the team is due to his hard work and excellent management. He has been the manager of three championship teams in four years. He was in charge of the George street team that won the Guild championship in 1905, and has been with the Strathconas in 1906, '07, and '08. Mr. Metheral has also taken an active interest in baseball and other athletic sports.

The Strathcona Club was formed in 1906, and entered the City League that year. Of the original team only Wilson, Weatherstone, McMillan were on the lineup this season. Among the players that have worn the Strathcona colors, are Art. Mann, now of Toronto, Art. Weekes, now of Woodstock, and W. J. Weatherstone, C. J. Gilman and Geo. Campbell, of this city. Ralph Quinn, now of the High Lifes, is a former member of the Strathconas.

Seymour of Midland, Harold White of Toronto, and Fred McGrath, are also old Strathcona members.

The Strathconas deserve great credit for sticking together, although at times the prospects were not as rosy as at present. Much of the success of the club in previous years has been due to the efforts of Charlie Curtis, Roscoe Kendry, Charlie Delaney and others.

Art Burn to Run in Boston Marathon Race

The Boston Globe says:—

"James Clarke, of the Xavier Athletic Club of New York, sent in his entry for the Boston Athletic Association Marathon run yesterday. Clark finished third in the 25-mile indoor championship of the New Polo A.C., of New York, Tuesday night. Word was also received from Arthur J. Burn, the former New England five-mile champion, that he will be a starter in the B.A.A. event. Burn won his New England title two years ago at Wood Island Park. He is located in Calgary, Canada. Burn last Saturday made a new six-mile cross-country record by traversing the distance in a little worse than 32 minutes."

This little news item sets at rest many rumors regarding Burn's origin. He has been running around Canada for some time, but he was so close-mouthed but few placed him.

How Burn, who is a C.A.A.U. man, is eligible and Toronto's C.A.A.U. men are not, puzzles people around here. Burn may have taken out a Federation card. If he has he will be bumped by the C.A.A.U., and the C.A.A.U. is in the ascendancy in the West.

Basketball Booming Around the Y.M.C.A.—An Exciting Game

Last night the Strathcona basketball team went down to defeat by a score of 25 points to 15. The game was fast from start to finish and although the Strathcona aggregation fought hard they were outclassed by the effective combination work of team No. 4. The teams were as follows:—

Straths—Metheral, Dobson, Loomis, Wallace, Ross Dobbin.

No. 4.—Sisson, Darling, M. Dobbin, Rankin, R. Best.

Referee—E. A. Frowde.

The first and second teams had a splendid practice last night and are fast getting into shape. Another practice will be held on Wednesday night at 8.30 p.m.

The second semi-final game will be played tonight after the regular senior gymnasium class between teams 5 and 6. The teams will line up as follows:—

No. 5—Turner, Dinsdale, Loomis, Austin, Ingham, Fife.

No. 6—Martin, M'Carroll, Sutherland, Wade, White, Cyril Moore.

Telephone Men Perform at Peterborough Bowling Club Alleys Last Night

The telephone staff engaged in the work of installing the new exchange lined up to do battle last night at the Peterborough Bowling Club and they had an excellent night's sport. The Undergrounds were matched against the Northern Electric staff and the former turned out winners, taking all three games though their margin on the evening's play was only 139 pins. The play was, as usual, followed by a large gallery and interest was maintained at a lively rate throughout the contest. Some members of the teams were rolling for the first time on the new alleys, and they were enthusiastic over the magnificent beds, the exceptional lighting arrangements and the splendid arrangements generally.

Cross was high man for the winners with a total of 391 pins, his high game being 154. This was also the highest single of the evening. D. Leach and Mawson had a hard fight for second honors with the winner, while Deacon and H. Leach were also well up. Hudson for the losers was high man for the night with three strings totalling 395 pins. Gray found his strange moccasins a handicap, and did not do himself full justice. Cote was in last place, but with a little more practice on regulation alleys should give some of the best of them a run.

Tom Flanagan who is looking after the big C.A.A.U. indoor meet, April 9, 10, 11, today interviewed Tom Coley over the wire, and received his consent to a five-mile match race with Jack Tait, the West End crack, for opening night at the big meet. Tait has been looking for a crack at Coley long enough, and I do not anticipate that he will dodge the issue," said Mr. Flanagan today. "He wanted a crack at Longboat. Here is a chance for him to tackle the man a whole lot of people think can trim the Indian to death under ten miles. Tait is a good one, but Coley is in grand shape, and will make him step all the way. I have also matched George Adams, the Hamilton crack ten-miler, who recently joined the I.C.A.C., and Fred Simpson, the Peterborough Indian, at five miles, for the second night. With Mike Creed and Bob Slatup and George Barber in the jumps, Con. Walsh and William Holmes in the weights, Bobby Kerr and Freddie McGrath in the sprints, and Longboat, Tait, Coley, Goldsboro, Sellen, and other cracks out, there will be something doing every minute.

Strathconas Are Guests of City League for the Second Time

Successful Banquet Marked the Close of City Hockey League Season in Peterborough—Bright Speeches Made—Straths Receive Cup a Second Time.

For the second time, and consecutively too, the Strathconas have won the championship of the City Hockey League and for the second time in the history of the club the players and officers of the winning team have been tendered a complimentary banquet by the league. The event took place last night at Hooper's grill room and was the greatest that has been. One year ago the champion Straths were the guests of the league at a banquet held at McCallum's. That function was pronounced on all sides a great success, but it wasn't in it with the gathering last night. The menu was the best that Mine Host Welch could turn out and that is saying a great deal. The tables were artistically decorated with red and white, the Strathcona colors, and on the centre of the head table, the Examiner trophy, emblematic of the championship of the City League, rested and on each of the two other tables hockey sticks tied with red and white ribbon made a fitting centre piece. The Strathcona men were all seated at one table and the representatives of the other city league teams occupied the seats at the other. There was a large attendance and Mr. F. E. Clarke, the genial president of the league, occupied the position of toast master.

While the first part of the banquet was in progress, music was provided by the Mandolin Club, adding greatly to the pleasure of the guests.

After the last course had been removed and cigars lighted, Mr. F. A. Clarke requested the guests to drink to the health of the greatest living monarch, King Edward the Seventh.

This toast was honored by the singing of the National Anthem.

THE STRATHCONAS.

The 'Strathconas' were the next on the toast list, and the Hon. J. R. Stratton rose, and in a few words formally presented the Examiner Cup to the Strathconas who have won the trophy for the second time. In his presentation address Mr. Stratton said; Mr. chairman and gentlemen I take great pleasure in presenting to the Strathconas the Examiner trophy, emblematic of the city league championship. I think you will all agree with me when I say that they rightly deserve the honor of being city champions, as they were undeniably the best club in the league. Strathconas have now won the cup twice, and a third time would give them possession of the trophy for keeps and for the sake of competition I sincerely hope that next year some other club, Bridgenorth, for instance will be returned the winner. It is not for the value of the trophy so much but for the sack of furthering the sporting interest that you are playing for, and I heartily wish the Strathconas and the city league every success for the future, and now, gentlemen, drink to the health of the Strathconas, for they are jolly good fellows.

Mr. Metheral received the cup for the Strathconas amid great applause.

In response to this toast, W. J. Metheral, manager of the Strathconas rose, and in a few words thanked the officers and executive of the P.C.H.L. on behalf of his club for the royal way in which the league had been way in which the league had treated them. The success of the league, Mr. Metheral said was due to Mr. Stratton's good sportsmanship in donating the trophy for competition among the clubs.

The Strathconas had worked hard and had worthy opponents in the other teams in the league. There had been several hard fought games and every team had made a showing to be proud of.

SISTER CLUBS.

The toast to the 'Sister Clubs' was proposed by Mr. Clarke and responded to by Mr. Rose, of the High Life Club; Mr. Quinn, of Lakefield; Mr. Kelly of Bridgenorth, and Mr. Doherty of Norwood.

The toast to 'Kindred Sports' was proposed by Mr. Chris. Graham and responded to by Mr. Wasson and Mr. McWilliams. Mr. C G. Graham proposed the health of the Hon. J. R. Stratton. After his health had been drank Mr. Stratton fittingly replied.

Mr. George Lynch proposed the health of Mr. Clarke, the president of the league, who, in replying, said that the league had been a great success both financially and from an athletic standpoint.

The toast to the 'Ladies' proposed by Mr. James Lewis, was responded to by Mr. Fred Craig.

During the evening a number of vocal solos were rendered by Messrs. Jas. Browne, M. Johnston and W McIlroy and Mr. George Lynch told a number of funny stories, while the Mandolin Club provided the instrumental part of the entertainment.

The evening closed with the singing of the National Anthem.

The musical programme was of a high order of merit and the different artists were received with much enthusiasm.

ABOUT THE STRATHCONAS

Clarence R. Wilson (goal). This is his third season in City League hockey. He has figured on two championship Strathcona teams in the city league. He is one of the ablest goal tenders in the league.

Leo Derocher played goal in one city league game. He has also been on two championship teams, being on the line-up of the T.A.S. seven in 1905, when they won out from the Farrians for the city league championship.

W. E. Meagher the aggressive point player of the Straths, is the oldest player of the team, and has figured on three championship aggregations in four years. In 1905 he was with the T.A.S. when they won the championship in 1906, he was with the High Lifes', runners up, Charlotte beating them out, and in 1907-08 he has been with the champion Straths. He is the most effective point player in the league.

B. C. Dusty is the clever cover-point of the team, and one of the strongest players in the league. He has been identified with two championship teams in three years. He was with the Charlotte street champions in 1906, and on the same team last year when they were runners-up to the Straths, the latter defeating them in the final game. Dusty is one of the most promising young players in the city.

C. J. Ray, the crack rover of the team surprised everyone by the phenomenal form he showed last winter. His rushes are most elusive and in style he closely resembles Harold Armstrong. This is his second year with the city league and the Strathconas is the first championship seven he has played with. He apparently has a brilliant hockey future before him.

H. J. Long, centre forward, is one of the best goal getters in the league. This is his first season on a championship team, but he has played with runners up for three years—the Farriens in '05, the High Lifes in '06, and Charlotte street in '07.

P. A. Weatherstone, the left wing is one of the best checks in the league, and plays a hard aggressive game. He is a tireless and game player. "Pete" has been connected with the Straths for the past three seasons, and has been on the lineup of both championship teams.

M. L. Dobson the speedy centre man has unfortunately been unable to play several games owing to injuries received during the season. He is one of the likliest players of the Strathconas. This is his second season in the city league, and his first on a championship team.

H. G. McMillan, on right wing, proved a valuable man in the position, being one of the swiftest shots and fastest skaters in the league. He has never been with any other team except the Straths, and has been on the lineup of both championship teams.

T. J. Dunnigan also was with the Straths this season, participating in their game with the High Lifes.

Mr. Dick Baker has been a most energetic and efficient trainer, and the success of the team is in a large measure due to his splendid efforts on their behalf. He is very popular with the boys and is an excellent man for the position.

Mr. W. J. Metheral, the manager of the Strathconas, although young in years, is old in athletic experience. Much of the success of the team is due to his hard work and excellent management. He has been the manager of three championship teams in four years. He was in charge of the George street team that won the Guild championship in 1905, and has been with the Strathconas in 1906, '07, and '08. Mr. Metheral has also taken an active interest in baseball and other athletic sports.

The Strathcona Club was formed in 1906, and entered the City League that year. Of the original team only Wilson, Weatherstone, McMillan were on the lineup this season. Among the players that have worn the Strathcona colors, are Art. Mann, now of Toronto, Art. Weekes, now of Woodstock, and W. J. Weatherstone, C. J. Gilman and Geo. Campbell, of this city. Ralph Quinn, now of the High Lifes, is a former member of the Strathconas.

Seymour of Midland, Harold White of Toronto, and Fred McGrath, are also old Strathcona members.

The Strathconas deserve great credit for sticking together, although at times the prospects were not as rosy as at present. Much of the success of the club in previous years has been due to the efforts of Charlie Curtis, Roscoe Kendry, Charlie Delaney and others.

Art Burn to Run in Boston Marathon Race

The Boston Globe says:—

"James Clarke, of the Xavier Athletic Club of New York, sent in his entry for the Boston Athletic Association Marathon run yesterday. Clark finished third in the 25-mile indoor championship o fthe New Polo A.C., of New York, Tuesday night. Word was also received from Arthur J. Burn, the former New England five-mile champion, that he will be a starterin the B.A.A. event. Burn won his New England title two years ago ato at Wood Island Park. He is located in Calgary, Canada. Burn last Saturday made a new six-mile cross-country record by traversing the distance in a little worse than 32 minutes."

This little news item sets at rest many rumors regarding Burn's origin. He has been running around Canada for some time, but he was so close-mouthed but few placed him.

How Burn, who is a C.A.A.U. man, is eligible and Toronto's C.A.A.U. men are not, puzzles people around here. Burn may havetaken out a Federation card. If he has he will be bumped by the C.A.A.U., and the C.A.A.U is in the ascendancy in the West.

No. 4 Team Beat the Strathconas

Basketball Booming Around the Y.M.C.A.—An Exciting Game

Last night the Strathcona basketball team went down to defeat by a score of 25 points to 15. The game was fast from start to finish and although the Strathcona aggregation fought hard they were outclassed by the effective combination work of team No. 4. The teams were as follows:—

Straths—Metheral, Dobson, Loomis, Wallace, Ross Dobbin.

No. 4.—Sisson, Darling, M. Dobbin, Rankin, R. Best.

Referee—E. A. Frowde.

The first and second teams had a splendid practice last night and are fast getting into shape. Another practice will be held on Wednesday night at 8.30 p.m.

The second semi-final game will be played tonight after the regular senior gymnasium class between teams 5 and 6. The teams will line up as follows:—

No. 5—Turner, Dinsdale, Loomis, Austin, Ingham, Fife.

No. 6—Martin, M Carroll, Sutherland, Wade, White, Cyril Moore.

Telephone Men Perform at Peterborough Bowling Club Alleys Last Night

The telephone staff engaged in the work of installing the new exchange lined up to do battle last night at the Peterborough Bowling Club and they had an excellent night's sport. The Undergrounds were matched against the Northern Electric staff and the former turned out winners, taking all three games though their margin on the evening's play was only 139 pins. They play was, as usual, followed by a large gallery and interest was maintained at a lively rate throughout the contest. Some members of the teams were rolling for the first time on the new alleys, and they were enthusiastic over the magnificent beds, the exceptional lighting arrangements and the splendid arrangements generally.

Cross was high man for the winners with a total of 391 pins, his high game being 154. This was also the highest single of the evening. D. Leach and Mawson had a hard fight for second honors with the winners, while Deacon and H. Leach were also well up. Hudson for the losers was high man for the night with three strings totalling 395 pins. Gray found his strange moccasins a handicap, and did not do himself full justice. Cote was in last place, but with a little more practice on regulation alleys should give some of the best of them a run.

The scores follow:

Warsaw Stage Driver Has Good Scheme

Made Part of the Trip With Sleigh and the Remainder With Waggon

Joe Crowe, the Warsaw stage driver, gets here no matter how bad the roads. When he left Warsaw this morning Mr. Crowe was on the fence as to whether he should make the trip with a sleigh or wheeled vehicle on account of the varied condition of the roads, so he settled the matter by taking both. He loaded a light wagon on the sleigh and started out, About half way on his way to the city he found that the wheeling was becoming better than the sleighing so he unloaded the wagon, hitched on to it and used it for the remainder of the trip. Mr. Crowe says that the scheme worked splendidly and he intends using it until the roads are good for wheeling.

Boy Mistook Orders and Killed the Wrong Rooster

It is said that a local poultry man lost one of his prize-winning fouls the other day in a manner that caused him to say things for a time It appears that the heir of the household, a youth of about twelve years, was sent out to the poultry yards with instructions to catch and kill a rooster, which was to adorn the dinner table the next day The son went forth alright and killed a rooster alright, but it was the old story of someone blundering. When the bird was brought into the house the head of the family discovered with sorrow and chargin deep that the son had killed his prize black minorca rooster with a cash valuation of $20. It was a hard blow for both the rooster and the owner The rooster that was intended for decapitation is still breathing the spring air and enjoying the freedom of the poultry yards

Little Lad of Six Years Takes Long Trip to Michigan Alone

Young Traveller on the 4 48 C. P. R. Train Yesterday Afternoon—Red Tag Around His Neck Telling His Name and Destination.

Among the passengers on the 4.48 train yesterrday afternoon was a rather interesting little traveller, about six years of age. A Review reporter who happened to be at the station when the train came in was told of the little felow who, all alone was travelling from Ottawa to Reed City, Mich.

Sitting in the corner of his seat, in one of the coaches, the little boy was apparently enjoying his trip and looked quite happy and contented. A red tag attached to a string and tied around his neck gave the reporter some information. The little chap's name was Joseph Kearney, and he was on his way to his uncle, Michael Kearney in Reed City with whom he was going to reside. On the ticket was also a request of the conductor to keep a watchful eye on the youngster and see that he got on the right trains. The little fellow was receiving the kind attention of the other passengers who were doing everything in their power to make him happy. It is hoped the young traveller will arrive at his destination in safety.

It is Feared That the Indian River Will Overflow its Banks

And Cause Damage to Property Along the Stream—Farmers Around Warsaw Are Making Maple Syrup But Cannot Get it to Market.

(Special to the Review.)

Warsaw, March 31.—The village of Warsaw is situated on lots twelve, east and west in the first concession of the township of Dummer. It can boast of four churches, three general stores, four blacksmith shops, one grist mill, one saw mill with a second one in a few weeks, and one school house with two teachers. It is known as a quiet place and as the capital of Dummer. A railway is being talked of in the near future, it having been surveyed some time since.

The highways leading to and from Warsaw just now are not very good. The winter is breaking up and the roads are anything but good

A number of moves have been made by families in our village this spring Mr. William Douglas has moved to Smith township, near Young's Point. His brother, Glen, now occupies the house and farm he left, while Mr. Charles Calder has moved into Mr. Glen Douglas' house and Samuel Bell has moved into the house vacated by Mr. C, Calder and William H. Bell now occupies the house left by Samuel Bell. So that quite a few changes has been made. One move as a rule, makes another.

Sugar-making weather has now arrived and several of our farmers are now busy boiling the maple sap to syrup and sugar, which at the present time will, on account of the bad roads, be hard to get to market. They may have to hold their produce for a day or two until the condition of the roads change.

The clover and fall wheat is coming out well from under the snow, the crop will depend on the amount of frost from now until growing weather arrives.

Cattle feed, as expected last fall, is alittle scarce, but no signs of a famine in that line. Eggs are plentiful and getting cheap to what they were, hundreds of dozens now being shipped out from our village and surrounding neighborhood to other markets.

Through the thaw the Indian River is rising and should the thaw continue fast the river may overflow its banks and cause damage to dams and bridges on its way down to Rice Lake asthere is a great depth of snow back in the back township A great quantity of water will be the result and danger is feared by owners along the river.

A CORRECTION

To the Edito of the Review.

Sir,—Allow me space in your valuable paper, to correct a statement made in the police court last Thursday as regards Stanley McCabe, being in the reformatory. It is an untruth as he has not even stood in a witness box to give evidence before, I have had charge of him since he was nine years old the time of his father's death, and as for the stealing affair last Thursday, he did not steal the things as was shown in court, but was with the boys on several occasions, which made him plead guilty, a fact I much regret, Thanking you for your kindness, I remain,

Yours truly,
ONE OF STANLEY'S FRIENDS.

$100 REWARD $100

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials.
